CHILTON COUNTY NEWS
ONE OF ALABAMA'S LEADING WEEKLIES
DEDICATED TO SERVE THE CITIZENS OF CHILTON COUNTY AND CENTRAL ALABAMA

VOL. XXVII CLANTON, ALABAMA THURSDAY, JANUARY 6th, 1949 NUMBER 1

To The Motoring Public Of Chilton County

May we, as your local Highway Patrolmen, take this means of expressing our thanks and appreciation to you in helping us to again show a reduction in our traffic fatalities for 1948 in Chilton County. May we also thank our local newspapers for their splendid efforts in this cause.

In 1946 we had 10 people killed in this county in traffic accidents, in 1947 we had six killed and in 1948 we had only two people killed as a result of auto accidents in this county. We feel that you motorists have played a large part in this reduction of fatalities. However, our total accidents in this county will show an increase, we feel sure, when the total figures are compiled in Montgomery, so you can see that we still have a long way to go in making our roads safe and we are asking each of you for your full cooperation this year.

As soon as the total accident figures are available, we will give them to both of our local papers to be published.

Again, may we thank each of you in helping us to reduce our fatalities and we sincerely hope that none of you are a traffic casualty in 1949.

Yours for public safety,

J. L. KENDRICK,
M. P. BRASWELL.

MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB HAD MEETING DEC. 21

At its December 21 meeting the Clanton Music Appreciation Club observed Alabama Day, featuring Florence Golden Bateman as honor guest and a program of her compositions.

Preceding each selection Mrs. Bateman, whose music remains popular in this country and in Europe, told how she came to compose it and what it meant. Club members presented the following program:

Soprano solos: "Rest" and "A Kiss From Columbine," Mrs. Erle Ellis; "Night," sung by the Club Chorus, directed by Mrs. Raymond Mims, and composed of Miss Elizabeth Barton and Mesdames Erle Ellis, Leonard Farley, Grady Heflin, Herbert Klinner, Reuben Gaylor, Carlisle Miller, Percy Pitts, Burt Snead and Arthur Willis.

Violin solos: "Solitude" and "Banjo," Mrs. Carlisle Miller.

Significant to music lovers in Alabama is the fact that the Apollo Boys Choir produced Mrs. Bateman's "Spring Symphony" at Town Hall.

Other guests at this meeting included Mrs. Raymond Smith, of Lakeland; Mrs. Paul Page, of Marbury; Miss Lurline Harper, Mrs. Sam Johnson, and Miss Helen Hayes, accompanist.

Mrs. E. E. Upchurch and Mrs. Erle Ellis, club president, entertained at the former's home and decorated with Christmas green, camellias and narcissus.

CHRISTMAS CHEST COMMITTEE REPORT

At a luncheon at the Willingham Hotel Tuesday at noon, the Chilton County Christmas Chest made its final report on the Chest activities for 1948.

Rev. Carlisle Miller presided and Miss Fay Wooley acted as recording secretary. According to this first yearly report the newly formed Christmas Chest distributed $1,500.00 worth of clothes, fruits and groceries to some 90 families.

There was $826.16 in cash donated during the two weeks drive which was used in buying food and clothing to be distributed along with toys, fruits, nuts, preserves & canned goods donated by hundreds of Chilton County residents.

Gathered from reports made by each committee, the First Annual Chilton County Christmas Chest was a great success and plans were laid at this meeting to get an earlier start the coming year and to make a complete canvass of the county so as not to miss any family who is deserving of help.

The next meeting will be called in October, time and place to be announced by the executive committee.

7,200 STUDENTS RETURN TO AUBURN FOR WINTER QUARTER

Auburn, Ala. — The New Year will herald the return of an estimated 7,200 students to "the loveliest village of the plains," Mr. Charles W. Edwards, registrar of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute announces.

More than 6,200 students have already registered for the winter quarter which officially begins with classes starting Wednesday morning, January 5th.

Fall students who have not already registered, former students resuming studies at API, transfers and freshmen are expected to swell the registration rolls to over 7,200, as compared to 6.955 students registered for the comparable period last year.

All new students will register January 3rd and 4th, and plans have been completed for an orientation program to welcome them to the campus.

College authorities consider the fall quarter one of the most progressive and successful in the college's history. The addition of new teaching staff members and plant facilities, the opening of the men's new dormitory and plans for a big new campus building program contributed to the success of the fall quarter.

B. J. Sessions Honored On Day Of Retirement

On last Friday night fitting honor was bestowed upon Mr. Benjamin Jackson Sessions upon his retirement from the Rural Mail service of Uncle Sam, by his fellow workers at Clanton Post Office. A dinner was held at Dixie Cafe where some two dozen employees gathered, ate and chatted to the merriment of themselves and to the honor of the occasion.

Serving as toastmaster was Mr. R. W. Lowe, Clanton's Postmaster. A few brief talks were made by various members of the group, and a fellow-carrier, Mr. Grady Harris, made a fitting surmise of the services and life of Mr. Sessions; at the close of his remarks he presented a nice gift to Mr. Sessions from the entire personnel of Clanton Post Office as a token of their appreciation for his associations with them and for the service rendered the department during his long period as rural carrier—for thirty-six years.

The final item on the program was a fitting and touching speech by Mr. Sessions in which he expressed his feelings of mixed joy and pathos as he released the reins of carrier into the hands of another, and became a member of Uncle Sam's retired.

The honor bestowed on Mr. Sessions was most fitting and deserved, as he has been a faithful servant of the patrons on the routes he has served for more than a third of a century.

Mr. Sessions, a native of Chambers County, with home at Albany, came to Chilton County about 1905. He taught school for several years before going to work for Uncle Sam in 1912.

NEW APPLICATIONS FOR RESERVE OFFICERS

New procedures designed to speed up the processing of applications of Reserve Officers volunteering for tours of extended active duty in the Army and a sizeable increase in the number of facilities authorized to accomplish final-type physical examinations for applicants were announced today by Kenneth C. Royall, Secretary of the Army.

Effective immediately, Reserve Officers who desire to be recalled to active duty for a three-year period from an inactive status will submit their applications and associated papers direct to the Adjutant General, Washington, D.C. Formerly applications were submitted to local Reserve Unit Instructors and were routed to Washington through Army channels for decision by the Department of the Army in respect to recall to extended active duty. Warrant officers and enlisted personnel now in the active military service who hold Reserve Commissions and National Guard officers will continue to submit their applications through military channels.

Under the new procedure, it will only be a matter of days before the applicant receives telegraphic advice as to whether he will be recalled or not. Orders to active duty or notice of rejection, indicating the reason, will be mailed within one week after the notification telegram has been sent.

In addition to the application form, Reserve Officers volunteering for extended active duty are required to submit a Personal History Statement and a report of Physical Examination. In order to reduce unnecessary travel and expense, authority now has been granted to all recruiting main stations throughout the country to give final-type physical examinations to applicants who have not reached their 40th birthday. Those who are forty years or more of age, however, must secure the required physical examination at the nearest Army or Air Force medical facility. No written authorization or orders ae necessary to receive a physical examination.

Application and Personal History Statement forms are available at the Seems everyone who travels the road to Selma these days are seeing pink elephants. And the funny thing about it is, you don't have to be drunk to see it—it's real.

Funny how much more inviting a beautiful beach scene on the calendar is in January than it is in July. And the same thing goes for a snow scene. It always looks better in July than in January.

Is saving seconds worth a life

"Fifteen counties have reported 30 school bus accidents to state officials for the months of September, October and November. It should be pointed out that none of the accidents can be directly attributed to the mechanical failure of a bus. Can we afford to continue to permit such accidents to occur," was printed in the School Bus Bulletin which is distributed through the State Department of Education.

The above statement boils down to the fact that accidents averaged 10 in number per month in little less than one fourth of Alabama's 67 counties.

This might not mean much to you, Mr. and Mrs. Driver, but if your children rode the bus to school every day, the chances are that you would stop or use caution whenever you saw a school bus.

Children have the habit of not thinking often of such dangers as oncoming cars, trucks, or other vehicles. They dart across the road feeling that all is safe. And all will be safe if you, Mr. and Mrs. Driver, stop, look and listen when you see a school bus.

The life of any child is worth more than a few saved seconds that you couldn't afford to wait for the school bus. — Alexander City Outlook. ,

Make 'em earn that high pay

The people in Washington are yelping now to boost the salaries of the top ranks of government administrators. A commission of big-wigs has reached a tentative agreement to recommend the following salaries, per annum:

President $150,000; Vice-President $35,000; Supreme Court Justices $25,000; Speaker of the House of Representatives $25,000; Cabinet Members and department heads $20,000; Members of Congress and Undersecretaries $20,000; Assistant Secretaries $17,500.

The arguments used are that able men cannot be attracted to government positions unless pay scales are upped. The same logic was followed only two years ago when congressmen had their pay envelopes enlarged to bring in $12,500 per year, plus a $2,500 annual expense account, that is non-taxable.

The national legislators would be brave, indeed, to consider hiking their salaries and those of the bureaucrats when the public is now facing the prospects of higher and expanded Federal tax levies.

In the past year, the Federal government added 2,092,180 persons to the payroll. That is hiring employees at the rate of 5,732 per day. When the pay check of the top bureaucrats is increased all the little bureaucrats down the line will want more dollars, too.

If there are to be pay raises, the smart move, we think, would be to boost the salary of the man who can and will slash the payroll. Reward a bureaucrat with the fortitude to economize. If the personnel rolls can be cut no other way, trim the salaries.

The taxpayers have just about had enough. Just make a little more noise about pay increases and tax increases, and the Washington crowd is going to hear from the home folks. — Andalusia Star-News.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Happy New Year, folks. Now after a two weeks vacation we will get back to the regular grind (not speaking of coffee) of our weekly report to the subscribers.

* * *

We're getting new and old subscriptions from all over and several have taken the time and trouble to tell us they appreciate the paper and like it. Those are kind words, especially accompanied by two dollars for a subscription, and we here and now promise to get them the best paper for the coming year that we have ever published. So help us.

* * *

We have this week added to our force Mr. C. L. Wilkins, who hails from Hattisburg, Miss. Mr. Wilkins will be in charge of advertising, etc., and that will give us a lot of time to spend in making you a better newspaper. We ask your continued cooperation and friendship. Mr. Wilkins is married and has two children. He will move his family here shortly after the first of the year.

* * *

Understand our old friend, , Jean Donovan Bearden, now of Tuscaloosa, was home with her parents for the holidays. We asked her dad why she didn't get around to say hello any more and he told us that her little family kept her too busy. That, dear friends, is another reminder that we are getting along in years. Even the little, little girls we used to know, now have families.

* * * *

Why that there Wallace Cox didn't have the new bridge ready to drive over Christmas Day. He's got a pretty good excuse though. He could have if the contractors would have finished their end of the job. Wallace says now it's only a matter of a few days filling in the approaches if they will give him the go sign. No matter how we figure it—it won't be as long as it has been, will it?

* * *

Sally Gowan's wedding announcement appears in this issue of the News. Sally and our daughter, June, went through school together, and we know for sure Sally is one of the sweetest little girls in town. The best always, is our wish for her.

* * *

Low moans Saturday morning told us that a big time was had at the Country Club New Year's Eve night. Those old folks can't stay up late, dance and make merry any more.

* * *

The post office employees honored Mr. Ben Sessions Friday night with a banquet at the Dixie Cafe. About twenty-one fellow workers attended and presented Mr. Ben with a Masonic ring as a token of their respect and friendship for him. Mr. Sessions retired December 31, after many long years of service to the people of Chilton County. He will be greatly missed by his co-workers.

That Christmas Chest was a big success. Hundreds were made happy by your thoughtfulness at a season when thoughtfulness counts most. Next year, reports are, there will be still more families made happy and an earlier start made by the Christmas Chest Committee.

* * *

Charles Wade is to be complimented on his Cnristmas Party for the kids under twelve years of age Christmas Day. That was a mighty nice Christmas gift for the kids and it took a lot of work on the part of Mr. Wade. Still, there's nothing done that's worth while that doesn't take a lot of work and trouble. Guess you read the names of the merchants who cooperated to make the free show a big success. We printed them two weeks in the half-page advertising the show.

You heard about the colored brother who got religion and was telling his parson about it. The parson asked him if he had given up all sin. He answered yes. He asked him if he had paid up all his debts. "Wait a minute," said the brother, "Parson, you ain't talking religion. You is talking business."

Speaking of stories like the above reminds us of another. The new minister was delivering his first sermon. The janitor was a critical listener from a back corner of the church. The minister's sermon was eloquent and his prayers seemed to cover the whole category of human wants. After the service one of the deacons asked the old janitor what he thought of the new minister. "Don't you think he offers up a good prayer, Joe?" "Ah mos' suhtainly does, boss. Why, dat man axed de good Lord fo' things dat de odder preacher din't even know He had."

* * *

All indications are that we have just gone through the quietest Christmas and New Year season ever. Speaking of the automobile traffic in which most casualties are usually reported, there were no hits, no runs, and very few errors. We'll have to take off our hats to Kendricks and Braswell, our two local Highway Patrolmen, for doing a fine job in watching over our traffic.

* * *

Speaking of Kendricks and Braswell, we wonder if there's anything personal in the fact that they stopped our brother-in-law, our son-in-law and our nephew, all in a week's time for violating traffic rules. One was driving sixty miles an hour on the highway when it was a bit foggy. One failed to dim his headlights for an approaching automobile and one had no tail light. But personal or not, we still commend Kendricks and Braswell for their fine work. If a rule of traffic is broken, the driver should be called to account—whether we are the guilty one, or you are the guilty one. Nine out of ten accidents are caused by someone's carelessness.

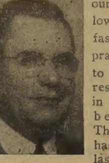
W. W. Wingard is back home to stay for a while. He has been working in Birmingham and Cullman for the better part of six years and he has become quite a stranger around town. Mr. Wingard told us the week end that the old town was about to grow away from him and he would have to stick around to get back in the know. According to his statement he mighty stay with us permanently.

Our Hope For 1949

We all know that the foundation of democracy is a firm faith in Almighty God. As our nation had its small beginning, but grew and prospered under the divine hand of God, and overcame all adversities; it was because its people never lost faith in a personal God. But in these last few decades it seems that our people have allowed that old fashioned religious practice to slip into oblivion. As the result, family life in America has been weakened. The whole nation has suffered. The last two or three generations have become spiritually starved. No religious training in the home, and a very little instruction in Christian principles taught elsewhere because of a lack in regular church attendance. As the result of this, we have too many Godless homes. And everybody should know that a Godless home is built upon sand, and is inviting breeding ground for moral decay and crime.



Our only hope for the future of America is a revival of faith in God, and in His Word. A revival of the family altar, the old fashioned Christian home where every member of the family is nurtured in the things of God. No outside influence of a constructive nature can take the place of a guiding light in the home, and the spark of this light is a true knowledge of God, and the fuel is the divine strength of prevailing prayer.

This should be a year in which great things will be accomplished, but the greatest thing we, as individuals, can do for ourselves, and for our community will be to keep our families together in peace and happiness, and there is no better way of doing this than by re-establishing the family altar in our homes, and by faithful and regular church attendance. Begin gathering the whole family around that old fireside, read the Bible in turn, then have family prayer. . . .Families tat pray together, generally stay together.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

PHYSICAL FATIGUE

"Dostor, I am tired all the time." This is a common symptom given by patients to doctors every day. This tiredness, or fatigue, may be the symptom of a disease or it may be the chief trouble. There are two types of fatigue, physical and mental and this article will deal with the first of these.

Food which we eat is digested and absorbed. It is taken by the blood to the various tissues of the body where it mixes with oxygen to produce energy. This process does not cause fatigue. However, activity by the person calls for more oxygen from the lungs and greater effort by the heart to get the absorbed food and the oxygen to the tissues. It is believed that fatigue results because enough food and oxygen cannot be gotten to the proper portions of the body and waste cannot be carried off fast enough to meet the needs of the body during activity.

Fatigue is a natural by-product of activity. Cutting down unneccessary labor is one means of lessening this tiredness, and planning your day's work will do this. Poor lighting can cause eye fatigue. Clothing which is too tight can cause poor circulation and thus cause fatigue. Too much light or harsh noises can cause a person to tire. Also a lack of enough food, diets low in needed vitamins, or the proper use of food by the body can give you that tired feeling. And as was mentioned above a large number of unhealthy conditions within the body can cause fatigue.

Sleep is important in fatigue, for sleep allows the normal building up of the portion of the body which fatigue has torn down. However, sleep alone will not help many physical ills and will not help mental fatigue. See your doctor for anything other than normal fatigue due to activity or the body.

TRACTORS

Alabama farmers own approximately 28,000 tractors. Proper operation and maintenance of these means money in the owner's pockets.

GOOD CONTROL

The use of one pound of sodium flouride in 99 pounds of dry feed is most effective in controlling stomach worms in hogs. The cost of treatment is low, the results profitable.

GARDENS, ORCHARDS ARE BIG FARM BUSINESS

Home gardens and orchards are big business on Alabama farms. They have a cash value equal to more than one-fourth of the state's 1948 cotton crop or $50 million estimates J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension gardener. He says there are approximately 330,000 home gardens in Alabama and that these contribute heavily in feeding the farm family.

"More attention needs to be given the garden and orchard. Every dollar saved by producing vegetables and fruits at home means a dollar more in income," added Ford.

Phillip Lawrence seems to be mighty interested in the girls Physical Education Class, the seventh period. It couldn't be because Jearlyne Studdard is in there, could it, Phillip?

Burt Inzer seems to have a new girl. Who is she, Burt

Buddy Minshew, Bobbie Gray doesn't seem to get what you are driving at. Why don't you tell her? (Or should I say, ask her?)

Annette Broadhead, what happened to Hugh Bates last Sunday night? He sort of left you, did he not?

By the way, some girls at school seem to think they can get by with murder. That is, having two, three, etc., boy friends. My opinion of that is to quit all or all but one of them because I imagine it pays off in the long run. (Of course that is only one man's opinion.)

Bobby Shaw, I think it's a good thing you came back, in a way. That is, because some GIRLS just couldn't do without you.

Bobby Kinney, you and Grace Lawrence seem to be doing all right. I know how you feel, Kinney, but how does she feel about it?

Joe Douglas, seems that Pat will never learn, doesn't it? Keep trying, Doug, she'll break sooner or later, and if she doesn't, you will, so you can't lose. MUCH!

There seems not to be many good sports out on the football field every period and it's not that some of them can't be. It's just that they don't want to be.

Boy, I don't believe I've ever seen anybody quite so unhappy, sick, downhearted, etc., as Betty Summerville was Tuesday. My, she really had it bad.

Say, you know those kids that are on the radio program aren't bad until they get scared and then, OH, BROTHER!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

January 4, 1949.

Dear Editor:

The group of your readers who are graduates of, or have attended Piedmont College, at Demorest, Ga., will be interested in this item:

Dr. W. S. Roberts, science teacher for many years at Piedmont College, died suddenly of a heart attack on Christmas Day, December 25, 1948.

Silas W. Roberts grew up on a farm not far from Piedmont College. Although of little money backing, he had a desire for learning. He managed to work his way through college and was one of three in the first full four year graduating class of the college.

After attending some northern universities and earning higher degrees, he came back as an instructor in sciences at Piedmont College, and after years of loyal service he was honored by the college by a Doctor degree.

Dr. Roberts became well known in science as a teacher and for a research experiment in inorganic Chemistry which he carriel on for fifteen years at University of Chicago and at Piedmont.

Dr. Roberts refused to accept numbers of offers from larger schools at much more salary and remained loyal to Piedmont to the end. The longest in continuous service and the best beloved by more students through over forty years.

Contributed by a former student in loving memory. — I. Alva Hart.

TERRACING

The channel-type terrace should be constructed on all rolling land with a slope of less than 12 per cent, believes J. B. Wilson, A.P.I. Extension agricultural engineer. The goal for 1949 should be the terracing of 500,000 acres in Alabama, he says.

When buying peaches look to the ground color; if it is white or yellow the peaches are ripe or will ripen; but if it is green they probably will not ripen but may wither and rot.

BOWLING NEWS

Clanton's Bowlers enter their third week of their official league this week with no team having won over two games.

Last week's scores show Baird Parts lost to Clanton Motors two out of three; Texaco defeated by City Grill two out of three; Polk Brothers defeated by Luker Furniture two out of three.

The girls league began Wednesday night with the Blues winning over the Golds two out of three.

Schedule for week ending January 9th, 1949, is as follows: Monday, Tom's Toasted Peanuts vs. Baird Parts; Tuesday, Texaco vs. Polk Brothers Motors; Wednesday, Golds vs. Blues, (Girls' teams); Thursday, Luker Furniture vs. Clanton Motors; Friday, City Grill vs. Firestone.

The games are becoming more interesting each week as the various teams raise their average. At the present, Baird Parts holds the highest average, it being 152.

Tom's Toasted Peanuts will "sport" out with new "T" shirts and bowling shoes as soon as they are received according to Marion Wood, captain of their team.

As soon as four girls teams are going, certain afternoons are expected to be set aside for them.

It is noted that the owner of the Bowling Alley has invited pastors of various churches to drop around to mingle with Clanton's younger set. This we believe tends to cause clean recreation of indoor sports which should be encouraged in Clanton.

Monday night Baird Parts won out over Tom's Toasted Peanuts three out of three.

RUSSIA AND CHRISTIANITY

The people of our community will have the rare privilege of hearing Pastor Robert Tarzier, special representative of the Russian Bible Society of Washington, D. C. He is one of the very few missionaries from Eastern Europe who has been able recently to escape to America. An outstanding evangelist and Pastor of the large Golgotha Church of Riga, he has gone through the horrors of the war and the misfortunes of multitudes of his countrymen through the invasion of two hostile armies. Yet God has found necessary to deliver him and his wife and four children from peril and starvation in Europe. He has arrived in American with a heart full of deepest sympathy for the multitudes of his suffering countrymen who have become so called "displaced persons" in many European countries. As one of the pityful refugees from his native "Jerusalem" in Eastern Europe, he has come to the great and kind hearted American "Nehemiah" — Uncle Sam to plead for the needs of his people, as well as for the millions of Russian people who have never seen the Bible.

He is representing the only Russian Bible Society in the world today. The history of this Bible Society is most romantic and thrilling, as it was the only Bible Society in the history of Christianity which was organized by the direct influence and cooperation of an Emperor, the Great Russian Tsar Alexander the First, who became famous through his driving out Napoleon from Russia in 1812 and later entering the Capitol City of Napoleon, Paris in France, as a conqueror at the head of the Allied Armies. In 1826, however, through the instigation of reactionary elements of the rulers of the State Church, the Emperor Nicholas the First closed down the Society, and so it remained under the ashes of reactionaryism for 118 long years, until finally the Russian Bible Society came to life again in free America with headquarters in Washington, D. C., the Capitol City of U.S.A.

This Russian born missionary, who has a good command of the English language will speak at the Clanton Methodist Church Sunday, January 9, at 7:00 p.m. Everybody is invited to hear him.

Thorsby News

(By MISS C. N. TURNQUIST — Correspondent)

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Raybon and young son, Larry, spent Sunday in Birmingham visiting with their daughters and other relatives.

Mrs. Fred Larkins of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Miss Rosalie Forsman of Selma, Ala., visited with their sister, Mrs. Anna Larson, last week; also called on old friends while in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. G. Rogers, of Atlanta, Ga., spent the New Year holidays at the home of Mrs. A. E. Reagan. They arrived Friday noon and left Sunday noon. Mrs. Fred Howard returned with them to Atlanta for a visit with her daughter, Mrs. S. E. Sims, and family. Mrs. Rogers is the former Esther Berlin. Both Mr. and Mrs. Rogers have many friends here who enjoyed seeing them again.

Mrs. Inga Anderson enjoyed the company of one of her grandsons, Mr. Albert Horn, last week.

Mrs. Chas. Peterson is confined to her bed again and has been quite sick. Latest reports are that she is some better, but still not able to be up. We trust that she will soon be on the mend.

We are indeed happy to note that the Wade building (the old picture show house) is undergoing a complete remodeling. We understand that it is to be occupied by Mr. Lawrence Hayes. He will move his barber shop from its present location. This building has been quite an eye sore for some time, and it is certainly good to know that it is to be made fit for use again.

The Model Cleaners changed hands this week and its new owner is Mr. Harlem Bean. This business has grown to be quite a big thing, under the able management of Mrs. Bob Robinson, and we hope that it will continue to flourish under its new manager. Thorsby needs this plant, and to be successful, it needs you. Mr. Bean invites your continued patronage.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Howard entertained at a delightful New Year's party on Friday night. Pinochle was enjoyed, delicious refreshments were served and they watched for the New Year to come in. Those enjoying this affair were: Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Hanson, Mrs. Anna Phalin, Mrs. Fred Howard, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Peterson and Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Turnquist, Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth, Mr. Leonard Bosworth, Mrs. Marie Reagan, Miss Naemi Turnquist, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Howard and Carole and Allen, and Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Rogers of Atlanta.

On Saturday night a group of friends gave the Nels Petersons a warm welcome to Thorsby, by giving them a surprise party at their home. They furnished refreshments consisting of coffee, sandwiches, cookies and cake. A great deal of fun was had playing various games and there were about 25 guests.

Rev. Carolyn Welch preached at the United Protestant Church on last Sunday and will fill that pulpit regularly now. Rev. Welch pleased her congregation very much with her fine sermon and her very pleasing manner. You are cordially invited to attend this church and to hear Rev. Welch preach. You will be sure to enjoy a real treat.

News has been received here of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Patrick (Dionne Raybon) of Birmingham, Ala. The little fellow was born on Sunday, January 2nd, at 1:00 p.m., at the Jefferson Hospital, and he tipped the scales at 7 pounds and 7 ounces. He has been given the name of Gary Edwin. Our congratulations to the happy young parents.

Friends of Mrs. Sam Bailey, daughter of Mrs. Chas. Peterson, will be pleased to learn that she is doing quite well after undergoing an operation last week. We trust that she will continue to improve rapidly.

Some of our young friends certainly have the wrong conception of the right way to celebrate Xmas. It was carried on in Thorsby in a most boisterous manner, in fact, one would have thought it was Hallowe'en instead of Xmas. Some things that were pulled were indeed not becoming and not in keeping with Xmas in any way. Such rough stuff, if it has to be, would be more in place on New Year's Eve, at which time, not a sound was heard, but all was quiet. Let's hope that when another Xmas rolls around that we won't have so much rowdiness.

DRIVER - JACKSOON

Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Driver announce the marriage of their daughter, Billie Jean, to L. C. Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Jackson of Centreville, Ala. The marriage was performed on Friday night, December 31st, with the Rev. A. T. Hickman officiating.

The couple will make their home in Clanton.

DOLLARS SAVED

Proper maintenance and service of farm tractors would save Alabama farmers thousands of dollars yearly in fuel, lubricant and repair bills.

It Could Only Happen Once—

Jessie Nell Martin started to Clanton last week to get her driver's license, unaware what was in store for her. Entering Clanton, she saw a sailor thumbing his way toward Maplsville. It happened to be her husband, Walter Martin, coming home on a furlough. Believe it or not, she got her driver's license.

Christmas Spirit—

It seems some of our local citizens had the Xmas spirit in a big way this year. In fact 7½ gallons of it. They were taken into custody by the Maplesville Police Department, and some unidentified policemen from Clanton. They were arrested for violation of the prohibition law.

The new agriculture building at Maplesville School nears completion this week. It is a beautiful building and we are proud of it.

Radio Ramblings

I wish I could think of some way to wish all of you—my friends—a happy and prosperous New Year. If there ever were any trite phrases, I suppose it is those which are used in holiday greetings. But after all, it's the thoughtfulness and sincerity that counts, rather than glib expressions.

Saturday is a pretty good listening day on WKLF. In addition to the usual programs which are heard during the week, there are a few special Saturday programs that merit your listening. For example, from one o'clock to 1:55 there's the "Record Rack," featuring the latest in smooth dance and jazz rhythms, with James Popwell in the emcee spot. Then at 2:00 comes the "Alabama Jubilee," a full hour of good hillbilly music and fun from the studios, featuring the Peach Pickers, Fonza Smith and his band, and other WKLF talent. This is all a part of our constant endeavor to give you a variety of programs that you will like to hear.

To the public, there seem to be a lot of strange goings on around the tower out on the Selma highway these days. Here's what is happening: A complete new ground system is being installed. If you folks who know what I mean will pardon me, I'll tell the rest what I'm talking about. There is more to a radio tower than what you see driving by. Underneath it and around it for several hundred feet, hundreds of pounds of copper wire are buried in the ground. All of this is being replaced with new and better material, which will enable the station to serve more people and do a better job. That's the idea in a nutshell.

The WKLF program schedule received a great boost this week with the inclusion of a program service from Alabama College. Under a special arrangement, WKLF broadcasts several special programs each week that are produced right on the Alabama College campus by the students there. Here's what you may listen for: On Wednesday at 2:00 p.m., "Long Ago and Far Away," a radio adaptation of short stories, novels, etc. Also, on Tuesday morning at 9:30, "Adventures in Homemaking," a special program for all you housewives from the Alabama College Home Economics Dept., and at 2:15 p.m. on Tuesday, "Alabama Feature Page," with news and interviews of especial interest to Alabamians. On Mondays and Fridays at 2:00 its "Alabama Music Time," designed for music instruction in public schools. Make these programs a part of your regular listening habit.

Most people know that Gene Autry is a very popular cowboy singer, but many don't know that he is quite prominent in the radio field. He owns and operates Station KOOL at Phoenix, Ariz., and has interests in stations KOPO at Tucson, Ariz., and KOWL at Santa Monica, Calif. And just recently, he has asked the FCC for permission to buy station KTSA at San Antonio, Texas.

Popular among the high school set is Joan Aussant's "Chilton County Juniors" show. The program, which is heard on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 4:30 in the afternoon, features high school news from all over Central Alabama. Joan is well qualified to handle such a program, being a Junior at the Chilton County High School in Clanton. She invites news articles and announcements about ball games, school plays, etc. Address them to "Chilton County Juniors," in care of WKLF, Clanton.

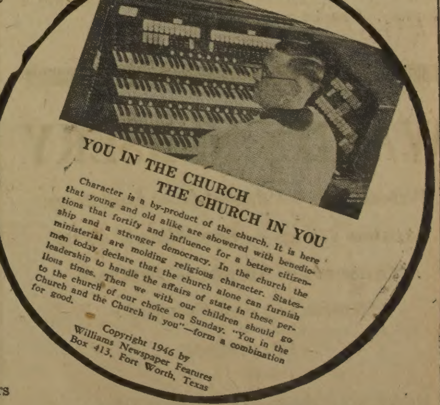
That's sign off time for this week. Until next Thursday, so long, and good listening.

SPEAKING OF MY RELIGION

I have heard old people like me contribute their long lives to eating plenty of eels, lettuce and poke-salad. I contribute mine to the influence of my church. Through thick and thin she has stood there welcoming friend and foe, christian and non-christian. Of course what a fellow eats has to do with the length of his life but HOW HE LIVES has much more to do with it. That's why I'm so happy now, I suppose. My formula for living a long time is traceable to my church. Why, I was married there. I brought up my family with the blessings of my church to help. If you want to know something about this church business—I count myself a real citizen and it's because of my church. You know character is about all that's lasting and worthwhile and the church is where you mold it.

If a lot of our DELINQUENT FATHERS and MOTHERS would shoulder their responsibilities like fathers and mothers should there would be little necessity for all this talk about JUVENILE DELINQUENCY. The parents miserably fail and what else can you expect?

It woud be your greatest decision—to resolve right now that you will support your church with your money, your presence and your prayers regularly.



YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

MILK STILL SHORT OF NEED IN STATE

Auburn, Ala. — Even with Alabama's present rapid expansion in dairying, Grade A milk production is not high enough to take care of the winter demand.

John Parrish, A.P.I. Extension Dairyman, says to take over the market now being supplied by producers in other states Alabama dairymen must balance production with demand.

More of this state's milk should be produced in the fall and winter months, he explains. "At present we produce too large a percentage of milk in spring and summer, when prices are lower and danger of surpluses is greater."

The dairyman said that breeding more cows to freshen in fall and winter would help correct the situation. Increased production per cow could be brought about by better feeding and pasture management, use of better bulls, and control of diseases, it was pointed out.

PINE LUMBER LEADER

Nineteen million acres of woodland have produced enough pine lumber to put Alabama ahead of all states in this industry.

THE COUNTRY DOCTOR

(By ANDREW HICKMAN)

(Dedicated to Dr. J. P. Hayes, who has been practicing medicine for a little over 50 years.)

He's been around these parts
A mighty long time,
A finer man and truer friend
T'would be awful hard to find.

No hour's too late, no weather's too bad,
For whenever called he would come,
To assist in a birth, battle with death,
Rub an aching back or treat a sore thumb.

His hours of work were hard and long,
Time of leisure was little or none.
He ministered to all those who needed him,
And often got no pay, nor thanks, for services done.

His life's been not his own,
But belonged to those in pain,
He's lived with one hand on his satchel
And the other on the bridle reign.

He may be a mite old timey
With methods a little out of date,
But 'tis true, he can't be beat,
At curing an old-fashioned bellyache.

Matters not if you're rich or poor;
'Tis all the same to him.
He'll treat you for a cold in the nose,
Or rheumatiz in a limb.

He's often forgotten and ignored
By people, when they are well.
But let 'em get a little sick,
And that's a different story to tell.

Yes, he's been around these parts a mighty long time,
But now, he is getting pretty old,
And will soon need someone by HIS bedside,
While HE crosses life's final goal.

So friend, no matter where you go
Or what you do, in this life's busy whirl,
Don't forget that Country Doctor
Who helped you discover this old world.

—ANDREW J. HICKMAN.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Montgomery, Ala. — Accidents of all kinds killed Alabamians in 1947 at an average rate of approximately one every four and one-half hours, according to the State Health Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics.

The bureau's records show that 1,879 deaths were attributed to accidental causes during that year. This total included 1,211 white people and 18 Negroes.

Home accidents were responsible for 617 deaths. Two hundred and fifty-eight were caused by industrial accidents (accidents occurring while gainfully employed). Motor vehicle traffic accidents accounted for 680, while 319 others were due to accidents occuring in public buildings, on streets, highways and other public places exclusive of those involving motor vehicles). The types of accidents responsible for five deaths were not indicated.

HEN DEMAND HIGH

The demand for hens as meat birds is excellent, John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension poultrymen, reminded farmers this week. The price for these birds is only a few cents below fryers, he said in suggesting that many hens stay on the farm too long. Unproductive hens should be sold and pullets put in their places.

Mrs. Sallie Carter suffered a light stroke last week.

We wish for all these good people a full and complete recovery.

Mr. H. Grady Herrod is visiting his son, Dr. H. G. Herrod and family in Tuscaloosa, Ala. Just before the holidays Dr. Herrod's young daughter suffered a broken limb and has been confined to a hospital. It is understood at this writing that she is getting along all right.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Maness and son, Frank, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., visited the Frank Reynoldses over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Linsley of the University of Alabama returned to their home Sunday.

That young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy O'Neal has been given the name of Sandra Kay. Mother and daughter are doing nicely.

Mrs. Gene Willis (Hilda Ruth Carter) and young daughter of Mobile, Ala., spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Buck Carter, and family.

NEW HARMONY

Services were pretty good this week end. Bro. David Byler was with us again Saturday night and brought his musical instruments with him. Everybody enjoyed the fine music and singing.

Bro. Edgar Littleton brought the message Sunday night.

Some from here attended the fellowship meeting Sunday afternoon at Zion Ridge and reported a good time.

Remember our pastor will be with us next week end. He is a good speaker and I'm sure you will enjoy hearing him, so make your plans to attend.

MILK CONSUMPTION

The American people spend 15 per cent of the annual food budget for dairy products which supply 30 per cent of the food consumed annually.

WISE USE OF LAND IS FARMING "MUST"

In a report issued this week on soils and land use in Alabama J. [illegible] ry, A.P.I. Extension agronomist, [illegible] ress has been made by [illegible] past 20 years but that there is still much to be done.

Pointing out that good soil [illegible] ment and wise land use are [illegible] mental in any sound farm [illegible] y suggested that farmers consider these points

1. Production of food, feed, and cash crops can be greatly increased through the maximum use of cover crops. This includes winter and summer legumes for grazing and hay, mixtures of legumes and grasses or small grain and small grain alone for grazing and feed.

2. Production per man and per acre can be stepped up through use of correct amounts of recommended grades of fertilizer properly applied.

3. Use of lime should be increased in pasture improvement and in the production of legumes for soil improvement and for hay.

4. Proper care and right use of barnyard manure offers opportunity for profitably increasing crop yields.

5. The Production and Marketing Administration offers valuable assistance in production of cover crops and development of other good soil management practices.

6. Wise use of all usable land on all farms will greatly increase production of feed and pasture and, consequently, livestock and livestock products for sale.

Put the small hem at the bottom of the bed at least half of the time and wear on sheets will be evenly distributed.

COUNTY AGENTS HAVE MODEL HUNTING LEASE

A model lease which farmers may copy for selling hunting rights on [illegible] lands is now available in their [illegible] agents office.

[illegible] er, A.P.I. Extension [illegible] specialist, believes [illegible] tracts of land [illegible] to sell hunting rights because they think a lot of red tape" is involved. The same may be true of sportsmen who do not know of the mechanism involved in buying hunting rights.

He stated that the actual transaction is so simple that only the landowner and the sportsman need be present.

"The best interest in conservation, good sportsmanship, and the rights of both landowner and sportsman buying the rights have been taken into consideration in the model lease. It may be altered to fit specific conditions and desires of both parties," pointed out Kennamer. "Although the lease may have come too late for use in this hunting season, farmers and sportsmen can make plans now for the 1949-50 season."

However, the lease may be easily followed in drawing up the contract for sale of fishing rights for a pond, suggested Kennamer.

CAN BE INCREASED

Alabama ranks 25th in the U. S. in milk production and has a total of 391,000 dairy cows. The state's average production of 3,512 pounds per cow per year can be raised 50 per cent with proper selection, culling, breeding and management, believe A.P.I. Extension dairymen at Auburn.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.
M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

It is not safe to buy land or to lend money and accept land as security without first investigating the Title of the land. Often there are unpaid mortgages and judgments or other liens, affecting the Title, which an Abstract would set out. Therefore, when buying land or lending money thereon, it is important that an Abstract of Title be furnished. A few dollars spent for an Abstract is cheaper than going ahead and having a law suit a little later on.

offices of local Reserve and National Guard Unit Instructors and Army installations. The personnel of these officers are in a position to assist applicants in every way possible.

Present requirements for field grade officers have been met except for officers of the Medical Department and majors of Infantry. No vacancies exist for recall in the grade of warrant officer.

At the present time there are many vacancies in the Army for officers in the grades of lieutenant and captain, principally in the combat arms. Vacancies in the Medical Department, including the Army Nurse Corps, total more than 1,700. The Technical Services have openings for 3,500 officers. In the Transportation Corps 700 vacancies exist.

Reserve officers commissioned in Army Security, Armor, Military Intelligence, and Staff and Administrative Reserve should apply for extended active duty in their particular specialty.

SELECTIVE SERVICE NEWS

Clarifying provisions of the Selective Service Act, W. L. Horn, State Director of Selective Service for Alabama, said in an interview today that local boards have no authority under the present law to accept volunteers for immediate induction, unless they are over 26.

Horn observed that the general misunderstanding probably arose from the fact that local boards were empowered to accept volunteers under the Selective Service Act which expired in 1947.

"The present law is very clear," Horn said, and he quoted from recent instructions sent to all Alabama local boards as follows:

"Except in respect to registrants 26 years of age or over who may consent to induction, the Selective Service Act of 1948 contains no provision authorizing the induction of volunteer registrants before the time that such registrants are selected for induction according to their dates of birth as prescribed in Selective Service Regulations.

"Any registrant who is within the age group 19 through 25 may apply at an Army recruiting station for enlistment in the Regular Army for a period of 21 months' service which is the same period of service for which he is liable under the Selective Service Act of 1948. No such registrant, however, is eligible to so enlist after an Order to Report for Armed Forces Physical Examination. . . has been issued to him by his local board.

"Local boards, therefore, will not forward for induction any registrant within the age group 19 through 25, other than a delinquent, before the time that he is selected in the sequence of his date of birth, as prescribed in Selective Service Regulations, regardless of whether he wishes to volunteer for immediate induction."

Horn expressed his appreciation to the press and radio for "wonderful cooperation" in keeping the public informed on matters pertaining to Selective Service.

THE THREE "R's"

The basis for a sound hog program are listed by G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. extension specialist, who calls them "the three R's: 1. Raise grain feed. 2. Raise green grazing crops. 3. Raise pigs for finishing to "tops."

IRRIGATION

The overhead irrigation system costs about $250 per acre, while the new portable pipe and pump can be installed, for approximately $100 per acre. More Alabama farmers are becoming interested in irrigation, say agricultural leaders.

Mrs. Willie Bean had as her guests last Thursday Mrs. P. E. Tatum and Ralph and Mr. J. S. Wright of Deatsville; Mr. Herbert Wright of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. J. P. Nix, Mrs. Leighton Gibson, Charlotte and Weldon, of Ensley; Mrs. Malcolm Romine and Kay, of Lake Jackson, Texas. The guests were gathered to help Mrs. Bean celebrate her birthday.

Mr. J. S. Wright and Mr. Herbert Wright left Friday for Jacksonville, Fla., after a visit here. Mr. J. S. Wright will spend the winter there with his son.

Sgt. and Mrs. Leo Spivey and daughter, Linda, Misses Doris Bishop and Ila Mae Bean were the New Year's dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Foshee, Jr.

MEAT FIGURES

Farmers probably receive a higher per cent of the consumer dollar for meat than for any other farm product.

To reheat rolls or biscuits without lighting the oven, place them in the top of a double-boiler and heat over actively boiling water for about 15 minutes.

Before repapering a room, apply a thin coat of white shellac to any grease spots that may be on the wall. Then no grease will penetrate the new wallpaper.

KING CORN IS SMILING

THOUSANDS of 4-H Club members all over Alabama amazed parents, leaders and friends this fall with their exceptional corn harvest.

Youngsters in all sections of the state came through with yields of 50, 100, and even more on one-acre corn demonstrations supervised by local extension agents. Others made record-breaking yields on projects including several acres.

At corn festivals in many counties this fall, 4-H Clubbers and adult farmers were awarded honors and prizes in recognition of their accomplishment. One-hundred-bushel corn clubs added new members in all sections.

Typical of young farmers who took part in the "more corn per acre" program last year is 11-year-old Ronnie Miller, pictured on this page. Ronnie, a Butler County 4-H Club member, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Miller, Greenville, Rt. 1. The picture was made at the Butler County Corn Festival.

These boys by use of improved practices and varieties are learning facts that will stay with them through great careers in farming.

Autauga Clover Becomes Well Known In South

THROUGH the recently organized Autauga Reseeding Crimson Clover Growers' Association this strain of clover is becoming known throughout the South.

The association, organized this fall by Autauga County farmers, planned a tour as one of its first undertakings. The tour was attended by agricultural leaders from Alabama and five other southern states.

On a county-wide trip the 140 visitors stopped at seven different farms. They saw more than 5,000 acres of the Autauga clover.

This strain of clover, developed more than 11 years ago on the farms of Gordon Shanks and O. H. Pigford, has since spread to farms throughout Autauga County. Pigford is now president of the association.

Last year crimson clover was grown on more than 4,000 acres and over 100 tons of seed were harvested. This fall farmers have planted nearly 9,000 acres and will likely harvest more than 200 tons of seed, says Charlie Breedlove, Autauga County Agent.

Breedlove, judging from experiences of local farmers, reports that the Autauga reseeding crimson clover has great possibilities as a winter grazing, soil building, seed producing, and reseeding crop. It grows well on nearly all types of soil, he adds.

Jackson Reports On Corn

REPORTS received from Jackson County concerning the yield of highly fertilized, thickly spaced corn demonstrations presents something of a typical picture on what has been done in Alabama.

According to reports compiled by J. E. Carter, county agent, 22 farmers and 4-H boys have harvested yields of more than 100 bushels per acre. All of these were checked by a committee of farmers, Carter explains.

"We are not only proud of our 100 bushel per acre farmers and 4-H boys in Jackson County," says Carter, "but of the improvement in yields throughout. We have had farmer after farmer report yields of 60, 70, and 80 bushels. We had only two farmers to make over 100 bushels per acre last year—this time we will have more than 10 times that many. However, we are not satisfied to rest on the record we made this year; we will continue to work toward more profitable use of corn land."

Grow More Grapes

GRAPES, handled right, will grow anywhere in Alabama, and vines may be set as late as March, says J. C. Ford, A.P.I. extension gardner.

Ford recommends the Champanel variety as the hardiest of the bunch grapes, but points out that the Concord is a little better grape for over-all use.

Competition for top honors was hot in the Wiregrass Fat Hog Show held at Dothan in November. Sixty-eight high quality hogs were entered in the event by 4-H and FFA members. Two of the prize winners are shown here receiving their awards.

Left, Doyle Elliot, Henry County 4-H Club member, receives second prize and the reserve champion loving cup in "pen of three" competition. Making the award is Charles A. Dunsath, manager of Wilson and Company, and member of the Dothan Chamber of Commerce livestock committee. Doyle won the grand championship with his individual entry.

At right, Doyle Bond of Houston County receives the reserve champion loving cup for individual competition from Jesse Forrester, chairman of the livestock committee.

Macon Farmer Reaches Production Goal

YEARS ago Olin Youngblood, Tuskegee, Rt. 1, set a goal of a bale per acre on his entire cotton crop. This year he crossed the line.

It took 24 years for the Macon County farmer to do it, but this fall he harvested 238 bales from 210 acres.

Obviously pleased with his success, Youngblood recalls that he is making more cotton on one acre today than he made on 10 a quarter of a century ago.

A Different Picture

In 1924 he bought a 699-acre plantation, every acre of which was in cotton. That year he expected 75 bales but made only 60. Three years later he produced his first 75-bale crop and in 1934 got the farm up to 100 bales.

"From that point on the picture was different," Youngblood says. "Better practices on fewer acres have turned out more cotton." In 1946 he planted 165 acres from which 149 bales were harvested. Last year every acre made a bale."

Youngblood's present crop yield is all the more unusual because each of 17 tenants on the farm made more than a bale per acre average.

Only Coker 100 wilt-resistant pure or breeder seeds were planted. The cotton was fertilized with 600 pounds of 4-10-7 at planting time and side-dressed with 100 pounds of nitrate of soda. Up until a few years ago, only one-half this amount of fertilizer was used on the farm. The crop was poisoned for boll weevil and other insects.

Better Terraces, Too

The progressive farming system that shoved up these yields included a terracing program planned by the farmer with the assistance of M. F. Whatley, county agent. This was an operation which required three years to complete, but Farmer Youngblood believes it was worth the trouble.

"Most of those terraces are still good and holding today," he says.

Alabama Leads South In Cottonseed Grades

ALABAMA had the highest average grade of cottonseed for any state in the Southeast or Southwest according to a seed review released November 10. The report showed the state of Texas second in grades and Oklahoma third for that period.

Boasting an average U. S. Standard cottonseed grade of 103.0, Alabama had ten counties with grades of 105 or higher. These were Fayette, Limestone, Madison, Blount, Cullman, Jefferson, Cleburne, Pickens, Autauga, and Perry.

A. W. Jones, A.P.I. extension marketing specialist, points out that while the state's grades topped the section, its prices were lower than in some of the other leading states. The average price of gin-run wagon-lots of cottonseed in Alabama for the period reported was $66.40 per ton.

Leaving fields uncovered in winter is a mistake and your mistakes will find you out—out of topsoil, that is.

Cotton is the leading cash crop in Macon County and 1948 was a good cotton year. These two factors resulted in a harvest of 14,000 bales which is 2,000 above normal. The above picture was made at Tuskegee, Alabama, near the close of the harvest season when cotton was piled on vacant lots and in the streets waiting to be marketed or stored. Warehouses were filled to overflowing.

Wiregrass Hog Show

WITH the advancement of livestock farming in the state and with hog shows becoming more frequent, the Wiregrass section of Alabama continues as one of the leading areas in swine production.

An example of this leadership was shown recently at the Wiregrass Fat Hog Show in Dothan. This show, which is to be an annual event, exhibited 68 top quality animals entered by 4-H and FFA youngsters from counties in that section and attracted more than 700 spectators. The day's program ended in the afternoon with a sale at which youngsters received prices ranging from 22 cents to 32.50 cents per pound for their hogs.

Prize Winners

Top prize winners in individual competition at the show were Doyle Elliot, 4-H boy from Henry County, who won the grand champion award and Doyle Bond, Houston County 4-H member, who won reserve champion.

Champion "pen of three" was exhibited by Lawrence Winston, 4-H member from Houston, and the reserve champion pen was shown by Doyle Elliot.

Frank Kruge, head buyer of Wilson and Company, Chicago, was the judge for the show. Following placements of the animals in the ring, Kruge commented favorably on the type hogs being exhibited at the event.

Luncheon Given

At noon the Dothan Chamber of Commerce who worked closely with the extension service in putting on the show, gave a luncheon for agricultural leaders. Principal speaker at the affair was G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. extension swine specialist. He complimented the group on their fine show and then presented for them what he termed basic essentials in successful hog production program.

"Surplus corn fed with protein supplement is the answer to our hog raising problems," Phillips declared. "Corn alone or peanuts alone does not provide a complete hog ration."

The swine specialist ended his remarks by saying that the best laborer for harvesting feed is the hog himself.

"He charges nothing, does a good job, and enjoys his work," says Phillips.

Farmers Learn About Mechanic

MORE than 1500 farm people attended demonstrations last year to learn the proper servicing and maintenance of farm tractors. Attendance will go even higher for this year.

J. T. Gaillard, A.P.I. extension engineer makes that prediction, and supplies figures to base it on. Alabama farmers own approximately 28,000 tractors, says Gaillard and many of these are operated, maintained and serviced by the farmers themselves.

For efficient service of tractors it is important that owners learn the value of such jobs as oil changing and filter cleaning, Gaillard continues. He points out that many dollars are spent needlessly each year because of the lack of proper maintenance and servicing.

"In addition to repairs," he says, "fuel consumption and lubricant demands are stepped up when machines do not get proper servicing."

Gaillard encourages farmers to contact their local county agents and make plans for attending the next tractor school in their are

Salute To The Heifers

AMONG the many contributions to his community, his profession, and his country, Jesse C. Hearn, of Roanoke, Alabama, has written a tribute to the dairy heifers.

Mr. Hearn, who is a national director of the Association of Insurance Agents, Editor of Roanoke's News, and a member of the board of directors of the Roanoke Chamber of Commerce, also, is a lover of fine dairy cattle. His "Salute to the Heifers," has been recognized and is becoming well known throughout the land. It is quoted in part here for the benefit of those who have not read it in its complete form.

"Dairy day is the day we look forward to every fall and in our opinion, a rich cream-colored registered Jersey heifer is the fairest heifer that grows. We like to watch the judges judge them, and we marvel at their wisdom."

No Ugly Heifers

"In our opinion, there are no ugly heifers. Yes, we think they are all excellent and better. Especially was this true of the crop presented here this fall. Some of them had been under blanket for six weeks. We also understand that the boys and girls had been grazing them at night and bedding them down in day time so as to protect their beauty! Yet the beautician was at the bus station clipping the few hairs that did not look exactly right, with the electric clippers.

"And, say! Did you notice how the little fellows would kick or tap their heifers on the hoof and make them stand just so? Like a pretty girl parading a new dress, we fully believe that these heifers were conscious of their aristocracy and of their importance. Some few of them were born in far-away Canada. Yet, every one of them on parade was a southern belle.

"What tingled our spine and brought tears of joy to our eyes, though, was when these heifers paraded by our office, led by the hope of America, their owners. These owners were farm boys and girls of this county in their early teens, and some younger.

No Problem Children

"There were no juvenile delinquents leading those heifers, gentlemen. How do we know? Well, you see, it is like this. Some four years ago about twenty-five of us Rotarians and Lions of Roanoke lent the money to twenty-five boys and girls to buy their heifers. Every single note was paid in full and on time! We shall never forget the twelve-year-old boy who came walking into our office that fall and said, 'Mr. Hearn, I have come for that note on my heifer.' Yes, he planked down the eighty or eighty-five dollars cold cash and went walking out. We recognized him then as a future 'Mr. Got Rocks.' A citizen of tomorrow, if you please."

Improved Farm Housing Means Increased Savings

By STELLA L. MITCHELL
A.P.I. Home Improvement Specialist

"IS now the right time to invest in housing?" No exact answer can be given for this question. However, the house on the farm may and frequently does contribute to the family earnings. Its improvement may mean savings to the family.

If more families took account of this fact the level of farm housing might be increased more rapidly.

If you are asking yourself the question, "How can the dwelling contribute to the family's earnings?" we give you not one answer to this question but several, each of which is important.

Essential For Health

First, a minimum standard of housing is essential to health. A safe, sanitary dwelling large enough to prevent serious overcrowding may, by contributing to good health and reducing home accidents, eventually bring savings in medical expenses of family members.

The house also is a center for business activities. It is here that poultry is often dressed and eggs and other produce are packed for market. Conferences with prospective buyers of farm products are often held in the farmhouse. It is in the house, too, that financial plans are made and records are kept.

Saves Labor

A third answer may be found in the saving of labor. Improvements made to the farmhouse may make it possible for farm women to earn additional income. Ordinarily house improvements are thought of merely as expense items. With many farm families the addition of such improvements may be the means of adding to the income.

Farm women often carry on some income-producing enterprise of their own. Many of them report that after their houses have been modernized they are able to do their housework in less time and with less fatigue. This means that they are able to devote more time and energy to the care of the poultry flock or the processing of food to sell on the farm market.

Drench Ewes Now!

"EWES should be drenched with phenothiazine emulsion now before they become too heavy with lamb," says W. H. Gregory, A. P. I. extension livestock specialist, Auburn.

He recommends three ounces of the liquid for each ewe to control internal parasites during the winter.

Arrange Now For Fertilizers!

THE outlook for nitrogen and potash for 1949 is little better than it was last year.

For this reason D. R. Harbor, A.P.I. extension agronomist, advises farmers to make early arrangements for fertilizer to be used in the spring. Farmers who place orders now stand a better chance of getting the grades they desire.

Of course, Harbor adds, nitrogen for top dressing oats and other small grains will be needed first. Growers should make plans to store nitrogen to be used for this purpose in February or early March.

Letter Of Hearty Thanks Received From Holland

MEMBERS of the Ranburne Home Demonstration Club in Cleburne County collected and sent three boxes of gifts to Holland this fall. All persons donating articles put their names and addresses in with the gifts. Many have recived letters of appreciation from Holland. One of the most impressive of these letters was received by the Whitson family. Below is a copy of that letter.

Dear Family Whitson,

Two months ago I received a package and a pair of small shoes for my son and in those little shoes was a letter with an address. Therefore, I have pleasure to write and give you thanks for the things you sent over. Family Whitson, we again thank you for the shoes for my son who is 1½ years old and is wearing with great pleasure. He had shoes but not so good, and as they were a little small he could not go so fast. With these shoes he can sure go. There was also something else. I don't know if that was sent by you but one hearty thanks for it.

Green things to eat have been awfully bad although they are a little better this year.

I am working for the P.T.T. as deliverer. Everything is so expensive here that your package with the shoes was a rich gift, for with what little we make we can't buy it. Therefore, again, hearty thanks.

And receive the heartiest greetings from my wife and son and daughter and myself.

Sincerely yours,

J. A. BOEXE.

Along the Way
with

P. O. DAVIS
DIRECTOR, API EXTENSION SERVICE

IT'S customary to say "Happy New Year" at this season. And I hope that 1949 will be a "Happy New Year" for you.

We want peace and prosperity. Prosperity is real when all people are studying, thinking, and working for good wages, or good returns such as farm products. It includes also opportunity to invest money in farms, or factories, or mines, or banks, or any kind of worthwhile business with reasonable safety and satisfactory returns.

No one knows, of course, that the United States will be at peace throughout 1949 but we are hopeful. We know that war is now in progress in China; and that threat of war is continuous in Europe.

And we know also that we must continue ourselves as a sound nation; sound in our thinking, sound in our action, sound in our economy, sound in our social and our religious life.

Quotas For Peanuts

The new year, 1949, presents changes in Alabama agriculture. For the first time in years there will be marketing quotas upon peanuts. This means acreage allotments. It is very important in Southeast Alabama; and of less importance in a few other counties.

Peanut growers voted last year marketing quotas for three years; but the Secretary of Agriculture suspended them for 1948 because of unusual conditions. The supply situation makes quotas mandatory for 1949.

Thus peanut growers return to acreage allotments. The same is true of potatoes which are a major crop in Baldwin County. These marketing quotas, or acreage allotments, mean that farmers have produced more than the market needs. They will reduce their acreage to reduce production.

Just Missed Cotton

Cotton just missed marketing quotas. The supply was very near the level at which, under law, the Secretary would have been required to call a referendum on marketing quotas.

Any grower can plant in 1949 as much cotton as he chooses. To what extent cotton acreage in Alabama will be changed no one knows.

Farmers in the Tennessee Valley and on Sand Mountain had difficulty in picking the 1948 crop. Several thousand bales remain unharvested.

This indicates that the crop acreage in that area is about as big as it should be with labor now available for picking.

South of the Tennessee Valley and Sand Mountain cotton acreage has been declining for several years when farmers could plant as much as they wanted to plant.

But we don't know what farmers will do in 1949 about cotton. Some may plant more for a bigger base. My guess is that this would be a mistake.

How About Corn?

The old year, 1948, revealed big opportunities for producing corn in Alabama. Many farmers made from 50 to well over 100 bushels per acre. The same was true for 4-H and FFA boys.

We can assume that corn will be planted on about twice as many acres as cotton, as in the past. By thorough preparation, good seed of leading varieties, fertilizing properly and heavily, and two or three light cultivations, corn production per acre in 1949 can be well above 1948.

It is a tragic mistake for any farmer not to make a high yield of corn. By high yield we don't mean 100 bushels per acre but certainly 40 or 50 or more. It's easy to do, and it'll pay off.

A Future For Livestock

Wherever farmers grow lots of corn they have livestock. The same will be true in Alabama. More hogs and chickens and turkeys will go along with more corn.

Hogs and chickens and turkeys offer an excellent opportunity to Alabama farmers to increase their income and improve their land.

The same is true of dairy and beef cattle. It appears, however, that dairy and beef cattle will depend largely upon grazing and roughage for making meat and milk.

All of us realize that Alabama will prosper when we have good grazing as much of the year as feasible plus enough roughage and feed with enough livestock and poultry to consume all the feed that we produce.

Back To The Land

Thus it all goes back to the land. We must make our land productive and keep it productive. We must improve the land each year while it produces a living for us in the form of fiber, food, and feed crops.

In 1949, as in former years, the outlook is good for good farmers. Costs will be high and prices to farmers look to be some lower.

This calls for wise planning and efficient operation plus good business procedure.

Below, photo 1 shows the yield of the no-vetch plot (an average of 4 bushels per acre) and photo 2 show the yield of the vetch plot (an average of 55 bushels per acre).

Winter Cover Important

RESULTS at the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station have shown, over a perio of years, what winter cover crops and nitrogen mean to the production of corn in Alabama.

Dr. D. G. Sturkie, Experiment Statio agronomist, points this out and gives figures to prove it. Corn was harvested from tw plots lying side by side in the same field at the experiment station this fall, says Sturkie. One plot yielded at the rate of 55 bushels of corn per acre—the other at the rate of four bushels per acre.

Neither plot had received any commercial nitrogen for several years, but the plot with the 55-bushel yield had been growing vetch every winter since 1934. The only difference in the handling of the plots has been in winter management. Each has received applications of phosphorous and potash every year.

The experiment clearly demonstrates the importance of nitrogen and the ability of legume crops to produce it. The 15-year average yield of the no-vetch plot was 7.3 bushels per acre while the average for the vetch plot was 30.6 bushels per acre for the same period.

The Return Of The Beaver In Alabama

By EARL FRANKLIN KENNAMER

AH-MILK was the name given him by the Ojibway Indians. The scientists call him Castor candensis. In everyday language he is simply the beaver. He was the "salt pork and beans" of the early trapper, who often clothed himself with beaver furs, sold the pelts, and ate the meat.

Once he populated most of the nation. The overzealous trapper and the creep of civilization, however, pushed the beaver from his original haunts. Yet in the past two generations he has been coming back in areas where he was restocked. His pelt has a value equal to and often better than the highly prized mink.

Legal To Trap

Most Alabamians don't know that beavers may be trapped for pelts during January in 15 counties: Autauga, Barbour, Bibb, Lowndes, Montgomery, Sumter, Elmore, Chilton, Macon, Perry, Lee, Dallas, Marengo, Randolph, and Russell. Traps used must be strong, for the beaver often reaches a weight of 100 pounds or more. Some popular trap sizes are No. 3 and No. 4. Beavers may be trapped below their slides with blind, scented, or baited sets, but the traps must be staked or weighted so as to drown the animal before his foot is amputated.

The wise trapper seeks only the larger beavers and is mindful not to over-trap. He realizes that enough breeding stock must be left to provide a harvest for future seasons.

Engineer Extraordinary

The beaver is as important for his pond-building feats as he is for his fur. In fact, they were the first water conservationists. Today more than ever before agriculturists see the need for greater water and soil conservation. The rodent-toothed beaver fits well into such a program of conservation because he dams streams. He sometimes works 24 hours a day. He asks nothing in payment save a few willow, poplar, and gum trees and the roots and leaves of water weeds and grasses.

His Dam Is Valuable

The end product of beaver dams is greater than many people realize. A beaver dam creates a pond, which in turn provides water for livestock and raises the water table of the surrounding land. This pond will produce fish and may serve to harbor wild ducks on their flights. Soil is conserved; silting of the stream is reduced, since soil and sand are deposited in the pond. The increased water area provides for the increased production of other valuable furbearers such as mink, muskrat, and raccoon.

More Help Than Hindrance

Yet this ability of the beaver to construct dams has led to his abuse and destruction. Timbermen curse him because he cuts down a few of their trees and "drowns" others. Farmers become outraged when beavers flood water over pasture or cropland and when they eat corn from their fields.

However, if the farmer would only consider the beneficial qualities of the beaver, he might encourage rather than destroy him. The fur value and conservation qualities of this large rodent probably equal or outweigh the little corn he steals and the few trees he chops down. Most of the pasture land he floods may often be unsuitable for tillage or may be too expensive for converting to pasture. A beaver pond can make the surrounding area more productive because of added moisture.

Use Beavers Wisely!

The State Conservation Department has been carrying on a restocking program in areas where beavers can be of benefit and protected. Many of these beavers are transplanted from areas where landowners complain of damage.

When more persons realize the true value of beavers and protect them properly, more counties can be open to trapping of beavers for winter income, and more of our water can be conserved. A far-sighted farmer who classifies his beavers as livestock can wisely harvest a fur crop and still control much of the damage that beavers can cause.

The seemingly loose construction of sticks inside the circle in this picture houses a colony of beavers. Beavers either build such houses or live in the banks of streams with the entrance to their home under water. The young beavers stay in the home until they are one to two years old.

The Russell County farmer who owns the land where these beavers are living states that the pond made by them is excellent for fishing.

Hog Sales Increase In Dale

HOG sales in Dale County this fall indicate a definite increase in the number of animals being grown for market there.

Records of the Dale County Swine Growers Association show that in cooperative sales at Ozark the number of animals sold, the number of farmers participating, and income from sales have made increases over last year for the months of August, September, October, and November. Sales more than doubled for the months of August and September.

Doug Thomason, Dale County agent, attributes these increases to one thing—feed. He points to the rise in sales as an indication of progress in Dale County.

"Last year," says Thomason, "we made headway in planting corn and hogging it off, but this past summer more farmers than ever followed the practice. They have found that home-grown feed harvested by the hogs themselves provides a profitable project on almost any farm."

Thomason credits this year's increase in sales to the number of animals produced on corn rather than to the hogs regularly fattened on peanuts. He predicts that the trend will point upward again in 1949. "If we do not reach the million dollar mark in hog sales for 1948 we will make it in 1949," continues Thomason, "because we know that we are on the right road."

Recommended Corn Varieties For Alabama

By T. H. ROGERS, Associate Agronomist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

OF the some 65 corn varieties and hybrids tested by the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station at 14 different locations in the state, 16 are recommended as first and second choices for Alabama in 1949. Four others are suggested for trial only.

The varieties in the first choice group are those that produced high yields of quality corn in tests during the last two or three years. Resistance to weevil damage was another factor in selecting the best varieties for central and southern parts of the state.

The varieties given in the second choice group are recommended if seed of those in the first group cannot be obtained.

The four varieties listed in the trial group have not been tested long enough to make definite recommendations. However, they appear so promising that they are suggested to farmers who might be interested in planting a few acres on a trial basis.

The McCurdy 1005 (white hybrid) produced high yields in the first-year test, 1948. It stands up well, and is quite resistant to weevils. Dixie 18 (yellow hybrid) is a good yielder, does not fall down, is resistant to weevils but is a tall-growing corn.

North Carolina 27 (yellow hybrid) is similar to North Carolina 1032 but appears to be more resistant to weevils. Dixie 44 (yellow hybrid) is suggested for planting only in north Alabama where weevils are not a problem. It produced good yields in tests.

The Agricultural Experiment Station recommends that farmers buy certified seed. This is particularly important in the case of hybrids. See your county agent for the Experiment Station's corn variety report which gives 1948 results and three-year averages at the test location. Recommended white varieties for north Alabama are Dixie 11, La. 468, PAG 360, Tenn. 10 and Dixie 17. Second choice are Paymaster and Mosby; for trial McCurdy 1005 is recommended. Tenn. 10 and Dixie 17 are sometimes penalized by the milling trade for the bronze color of their grain.

Good yellow corns for north Alabama are Funk's G717, N.C. 1032, US 13 and PAG 170. Second choice yellows are Indian Chief and Funk's G714. Dixie 44 and N.C. 27 are suggested for trial.

For central Alabama, Dixie 11, Dixie 17, and La. 468 are good white corns; N.C. 1032 is a good yellow. Second choice whites are Tenn. 10, Paymaster and Mosby, while second choice yellows are Funks G717 and G714 and La. 1031. For trial use McCurdy 1005 (white), N.C. 27 (yellow) and Dixie 18 (yellow).

First choice recommendations for south Alabama are Dixie 11, Dixie 17, and La. 468 (all white) and N.C. 1032 (yellow). Second choice whites are Paymaster and Mosby; second choice yellows are La. 1031 and Funk's G717-G714. For trial the same varieties are suggested as for central Alabama.

Executives of the Coosa River Newsprint Co. visited in Auburn recently to discuss the Childersburg Paper Plant project with A.P.I. leaders and forestry students.

Ed Norton, president of the company, told a romantic story about the development of the plant. He informed listeners that it would be ready to begin operation in about another year, and that its operation would encourage farmers to plant eroded hillsides to pines.

Dr. Ralph Draughon, president of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, (second from right) is shown here with Mr. Norton (fourth from right) and other visitors at the meeting.

State 4-H Clubbers Win National Honors

ALABAMA youngsters returned from the National 4-H Club Congress in December to boast of two national contest winners. They are Nancy Lois Bayard, 4-H girl from Greensboro in Hale County, and Robert Norris, 4-H Clubber from Fayette.

The national congress is held in Chicago each year for outstanding 4-H members from the United States and several foreign countries. This year's meeting entertained 1,600 boys and girls. Alabama's two national winners were chosen while attending the meeting along with 16 other 4-H members from various counties in the state.

Clothing Winner

Nancy Lois was one of the national clothing winners, and was awarded a $200 scholarship by The Spool Cotton Company of New York. Her 4-H records show that she has made or altered 200 garments during her seven years of club work.

Nancy not only makes all of her own clothes, but designs and cuts patterns for many of them as well. She says sewing is her favorite pastime, but she has found time to carry other projects, too. In her club work she has completed projects in poultry, home improvement, gardening, and dairying.

This clever and popular member has served her local club as president, vice-president, secretary and reporter.

Better Methods Electric

Robert Norris, winner in the national better methods electric contest, was awarded his $200 scholarship by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation, Pittsburgh.

During his six years of club work Robert has completed 15 projects. The most outstanding of these, of course, have been in electricity. He has established a farm shop equipped with hand tools, portable electric motor, saw, and other power tools. With these tools he is able to do many of the jobs around the farm which formerly required a professional repairman.

To help with his poultry project, Robert built an electric brooder. Then he installed an electric fence around some temporary grazing crops for the hogs and cattle on the farm. To improve his home, he added one branch circuit, and installed base plugs in bedrooms for the convenience of the members in his family.

A five-year cotton-lupine rotation made 596 pounds of seed cotton per acre more than cotton that received 300 pounds per acre of commercial nitrogen. The experiment took place at the Wiregrass Sub-station.

Turn Light On For Extra Eggs

"IT seems to make little difference to the hens when lights are used, just use them," says John Ivey, A.P.I. extension poultryman, Auburn.

However, he points out that morning lights are the most common and probably the most convenient for the hen.

Pecans Aplenty - Use Them

ALABAMA housewives are finding pecans aplenty in all food stores this winter.

With a total crop nearly two and one-half times larger than last year in Alabama, budget-minded homemakers will want to keep pecans at the top of their food list for awhile.

Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. extension nutritionist, stresses these facts while pointing out the nutritive value of pecans. Nuts contain high quality protein as well as fat, B vitamins, and some iron calcium.

"When nuts are combined with other ingredients in a main dish—such as a nut loaf," says Miss Hulsey, "they can be used as a substitute for meats or other protein foods."

The U. S. Department of Agriculture set the prospective crop of improved variety pecans in Alabama at 14,400,000 pounds and the seedling crop at 3,600,000 pounds. This adds up to 18,000,000 pounds. Last year's crop totaled only 7,440,000 pounds.

Monument To A Woman

"A monument, room by room, to a woman's determination," is the way the judges described Mrs. O. V. Mitchell's attractive home in the Central community, Madison County. Her home won second place in the Farm Bureau home improvement contest.

When the Mitchells moved from their comfortable farm home on New Market Pike, where they had resided for 18 years, to a home badly in need of repair, it was Mrs. Mitchell who grabbed a saw, hammer and nails and set to work. Outside, the house had long needed paint; screens were worn out, hanging off the windows; there was no underpinning; the roof leaked; and sagging doors added to the discouraging picture.

Inside, the paper on many of the walls had cracked, and was peeling off in spots. The ceiling material was warped, and as one of the judges said, "it seemed as though the stairs were saying 'let's give up now'."

Undaunted, Mrs. Mitchell set to work, tackling first the sagging edges of the ceiling. She got them back on a level, and held them in place with a small plank in a rim around the edges in each room. The stairs were rebuilt with the help of her son, the leaks in the roof were stopped, and the entire porch painted.

Old fireplaces were stopped up, new paper brightened the rooms, and a central heating stove added. The doors and windows were replaced, and a bathroom and guest room added by rearranging the interior of the house. In the kitchen shining white cabinets went up, along with a water heater and other modern appliances.

Even the outside of the house was improved with an attractive brick wall enclosing the front porch, and shrubs and flowers planted over the yard.

Now after many months of the hardest kind of work, the Mitchells can relax in a comfortable, attractive home, thanks to the energy and determination of the lady of the house, who refused to believe that anything was as bad as it looked.

Franklin Herefords Sell High

FRANKLIN County is proud to boast the highest price ever paid for a Hereford bull in Alabama was to one of its breeders.

Recently, B. R. Stalion of Chicago bought Grand Champion Larry's Pride for $10,000 and the Hereford heifer, Grand Champion Colorado Lass, for $2,000 from Lum Cummings.

"It's always been my ambition to be tops in the Hereford business," Cummings declared. This sale topped his long record of raising fine Herefords and meant that his ambition has been realized.

Being the first white-face buyer in Franklin County eleven years ago, Mr. Cummings now runs one of the best Hereford ranches in the state. He credits much of his success to the fact that his farm has been a demonstration farm for the State Extension Service. The most advanced methods in cattle raising have been used.

His son, Lawrence, an Auburn graduate is his partner. His grandson, Lawrence, Jr. is also rapidly becoming a Hereford expert

The foundation stock of the Cummings ranch is from the Milkaway Hereford Ranch in Phoenix, Arizona. The sire of Larry's Pride is Larry Domino of the Milkaway breed. The sire of Colorado Lass, Reserve Champion Dandy Mischief, is owned by the Cummings. Both cows are 21 months old

The sale was brought about when R. J Kinser, retired president of the American Hereford Association, visited the ranch in August. He spoke to Mr. Stalion of the fin cattle raised by Cummings, and the Illinoi man came to Russellville last week to inspec them. Both animals won their champion ships at the Fat Stock Show in Birmingham last spring.

Grain sorghum, fast becoming one of Alabama leading feed crops, is growing rapidly in popularit among Shelby County farmers. Here Farmer O. Perry of Columbiana, Rt. 1, center, joined by Buc Clark, assistant county agent, left, and young Bil Farmer, a neighbor, is establishing the feed value be found in this seven-acre patch of early hegar When the crop was combined a few days after th picture was made, its yield was 75 bushels of gra per acre.

It Happens With Eggs

By JOHN WEEKS

A.P.I. Extension Poultry Marketing Specialist

WHEN should I sell my eggs? The be time, of course, is when eggs are hig est in price. They are high in price whe production is at its lowest.

The best market last year was from Ju to January. Many farmers, year in ar year out, fail to realize the best profit fro their birds because they do not have eggs sell when the price is up. Practically all pr duction comes when eggs are low in price.

Good poultrymen are learning now to sta their pullets early, and to get them into pr duction to take advantage of the high pri period. They are getting all the producti they can during the last six months of t year, then culling their flocks very heavi when prices drop.

When the Alabama Crop Improvement Association meets in Auburn on January 11, its 200 members will have a program which has been planned in every detail.

Their directors held an annual meeting in Auburn recently to take up technical problems and outline program plans. In the upper picture the directors of the association are shown. They are, from left, W. A. Wormack, Ashford; Gust Reimer, Elberta; Jack Butler, Fayette; William Howard Smith, Prattville; H. R. Benford, West Point; Jake Jewell, Orrville.

In the lower picture the group is shown with A.P.I. extension and experiment station personnel who advised with the directors and assisted them with technical problems at the meeting.

Sows Need Special Care To Bring Best Pigs

By G. B. PHILLIPS
A.P.I. Extension Service Specialist

SINCE most sows have been bred, not much can be done now to increase the number of spring litters. But bigger litters, with stronger pigs at birth, can be raised by feeding the bred sows properly. Pigs that are small and weak at birth are easily mashed by the sow or are otherwise lost during their first few days.

Research has shown that baby pigs averaging two and one-half pounds each at birth, have a five times better chance to live to weaning age than pigs averaging one and one-half pounds. And the heaviest pigs at birth also make the most rapid gains and are heavier at market age.

Corn Is Not Enough

No fact of hog feeding is better established than that corn alone is a very poor and unbalanced feed. Corn is fattening feed. Certainly bred sows will gain in weight and look good when fed during the gestation period on corn alone. But because it doesn't contain enough of those food materials which make muscle and bone, that is, protein and lime, bred sows fed corn alone often farrow small, weak, spindly pigs.

In experiment it has been found that sows are unable to produce strong pigs when fed on corn alone during gestation. Two groups of sows, beginning at time of breeding, were used in an Iowa experiment. One lot was fed corn alone; the other corn and tankage. The sows getting the tankage supplement farrowed almost an average of one pig per litter more; their pigs averaged 2.4 pounds each at birth compared to 1.8 pounds each for the sows fed corn alone, and their pigs were much stronger and more vigorous at birth.

Keep Her Weight Up

So balanced rations for the 110,000 Alabama sows that are bred to farrow from February to April are highly important. Another angle often overlooked is the fact that the average sow loses about 45 pounds in weight at farrowing time. She loses, on the average another 45 pounds during the 8-weeks nursing period. A sow should be about the same weight when pigs are weaned as she was when bred.

The amount of feed given sows must be regulated by their weight and condition. Usually about one and one-half pounds of corn and one-half pound of tankage for each one hundred pounds of body weight is about right.

Provide Grazing, Too

As much as a corn and tankage supplement ration improves on a corn alone diet, green grazing will give a still better balance. The pig producer in this section of the country can provide green grazing for his sows during the gestation period and has a distinct advantage over farmers in the so-called hog belt.

If green grazing is not available, the next best thing is to feed the brood sows a small quantity of alfalfa hay daily. They won't eat much. But the small amount—usually an average of about one pound daily—will provide vitamins and minerals that will pay off in bigger and stronger pigs at farrowing time. If good quality alfalfa hay is not available, good soybean hay should be fed in an open rack.

Worth Of Winter Legumes

A two-year rotation of cotton and corn with vetch planted in the middles is paying off at the Sand Mountain Experiment Sub-station. This rotation, over an 18-year period, increased the yield of seed cotton 249 pounds per acre. It increased the yield of corn 11.4 bushels per acre.

A.C.I.A. Serves Alabama Farmers

THE Alabama Crop Improvement Association (A.C.I.A.) is making worthwhile contributions to agriculture in the state. This year farmers of Alabama harvested certified seed from more than 11,000 acres.

These facts were brought out by William Howard Smith, president of the A.C.I.A., at a directors' meeting held recently in Auburn. Mr. Smith stated that these are seed farmers can depend on—seed grown, harvested and tested according to government and A.C.I.A. regulations.

Cotton leads the field among certified seed crops with 9,410 acres. Other crops falling in line under the program are oats, corn, peanuts, grain sorghum, crimson clover, soybeans, wheat, table cowpeas and pumpkins.

Ralph Jones, A.P.I. extension seed crops marketing specialist, who assists the association with technical problems, was present at this annual planning session. Jones told the farmers that Alabama is using mostly certified seed at the present time.

"The use of good seed," he said, "is increasing crop yields by 10 to 20 per cent and higher farmer income is the final result."

The directors discussed technical problems of seed crop certification, planned the publication of a handbook and made plans for the association's annual meeting. This meeting will be held in Auburn January 11 and will likely be attended by some 200 members.

The Alabama Crop Improvement Association is a non-profit and self-supporting organization. Its objective is to promote the production of superior planting seed from varieties and strains bred and tested by the A.P.I. agricultural experiment station for the benefit of all farmers in the state, says Jones.

Pack summer clothes away carefully this fall so that they will be in good condition for wear next spring.

Apply Now!

APPLICATION for 1949 membership in the Alabama Crop Improvement Association should be mailed in as early in January as possible, cautions Ralph R. Jones, A.P.I. extension marketing specialist, Auburn.

Jones says this is important to those wishing to certify small grain and other crops that will be harvested this spring.

Suckling Pigs Make Cheap Gains

THE cheapest gains in weight occur during the first eight weeks while pigs are suckling the sow.

G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. extension hog specialist, points out that the average brood sow produces more milk per pound of body weight than does the average dairy cow. In addition, he says the sow's milk is 44 per cent richer than cow's milk.

The amount of milk that a sow gives is influenced largely by her care and feeding. This is why Phillips urges that a balanced ration—and plenty of it—be given brood sows.

A balanced ration includes corn, green grazing, and a tankage mixture. "Keep these feeds before the sow until the pigs are weaned," says Phillips, "and remember that mineral mixture and dry salt, fed free choice, are highly important."

Crimson Clover. One of the chief advantages of crimson clover over other winter legumes is its dependability in seed production and its comparative ease in saving a home supply of planting seed.

Failure to protect soil against erosion is failure to protect one's standard of living.

Mrs. J. W. Barnes of Chapel Community in Shelby County, with the assistance of her two-year-old twins, displays here some of the prizes and ribbons she has won with her canning exhibits this fall. This enterprising home demonstration club member, who has a family of 12 to feed this winter, has canned 1265 quarts of fruits and vegetables. The family keeps meat in their cold storage locker in town.

Insect Control Meeting Held At Auburn

INSECTICIDE mixers and A.P.I. agricultural leaders came together recently to discuss plans for improving formulas of garden dusts and orchard sprays.

Horticulturists, entomologists, pathologists and businessmen met at Auburn, reviewed the program as set up at a meeting last year, and outlined plans for improving its service.

In January, 1948, a meeting was held to work out simple formulas for use in home gardens and orchards. This was a joint effort by the Agricultural Experiment Station and A.P.I. Extension Service working with Alabama mixers of insecticides. Then it was agreed that another meeting would be held in the fall to review the progress that had been made and to consider changes that might be needed in the formulas.

No Great Change in '49

After full and free discussion at the November meeting, the group agreed that there was no new information to justify basic changes in either of the three formulas approved earlier. The killing agents for both insects and diseases will remain the same. Some minor changes in inert materials were approved, however.

The purpose behind this program is to give the small gardener a dust mixture that will as nearly as possible give complete protection against all kinds of insects and all kinds of diseases. The same service is planned for the fruit growers with two mixtures.

Designed For Small Operators

Those present at the meetings agreed that the commercial grower with a large acreage in one crop can do better by changing his formula. He can fit his treatment to the particular crop, insect, or disease. But the family with a small garden and many kinds of vegetables, or just a few fruit trees, finds it too much trouble to make so many changes.

All manufacturers cooperating in this program are authorized to use the Alabama Polytechnic Institute approval. Each manufacturer, however, must have his own brand or trade name for his product. The Auburn approval on the package is what the user wants to look for.

Thousands Of Pounds Sold Last Year

Sales of more than 100 thousand pounds of the general purpose garden dust and more than 25 thousand pounds of the fruit spray mixtures have been reported for 1948. It is believed that sales by companies not yet reported, will run the total to around 200 thousand pounds for the year. The manager of one mixer predicted that sales for 1949 will reach or exceed 500 thousand pounds.

Shown here are insecticide mixers and A.P.I. agriculturists as they met recently in Auburn to work out formulas for poisons.

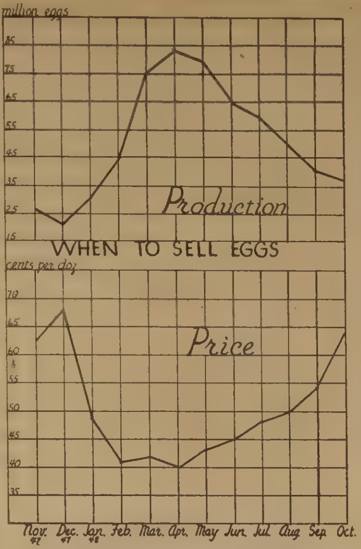
If the winter garden stays too wet to work over a long period of time, weeds may starve out vegetables. Why not use a mulch?



EGG PRODUCTION AND EGG PRICES form a balance the year-round. The above graph, prepared by John Weeks, A.P.I. extension poultry marketing specialist, demonstrates when production drops off prices climb higher. The drawing was made from figures for 1948.

"The wide-awake farmer," says Weeks, "will study this chart, which is a typical example of what happens each year, and will bring his pullets into production when the price is up."

Farmers Feeding Corn To Worms?

WORMS may be costing farmers more losses than cholera in Alabama without their realizing it. Cholera makes itself known while worms creep through the herd and weaken animals to the point of sickness. Death may then result from any number of causes.

G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. extension hog specialist, makes this statement and cautions farmers about management practices. Sanitation in penning and feeding makes all the difference with hogs, he says. Hogs on green grazing are seldom lost as a result of round worms.

"With each female worm laying 100 thousand eggs in a season, and with worms eating one out of each three ears of corn in herds where they exist," Phillips adds, "farmers must be on the alert at all times and treat their animals when earliest symptoms appear."

The hog specialist recommends the use of sodium fluoride in treating hogs for worms. He says this material has been found to be 95 per cent effective which is greater than the effectiveness of phenothiazine or oil of chenopodium. Hundreds of pigs have been treated with sodium fluoride in Alabama without loss and with excellent results, he adds.

Treating swine consists of mixing one part of sodium fluoride with 100 parts of dry ground feed and keeping the mixture before pigs for one day. No fasting, no purgative, and no dosing by hand is required.

Soils don't wear out like a pair of shoes. They can be used and made better at the same time. They can become poor through use and can be rebuilt.

RESEARCH RESULTS IN BRIEF

from

A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

EVEN DISTRIBUTION OF NITROGEN used in the top dressing of oats is essentia for uniform production and greater yields Nitrate of soda applied February 15 to March 15 at the rate of 250 to 300 pounds per acre or this equivalent, produces the most economical yield of oats.

A DELAY of two to four weeks in to dressing oats with nitrate usually reduces th full benefit from the nitrogen as much as 2 per cent.

APPROVED VARIETIES OF COTTO produce good staple and better yields. Va rieties adapted to land infested with wilt ar Coker 100 Wilt, White Gold (wilt), an Stonewilt. Coker 100 Wilt and Stonewilt ar also leading producers among varieties adapt ed to non-wilt areas. These include Stone ville 2B, Deltapine 15, White Gold, Mille 610, Empire, and Smith 78.

YIELDS OF SWEETPOTATOES from lan capable of producing as much as 400 bushe per acre are greatly influenced by the tim of planting. Sweetpotatoes planted April 1 and dug October 21 produced 265 bushels No. 1's or 89 more bushels than when plante a month later and dug at the same time.

CONTROL OF LEAF SPOT on runner pe nuts becomes very important when they a harvested late in the season. On soils whe the normal production is about a ton per acr yields have been increased as much as 1,2 pounds from four applications of copper su fur dust. Kill Cattle Grubs Now

CATTLE grubs can be killed only as th cut holes through the skin along the bac of cattle. Animals treated before the gru appear will be spared misery and will p off in dollars to their owners.

Grubs show up in December, January, a February. Since all of them do not appe at the same time, W. A. Ruffin, A.P.I. exte sion entomologist, recommends that cattle treated two or three times during the w ter. Treatments should be made thirty da apart, he adds.

The only material that will kill grubs rotenone. It can be applied as a spray or a dust. For the spray mixture, use seven a one-half pounds of a material that contai five per cent rotenone in 100 gallons of w ter. Apply at 400 pounds pressure.

A dust that contains one to two per ce rotenone can be used on dairy cattle, 4 Club calves, and other animals that are ea to handle. Just apply two to four heapi tablespoonfuls of the dust along the back the animal and rub it into the hair, says R fin.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO MEET JANUARY 18

The Clanton Chamber of Commerce will have their annual meeting January 18th, at seven o'clock, in the City Hall. New directors will be voted on at this meeting. The record of the past year's business and a financial statement will be presented.

The Chamber of Commerce is becoming better known, and better acquainted with means and ways of introducing new industry for our city, but manfacturers do not move or establish branch factories in thirty or sixty days. Sometimes industries postpone their decisions until the following year. The Clanton Chamber of Commerce have had several opportunities to cause factories or various kinds of businesses to locate in Clanton, but numbers of things have kept them from locating here. However, committees have worked and co-operated with the State Chamber of Commerce during the past year, and the indications are that some time in the near future they will be successful in causing some industry to locate in Clanton that will be beneficial to the community.

All members and those who are interested in the future growth of Clanton are urged to attend this meeting.

BUSINESS WOMAN'S CIRCLE MEETS

The B. W. C. from the First Baptist Church met at the church Tuesday evening, January 4th. Mrs. Ruth Waters gave an interesting outline of "Christ, the Answer for the Individual," taken from Royal Service. Other members present were Mae V. Foshee, Euna Powell, Nan Taylor, Leila Bell Moore and Roubie H. Powers.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Dewey Rockett February first, Nan Taylor hostess. All B. W. C. members and prospective members are urged to be present.

DONALD COMER ADDRESSES THE STUDY CLUB

Donald Comer, one of Alabama's leading industrialists, was guest speaker at the January meeting of the Study Club held in the Willingham Hotel with Mrs. M. C. (Jack) Hayes as hostess. A number of guests were present to hear Mr. Comer's discussion on "The Industrialization of the South."

On every opportunity presented, Mr. Comer said, he pleads with Southerners to have more faith in the South; to look at home for leadership and for capital when undertaking new business enterprises.

Fully convinced that the development of the industrial South is closely linked with the development of the agricultural South, Mr. Comer pointed out the need for improvement and expansion of farming resources in the South if the South is to take her rightful place in the industrial world. As an illustration, Mr. Comer said the improvement in the quality of cotton grown in Alabama is directly responsible for the improvement in the quality of the materials produced in the textile mills of Alabama.

Chilton County, Mr. Comer observed, already carries out in a fine way this balance of industrial and agricultural progress. He said, with the abundant natural resources and the fine citizenry of the County the possibilities for further development of Chilton County are unlimited.

High flying has caused more than airplane accidents.

We always wondered why they called it "common" sense. To find anyone who has it, is very uncommon.

Now is the time of year to start complaining about the taxes we have to pay and the ones we should have paid before the first of January.

The successful merchant passes through three stages: 1. Advertising; 2. Selling; and 3. Retiring.

We suppose the "old days" were wonderful but we find very few who wish they were back.

The next time you hear someone complaining about their children, remember the child learns what it knows from we adults—and usually acts accordingly.

Advertising in our paper we believe is a sound business investment. Give us a chance and watch us pay you dividends.

Let Us Hope

When the State Legislature meets in the Spring let us hope that a lesson has been learned and that all concerned will cooperate to give the citizens of Alabama a break and accomplish something. It might be a lot of fun for our legislators to get down there and spend their time "fussing" with the Governor and each other, but it doesn't accomplish one bit of progressive legislation for the little fellows back home who are footing the bills.

Unfair, We Think

The United States government asks for, and gets, more free space in the weekly newspapers of the country than any other one organization. Why does our government then cut into the small revenue of the weekly printer by continuing to print envelopes for practically nothing. A few weeks ago we learned that more than fifteen hundred dollars worth of printed envelopes had been ordered for Clanton business houses within a few short weeks. The printing cost through our post offices is far less than we pay for the blank stock. The local printer cannot anywhere near meet this unfair competition, and when, and if, the Congress wants to do something for the small town newspaper they might consider going out of the printing business as a starter.

Force, Not Ism, The Evil

There are people who believe that a Socialist is an ally of the devil and that the doctrine of Socialism is too pernicious to be considered by intelligent people.

This, at least, was the opinion before the Communists reached the stage where they denounced the Socialists, as in Hungary, as "the last enemy of democracy." In fact, the Communists in Hungary declared that Socialism "must be annihilated."

We think it is necessary, in connection with the various isms, to always keep in mind the right of people to believe what they wish. The danger in Communism, as it bestrides Eastern Europe today, arises from the Communist use of force to gain objectives.

While we do not believe that Communism can best Capitalism in a free competition throughout the world, we would not think that the freedom of civilized individuals faces a real menace if it were not for the tactics of the Communists to use force to overcome political opponents.

This willingness on the part of the Communists to use force, backed by the power of Russia concentrated in the hands of a few men, spells danger to democratic institutions everywhere. Obviously, the individual in any country in which the Communists operate cannot expect to retain his privileges unless he is ready to use force to meet the force of those who would coerce and enslave him.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

What do you think of a fellow who would wake even a snake up on one of these cold mornings? Ollie Blalock did. About five or six weeks ago, Ollie went down to the river to get him some fat pine kindling. He kicked a stump lose and reached down to pick it up when a little ground rattler gave him the works. That made Ollie mighty sore. In fact he was so sore until he isn't over it yet. He was in bed for two weeks after his run-in with Mr. Snake, and had a pretty bad time. But now the story is different. The snake rests in a jar down at the barber shop where Ollie works, pickled to the gills. Ollie went back to the river last week and figured the snake would still be there asleep and sure enough he was. That is the reason he now rests in the bottle. Which story proves the old saying that he who strikes and runs away will live to strike another day—the snake forgot to run or hadn't ever read the old saying.

Speaking of pickles and bottles reminds us of a little something we saw up at the store the other afternoon. Mrs. Mildred Easterling Bridges brought her jug to get it refilled. And no fooling, the contents of the jug would really pickle. Hoover Moatts slipped the jug off the counter all the while glancing sideways to see if he was being watched. Well, all the time we had our eagle eye on him hoping to see the worst, which we did—it was dill pickle juice that was in the jug and Mildred was after another load of dill pickles for the Dixie.

Anything can happen now in the automobile market. The other morning we saw Rip Burnett (Ford), Jimmie McDow (Willys), Dent Williams (Pontiac), and Euell Woodyard (Kaiser-Frazer), all, sitting down at the cafe drinking coffee together. You know? There's a lot of good fellowship in a hot cup of coffee on a cold morning. It might be a good idea if we told Stalin, Churchill, Truman, and some others about that.

When on earth have you ever seen more beautiful weather than we had last Friday, Saturday and Sunday? Truly, it was June in January. The fellows down at the Country Club Golf links were in their seventh heaven. Of course we have a lot of bad weather coming up yet, but on the strength of these pretty days, we hear several around town already making plans for their spring and summer vacations.

Haack wants about thirty inches on the front page for the second week in February. In case you are wondering Mr. A. J. Haack is manager down at the Woodyard Motor Co. He wants the space to announce the arrival of a long-legged bird. We're going to save him the space and to be sure we are on time we are congratulating him now. And the young one too. Think, what an honor it will be, to be able to say the rest of your life that you are a native of Chilton County—the best county in the world.

Just to show you how little we get around, we are just now getting around to see A. B. (Buster) Foshee's beautifully furnished offices. He's done quite a job, and we do mean for the better. The new furnishings do credit to Buster's office as County Solicitor.

Saw Hoyt Reynolds spading dirt at the site of his next building in South Clanton Saturday. We hear that he and his dad, Mr. Will Reynolds, are getting ready to build another building south of the cafe there, but we are sure that at the rate Hoyt was shovelling it would be well into 1960 before the ground would be in condition to build on.

The Southern Steak House has moved to one of Mr. Reynolds' new buildings just south of Central Alabama Motor Co. It is operated by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Blankenship. They were located in South Clanton at the City Limits. Mr. Blankenship states that only orders and sandwiches will be served at present. Along with the usual cold drinks, cigarettes, etc., etc.

Mental Fatigue

A person can be in perfect physical health, can live a healthy life, and still be tired all the time. He is suffering from mental fatigue. A person who is bored and has no energy but who is physically well is a victim of mental fatigue.

Men of science sometimes do not agree on the nature, causes, or even the existence of mental fatigue. However, the importance of fatigue caused by non-physical things cannot be denied. The important thing is the presence of the tired condition and not what you call it. The causes and reasons for mental fatigue are not as important as understanding the condition itself.

Mental tiredness can be caused by worry as much as it can be caused by studying for a long time. Even thinking of something that was once very tiring can cause fatigue. Excitement, love, fear, hate or any other strong emotional experience can surely cause fatigue. However, the greatest danger lies not in the fatigue but in the fear of the fatigued condition.

If one realizes that fatigue is normal, he is in a much better position to meet the situation. If you are worrying about being tired, losing sleep over it, missing meals, you are putting yourself in a position to cause greater harm.

To fight mental ill there must be determined personal action. Your doctor knows that fighting mental fatigue is a personal matter, and he will help you in this fight. But the force behind it must come from you.

The Acts

The Book of Acts of the Apostles forms the fifth and last of the historical books of the New Testament. It has been referred to by many names, such as "The Acts of the Holy Apostles," "The Gospel of the Holy Spirit," "The Book of the Demonstration of the Resurrection," "The Fifth Gospel,". . .and truly it is a Gospel Book, for it contains the glad tidings of peace and salvation to the whole Gentile world. Its theme is the proclamation of the story of redemption of mankind. And truly it is a book of the acts of the Holy Spirit, for herein we find the demonstration of the power of the Holy Spirit, and the miracles wrought by Him through the apostles.

A. T. HICKMAN

The human author of this glorious book is the "Beloved Physician," St. Luke, the writer of the third Gospel, one of the traveling companions of the Apostle Paul. In verses 1-9 we have a prologue containing the repetition of Christ's history and early ministry, and passion till his ascension. Here we find that Christ gave commandments to His apostles through the Holy Spirit after he was taken up, and He showed Himself alive after His passion by many infallible proofs. . .This gives us proof of the resurrection of Jesus from the dead. He was seen of His disciples for forty days after His resurrection, during this time He spake to them things pertaining to the Kingdom of God.

A king is always interested in talking of things pertaining to his kingdom. And all the way down in the ministry of Jesus we find Him talking of things pertaining to His kingdom. At one time He said, "Except a man be born of the Spirit he cannot enter the Kingdom of God." . . .And again He said, Repent, for the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand." . . .and again He said, "This Gospel of the Kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness to all nations, and then shall the end come." And then He taught us to pray for the Coming of the Kingdom of God, saying, "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done."

Most all the parables spoken by Jesus were things pertaining to the Kingdom of Heaven. Saying, "The Kingdom of Heaven is liken unto a mustard seed; and liken unto wheat and tares; liken unto a drag net; liken unto a pearl of great price; liken unto a man travelling into a far country; liken unto Ten Virgins going to meet the bridegroom, and many more sayings of Jesus pertaining to His Kingdom.

Now, we are interested in the Coming of this King, and verse eleven gives us the promise of His Coming. For while Jesus spake these words to His apostles He was taken up from them into Heaven, and a cloud received Him out of their sight, but behold, two men clothed in white appeared to them, and said, "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into Heaven? This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into Heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen Him go into Heaven."

May God help His church to, be ready for the Coming of this King, and the Coming of His Kingdom which we have so long prayed for.

1,221 VIOLATORS OF STATE'S GAME LAWS ARRESTED

Montgomery, Ala. — Enforcement agents of Alabama's Division of Game, Fish and Seafoods, apprehended 1,221 violators of the state's conservation laws during October and November, Conservation Director Bert E. Thomas has announced.

This figure is a record high for a two-month period and tops the number of arrests made last October and November by 297.

Fifty-eight of these arrests were made by seafood inspectors and of these 16 resulted directly from observations made by the division's amphibious airplane piloted by George Fehler.

Conservation Department officials attribute the record number of arrests made in October and November to two causes: (1) More hunters than ever before are in the field after all forms of game, and (2) the state now has a larger and more efficient force of game wardens and seafood inspectors than ever before.

Alabama's present field force of game, fish and seafoods agents is the largest in its history. Under the direction of eight district supervisors are 83 district wardens. In addition there are nine seafoods inspectors, including a plane pilot, in the field under a chief oyster inspector and a chief enforcement officer.

The Measure of Service is Trouble

When everything goes smoothly, no one takes much notice. Let trouble come and the manner in which troubles are met is the measure of a man.

That is also true of an organization engaged in supplying electric service and to which trouble comes when least expected. Most common causes of interruptions to electric service are storms, occasional, though rare, breakdowns, and highway accidents. Often these troubles occur at night. Whenever they occur, day or night, the men charged with the responsibility of "getting the current on" respond willingly and take pride in the promptness with which the trouble is cleared. Sometimes you don't even know that there has been trouble. The efforts of many other men and women with varied duties go into making your electric service good.

Whatever their duties, all strive to merit the words "well done", spoken by the most important persons to our organization—YOU—our customers.

We are proud of this spirit of service, so to our employees who served you well during 1948 we are saying publicly—

WELL DONE!

CHICKS ORDERED NOW WILL MEAN MORE CASH

Poultrymen find that the price paid for eggs is higher the last six months than the first six months of the year.

For this reason, John Weeks, API Extension Service specialist in poultry marketing, urges farmers to purchase chicks now.

Since fewer eggs go to market the last six months of the year, those who start chicks this month will have eggs to market at that time.

Pullets started in April and May do not come into production until late fall or winter. Such birds do not hit peak production until the following spring when the price paid for eggs is low.

1948 BEST CROP YEAR IN STATE'S HISTORY

Montgomery, Ala.—Last year proved to be the greatest crop year of alltime for Alabama farmers when the total agricultural production in the state climbed to a record value of $400,000,000—a $40,000,000 increase over the preceding year.

According to the Alabama Co-op Crop Reporting Service's annual crop summary, the sharp increase in the state's major crops was due in the main to a large upsurge in cotton and peanut production.

Although cotton prices averaged slightly lower last year than in 1947, the 1948, rise in production more than offset the decrease in price so that the over-all cotton crop value was 12 per cent higher than the preceding year. The combined value of cotton and cottonseed at $214,416,000 represents 54 per cent of the total value of all crops.

Peanuts in the state made gains last year in both production and price resulting in an increase in value of 28 per cent.

That the 1948 season was the most favorable crop year ever recorded is evidenced further by the fact that new record-high yields per acre were established for corn, cotton, oats, and many minor crops. A record-high was also realized in pecans when 17,000,000 pounds were harvested.

STATE LEGISLATORS DRAFT NEW BALLOT PROPOSAL

Montgomery, Ala. — State Senator A. L. Patterson of Russell County has disclosed that he and several other state lawmakers are in the process of drafting a new ballot law which will be proposed to the '49 legislature convening here in May.

The new law will make it mandatory that the names of the Democratic candidates for president and vice-president be printed on the ballot at the head of the column containing the names of the electors.

Sen. Patterson said that, should the new ballot proposal be voted in, such a mix-up as occurred last November would be averted in the future. Under the new voting plan, the electors would have to cast their ballots for the candidates under whose names they were running.

In the November election, since Truman and Barkley's name did not appear on the ballot, the electors were within their rights in casting their electoral votes for the Thurmond-Wright ticket.

DIXIE FORESTRY GROUP TO MEET FEBRUARY 18-19

Montgomery, Ala. — Montgomery will be host to one of Dixie's largest conservation meetings February 18-19 when timberland owners and representatives of forest products industries convene here for the 1949 Southern Forestry Conference. Sponsored by the Forest Farmers Association Cooperative, with headquarters in Valdosta, Ga., the organization is designed "to champion and protect the interests of all private timberland owners in order that forestry may be a profitable private business and forest crops have their proper place in Southern economy."

Three Alabamians hold posts in the southwide organization. Charles Dixon of Andalusia, is a regional vice-president. The directorate includes Ben May, Mobile, one of the state's largest landowners, and Sam Murphy, Jasper, former Conservation Department district forester now engaged in private business.

SECOND SEMESTER AT HUNTINGDON COLLEGE WILL BEGIN JANUARY 31,

Montgomery, Ala. — The second semester at Huntingdon College will begin Monday, January 31, Dean Paul T. Stone announced today. Applications for new students, he said, may be received at the college not later than January 21. Rgistration for the second semester will be completed Friday, January 28.

Incoming freshmen will be admitted at the beginning of the second term, according to Dean Stone. Application should be made as soon as possible on the form printed in the Huntingdon catalogue or obtainable from the dean's office. Requests for dormitory reservations should be made to the office of President Hubert Searcy. Students transferring from other colleges should submit transcripts of college credits earned to date to the office of Dean Stone by January 21.

Three women students and nine men students are candidates for degrees at the close of the first semester January 28. Mid-term examinations will begin January 20 and continue through January 27.

SAFE TO TREAT HOTBED AND COLDFRAME LUMBER

A preservative used to lengthen the life of wood has been found safe for coldframe and hotbed lumber.

Lyle Brown, API Extension Service horticulturist, Auburn, reveals that after wood is soaked in pentachlorophenol and permitted to dry, no fumes harmful to plants will escape.

Experiments show that leaves directly touching the wood might be burned, but there is no danger of this damage extending to other parts of the plant.

Since pentachlorophenol offers a cheap and easy way to add years to the life of coldframes and hotbeds, Brown believes that many farmers will want to try it.

Cook sausage and bacon slowly to prevent them from becoming dry, scorched, or hard. This also keeps fat from becoming less digestible and changing the flavor.

EACH RAT YOU BOARD COSTS YOU $5.00 PER YEAR

The board bill for one rat runs $5 or more a year. This means that the annual rat damage in Alabama amounts to at least $10.000.000.

W. A. Ruffin, API Extension Service entomologist, points out that rats are carriers of Brill's fever. This disease is transmitted from a diseased rat to people by fleas. Last year there were hundreds of cases of Brill's fever reported in Alabama.

To control rats, Ruffin recommends community or city-wide rat control campaigns. The safest way to kill large numbers of rats is to use a bait that contains Red Squill, a poison will kill rats, yet it is relatively harmless to other animals.

Use ground beef or fish for bait. Mix one pound of powdered Red Squill with nine parts of bait. Mold bait into pieces the size of a large pecan and place near rat holes, along walls of buildings, or where rats have been seen.

ALABAMA POULTRYMEN CAN SUPPLY DEMAND

Auburn, Ala. — "Poultrymen must and can meet the demand for poultry products in 1949 by using good management practices," declares John Ivey, API Extension Service poultryman.

To obtain more efficient egg production, he recommends that all non-producing birds be removed from the flock at this time. When inefficient feed-wasting birds are culled, good layers produce more eggs.

CONTROL CATTLE GRUBS

January is the time to kill cattle grubs in Alabama. They may be killed as late as February in the upper two-thirds of the State. A spray mixture to control grubs is made by mixing seven and one-half pounds of a material that contains five per cent rotenone into 100 gallons of water. Another mixture that will give good control is a dust that contains about two per cent rotenone.

Thorsby News

(By MISS C. N. TURNQUIST — Correspondent)

Thorsby Institute News—

Thorsby Institute reopened Wednesday, January 5, 1949.

The annual debate between the Philomathic and Pushmataha clubs will be on Friday afternoon, the 7th period.

The Junior music recital will be on January 18th, at 2:45 p.m., in the studio cottage and the Senior recital will be on January 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the Institute auditorium. Everyone is invited.

Semester examinations will be on Thursday and Friday, January 27-28.

We proudly announce that Thorsby Institute has today received its accredited certification from the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. The school was the first one in the County to become a member of this association, and has been a member for many years.

Mrs. L. E. Patrick and infant son, Gary Edwin, of Birmingham, Ala., arrived Thursday and will remain at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Raybon, for perhaps a week or two. Mr. Patrick and his mother Mrs. G. W. Patrick, came with them and returned to Birmingham the evening of the same day.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gandy of Calera, Ala., visited with the N. C. Petersons last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Archie Ogburn are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a son born to them on last Tuesday, January 4th, at the Central Alabama Hospital. The little fellow weighed seven pounds, four ounces. His name is William Robert. Mother and son are doing nicely and were removed to their home here on last Sunday.

The Bank of Thorsby was one busy place last week. Most any time of the day that you went there, you most had to get in line and wait your turn to be waited on. Besides being swamped with customers, the place was teeming with friends of its popular cashier, wanting to congratulate him on his new son "and get a cigar." We wonder just how many cigars were handed out in the course of a day or two. Mr. Ogburn was very happy to have his friends drop in to see him.

A group of young people enjoyed a rook party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. V. Ray, Jr., on Saturday night. Those invited to enjoy the evening were Mr. and Mrs. John Floyd Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Porter, Mr. Fred Honeycutt and Miss Joan Christiansen.

Mrs. Douglas Kelling and young son left Saturday for their home in Waverly, Mo., after visiting here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Porter, and other relatives.

The Tuesday afternoon sewing club enjoyed a spend the day party at the home of Mrs. Roy Kendrick on last Tuesday. This was a sort of special occasion, it being Mrs. Kendrick's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross, Jr., and son of Ft. Run, Ky., are visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lowery, for an indefinite stay.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Lowery and children, Gaylon and Jimmy, of Columbus, Miss., spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lowery, and other relatives.

Miss Marjorie Bentley enjoyed the company of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Johnson of Birmingham last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bentley had as their Sunday night supper guests, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Nix, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Nix and Mrs. Robert Gresham and son, all of Maplesville.

Mrs. Effie Robinson returned last week from Birmingham, where she has been staying with her son, Sterling Robinson.

The many friends of Mrs. Delbert Collins regret to learn that she is on the sick list, and hope that she will soon recover.

Miss Marjorie Bentley, who has been a popular teacher at Thorsby Institute, has resigned from that position and has accepted a position with the John M. Higgins Lumber Co. as stenographer for that firm. We feel sure that her loss will be keenly felt at the Institute, and we wish for her much success in her new venture.

Mrs. Cecil Baggett, Jr., has accepted the position of commercial teacher at Thorsby Institute, succeeding Miss Marjorie Bentley.

Mr. Earl (Hustler) Marcus is again on the sick list, and has been unable to be at his place of business at the recreation hall. We hope that he will soon be able to be back with the boys again, at his well established place of amusement.

Our Junior High School boys' basketball team won two games last week when they defeated Collins Chapel at that school by a score of 23 to 18 on Friday afternoon, and Thorsby Institute at Thorsby 32 to 30 on Friday night.

On Thursday night of last week, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bentley delightfully entertained at their home a number of friends complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Keith Litz before their departure for their home in Detroit. Those enjoying this lovely occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. John Floyd Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Cleckler, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Baggett, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Robinson and Miss Marjorie Bentley.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Collins of Birmingham were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Bice.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas Ware and Mrs. Ledbetter of Birmingham were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Walker and the R. R. Franklins.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kendrick entertained at a "shrimp supper" at their home on last Tuesday night. Invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Gene Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cleckler, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Robinson and Miss Mary Joyce Bean.

Funeral services for Robert F. Ward, who died in England on December 4th, 1944, were held at the Thorsby Baptist Church on last Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. Burial was in Pleasant Grove Cemetery. Services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Jones of Cooper, former pastor of the Thorsby Baptist Church. Pallbearers were: Robert Burnett, Frank Porter, H. L. Collins, J. P. Payne, Jr., Sam T. Bentley and Jeff D. Cleckler. Mr. Ward was buried with full military honors, the Thorsby American Legion in charge. He is survived by a brother, Billy Ward, of Thorsby, and a sister, Margaret Ward, of Birmingham.

Among out of town people attending the funeral services for Robert F. Ward on Sunday afternoon were: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wright, of Meridian, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas, of Sylacauga, Ala.; Miss Margaret Dishman, Miss Jean Maddox, of Birmingham; and Lt. Smith, of Atlanta.

Rev. and Mrs. J. O. Dailey, former pastor of the Baptist Church here, visited among friends on last Saturday. We regret to learn that Rev. Dailey has had to discontinue his work for the time being, due to bad health. They are at present living at Centreville, Ala.

The Family Cafe has recently undergone a "face lifting" in the way of a nice coat of fresh paint, and the place presents a nice clean appearance.

We are glad that the L. & N. Railroad Company saw fit to do something about the parking of old wrecked cars which did not present a very pleasing picture to people passing through our town, nor to townsfolk either. They have placed posts along the track, which for a time, caused quite a lot of unfavorable comment, since it first looked like the makings of a "bull pen," but since the posts have been trimmed down, somewhat, and after they have received a coat of paint, they will not mar the looks of the town by any matter of means.

We went in to inspect the Model Cleaners at their new stand the other day, and though they reported that they have not yet set the place in order as they want it, it really is an improvement over the old stand. We found the place in charge of Miss Mary Joyce Bean with Mrs. Hattie Powell assisting.

Mrs. Eugene Davenport invites her friends in to see her at the City Grocery & Market where she has been employed to succeed Miss Mary Joyce Bean.

Mrs. Albert Peterson is confined to her bed an account of a severe cold. We trust that she will soon recover.

The Ladies Guild will hold their next regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Chas. Howard on Thursday, the 27th of January. All members are urged to be present as well as friends wishing to attend.

The Congregational Ladies Aid meets Thursday afternoon (today) in the fellowship room of the church. All members and friends are urged to attend.

The regular meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association will meet on Friday afternoon, January 14th, at the Junior High School auditorium. Members, as well as friends, are asked to attend, and room mothers are especially urged to be present.

IN MEMORY

In precious memory of our beloved wife and mother who passed away one year ago, January 10, 1948:

Your place was such a special one,
'Twas planned alone for you.
We always found you there,
You shared our every little care,
With a patient smiling face,
And no one else in all the world,
Can ever take your place.
For all of us she did her best,
God grant her Eternal rest.

Sadly missed by her husband, W. J. Watson and Children.

FOR RESTFUL SLEEP USE GOOD MATTRESS

Deep, restful sleep depends upon the suitability and comfort of the mattress.

"Growing children should have firm mattresses," advises Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, "but adults have a choice of mattresses ranging from firm to soft."

There are two types of mattresses on the market. They are the innerspring and solid upholstered. Of the two, the innerspring is the most popular, and represents about 90 per cent of consumer demand.

Comfort of solid-filled mattresses depends chiefly upon the filling. Long-fibered cotton felted into layers is the best type of cotton filler. Cheaper fillings of short cotton fibers tend to mat down and develop lumps and depressions. Hair makes a good mattress for those who prefer firm beds. Horse tail and cattle tail are best, with horse mane second.

ASPARAGUS

Set crowns this month and harvest asparagus for 10 or 12 years. If properly planted, fertilized, and mulched or cultivated, the same crowns may produce asparagus for as long as 20 years.

BAKE BREAD QUICKLY TO [illegible]

Bread and rolls baked quickly until medium brown hold more thiamine (vitamin B1) than do bread and rolls baked slowly until dark brown.

According to Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist, tests show that rolls hold more of this vitamin during the baking process than bread does, probably because they can be baked in half the time. Bread baked 40 minutes at 400 degrees F. held the most thiamine while the loss was greater in breads baked more slowly.

REGIN AND TREAT COTTONSEED

Farmers who saved cottonseed for planting the 1949 crop should make plans now for getting their seed reginned and treated. Experimental results over a four-year period show that where seed were reginned and treated, the average yield per acre was one-fifth of a bale per acre more than where fuzzy, untreated seed were used.

HAY FOR HOGS

A little hay is good hog feed, especially when there is no green feed for brood sows in the winter.

REUBEN A. JACKSON IN GERMANY

Reuben A. Jackson, Aviation Machinist's Mate, third class, USN, son of Furmer W. Jackson, of Route 1, Maplesville, Ala., of the Naval Air Transport Squadrons flying with U. S. Air Force planes in the Berlin airlife, has received a "well done" from the Air Force Commander for his work.

Despite the worst flying weather in decades he has been carrying coal and food into beleaguered Berlin as the Naval Squadrons operate with the Air Force from the Rhein Main Air Force Base, near Frankfurt.

When frying oysters, turn with a spoon instead of a fork. By doing this, the skin is not pricked and no flavor will be lost.

For added flavor when baking apples, place a stick of peppermint candy inside an apple.

LAWMAKER WANTS TO OUTLAW FIREWORKS

Montgomery, Ala. — State Representative Lawrene Dumas, Jr., of Birmingham, last week lambasted the use of fireworks in the state and said he intended to find out what could be done toward outlawing them in Alabama.

Representative Dumas added that he would ask the legislative council when that body meets in January, to look into the fireworks situation in the state to determine the need for legislative measures next May against their use.

U. S. ARMY RECRUITING NEWS

More young men of Chilton County enlisted in the Regular Army. They are: Norman L. Vinson, of Maplesville, who has served an enlistment in the Regulars, has re-enlisted as a Corporal and will be stationed at Ft. McPherson, Ga.; James W. Glass, of Clanton; Jimmie L. Littleton, of Clanton; Clifton L. Lawrence, of Verbena; and James Maddox, of Lawley, have enlisted in the Regular Army for their first time and will be stationed at Ft. Jackson, S. C., for their basic training.

Two colored from Maplesville have enlisted in the Regular Army, A. C. Evans, who has served with the Army before, and Samuel Sullivan, who is trying the RA for his first time.

Sgt. Aussant, Commander of the Clanton U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, who is a member of the Field Artillery, would like to send this message to all young men of Chilton County between the ages of 17 and 34. The Field Artillery is one of the most fascinating and instructive branches of the Regular Army. It offers you almost any type of interesting work and training and experience in many modern technical subjects which will prepare you for a fine future, if you decide to leave the Regular Army upon completion of your enlistment.

Here is a service that relies on punch, stamina and ingenuity. Whether you are interested in the Rocket Battalions, the Sound and Flash Observation Battalions, Pack Howitzers, Self-propelled or Tractor-towed Units, Headquarters work, or any other phase of Field Artillery training, you will be given plenty of opportunity to learn any one of many trades which mean advancement in the Regular Army and a foundation for many civilian jobs.

For full information stop by the local U. S. Army and U. S .Air Force Recruiting Station, New Wade Building, Clanton, or phone Clanton 541. The recruiting sergeants will be glad to explain the details to you, by phone or personal call.

Camellia Men To Meet At Mobile

The Alabama Men's Camelia Society will meet in Mobile on Sunday, January 16. This newly formed organization of camellia enthusiasts was formed in Greenville in November.

The meeting in Mobile, which will be held at the Admiral Semmes Hotel at eleven o'clock, on the second day of the Mobile Men's Camellia Club's annual show, will assemble camellia growers from all sections of Alabama.

Men interested in joining the society may contact presidents of local camelllia clubs over the state, or Wm. B. McGehee, secretary of the Alabama Men's Camellia Society, Greenville.

Members of the board of directors may also be contacted for memberships. They are: Buck Taylor, Andalusia; Guy Sharpless, Atmore; Dr. T. V. Magruder, 2712 Hanover Circle, Birmingham; L. G. Brooks, Brewton; Mark S. Cannon, Dothan; J. T. Bradford, Fairhope; Hoyt Lee, Mobile; J. T. Alley, Montgomery; Douglas Bullard, Selma; Dr. A. A. Stabler, chairman, Greenville.

The objective of the organization is to encourage the development of the camellia in Alabama, and to make this the leading camellia state.

The Society plans to issue an annual publication on camellias, with articles by leading growers in Alabama and other states; to issue news letters and bulletins at regular intervals; and to sponsor an annual camellia show on a state-wide basis. Other plans, which will be developed by the society, include the annual selection of a camellia queen.

Doctor Stabler states that the goal for the first year is 500 members, with 50 life memberships. He points out that there are now eight active camellia societies in Alabama, and several others are being organized. The state society will assist in the formation of local clubs and will encourage the organization in every city where there are camellia growers.

Doctor Stabler says that it is apparent that the people of Alabama are becoming more and more interested in the growing of the camellia and it is rapidly becoming the outstanding single flower of Alabama. As it is a winter blooming plant, the camellia is a tourist attraction, and the widespread interest in the camellia in Alabama is having its effect on drawing tourists to this state. However, he points out, that that is incidental to the pleasure which is derived by the enthusiast, whether he has one plant or hundreds of plants.

FOLSOM SETS 1949 AS GOOD NEIGHBOR YEAR

Montgomery, Ala. — A proclamation by Gov. James E. Folsom last week called upon all Alabamians to observe 1949 as Good Neighbor Year in the state.

"The first day of the year," the governor said, "is a fitting time to rededicate our lives to the high American principles of freedom and justice of mankind.

"Each successive day of 1949 will be fraught with significance to the rank and file citizens of all nations, who have it within their power to shape the world's destiny," Gov. Folsom said, adding, "I further call upon my fellow citizens to set an example of Good Neighbor Day which will inspire them throughout Good Neighbor Year to work tirelessly in the discharge of our mutual responsibility, spreading among all the people the spirit of understanding which alone can guarantee peace on earth and goodwill among men."

THIN PECAN TREES

From now until spring is a good time to cut out those crowded pecan trees. Four or five good, well-spaced trees per acre will be much more profitable than twice that number crowding each other for food, water and light.

WHEN you see the 1949 Chevrolets, a glance will be enough to tell you they're new—all new—in line and contour, in beauty and style. And when you look inside, and under the hood, and beneath the chassis, you'll see that their newness is not merely in outward appearance, but in design and engineering and construction as well.

But, to a lot of people, the 1949 Chevrolet is already old. They know what it will do, and how exceedingly well it will do it—they know all about its performance, its comfort, its power, safety, durability and economy. They are the engineers and technicians of the General Motors Proving Ground—the largest, most completely equipped, outdoor testing laboratory in the automobile world.

Here, before a single new 1949 Chevrolet went into production, experimental models were tested—made to show that they possess, in greater measure than ever, all those qualities on which Chevrolet has built its leadership.

CHEVROLET STRIKES A NEW NOTE

In short, the General Motors Proving Ground tests are your assurance that your new-model Chevrolet has proved its worth through many months and many, many thousands of miles of rough handling.

Soon you will see the new Chevrolet—and when you do, you will see a car not only new, but tried and true.

Legislature To Be Offered $45 Monthly Old-Age Pension Bill

Montgomery, Ala. — When the legislature convenes here in May, State Senator C. J. Owens of Guntersville plans to introduce a $45 monthly pension to benefit Alabama's aged who are in need.

Saying that he expected his bill to be introduced in both houses of the legislature simultaneously, Senator Owens said that certain specific provisions of the bill had not been worked out, but that they would be by the time the lawmakers meet.

Senator Owens added, however, that to qualify for old-age assistance under the present requirements of his bill a person would have to be over 5 and able to meet federal government regulations as to need.

DOCTORS DON'T WANT COMPULSORY HEALTH INSURANCE

Montgomery, Ala. — A recent survey completed by the Medical Association of Alabama indicates that the vast majority of the state's doctors are against the establishment of an enforced health insurance program on national basis.

Out of the 1,306 physicians who answered the questionnaire sent out by the association, 1,254 held such a program in disfavor. However, many of those doctors listed as against did indicate that they favored some sort of project to improve the medical situation in Alabama.

One suggestion was that a means should be found to meet the rising cost of medical service which confronts the lay public today.

More specific recommendations were made by the association's committee on medical service and public relations. Some of which were:

1. Direct appropriations for building more rural hospitals and clinics.
2. Enlarge medical educational facilities so as to turn out more doctors, nurses, medical technicians, and dentists.
3. Establish voluntary health insurance to cover all classes of people.
4. Provide for the inspection, grading, and licensing of all hospitals and clinics so as to improve medical staffs and hospital clinical services.
5. Provide for care of aged and destitute people, possibly through the establishment of nursing homes.

Governor Folsom added that he will also propose that the legislature enact a measure setting $1,800 as a minimum school-teacher salary in the state.

Among other proposals that the governor will make to the lawmakers is his $45 per month old-age assistance program. This program, Folsom explained, would bring financial aid to all Alabamians over 65 who can meet federal requirements for old-age assistance.

If you come in either of the above brackets, you are also required to file a state return by March 15th.

BARBOUR AND 'BAMA

If there are more than three Alabama papers that have run the following story they have escaped notice of The Tribune. This "Mule and Fool" story is one of that never-dying class of compositions that, once started, run on forever. If you have seen it, you will read it again. If you have not seen it, you will probably read it three or four times. Here it is:

Over the hill trailed a man behind a mule drawing a Dixie plow. The clodhopper was "broadcasting:"

"Bill you are a mule, the son of a jackass, and I'm man made in the image of God. Yet, here we work hitched together year in and year out. I often wonder if you work for me or I for you. Sometimes I think this is a partnership between a mule and a fool. For surely I work harder than you do. Plowing here we cover the same distance, but you do it on four legs and I on two. So mathematically speaking, I do twice as much work per leg as you do.

"Soon we'll be preparing for a corn crop. When the crop is harvested, I give one-third to the landlord for being kind enough to let me use this corner of God's universe. The other third goes to you, and what is left is my share. But while you consume all your third with the exception of a few cobs, I divide my third among seven children, six hens, two ducks and a banker. Bill, you are getting the best of me; it ain't fair for a mule, the son of a jackass, to rob a man, the lord of creation, of his substance. And come to think about it, you only help to cultivate the ground. After that, I cut, shock and husk it, while you look over the pasture fence and "he-haw" at me.

"All fall and part of the winter, the whole family, from granny down to the baby, pick cotton to help raise money to buy you a new set of harness, and pay interest on the mortgage on you, and by the way, what do you care about that mortgage? It doesn't worry you any. Not a darn bit. You leave that to me, you ungrateful, ornery cuss.

"About the only time when I'm your better is on election day, for I can vote and you can't. But if I ever get any more out of politics than you do, I can't see where it is."—Yancey Builder.

THE PRO AND CON

Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, today charged that the National Health Insurance plan coming up for consideration in Congress is a clumsily-veiled attempt to put over socialized medicine.

In the first public debate on the subject, printed in the current issue of American Druggist magazine, Dr. Fishbein's statements are denied by Oscar Ewing, Federal Security Administrator, who insists that the program "is no more socialistic than fire insurance."

The two outstanding spokesmen for and against the administration's plan differ sharply in most of their answers to key questions put to them by an impartial news analyst on the probable effects of the program.

Dr. Fishbein states flatly that "compulsory sickness insurance would quite certainly lower the quality of medical care in the United States." Ewing, on the contrary, says medical care will be improved "because patients will be free to call on the doctor early in disease, when the doctor's work is most useful."

To the question: "Why does the Truman Administration want to change the present system of medical care?" Ewing answers, "Neither the Administration nor any of us want to change the present system. . .We want to change — for the better — the method of paying for medical care. . .because for over half of our population the cost of medical care is completely beyond the reach of their pocketbooks." But Dr. Fishbein charges that the Administration is using for political purposes the "unproved statement" that many people can't afford medical care.

Ewing states that some doctors oppose National Health Insurance because they "do not understand or do not want to understand" its proposals while Dr. Fishbein claims that "most doctors" oppose the plan, "because they are convinced it would be detrimental to the people's health."

Dr. Fishbein's other arguments against the program are based on predictions that: Red tape involved would cause a serious waste of physicians' time; that patient abuse of benefits for minor ailments, usually self-treated, would be inevitable; that patients could not always receive the usual personal service from their doctors; that physicians would be limited to a restricted list of prescriptions which the government would pay for under the proposed plan; and that voluntary health insurance should, in time, meet all the public's needs.

According to Ewing, the plan ultimately would meet dental charges, cost of eye glasses and hearing aid devices and of prescribed drugs. It would permit patients to select their own doctors and allow doctors to reject patients they didn't care to take. Costs would be met by payroll deductions, says Ewing, and would represent "practically no new burden on the contributors." He denies that excessive red tape would be involved and that voluntary insurance plans can do the complete job of protecting all Americans. The government spokesman explains that no doctor would be compelled to join the plan and that fees would be agreed upon among the doctors themselves and local Health Insurance Program representatives.

Folks and Things About Town

Marcus Flower Shop has changed hands. Well, they haven't changed hands either, any more than they've changed feet or anything else, it's really the management that's changed. Mr. Clyde Liveoak is the new owner and will be only too glad to accommodate you with anything in the flower line. Only a fellow who has been married as long as we have, knows that there are some things that you can't say with flowers.

The wife says Mary Lou Foshee made this crack and we think it's cute so we'll pass it along to you. While indulging in a coke at Upchurch's Drug Store the other afternoon seems Mrs. Foshee came in with a bandage on her forehead. When asked about the why's and wherefore's, she answered: "Well, Buster says it's his wife and his stovewood, and if he wants to hit me with it, that's his business." Of course Buster stands at his house about like we do at our house. If there were going to be any bumps worn, yours truly would be a wearing them.

Fellow travelling through Clanton the other day was sipping coffee at the City Grill along side of us. He said this was the coffee drinkingest town he had ever seen next to New Orleans. "Shorty" was telling us that she had made and sold ten gallons within the one hour and fifteen minutes previous to the time we were there. She also told us that the day before she had made fifty gallons besides what the other girls at the Grill had made—boy, that's a lot of coffee. Too, said "Shorty," "I have made a perculator of coffee and the girls sold it out faster than I could make it. When I got done I had to start all over and make another pot full." Did you know half the world's supply of coffee is consumed in the United States in spite of what some of us have to drink for breakfast?

Just thought of a good advertising line for an optometrist: "The Man To See When You Can't."

Understand "Pat" Hamilton is leaving this week to go to the furniture markets. Pat, who operates the E. L. Klinner Furniture Store, says he will have some good news for the buying public when he returns.

Rev. A. T. Hickman and Rev. R. W. Stuckey are certainly to be commended for their work in promoting good fellowship and unity between the churches of the county. Last Sunday night Temple Church loaned their church building to the pastor and congregation of Concord for the evening service, and according to reports a great service was enjoyed by both congregations. It is only proper that churches, whatever the denomination, should work together in this way. As we heard one gentleman remark: "If we can't get along on earth, what chance have we of getting along in Heaven?" Or, we might add, "Of getting to Heaven to get along."

A friend brought an egg to our desk this week. It was a hen egg all right, but what a hen egg! It measured eight inches around the long way and five inches around the middle. A Mr. Five by Eight, instead of a Mr. Five by Five. Well, come on and gather 'round, folks, and let's eat egg for a while. We got hen friends.

We have been trying to help Vatchel Lindsey get started in business. He, with the help of a half dozen good citizens, has arranged for a cart and hopes to start a small route in the residential section, selling a little fruit, chewing gum, candy, etc. Milton Barth Lumber Company gave him the wood for the cart, John Ponder Lawrence is painting it around at his paint store, two other fellows gave him the bicycle wheels but we didn't catch the names when he told us. Mr. Robinson at the machine shop put it all together for him. So you see Vatchel is about ready to go into business—after we arrange some way about the liceness. He won't make much money, but he will be kept busy and have a little something to do.

Day Of Pentecost

(Acts, 2nd Chapter)

The day of Pentecost being accomplished, the disciples of Jesus Christ were assembled together in Jerusalem. They were with one mind, and one accord. They were in absolute unity, no discord among them whatsoever. This is the secret of their blessing. God was so well pleased with their unity, their oneness, till He opened the heavens above and sent forth the Holy Spirit upon them. There are churches today who do not have the unity of the spirit. They are not in one mind and one accord; and the result is, they are not enjoying the manifestation of the Holy Spirit in their midst. Christian friends, let us endeavor to keep the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace. Together, we stand against the powers of evil, but divided and separated in spirit we are bound to suffer defeat.

A. T. HICKMAN

In the second chapter of the Acts, the Holy Spirit descended upon the waiting disciples like a rushing mighty wind, and in the likeness of fiery tongues sat upon each of them, and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit, and were enabled to speak different languages which they had never learned. This they did as the Holy Spirit gave them utterance. Verse 4.

Years ago while a student in Howard College, I was in the library one day doing some reading. I took down a "History of the Christian Church," by Schofi. I read an exposition of this happening on the day of Pentecost in Acts, second chapter. I will pass on what I read. Speaking of the disciples receiving the Holy Spirit, it said, "It was not confined to the Twelve. All were filled and spoke with tongues. The Spirit manifested Himself by the speaking with tongues toward God. It was rapturous prayers and anthem of praise. The supernatural experience of the disciples broke through the confines of ordinary speech and burst out in overpowering rapturous languages of praise and thanksgiving to God for the great work He did among them. It was the Holy Spirit who gave them utterance, and played on their tongues as on new tuned harps, unearthly melodies of praise. . .It was the same in the household of Cornileus (Acts 10) and to John's disciples at Ephesus in Acts 19. . .The speaking with tongues began before the spectators arrived."

The exposition is correct, and the same experience is for us today.

Your Skin In Winter

During the winter a person often finds that his skin gets dry and scaly and itches. This is called winter pruritus or winter itch.

This condition depends on and may be caused by several things. Some people have more sensitive skins than do others. During the winter the sweat and oil glands in the skin are not as active as they are during the summer months, and thus the skin does not get as much protection by the oil as it does at other times. Quick changes of temperature that are gotten from going from a heated house to the out of doors affect the skin. Also the heated air in houses often has less moisture in it than is normal, and this causes a drying effect.

Too frequent bathing and the use of too much soap may be a helping factor in winter itch. The water itself often takes much of the skin's oil away, and the soap removes even more. This drying effect may take some time to build up and may help to cause winter pruritus to appear late in the season.

If winter itch goes too far it can cause a rash and the breaking of the skin. When this occurs the cure is usually long and tiresome. Prevention is easy and this troublesome itching should be avoided.

If your skin be dry and scaly, a good skin oil or grease should be applied to the body before bathing. However if a rash has appeared and the skin is broken do not use the oil as it may inflame the irritated spots. If possible cut down on the number of baths and reduce the use of soap, especially strong soap. Wearing lightweight, long, cotton underwear will help some people. Also avoid sudden changes of temperature as much as possible and be sure the heated air in your house is moist.

If the itching does not get better in a short time, see your doctor. Some itching is caused by internal troubles and it may be a symptom of a disease that should be treated immediately.

WILLIAM P. RUSH IS WITH THE AIRWAYS AND COMMUNICATIONS SERVICE

Rhein Main, American Zone, Germany — Clanton residents can follow the progress of the USAF's Berlin airlift with renewed interest and pride. William P. Rush, son of Mrs. Della E. Rush, Route 4, Clanton, represents the people of this vicinity at the great Rhein Main airbase near Frankfurt, Germany.

He is Staff Sergeant with the Airways and Air Communications Service, the organziation providing the air communications, traffic control and radar landing aids for the plane-a-minute schedule into Berlin.

Major General William H. Tunner, in command of the combined U. S.-British air operations in the airlift, recently paid outstanding tribute to the men of AACS. He attributed a great measure of the success of the airlift in all kinds of weather to their untiring efforts and tecnnical skill.

Sergeant Rush, as an AACS administrative specialist, is one of the many men commanded by General Tunner and is helping to maintain the un-interrupted schedules of aircraft flying the Berlin air corridors.

40 PER CENT MORE POWER

To Keep Abreast and Ahead of Alabama's Growth!

Spring of this year will see the first generator at our new Gadsden Steam Plant in operation. It will be a 60,000 kilowatt machine. The second generator, also a 60,000 kilowatt unit, will be in operation in this plant a little later this year. The output of this additional 120,000 kilowatt capacity will feed into our general transmission system.

Later this year, an additional generator will go into operation at Mitchell Dam on the Coosa River. Foundation work is already completed. Work has been slowed a bit by high waters, but the generator is expected to be in operation on schedule.

At Chickasaw, near Mobile, work has begun on the canal to supply cooling water for an addition to our Chickasaw Steam Plant. When this addition is completed, the capacity of the plant will have been increased another 40,000 kilowatts.

We have on order for installation at Gorgas Steam Plants, near Jasper, a generating unit of 100,000 kilowatts—the largest in the South. When installed, Gorgas Steam Plants will be the largest steam generating center in the South.

These additions, totaling 282,000 kilowatts, will bring our total generating capacity to nearly a million kilowatts—a 40 per cent increase over present capacity to keep abreast and ahead of Alabama's growth.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

H. M. Kelley, South Clanton, states, "By taking out of production one and and one-half acres of land for a meadow strip, I have increased my yields by at least 25 per cent. My terraces are dividing the water in the center and carried to the meadow. This makes the terraces 60 per cent stronger than they formerly were. My meadow is sowed to sericea lespedeza and I figure when the mules and cows are on pasture, I am saving corn. It has reduced my feeding bill by another 25 per cent. To stop and figure the actual dollars saved by utilizing my meadow as pasture, the increase in yields of cash crops and a reduced feed bill would run into a lot of money." Mr. Kelley further states, "I am saving some labor by not having to plow up terraces three or four times per year."

"If every farmer would put in meadow outlets where they are needed and re-terrace, I am confident the yield of crops would be increased 25 per cent."

• • •

Do take advantage of this good weather to prepare your land for the spring planting of kudzu, sericea, and other conservation crops this spring.

* * * *

S. D. Posey, Jemison, Ala., Route 1, states, "I have come back to farm my land. I think so much of the meadows, terraces and lespedeza that I have planted, I am afraid to risk someone else with my land."

"Farmers all around me have looked at my meadow outlets and like them so well that they say they are going to plant them one."

* * *

Approximately one mile of terrace lines were run for L. T. Evans last week. L. T. stated, "I am going to just about finish my soil and water conservation plan this spring."

G. U. Mims is proud of his Kentucky 31 fescue meadow, and justly so. It is growing good and has begin to cover the ground. It will average four inches high.

BEEF CATTLE PRODUCTION

Keep suckling cows and dry cows in separate groups during the winter. When a cow drops a calf, move her to the suckling group and give her extra feed and attention.

THINGS WE SEE AND HEAR
CCHS —— By "Tuck" —— CCHS

Kenneth Hayes is really running Miss Barton ragged in that fourth period study hall. But I'm sure all Miss Barton has to do is tell him and he'll quit.

You know, writing a column has its advantages, but I'm telling you, if you want to make enemies all you have to do is start writing. Some people just can't take it.

By the way, I wonder who Louise Golden's new dream boy is? How about it, Louise?

It seems to me that there are some people who just can't be friends with anyone, and it also seems to me that these people know who they are and would try to correct it if they could.

Joe Douglas Grooms, it seems that Pat can't take a hint, doesn't it?

Has anyone read the article where the man is trying to drive fireworks out of Alabama? If he succeeds, I know a lot of people who won't vote in his favor next election.

There are some Jr. II's who want their name in the paper so bad they can taste it, but of course they won't admit it.

I see Fred Thompson is not living up to his New Year's resolutions so well. (What's wrong, Fred, did you make them a little hard to conquer?)

Mr. Hicks was telling the first and second period Phys. Ed. class the other day about some people doing almost anything to get attention. That must have been, oh so true! Because some boys really got the point.

By the way, my advice to those people who don't like what I put in the paper is just not to read it, because I'm surely not making them.

Jearlyne Studdard and Harold Parr seem to have a lot to talk about in lunch line now. It's getting to where I even have to let Harold up.

Carolyn Mims seems to be a favorite among the teachers when it comes to grading papers, doesn't it, students?

I hear Myron Levine has got it in for Harold Parr. Watch out, Myron, Harold's not one to play around with when's he's mad.

It seems that Joe Phillip Klinner isn't showing as much attention to Pat Broadhead as she would like for him to. (A hint to the wise is sufficient, Joe.)

I don't believe Burt Inzer and Buddy Minshew are exactly on friendly terms. It couldn't be a girl, could it fellows?

We've got some of the doggonedist big talkers down at the school that I ever saw in my life. (If they're not talking about what they did it's what they're going to do.)

USE OF LIME

When it is decided that lime is needed, use two tons of finely ground lime per acre on heavy clay soils and not more than one ton per acre on sandy

When hanging up the family wash, hang all articles straight and by their strongest part to make them last longer, look better and iron easier.

CERTIFIED COTTONSEED

There is a good supply of certified cottonseed available for planting next spring's crop. Look for the certified tag.

SHELTER FOR PIGS

This winter when pigs are not hogging off corn, they should be sleeping. If forced to sleep in a cold rain, a week's feeding may easily be lost. Whatever type of shelter is used, it should have a roof that will turn a heavy rain and at least two walls tight enough to be wind and rain proof. The shelter should be built so that seepage or run off water will not puddle in the beds.

HOTBEDS

Many plant growers have found that building blocks can be used to make frames for hotbeds and coldframes.

NEW CASTLE DISEASE THREAT TO POULTRY

An outbreak of Newcastle Disease in baby chicks has been reported in four counties in Northeast Alabama.

Since mortality of the diseased flocks ran from 60 to 80 per cent, Dr. R. S. Sugg, state veterinarian, believes that all poultrymen will want to take every precaution to keep the disease from spreading.

To help in this work, he has outlined a program for poultrymen to follow. The first step to take when Newcastle Disease is suspected is to immediately quarantine the place where the disease is found. Next, notify the State Veterinarian, Auburn, Ala., in order that chicks may be obtained for laboratory diagnosis. If the disease is present, full instructions on handling infected flocks will be made available.

Symptoms usually noticed in baby chicks are colds followed in a few days by nervous symptoms including excitability, wry necks, paralysis, and convulsions. Hens in the laying flock usually show a marked drop in production before the other symptoms occur.

CORN DEMONSTRATIONS TO CONTINUE IN 1949

Auburn, Ala. — Thickly spaced, highly fertilized corn demonstrations will be continued in 1949, announces J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist.

The demonstrations are a part of a state-wide campaign to increase Alabama's average corn yield to 30 bushels or more per acre.

The program was started in 1946. That year 192 demonstrations were held, compared to 6,000 or more conducted in 1948. At first, a demonstration was held on a one-acre plot. Now, however, many farmers follow the plan for their entire corn crops.

To those interested in conducting one of these demonstrations, Mr. Lowery suggests that the local county agent be contacted. He has complete details.

SUGGESTIONS ON THE USE OF COLD FRAMES

Cold frames are constructed in the same manner as hotbeds except no manure is used for heating.

Lyle Brown, A.P.I. Extension Service horticulturist, says that the cold frame is used to "harden off" plants from the hotbed before they are set in the open.

Cold frames should be covered with light weight cloth. Plants in cold frame should receive more ventilation than those in hotbed, but they should not receive as much water. The cold frame should be somewhat larger than the hotbed, because larger plants require more spacing.

DAMS OF STRONG-BONED BEEF CALVES FED LIME

An ample supply of calcium, called lime, and phosphorus is necessary for good bone development.

"Steamed bone meal or a good mineral mixture should be kept before brood cows at all times," says W. H. Gregory, A.P.I. Extension Service livestock specialist, Auburn.

LONGER LIFE FOR RUGS IF GIVEN PROPER CARE

"The life of a rug depends upon its quality and the care given it," declares Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist. She points out that proper care of rugs in the home should begin when they are delivered. Almost all rugs will shed a little. Sweep the floor sparingly and gently for the first two or three weeks.

Remember to turn the rug around and move the furniture occasionally to distribute the wear more evenly. Do not beat or clean with stiff brushes or brooms. If possible, use carpet sweepers or electric cleaners on pile-surfaced rugs.

Frequent and systematic cleaning keeps the rug in good condition, prevents dirt from wearing fibers, and lessens the danger of moths.

ALLOW MORE TIME WHEN COOKING FROZEN MEATS

Unless plenty of time and moderately low heat is allowed for frozen meat, the outside of the piece may be overdone while the inside is still frozen.

Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist, Auburn, says that this may happen not only to large pieces like roasts but even to steaks which are broiled at high heat.

Remember that unthawed meat needs considerably longer time to cook and always a moderately low temperature so that the meat can draw in the first part of the cooking and cook to the desired tenderness during the last part.

HAL BOYLE TO BE SPEAKER AT ALABAMA PRESS ASSOCIATION MEETING

University, Ala. — Hal Boyle, Associated Press columnist, will be the banquet speaker at the 78th annual convention of the Alabama Press Association to be held in Birmingham January 20-22.

Plans for the convention program have been announced by J. Russell Heitman, secretary-field manager of APA. The meeting will open with an informal session Thursday night at the Tutwiler Hotel, convention headquarters.

The program and business sessions will open Friday morning with President E. H. Pierce of the Jasper Mountain Eagle speaking. A demonstration of the Vari-Type machine and an explanation of the Vari-Typed newspaper will follow.

During the afternoon, James D. Arrington, publisher of the Collins, Miss., News-Commercial, and president of the Mississippi Press Association, will speak on "Rural Journalism, The Hope of the South."

A business session, including the election of officers will complete the afternoon's session. The new officers will be introduced at the banquet Friday night at which Boyle will speak.

The final session of the convention Saturday morning will hear Victor R. Portmann, secretary-manager of the Kentucky Press Association, speak on "What Readers Want in the News" and an address by Warren Whitney, vice-president of James B. Clow and Sons, Birmingham, and a director of Associated Industries of Alabama.

It is expected that more than 200 publishers and others interested in the Press Association will attend the convention.

NATIONAL GUARD PROVES ITS WORTH

For the second time in six weeks the value of Alabama National Guard troops and the Federal equipment issued them has been well proven. Unusually heavy rains on the 5th and 6th of January in Huntsville, Ala., caused heavy flash foods requiring evacuation of many residents from the flooded areas.

Local Alabama National Guard Commander, Col. Carl T. Jones, immediately obtained authority from Maj. Gen. James S. Saliba, the Adjutant General of Alabama, to use local Alabama National Guard troops and equipment to assist in the evacuation of the refugees and protection of the property. Approximately 50 officers and men from local units have been on duty since 5th January in this important work. The Adjutant General rushed several amphibious vehicles, known as "ducks," and other equipment to Huntsville for use in evacuating over 500 flood refugees and som household property.

Local National Guard Armories and messing personnel and equipment took care of the housing and feeding of over 350 flood refugees until the Red Cross Relief Agency could take over that work.

Adjutant General Saliba emphasized that this emergency duty and the emergency flood duty in Montgomery in late November emphasizes again the great value of National Guard troops and equipment to the communities for emergency relief. He also stressed that the highly valued "ducks" were made available to the State by the Federal Government without cost, as is all other National Guard equipment.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Montgomery, Ala. — A warning against the common cold was issued today by Dr. D. G. Gill, State Health Officer.

"This is perhaps the most easily contracted of all communicable diseases," he said. "The only sure way to avoid it is to stay away from people who have colds."

The State Health Officer also urged Alabamians to keep their physical resistance at the highest level possible. This, he said, reduces the likelihood of developing a cold after receiving the cold virus into the body.

"Eat plenty of good wholesome food," he admonished. "Drink more water than usual. Increase the intake of fruit juices. Keep bowel action normal. Take plenty of exercise out in the open air and sunshine. Don't become over-fatigued. Get plenty of sleep at night and extra rest during the day, if possible."

JEMISON F.F.A. MEMBERS SET 22,000 PINE CONES

The Jemison F.F.A. members realize that the forest resources of our County and State constitute one of our greatest sources of wealth and the proper conservation and use of these resources means a great deal to the future development of our state.

These Future Farmers know that raw materials for industry, employment for labor, protection of watersheds, prevention of soil erosion, preservation of the ground water supply, control of run-off water and stabilization of stream flow, maintenance of suitable places for wildlife and moderation of climatic conditions are some of the very important benefits that are derived from forests that affect our everyday life.

L. C. Shields, teacher of Agriculture at Jemison High School, stated that this is just a beginning of the improved forestry practices to be carried out by these F.F.A. members. Next year we hope that we can set 30,000 or more pine seedlings and the F.F.A. will make every effort to help keep down forest fires—the greatest enemy of our forest has.

F.F.A. members setting trees are: Charles Askew 1,000, Cecil Williams 1,000, Thomas Smith 5,000, Charles Robinson 1,000, Raymond Carden 1,000, Odett Gothard 1,000, Albert Plier 1,000, La Don Thrash 1,000, Wallace Ellison 1,000, Jimmy Crowson 1,000, James F. Davenport 1,000, Dean Sammons 1,000, Harold Crowson 500, Bo Parker 500, and the remainder were set on the school land near the athletic field.

Food cooked then frozen and stored in a locker or home freezing unit will save much time in preparing future meals.

PLEASANT GROVE NO. 2

We are glad to say our Sunday School attendance is improving lots. We give our thanks to God for these good blessings. We invite everyone who can to attend our church. We have been having several visitors lately. It makes us feel good to know that old friends still love Pleasant Grove.

Next Sunday is our preaching Sunday. Rev. Mike Moore is our pastor. He is a good old-fashioned Gospel preacher. So come and enjoy God's message with us.

We are sorry to report two cases of pneumonia in this community last week. They were Mrs. Gin Nicholas and little David Gilliland. Both cases have been dismissed by Dr. Day and getting along fine.

Prayer service and preaching will be held at the home of Mrs. Gin Nicholas next Saturday night, instead of at the church.

We are sorry to report that Mr. Boots Morris lost his only cow. There are four children in this home that will have to do without milk, unless Christian people help Mr. Morris to buy him another cow. So if you have anything to help buy a cow for this family, please send your donation to Mrs. Bessie Garner, Lawley, Ala. Your cooperation will surely be appreciated and God will reward you.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie McAfee and son visited Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Latham a while Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Messar Smith visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lawley Sunday.

The Ladies Home Demonstration Club wili meet with Mrs. Messar Smith Thursday.

Our W.M.S. met last Wednesday at the church with 12 present. We had a wonderful program. Pray for us that we might do the things that will be pleasing to God; Mrs. Charlie Smith, President; Mrs. Bill Hathcock, Secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAfees' visitors Sunday were: Sgt. Lindsay McAfee and son from Craig Field, Selma, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Milford Thompson (Mattie McAfee), Mr. and Mrs. Alvis McAfee (Sonny McAfee), all from Altoona, Ala.; Mrs. Lewis Mitchell and children from Maplesville, Ala.

We were glad to have as visitors at church Sunday night Mr. and Mrs. Heath Founting from Friendship Community.

Juanita McAfee attended the 4-H Club meeting at Clanton Saturday. She reported a very nice time.

THE 1949 CHEVROLET

Detroit, Mich. — The 1949 Chevrolet to be introduced nationally at dealer showrooms Saturday, January 22 will be the most sharply advanced model in company history, T. H. Keating, general sales manager, said today. "It will be the first passenger car in several years in which we have made broadscale improvemnts in both body and chassis," said Keating. "Under experiment since V-J Day, the model actually offers the culmination of three years of design devlopment and engineering research.

"As we saw our postwar responsibility," Keating continued, "we were reluctant to halt the flow of production for the length of time that would have been required for any unusual automobile changes. Our merchandising policy endeavored rather to supply as many people with new transportation as materials would permit.

"However, Chevrolet engineers were not idle during the period. Not only did engineers have the opportunity for exhaustive mechanical tests, but production men were able to map the model manufacturing change - over carefully and minutely. As a result we can now bring out an entirely new car without seriously disturbing our volume for the year."

The new car will be displayed under "sell - out conditions." Measured against dealer orders, production is underwritten until well into 1950, Keating said.

"Including 1948 sales, Chevrolet dealers have delivered around 3,000,000 post-war built cars and trucks," he added. "Even this tremendous volume has not affected our bank of orders at the factory. Unfilled orders have, in fact, risen since the mid-Summer period when in normal years demand begins to slacken."

Radio Ramblings

"The Eddy Arnold Show," starring America's most popular singer of folk songs—Eddy Arnold—made it's debut on WKLF this week. The program is heard each day, Monday through Friday, at 12:45. You'll certainly want to make this a regular listening time. Tell your neighbors about it. They'll want to listen too.

All Central Alabama housewives will be interested in the program, "Adventures in Homemaking," which WKLF now features each Tuesday morning at 9:30. It is broadcast direct from the campus of Alabama College in Montevallo, and features recipes, balanced menus, and household hints from Home Economics students at the college. This is one of several weekly programs from Alabama College. Others are heard Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 2:00 in the afternoon, and on Tuesday afternoon at 2:15. We hope to expand this schedule of public service programs in the near future.

Speaking of housewives, some lucky Clanton woman gets a chance to win a free shampoo and hair set each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9:00 on Paul Reid's "Fashions in Music" show. He plays a mystery tune during the program, and calls a listener. If that listener can identify the tune being played, she gets a shampoo and set from the beauty shop which is sponsoring the program that day.

Coast to coast television using high flying airplanes now is possible. Westinghouse Electric Corporation announces that it has solved major technical problems linking airplanes and television for greater broadcasting range. As you might know, television has a short range, because its waves won't travel over mountains and other such geographical obstructions. But this new development will greatly increase the range by sending out the signals from airplanes circling thousands of feet in the air, instead of from towers a few hundred feet high.

What will science think of next? That's what I thought when I heard about a new "atomic clock," which has been unveiled by government scientists. It may prove of great importance to radio communications by providing better control of the "width" of broadcast frequencies, thus permitting more radio and television stations to be set up. The operation of the "atomic clock" is indirectly controlled by the vibration of atoms in a molecule of matter. The scientists say their clock loses or gains only a little more than a second a year, which approaches the accuracy of clocks set by reference to the earth's rotation. But they say that eventually their clock may vary only a second in every three hundred years. I wonder how long it will be before we see a sign on Second Avenue reading "We Adjust Atomic Clocks."

Jim Moatts hasn't done any mule braying here lately. His tonsils haven't recovered sufficiently from a recent cold to stand the stress.

For news about yourself and your neighbors, listen each week day at 11:55 for "Chilton County News," a five-minute summary of local news.

Another new addition to the WKLF program schedule is "The Fred Waving Show," featuring recorded music by maestro Waring and his Pennsylvanians. It is heard each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 11:15.

That's sign off time for this week. See you next Thursday. Till then, so long, and good listening.

The following article taken from The Birmingham News will be of interest to many friends here, since it concerns one of our boys, and the son of one who will always be claimed by Thorsby, though he has not lived here for several years. We speak of Mr. Herbert Peterson, whose son is a prominent attorney in Birmingham, and the following gives evidence of this fact:

"Development of Our American System of Law," will be the subject of a talk by Herbert W. Peterson, Jr., Birmingham attorney, at a meeting of the Purchasing Agent's Association of Alabama at 12:30 p.m. Thursday in Thomas Jefferson Hotel.

Mr. Peterson has been selected by the educational committee of the association to give a series of lectures at the regular winter classes sponsored by the purchasing agent's group."

We gladly report increasing attendance at our church services, and we hope to make this year the best of our church work.

Most interesting reports on youth work were given by members of our M.Y.F. who attended the youth service at Selma; also on program Sunday night Mary Lois Ratcliff gave a very touching talk on "Christ In His Work."

These services are truly a blessing to all who will hear them. Parents, won't you come worship with your children in these services?

Shiff - Gowan Marriage Impressive Church Ceremony

At 7 o'clock on Saturday evening, January 8th, at the First Methodist Church Miss Ellen Shiff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrington Shiff of Mobile, became the bride of Captain Paul Gowan, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Earl Gowan of Clanton.

Mrs. Margaret MacGregor, organist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Before an altar banked with palms and burning tapers, interspersed with baskets of white snapdragons and carnations, the Rev. Charles S. Forester performed the ceremony.

Ushers were: Dr. Joe E. Gowan, John Higgins, Oscar Jones, all of Clanton; Charles Shiff, Jr., brother of the bride, of Mobile; and Dr. James Horton of Guntersville.

Dr. Sam Gowan of Huntsville, brother of the groom, served as best man.

Mrs. V. M. Collins of Malone, Fla., was matron of honor and wore a gown of pale green tissue faille, fashioned with a marquisette yoke and the bertha formed a drop shoulder effect for the fitted bodice. The full skirt was finished with tiny bows on the ruffles at the hem. She carried a bouquet of blue iris, yellow roses and pink snapdragons tied with pink satin ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sally Gowan of Clanton, Miss Mary Louise Willis of Mobile and Miss Mary Ellen Mathews of Montgomery. They wore gowns identical in color and design to that of the matron of honor. They carried bouquets of blue iris, yellow roses and pink snapdragons tied with yellow satin ribbons.

Junior attendants were Paul Gowan, of Huntsville, nephew of the groom, and little Julie Jones of Montgomery, who wore a white net over satin fashioned on the same lines as the other attendants. She carried a bouquet of flowers in miniature of the other attendants.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with a yoke of chantilly lace which extended over the shoulders and was appliqued in scallops to the tight fitting bodice. The full skirt extending into a cathedral train was bordered with chantilly lace, meeting in the front in a wide insert. Her lace trimmed veil of illusion was caught to a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of split carnations and lilies of the valley.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Shiff chose a crepe dress of moss grey and her flowers were a corsage of pink split carnations.

Mrs. Gowan, mother of the groom, wore a dove grey crepe dress with a corsage of pink split carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Shiff entertained with a reception at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Mathews, on Felder Avenue.

The reception rooms were beautifully decorated in the bridal theme.

The bride's table, covered with a white net cloth over white satin, with a gathered flounce around the edges was caught at each corner with a satin ribbon bow, bells and white flowers. The double ring wedding cake centered the table, flanked by tapers in silver candelabra. Small clusters of white flowers tied with ribbons were fastened to the candelabra.

The punch table was centered with the punch bowl and was encircled with white tulle, greenery and white flowers. Mrs. Charles Shiff, Jr., and Mrs. Laurens Jones, both of Mobile, presided at the punch table.

Mrs. Paul Page of Marbury and Mrs. George Moss of Greenville, Ohio, served the wedding cake.

Miss Evelyn Mathews was in charge of the bride's book.

For traveling Mrs. Gowan chose a grey wool crepe suit with green accessories. After a wedding trip Captain and Mrs. Gowan will make their home in California.

Among the out-of-town guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. John M. Higgins, of Clanton; Dr. and Mrs. Sam Gowan and Paul Gowan, of Huntsville; Dr. and Mrs. Joe E. Gowan, Miss Sallie Gowan, Dr. and Mrs. J. Earl Gowan, Oscar Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mullins, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Erle Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Heflin, Mr. Guy Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jones, Mrs. W. A. Willis, Mrs. N. S. Johnson, Mrs. J. Sam Johnson, Miss Priscilla Johnson, Miss Alee Stewart Johnson, Mrs. Norman Roberts, Mr. Francis Speaks, all of Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. James Parrish, Birmingham; Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Strock, Verbena; Mrs. George Moss, of Greenville, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Page, and W. W. Gowan, of Marbury; Dr. James O. Horton, of Guntersville; Miss Mary Louise Willis and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shiff, Jr., of Mobile.

MEDICAL PROFESSION RESTATES HEALTH PLANS

Frankly admitting that there are needed improvements in health and medical care, the medical profession of Alabama has for four years been working toward alleviating these defects. In 1944 the Post-War Planning Commission for the Medical Association of the State of Alabama was formed and from it grew the Committee on Medical Service and Public Relations. It is this Committee's function to prepare and execute plans for the improvement of health and medical care for the people of Alabama. At a meeting in Montgomery Sunday, January 9th, the program of this Committe was again considered.

Results of Opinion Poll Cited—

Dr. Carl R. Grote, Chairman of the Committee, stated that each doctor in Alabama, whether a member of the Association or a non-member, was asked to state whether he approved or disapproved of the proposed National Compulsory Health Insurance. The results of the poll were as follows: 1,306 doctors voted. Of this number 1,254 or 96% disapprove of a national compulsory health insurance and 30 or 2.3% approve. 17 or 1.3% returned their ballots without voting and 5 or .4% answered in such a manner that the ballot could not be classified.

Remarks were not specifically ask-for, but many were made by the voting doctors. By far the greatest number of these said that the doctors must put forth a positive program to remove the faults in present medical practice. Many doctors felt that some means of meeting the high cost of medical service must be afforded the people, and several doctors called for a rededication to service and professional ethics by the profession.

Proposals Cited—

The following recommendations were passed by the Committee on Medical Service and Public Relations and have the approval of Dr. J. Paul Jones, President of the Medical Association of the State of Alabama. The program for the medical profession in the State of Alabama shall work toward:

1. Direct appropriations for the building of hospitals and clinics in sparsely settled areas.
2. Enlargement of the Medical School facilities for the education of more doctors, nurses, dentists and technicians.
3. The extension of voluntary insurance coverage to all classes of people and extension to the indigent groups through appropriations by local and state governing bodies.
4. Insecting, grading and licensing of hospitals ad clinics for the purpose of improving the medical staffs and hospital facilities and services.
5. Plans for the care of old age and destitute people, maybe through nursing homes.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Montgomery, Ala. — A warning against the common cold was issued today by Dr. D. G. Gill, State Health Officer.

"This is perhaps the most easily contracted of all communicable diseases," he said. "The only sure way to avoid it is to stay away from people who have colds."

The State Health Officer also urged Alabamians to keep their physical resistance at the highest level possible. This, he said, reduces the likelihood of developing a cold after receiving the cold virus into the body.

"Eat plenty of good wholesome food," he admonished. "Drink more water than usual. Increase the intake of fruit juices. Keep bowel action normal. Take plenty of exercise out in the open air and sunshine. Don't become over-fatigued. Get plenty of sleep at night and extra rest during the day, if possible."

Vaccination Against Bang's Disease Will Begin Feb. 1st

COUNTY - WIDE CALFHOOD VACCINATION

As provided in Section 2, Act 410, Alabama General Laws, county-wide vaccination against Brucellosis, or Bang's disease of calves, which are to be kept for breeding will begin in Chilton County on February 1, 1949. Dr. J. J. Moore of the (Alabama Department of Agriculture & Industries, Livestock Sanitary Division), will be in charge of the program.

Plans for the work have been worked out in cooperation with M. R. Glasscock, County Agent, and a group of Chilton County farm leaders.

The county will be divided into districts and each farm in the district will be visited by Dr. Thomas Hayes, local veterinarian, or his assistant. Farmers will be notified in advance of the date of the visit.

Cattle owners are requested to give their full cooperation in this program and have their calves up, with sufficient help available to handle them, on the date and at the time the veterinarian will visit the farm.

Vaccination will be done at State expense and without any cost to the cattle owner.

Brucellosis, or Bang's Disease, is the most wide spread infectious disease of cattle in Alabama and the object of the program is to vaccinate all calves before they reach sexual maturity, or when they are between the ages of four (4) and eight (8) months, in order to make them resistant to the infection when they reach maturity. After the vaccinated calves come in production and replace the older susceptible cows in the herd, there will be less likelihood of the infection being introduced and, in time, it is possible that the disease can be eliminated from the herd.

Records kept on a large number of infected cows indicate that milk production is reduced by approximately 20% and the loss of calves amounts to approximately 15%. It is estimated that this loss, in both dairy and beef cattle, will run to approximately $100,000,000 annually. In addition to the economic loss, it should be borne in mind that raw milk from infected animals may produce the disease in human beings and, also, that the disease may be transmitted to man by contact with infected animals.

Experience has shown that herd owners who raise their own replacements on the farm and who vaccinate all calves kept for breeding suffer little less from this disease.

The disease will not be spread by vaccination and there is not serious reaction from the vaccine.

M. R. Glasscock, County Agent, estimates that, with the full cooperation of the cattle owners in Chilton County, the program can be completed in a period of ninety days.

This work will be carried on under the supervision of Dr. R. S. Sugg, State Veterinarian, in cooperation with Dr. B. N. Lauderdale of the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry.

MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB

The Clanton Music Appreciation Club held its January meeting at WKLF studio and presented its regular program by radio.

After a brief business session, Mrs. Raymond Mims directed and Mrs. Erle Ellis accompanied the club chorus in a 30-minute program of varied music. Their first song was the Club Collect, the prayer adopted by the National Federation of which the local group is a member. The chorus followed this prayer with "By The Waters of Minnetonka," to which Mrs. Carlisle Miller played the violin obligato "Pale Moon" and Florence Golson's "Night" completed the selections sung by the entire chorus. Previously, it presented the latter composition when Mrs. Golson was honor guest.

Six members of the chorus—Mesdames Carlisle Miller, Grady Heflin, Erle Ellis, Herbert Klinner, Leonard Farley, and Arthur Willis, concluded with Mendelssohn's "Lift Up Thine Eyes." The complete chorus giving this program is composed of four other active members: Miss Elizabeth Barton, Mesdames Reuben Gaylor, Percy Pitts and Burt Snead.

Besides roster members the studio audience for the program included these guests: Misses Lois Black, Mary Barclift, Marguerite Perry, Sallie Gowan, Dorothy Mims.

LIONS ACTIVE IN SIGHT CONSERVATION

To Sponsor Lion Queen Contest

The following letter has been received by Clanton Lions Club:

January 12, 1949.

Lions Club,
Clanton, Alabama.
Gentlemen:

Today I took three girls to Dr. Eugene Calloway in Selma for eye examinations. He found all three of the children to need glasses. One had been wearing glasses fitted by an optometrist which were nine times too weak for her. It was possible to use the same frames for this child.

One of the children was from Verbena, one from Vermont and one from Clanton Elementary.

I am enclosing Dr. Calloway's statement. We are very grateful to you for making it possible for the children to have the glasses.

Yours truly,
LOUISE FOSHEE,
School Attendance Worker.

All Lions are urged to be present at the regular meeting tonight at the Dixie Cafe.

An interesting program has been arranged by Lion Ralph Morrison and plans for several projects will be discussed.

The beginning of a whiteway for Clanton is to start very soon. Many having already been subscribed for the block between 6th and 7th Streets on Second Avenue, North.

Lion Leroy Martin has been chosen as chairman of the Lions Queen Contest for 1949. This project, which is always one of the biggest of the year and always of the keenest competition put on by the Club, will be watched with interest by the citizens of this community.

The nationally known spiritual play, "The Light Eternal," which compares favorably with the "Passion Play" and "Ten Commandments," will be sponsored by the Club in February.

The public is asked to cooperate with the Lions Club in these projects.

No good art is unbeautiful, but much able and effective work may be and is. —A. C. Swinburne.

Publishing A Newspaper Is Easy - Or Is It ?

Mathias P. Harpin, publisher of the Rhode Island Pilot, West Warwick, R. I., gets discouraged every now and then about a publisher's lot—and he decided to tell his readers about it. Here's his sad tale, and other publishers will know just what he means!

Everybody Cooperates

"It's easy to publish a newspaper. . .You never get tired. You never need a vacation. Your head is always clear. You're always bright as a silver dollar. Everybody writes in beautiful letters telling you what a nice paper you have. Everybody phones in news. You never have any trouble getting paper.

"Everybody pays you on time. You never have to remind people over and over again that their subscriptions are due. If you're late paying a bill, they say it's all right, let it go. You never make people mad at something you have written or haven't written.

"Your proofreader never makes a mistake. The front page always looks nice. The ads are always eye-catching. You just sit at your typewriter and write beautiful lines. . .

"People never say your paper is political. They never insist you're taking sides. They always agree that you're independent. . .

No Production Bugs

"Everywhere you hear people say you're a good guy. They always say you work hard. The waste baskets never fill up, so nobody has to empty them. The pressman never needs a helping hand to slip a new roll of paper into the press. Rolls of paper you receive are not torn, and you don't get any waste. Your mail galley never gets pied.

"People never think of asking you for favors that are entirely out of your reach. After every issue advertisers call up and say: 'Say, that was a honey of an ad you wrote for me last week. Thanks!' If an advertiser gives you copy announcing a week end special, it's always sunny that week end and very warm, and the buses are sure to run on time. . .

"You always have plenty of time to spend with the family. Your little boy never asks: "Mama, have I really got a Daddy?'

. . .Never do you place an ad upside down. When you misspell a person's name, he calls up and says, 'Forget it. It's all right'. . .Oh, it's wonderful to be a newspaper publisher. It's so easy. So simple."—Quoted in New England Printer. — Who's Who, in the Composing Room.

Nearly every community has a public spirited citizen, who gives liberally of his time and money to public causes, without having his greatness recognized at home.

Readers of the Chilton County News are reminded that buying from advertisers in our columns will make the advertising pay. Never forget that advertisers help pay for the paper you get.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Got one hung on us Saturday morning by Mr. Charlie Cox. We were eating breakfast at the Dixie and will admit that it was a trifle late for breakfast. It was a little later than the farmer and a little earlier than the banker. While we were eating Mr. Charlie walked over to our table and we asked him to have breakfast with us. Said he: "No thanks, I ate breakfast this morning."

Did you hear about the fellow who was painting in the nut house? An inmate came along and called to the painter while he was at work on the ceiling: "Hey, have you got a good tight grip on that paint brush? "Sure thing," answered the painter. "Hold on then," continued the nut, "I'm going to move the step ladder."

Our friend, Judge Oakley Melton at Wetumpka, is a suspicious man. We guess being a Judge is what makes him that way. The other day we sent him a notice that his subscription was about to expire. One paragraph in the letter says that you get the News for a little less than four cents per week. The Judge had taken his pencil and done a little arithmetic on the margin of the letter to check our statement. Sure enough he learned that the cost of one Chilton County News is three and eighty-five one-hundredth cent per week.

Mr. Monroe Parrish came in to see us the other day about his paper too. We had a most delightful chat with him. We also learned on that day he and Mrs. Parrish had been married for 58 years. They moved to the spot where they now live after they were married — and that was January 21, 1891. "It takes a heap of living in a house to make it home," we've always heard, and we know that Mr. and Mrs. Parrish are really settled at home by now and we wish for them many, many more happy years to add to their fifty-eight.

Bless our City Fathers for taking that head (and other) ache, out of the drive across the L. & N. tracks on Second Avenue. It was such a little bump to look at but when your automobile hit it things seemed to happen from the base of your spine to the top of your felt hat. Again we say, whoever may be responsible, bless you for taking that bump off Second Avenue at the railroad tracks.

Saw Jesse Culp on the streets this week. He has been absent from the local scene for the past few days since attending a wedding. Jesse thinks it was the most impressive wedding he had ever attended. Anyway, we are sure it was one he will remember the longest—it was his own. We wish the new Mrs. Culp and Mr. Culp many happy years together.

Ottis Miller has organized the Merchants Credit Bureau. He will open his offices February 1, and will be of untold value to the merchants of Chilton County. Success of the new organization is assured with more than fifty merchants of the county having already joined. Ottis says if anyone have any skeletons buried in the smokehouse that shouldn't be dug up they had better be buried deeper or they might get uncovered.

All right, the meeting now come to order. Give us one good reason why the merchants of Clanton shouldn't close their doors at seven o'clock on Saturday night so that the clerks could get off to attend to a little personal business and make preparations for Sunday. Now watch the phone start ringing. We'll get plenty answers to that one. O. K. we're not trying to run your business but we bet a plugged nickle, (we just got one from the Peoples Savings Bank); that the folks who are going to buy could make their plans to buy before seven o'clock just as good as they could after seven o'clock. Anybody wanna bet?

We're going down to the Exchange Barber Shop and get Mr. Messer to let us spin around in his new chairs. Mrs. Bean, now owner of the establishment has purchased new equipment throughout and has a modern barber shop second to none. Congratulations to the lady on her progressiveness. We're glad she, too, is planning for a bigger and better Clanton to come.

Third Chapter Of Acts

The first thing that confronts us in the third chapter of Acts is Peter and John's visit to the Temple at the hour of prayer. Two men on their way to prayer meeting. Would to God that we had more men that would find their way to the House of God on prayer meeting nights. For after all, the prayer meeting, well attended by the members of the church, is the spiritual life of any church. When people slack up in going to prayer meeting, they begin to grow lukewarm and cold in their spiritual life. One sign of a backsliden life is to absent yourself from the House of Cod; and it written that "My House shall be called "The House of Prayer."

A. T. HICKMAN

The spiritual life of the church is measured by the faithful attendance of its members at prayer meeting. The best members of the church are the ones who attend the prayer meetings regularly. They help to keep the church alive, and this helps to keep the community alive, and at its best.

Please notice what took place as Peter and John went on their way to this prayer meeting. There sat a certain lame man at the gate of the Temple, begging alms of the people as they passed by. When the lame man saw Peter and John about to go into the Temple, he asked an alms of them. The two men stopped and looked at the lame man, saying to him, "Look on us." Then Peter said, "Silver and gold have I none, but such as I have, give I thee; in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk." And he took him by the right hand, and lifted him up, and immediately his feet and ankle bones received strength, and he leaping up, stood, and walked, and went on into the Temple with Peter and John, walking and leaping, and praising God.

Friends, the days of miracles are not passed. Jesus Christ is the same today, yesterday and forever. (Heb. 13:8). He has not changed. His power to heal the broken hearted, and give deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, and to set at liberty them that are bruised is the same today. By faith in Him, and in His name, we witness his power to forgive our sins, and to heal our diseases. . . ."Lord, increase our faith." We believe, but help our unbelief.

POND OWNERS CAN INCREASE INCOME

Auburn, Ala. — If you own a fish pond, why not earn extra cash by selling fish and fishing rights?

Before selling fish, however, you must register the pond. To do this, write the State Department of Conservation, Montgomery, stating that you intend to sell fish from your farm pond.

The reason for registering a pond is that game fish from private ponds may be sold for cash if ponds are registered, but game fish from public waters cannot be sold under any condition.

Another source of cash, points out Earl F. Kennamer, A.P.I. Extension Service fish and wildlife specialist, comes from trapping the water-inhabiting fur bearers that make their home in your pond.

Wetumpka gained its name from the turbulent Coosa River which divides the town in two sections. In the days before the coming of the whites, the Indians tabbed the site Ouitumkis, meaning "Rumbling Water."

$477,660,000 ALABAMA'S SHARE IN TAXES TO BE PAID TO TRUMAN'S PROGRAM

Taxpayers of Alabama will be called upon to pay $477,660,000 in direct and hidden taxes as their share of the cost of the $41,858,000,000 Federal budget proposed by President Truman for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1949, and ending June 30, 1050.

These estimates of the effect of the Federal spending program on taxpayers, both individuals and business concerns, of Alabama were revealed today by the State Chamber of Commerce as the result of an analysis of the President's budget recommendations.

The State Chambers study showed that the share of the 1950 Federal budget cost borne by Alabama is nearly five times the total amount of taxes collected by Alabama in 1948 to finance the entire State government budget.

The State Chamber's breakdown also showed that Chilton County's share of Alabama's Federal spending burden in the next fiscal year, based on the President's proposed budget, will be $3,391,386.

President Truman's budget was submitted to Congress January 10. Its spending requests will now be studied by appropriations committees of the House and Senate for their approval or revision preparatory to final action by the whole Congress.

Commenting on the figures showing the Alabama and Chilton County share of the cost of the Federal establishment, Frank P. Samford, president of the State Chamber, said:

"This is a pretty stiff tax bill for Alabama and Chilton County. People here at home must realize that they themselves have to foot the bill for the services rendered by the Federal government. The money handed out so lavishly by Washington comes from the people in the States, minus, of course, the political brokerage of the bureaucrats."

Samford added, "This 41.9-billion-dollar budget is not the whole story. In addition, there will be deficiency and supplemental appropriations added from time to time to carry this Colossus of Government through the year. Contract authorizations will be made for work that will run into more billions before completion. Still more billions will be added ultimately to the cost of Federal government if new spending proposals are passed."

The State Chamber of Commerce's computations were arrived at by estimating Alabama's share on a three-point formula comprising Federal tax collections in this state, the state's share of the national income, and population.

In the case of the counties, population, and buying power were used the factors.

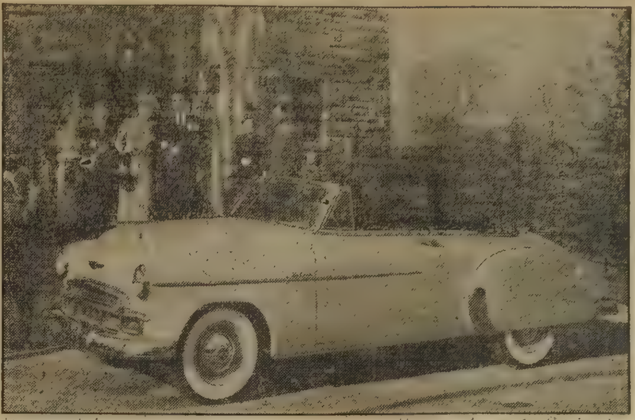
Low, Sweeping Lines Enhance Beauty of New Convertible



In addition to sedans, station wagons and closed coupes, Chevrolet for 1949 offers this smart new convertible. Here the low, sweeping design that characterizes all Chevrolets is most effective. An automatic top is but one of the many conveniences in the new car. Increased riding comfort through a new spring suspension also features the line.

GOOD WAY TO MAKE TOUGH MEAT TENDER

An extra aid to meat tenderness is adding some acid food like vinegar or tomatoes to the meat.

Tomatoes may be used for the liquid in stews, pot roasts and Swiss steaks. A little vinegar added to the water will help cook a pot roast tender.

According to Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist, whatever method used to prepare meat, the modern scientific way to cook it is with moderate or low heat.

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

LUCKY BABY

If your baby is born in 1949, he is lucky. Had he been born in 1849, only one hundred years ago, he could have expected to live about forty years. Today the average length of life in the United States is about sixty-seven years.

In 1900 only 41 out of every 100 babies born could hope to reach 65 years of age, while today 70 out of every 100 newborn children may expect to reach 65. To put it another way, boys born in 1900 had less than 40 chances in 100 of living 65 years. In 1945 a boy had more than 60 chances in 100 to reach 65. In 1946 the expectation of life for white females was 70 years and 3 months. The expectation of white males was a little better than 65 years.

It is pointed out in the Statistical Bulletin of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company that on the average white men who celebrate their 65th birthday in 1948 can expect to live more than 12 years longer, while the average life expectancy for white women of 65 is more than 14 years.

This increased life expectancy is due to the advancement made in medical science. The past 100 years have been a period of medial advancement and public health improvement such as has never before been seen.

Many diseases which formerly took a heavy toll have been practically wiped out. These disappearing diseases include typhoid fever, diphtheria, measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, diarrhea and enteritis and smallpox. Tuberculosis has been reduced to a great extent, and the deaths of mothers during childbirth is now one-fifth of what it was 20 years ago.

Doctors and men of science are always working toward better health and medical care for all. In the matters of health, life has been made safer, and the future holds great promise for the health of the world.

ALABAMA COTTON GINS HELP IMPROVE COTTON

Improvement in Alabama cotton gins during 1948 assured the cotton grower better quality ginning which meant a high market price for his crop.

The improvement includes 39 new gins representing an outlay of over two million dollars, according to Lawrence Ennis, Jr., A.P.I. Extension Service engineer, Auburn.

In addition to the new gins, 183 ginners made major improvements to existing plants. This was done to preserve Alabama's high-quality cotton crop. "These better gins," says Mr. Ennis, "mean many extra thousands of dollars for the cotton farmers, since their crop is of higher quality and is worth more on the market."

He points out that each bale of cotton damaged during the ginning process sells for $10 to $20 less than a normal bale. For this reason, Alabama ginners are making a determined effort and going to great expense to keep damaged bales to a minimum. They have bought 53 new driers within the past year in order to dry green or damp cotton so that trash may be more easily removed.

Last year Alabama again led Georgia and the Carolinas in the grade index of the cotton crop. The grade index for Alabama was 96.9 compared to 95.8 for Georgia, 93.5 for North Carolina, and 93.9 for South Carolina. This means that the cotton farmers, ginners, and others are cooperating to the end that Alabama's cotton crop will continue to be high in quality.

CAN SURPLUS LIVER, RIBS, AND BACK BONES

Auburn, Ala. — Usually during hog-killing time, surplus liver, ribs and back bones are given away.

Why not store these items in the refrigerator until the rush is over and then can them, suggests Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist.

To save space in jars, precook backbones until tender then remove meat and can it as hash. Ribs are nicer if they are broiled in the oven and packed into jars and covered with brown gravy before canning.

Precook sliced liver in water until it loses its color. Pack in jars with a small piece of lean pork and cover with water or stock.

When canning meat, remember to remove all surplus fat from liquid used to cover meat. Process at 10 pounds pressure allowing 75 minutes for pint jars and 90 minutes for quarts.

PLANT COTTON EARLY FOR GREATER YIELDS

"Extra yields of cotton are produced when cotton is planted early," declares O. N. Andrews, A.P.I. Extension Service cotton improvement specialist, Auburn.

For example, cotton planted April 11 at the Tennessee Valley Sub-Station made the highest yield over a period of eight years and produced 325 pounds more seed cotton per acre than cotton planted May 14.

Similar tests throughout the State have encouraged many farmers to plant cotton a week to 10 days earlier than they did several years [illegible]

CONCENTRATES WITH GRAZING?

The average Jersey cow will produce about two and one-half gallons of milk while on good grazing. For each additional two pounds of milk she produces, one pound of concentrate consisting of three quarts corncob meal and one part cottonseed meal can be fed profitably

PLANT CHRISTMAS TREES

Christmas tree seedlings cost about one-half cent apiece and after three years, trees wholesale for about $1.

ELECTRIC HOTBEDS

Records show that a well-built bed produced sweet potato plants at a power cost of only six cents per 1,000.

The cost might run somewhat higher on beds not so well built.

SWEET POTATO STORAGE

Sweet potatos in storage should be held at 50 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit for best results. In warm weather, temperature may be held down by opening the doors or vents at night to let in cool air and then closing them during the day.

One Great American Trait

I always think it does a newspaper editor good to get out from behind his desk and see how folks in other parts of America look, and think, and act.

And that's what I've been doing these past weeks, touring the country from Michigan to Texas, California to Maine. It's a mighty encouraging experience. Not only because of the different points of view you run into—but because of the tolerance which reconciles those different points of view.

I mean the tolerance of a Pennsylvania farmer for the habits of his city cousin; the tolerance of folks who vote one way towards those who vote another; the tolerance of those who prefer spring water towards those who enjoy a moderate beverage like beer.

From where I sit, it's that great American trait of tolerance—respect for individual tastes and liberties—that makes this country strong. Let's never lose it!

THINGS WE SEE AND HEAR

CCHS——By "Tuck"——CCHS

It seems that James Pyron can't get in good down at school. What's wrong, Pyron, haven't you got what it takes? (Naw, Pyron, I'm not doing so good right at the present time myself.)

Betty Summerville seems to be mighty popular with the boys at school. Betty says she likes all of them and none of them.

Boy, the girls aren't neglecting that new boy at school, are they? How about it, Darlton?

John Broadhead seemed to have a pretty good time at the Beta Club party Saturday night, didn't he, keeds?

Speaking of good times, I wasn't exactly bored at that party either. Man alive!

Bobby Kinney, just how does Grace stand it or is she just as mean to you as you are to her?

Boy! That Harold Parr really dances close, doesn't he, Pat?

By the way, if anybody knows anything about anybody else that is really good, tell me, will you?

From what I hear, some people are really going to be busy going to parties for about three weeks now. (Of course, there might be something fishy about so many of them, but that's what I heard.)

Billie Jean Poole hasn't been to school in a pretty good while now. What's wrong, Billie, been sick or something?

It seems that someone was inquiring as to who Marion Deaton liked the other day. How about it, Marion, who is she?

Fred Thompson seems to be in good with Miss Black now. He actually made an "A" in Math the other day. (That's all right, Fred, it's better than I can do.)

Billy Powell really knows how to operate, doesn't he, keeds?

Betty Comer, didn't look bad Saturday night at the party, did she? (Boys).

Speaking of parties, there are some people at school that never have those things. Of course, I'm one of them, but that's beside the point. No foolin' though, I think someone ought to give one some time soon. But by all means, don't let them interfere with your lessons; if you did I'd probably get blamed for reminding you of parties.

164 NIGHT HUNTERS NABBED IN STATE SINCE OCT. 1

Montgomery — In cracking down on night hunting in the state, Alabama's game wardens have arrested 164 persons since Oct. 1, according to Conservation Director Bert Thomas.

In making the above disclosure, Thomas pointed out that only 67 night hunters were nabbed during the entire 1947-48 fiscal year. The increase in arrests, he said, has, to a large degree, been made possible by the use of departmental aircraft to inspect areas that would ordinarily be next to impossible to patrol by any other means.

The game wardens' cars are also equipped now with two-way radio sets that enable the patroling cars to hastily throw out a drag-net to take in offenders who try to flee.

Radio Ramblings

This week I'd like to start off with some important information for all rural people. Beginning next Monday, January 31, WKLF will present each morning—Monday through Saturday—the "Alabama Farm and Home Hour." This program will be just what it implies, a full hour of entertainment and information for the farm and farm home. The program—which will be heard from 5:45 to 6:45 each morning — will be conducted by WKLF's farm editor, in cooperation with Extension Service workers in Central Alabama.

There will be on-the-farm interviews, farming tips, household hints and aids, and plenty of good music by the Peach Pickers. Tell your neighbors to listen for the "Alabama Farm and Home Hour."

Speaking of information for the housewife, don't forget, all you ladies, to listen each Tuesday morning at 9:30, when WKLF takes you to Alabama College in Montevallo for a visit with the home economics department up there. Other programs heard each week from Alabama College include "Alabama Music Time" on Monday and Friday at 2 o'clock; "Alabama Feature Page" on Tuesday at 2:15, and "Long Ago and Far Away" on Wednesday at 2 o'clock. These are all worthwhile programs, and worth your listening to if you can.

The battle of the national radio networks goes on. So far lately, CBS ("where 99 million people gather each week") has snatched three top shows from NBC. They include Jack Benny, Amos and Andy, and the Bing Crosby show. It so happens that Crosby was on CBS when his radio career was young, back in the thirties Actually, he is on NBC right now; so he's pretty well made the rounds

It might be said that being able to "bray like a mule" is a desirable talent for radio entertainers. Smilin' Jim pulls lots of morning mail on that basis. They all want to hear him sing "Johnson's Old Grey Mule."

"The Eddy Arnold Show" at 12:45 each week day continues to be one of the top listening spots on WKLF. In addition to the old Tennessee Plowboy himself, the show also features that steel guitar wizard, Roy Wiggins, "Pappy" Hal Horton, the Willis Brothers, and the Oklahoma Wranglers. It's tops in the folk music field.

Speaking of folk music, you folks have requested songs by T. Texas Tyler quite often, and so WKLF is expanding its library of Tyler songs. Among the additions is an album of hymns which Tex has recently released on Four Star Records.

"Swap Shop of the Air" remains one of the outstanding public service programs on WKLF. In case you aren't familiar with it, it features listings of items for sale or swap that listeners send in. No charge is made to the listener for this service The program is heard each week day morning at 9:45.

That's sign off time for this week. Until next Thursday, so long and good listening.

Aviation Cadets Class To Begin April 4th 1949

Next Aviation Cadet class to begin April 4, 1949, it was announced today by James J. Aussant, Sgt. 1-c commanding officer of the local U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station.

Any male citizen between the ages of 20 and 26½, married or single, and who has one half or more credits necessary for a degree at an accredited college or university, or be able to pass an equivalent examination, are eligible to apply for Aviation Cadet training.

Outstanding graduates of Aviation Cadet classes are being given Regular Air Force commissions. Other graduates will have an excellent chance to qualify for one of the several hundred Regular commissions tended each year to Reserve Officers on active duty. Interested persons should submit their application immediately, so they will be able to start their training in the April class. Application blanks may be obtained at your local U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station located in the New Wade Building in Clanton, Ala., or by writing direct to Chief of Staff, Headquarters USAF; Attention: Aviation Cadet Branch, Washington, D.C.

Osceola, the Seminole war chief who opposed the early advance of American settlers into Florida, was born near the ruins of old Fort Decatur, located on the banks of the Tallapoosa River a few miles from Pole Cat Springs.

Lister Hill Seeks Aid For Public Heath Service

Senator Lister Hill of Alabama has introduced his Local Public Health Service bill to provide Federal assistance to the States in expanding and improving local public health services.

The bill, sponsored by some 30,000 chapters and five million members of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, has been endorsed by the American Medical Association, the American Public Health Association and the State and Territorial Health Officers Association.

The bill authorizes Federal assistance to the States, through the U. S. Public Health Service, in providing additional doctors, nurses and technicians for local health departments and expanding health services.

Senator Hill pointed out the bill would "help provide health examinations for our children at the all important pre-school age when so many physical defects can be discovered and corrected."

In introducing his bill the Alabama Senator declared:

"We must stop thinking only in terms of remedies and cures and begin thinking in terms of prevention. Disease-bearing flies, mosquitoes and rats cannot be quarantined. The germs in today's garbage can be on your lunch tomorrow.

"Forty million Americans lack the basic protection of full-time health departments. Another 85 million have only the dubious protection of understaffed health offices. And less than ten million have professional, full-time health departments to guard their water, milk and meat supplies from contamination, to supervise disposal of sewage and garbage, and control communicable diseases."

Senator Hill said the bill, which fully preserves State control and administration of health programs, allocates the largest share of the funds to the low-income States where the need is greatest, a principle enacted for the first time in any Federal legislation in the Hill-Burton Hospital and Health Center Construction Act.

The Public Health Service bill has been given bi-partisan support from other Senators who joined in sponsoring the measure.

1. A record of all income received in 1948
2. An itemized statement of all deductions they wish to claim on the return, such as taxes, interest, contributions, business expenses, cost of goods sold, etc.
3. The total amount of tax withheld by all employers during 1948, together with Form W-2 furnished by each employer.
4. The amount of tax paid on estimated income tax for 1948 as reflected by declarations of such income filed on Form 1040-ES.
5. A copy of the 1947 return if depreciation was claimed on such return.

BAPTISTS PREPARING TO LAUNCH VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama Baptists are preparing to launch a vigorous campaign to wind up a $1,000,000 campaign for Judson College at Marion, oldest Baptist College for girls in the world.

The money will go toward improvements at the century-old school and for rebuilding historic Jewett Hall, which was destroyed by fire 18 months ago.

Dr. A. H. Reid, state Baptist Executive Secretary, announced that the "kick-off" is scheduled Sunday, March 6, in 2,054 Baptist churches over the state.

Actually $400,000 has already been raised. This year's drive is for the remaining $600,000.

Judson graduates and friends last year put on a drive which brought in $140,000 toward replacing Jewett Hall, named for Dr. Milo P. Jewett, first president of the college which was founded in 1838.

This plus $160,000 in insurance on the burned dormitory is already available for replacing it with a modern, fireproof building.

Erskine Ramsey, Birmingham industrial leader and philanthropist has challenged Baptists to put their campaign over the top this year. He has promised a $100,000 contribution on that basis.

His gift is to be paid this way: $50,000 for Jewett Hall when an additional $450,000 is raised and another $50,000 when the $1,000,000 goal is reached. It is limited to Mr. Ramsey's lifetime and to January 1, 1950.

Dr. V. L. Wyatt of Montgomery will direct the Judson College campaign under the general supervision of Dr. Reid.

They will be assisted by a directing committee including Dr. J. I. Riddle, president of Judson College, and the following Judson trustees: H. G. Williams, Tuscaloosa; Mrs. C. C. Bennett, Dothan; Wallace Malone, Dothan; T. C. King, Anniston; S. H. Tanner, Birmingham; A. M. Mead, Montgomery; and Mack Kilcrease, Albertville

The bowling league entered its seventh week Monday night with Baird Bearing defeating Tom's Toasted Peanuts 2 out of 3.

This past week league results show Baird defeating Texaco 3 out of 3, Luker Furniture Co. 4 games on Wednesday night through default, and Tom's Toasted Peanuts defeating Polk Bros. Motors 2 out of 3 on Friday night.

The leading team is now Baird Bearing, having 15 games to their credit. Luker Furniture and Texaco run second.

The schedule for this week is:
Monday — Tom's vs. Baird.
Tuesday — Open.
Wednesday — Tom's vs. Luker.
Thursday — Firestone vs. Texaco.
Friday — Chilton Co. News vs. Polk Bros.

High average is held by Texaco, with average of 15. Baird Bearing is second with average of 148.

High score last week was bowled by Barney Headley, having scored 237. This lacks only one pin of equaling the all time high for Clanton's Bowling alley of 238.

Some of the Auburn and Alabama students have expressed their desire to form a team to play during the week end. If this can be arranged to fit the present schedule, we will add another team to the league.

High School Parent-Teachers Will Meet Feb. 8

The regular February meeting of the high school P.-T.A. will be held Tuesday afternoon, February 8th, at three o'clock. All patrons and friends of the high school are cordially invited.

To remove the "curl" from the edge of a new rug, place a bath towel which has been wrung out in cold water on the edge. Leave it there overnight.

To bleach tea towels, drop pieces of lemon peel into the water when boiling the towels. This also adds a clean freshness.

IT WILL BE THE LAST MONTH BOYS

February is the last month that ex-servicemen can sign up for institutional on-the-farm training, according to Dave Tingle, director.

Mr. Tingle requests that all who are interested in signing up for this training to please do so before February 20th. This will be the last chance until next September when a new training course will start.

March Of Dimes Campaign Closes

Rev. Carlisle Miller announces that the 1949 March of Dimes Campaign is being closed with over $1,500.00 on deposit as gifts from Chilton County residents. Almost every community has cooperated in the drive, and Rev. Miller expresses appreciation to all who have helped make it successful. It would be very helpful in winding up the campaign if all reports and funds that have not been turned in are taken care of immediately.

INSTITUTIONAL ON FARM TRAINING

A trainee worthy of mention is Hershel Wright who lives in Liberty Hill Community on the old Maplesville Road. Since coming on the program in March of 1947, he has set four acres of peach trees, planted two acres of reseeding Crimson Clover, planted two acres of sericea, built new fences around 15 acres of permanent pasture and all of his temporary pasture. He has remodeled his house and made a heavy payment on his farm. He attends class twice a week at Isabella High School where Howard Mims is his Instructor.

To date he has not missed a single class. His teacher believes that by the time his training expires, he will be well set up in farming with his farm paid for and with enough equipment to well compete with farms the size of his anywhere in the county.

MEN OF THE DAY

Enough of "The Man of the Year," said Monday's Birmingham Post, "Let's take our hats off to the man of the day," and then they went ahead and paid deserved tribute to the many Alabama Power employees who have worked tirelessly to keep the comforts of home at our command, during these past few ice-laden days.

Too much praise cannot be given these men who must brave the elements at their worst to keep our homes comfortable with lights and heat. — The Editor.

UNITY YOUNG PEOPLES RALLY

The Unity Association Young Peoples Rally will be held at Clanton Church February 6, at 2:30 p.m. February 6-12 is the week in which the Girls' Auxiliary members and others are to look especially at this Southern Baptist Missionary organization for girls. We will focus on G.A.'s in our Association on this date. Everyone is invited to attend. All churches in Unity Association should be represented. We extend a cordial invitation to the churches of Chilton Association.

Theme: "Think On These Things." —Phil. 4:8.

Everyone wants fullness of life, a complete life. And this calls for Jesus Who came that we might have life, and have it more abundantly. We are made to grow—existence is given to everyone, the problem is out of existence to make a life. It is not enough to train or educate the body and the mind while neglecting the spirit, the real you. The fruit of the Spirit should be earnestly coveted and prayerfully sought in a heart and life yielded to the will of God.

> O God; our Father, give me clean hands, clean words, clean thoughts; help me to stand for the hard right against the easy wrong; save me from habits that harm; teach me to work as hard and play as fair in Thy Sight alone as if all the world saw; forgive me when I am unkind; and help me to forgive others who are unkind to me; keep me ready to help others at some cost to myself; send me some chores to do a little good every day, and to grow more like Christ. Amen. — W. Dewitt Hyde.

Hymn — Our Best.

Devotional — Whatsoever Things Are True, Yvonne Deramus.

Watchword — All G.A.'s.

Acrostic, Star Ideals — Maplesville G.A.

Whatsoever Things Are Lovely — Summer Camps, Margaret Kemp.

Whatsoever Things Are Excellent—Recipe for Successful G. A., Shirley Cox.

We've A Story To Tell To The Nations — Pantomine, Int. G. A., Clanton.

Message — "Whatsoever Things Are Pure, Think On These Things."—Lois Privett.

Hymn — O Zion, Haste.

Closing Prayer — That each one will go away "thinking on these things."

Miss Lois Privett, guest speaker, is our new Alabama W.M.U. field worker. Miss Privett finished her seminary training at New Orleans Theological Seminary. For a number of years she did evangelistic work in Louisiana with the State W.M.U. Department. Alabama is fortunate in having this capable, consecrated young woman for this work. Unity Association is fortunate in having her speak to us on this date. Everyone come.

Clanton Lions Club To Present The Play, "The Light Eternal"

To Be Spectacular Biblical Drama; City Auditorium February 10th & 11th

Miss Jean King arrived in town last week to start work on the spectacular Biblical drama, "The Light Eternal," which is being sponsored by the Lions Club. It will be presented at the City auditorium on Thursday and Friday evenings, Feb. 10th and 11th, at 8:00 p.m. One half the proceeds of the play will go to the Alabama Sight Conservation Fund. Miss King comes to town highly recommended and has long been interested in Little Theatre work. She is an experienced director and in addition has had special training in Kansas City on this particular production.

"The Light Eternal" is a spectacular Biblical dramatization in which members of the Lions Club and many prominent towns people will take part. It can only be compared with such productions as the motion picture, "The Ten Commandments" and the famous Passion Play. It combines the finest in gripping drama, glorious music and authentic Biblical costuming, to give Clanton the most unusual and spectacular type of entertainment it probably has ever seen. The play draws packed houses and receives most enthusiastic comments from educational and religious leaders everywhere. An interesting feature of the show is that your local towns people, your friends and neighbors, take the leading important dramatic roles. They carry the audience along with a great deal of suspense and highly effective dramatic action. It is particularly adapted and suitable for adults, while at the same time it carries a worthwhile and timely message that is of great educational value to young people.

Upon her arrival Miss King met with officers and members of the Lions Club and casting started immediately. Mr. Ben Rath, President of the Lions Club, stated that he and fellow Lion officers and members were happy to be able to bring to Clanton such a noted production and one of such high calibre, and the Lions were enthusiastic over the possibilities of an outstanding production here. All will be costumed in the ancient Roman and Egyptian costumes of 4,000 years ago, with flowing robes, sashes, turbans, sandals and beards.

The following persons have already been assigned important roles. The incomplete cast list follows:

Moses, Robert Tabor; Levi, Ben Rath; Judah, H. G. Searcy; Shepherd, L. A. Lambert; Judy, Virginia Rath; Joseph, Julian Evans; Simeon, Ralph Morrison; Chief Stewart, M. T. Holliman; Nebulon, J. B. Fort; John, Edwin Lambert; Reuben, Joe Gowan; Grandfather, Ed Mullins; Hannah, Mrs. Ben Rath; Court Girl, Helen Hayes; Ticket Chairman, Herman A. Lecroy; Property Chairman, Leroy Martin; Publicity Chairman, Robert Tabor.

Local Patrolmen Recover Stolen Automobile Here

A 1939 Plymouth coach driven by Charles Lloyd Pendley and said to be a stolen car was recovered by patrolmen Kendrick and Braswell Tuesday morning north of Clanton. According to reports the local patrolmen were driving a prisoner to the Jefferson County Line to turn him over to the authorities there when they apprehended the car said to be stolen from Panama City, Fla., Monday night.

The driver of the car was lodged in the Chilton County jail awaiting arrival of Federal Agents.

NATIONAL PMA OFFICIAL VISITS LOCAL OFFICE

Mr. J. B. McClure of Washington, D. C., visited Chilton County last week accompanied by Mr. J. F. Cooke, of Auburn, who is State Director of Crop Insurance in Alabama. Mr. McClure is Chief Loss Adjuster of the program.

The distinguished visitors were making a ten-day tour of the Alabama counties under this program. These counties are: Chilton, Houston, Tuscaloosa, Limestone, DeKalb and Madison.

While here they conferred with Mr. Joe Campbell local PMA manager, on the 1949 crop program. This program which guarantees the planter against loss of the cost of his fertilizer and seed is a non-profit program and has proven quite popular in this county since the introduction of the program.

As one planter stated: "Just to know that even if the worst comes to the worst, I'll still have enough to pay for my fertilizer. That's enough to make it worthwhile. It's worth a dollar and five cents an acre to be able to sleep at night without that to worry about."

Celebrate New Church Opening

Opening services will be held Sunday in the new Concord Church that has just been completed on Higgins Ferry Road.

Rev. R. W. Stuckey will preach the morning and evening service. Morning service at 11:00 a.m. and evening service at 7:00 p.m. B.T.U. meets at 6:00 o'clock each Sunday evening. Mr. Sam Devaughn is Sunday School Superintendent.

The now infamous swastika of Nazi days in Germany was used by an Indian tribe that lived around Moundville, centuries before the birth of Adolph Hitler. It was painted on their dwellings and implements as ornamental symbol.

Save time and labor when sifting flour. Sift on a square of waxed paper and slide into the bowl when ready for use. The flour slides easily and another bowl is saved from the dishpan.

The show will present such warm weather items as outboard motors, fishing tackle, seat covers, yard tools and paint. Mr. Craig will have an opportunity to see and order merchandise well in advance of the season.

"The show offers me a chance to pick up some first-hand product information," Mr. Craig said. "It's a chance to stock up with items in special demand in this trade area."

Today's Scouts - Tomorrow's Leaders

"Boys will be boys," they say.

But we're sure you'll agree they'll be better, friendlier, happier boys if they're in the ranks of the Boy Scouts of America. For 39 years, the Boy Scouts have made an increasing contribution to a better America through a well-planned, up-to-date program to meet boy's interests.

It's a program of adventure that appeals to every boy, when he knows about it. And there's the rub.

Many a boy of 12 or over still needs to be informed of the exciting activities of Scouting. Many a parent needs to discover the values of Scouting for his boy. Many an adult needs to find out the enjoyment to be derived from helping boys find themselves through Scouting. Many a civic institution should look into the merits and advantages of sponsoring a Troop of Boy Scouts.

For these reasons we're taking the opportunity—during Boy Scout Week—to fulfill our obligation as an information-medium, by reminding you of your responsibility to the boys of America—the Men of Tomorrow!

Life would be much easier if we would just take it easier.

Prices, it appears, have heard that there's more room at the top.

Let's see. Who was getting ready to rule the universe just ten years ago?

Nearly any adult can tell you what is the matter with the younger generation.

Drive carefully; obey traffic signals and, maybe, a speed cop won't run you in.

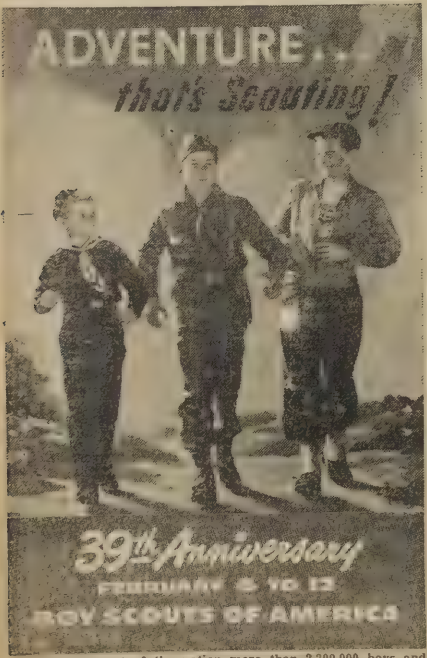
The economic troubles of the world would be solved if there were enough fortunes to go around.

There are few criminals who appreciate the processes of the courts, especially the jury system.

If you ever had doubt about the two sides to every question just listen to the campaign orators.

The liberal use of paint will improve the looks of almost anything; look what it's done for the women.

At this writing we are 198 books behind in the reading of the volumes that the critics say everyone should read.



In every part of the nation more than 2,200,000 boys and their adult leaders, will observe Boy Scout Week, Feb. 6th to 12th, marking the 39th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America. The theme of the celebration is "Adventure—that's Scouting!" This year the movement is emphasizing the fun and fellowship its members get out of the game of Scouting. More high adventure is planned in the out-of-doors. Their adventure in citizenship will find Scouts emphasizing civic service activities, emergency service training and world Scouting relationships. During Boy Scout Week, Scouts, their parents and countless communities will honor the volunteer adult leaders of the nation's 70,000 Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Senior Units. Above is the official poster marking the Scout birthday.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

We appreciate calls giving us an idea for a paragraph for this column. Leo Thompson is one of our best friends and severist critics. He often calls and agrees or disagrees with us on our ideas and lamentations. Jimmie Bell is good about calling to our attention our short comings as well as our good points. These calls are apreciated much more than they know, believe it or not, at times this stuff is hard to write. If you know something that we could use, call us. This column has been running for nine years, with few misses. That's a long time and takes a lot of ideas. How about contributing yours?

O. H. Finney and Sen. Joe Langan dropped in to see us Sunday morning. Both were just about the coolest customers we have ever seen. They got us out of bed about two hours after sun-up, if there had been a sun-up. Finney (he's secretary to the Governor) and Joe (he's head of Selective Service in the State) were on their way to New York and were driving to Birmingham to take a plane. They had driven for the last twenty miles with the window to their car open scraping the windshield with one hand and driving with the other. As we said before, they were the coolest pair of politicians we have ever seen.

Take special notice of the page sponsored by the American Legion Post 227 of Jemison this week. The fellows are trying to build them a Legion home and we should have said "going to" build them a Legion home. What they start they seem to finish up there, and we are sure this new home will be no exception. J. B. McCue, Jemison police officer, is Commander of Post 227 and is leading the present drive. We wish them well and are betting on them.

Gray & Sons Mule Dealers have just received a carload of mules we see by the ad in Chilton County News. According to the ad it seems they have some good buys, and anybody who is mule-minded ought to make them a visit. Now we didn't say mule-headed—we said mule-minded.

They have started moving back the telephone poles to start widening the highway through Clanton. Thirty inches on each side of the highway is what they will set the gutters back but we won't say how long they said it would take to do it.

The City Police Officers and others responsible should be highly complimented for their handling of traffic on Second Avenue since the closing of State 22, where they are finishing the construction of the new bridge. Although the traffic has been exceptionally heavy, and the stopping and switching of trains, has made it a traffic hazard, there has been no serious accident of any kind. The local police officers have handled the situation exceptionally well and we congratulate them for their good work.

The Ira Watson Store is about ready to open. Was talking to Mr. Linton, the manager, this week and he states that they plan to be open for business on February 15th. They will have a beautiful new store there, and you can depend on the formal opening being quite an affair. The store will be located where City Grocery and the Alabama Power Company office used to be.

And speaking of the new, guess you have noticed the progress of the new Yielding Store over by Buddy Willingham's hostelery. Things are shaping up there fast and looks like things will be ready for business there before too long. We haven't been able to catch Mr. Yielding on his trips down from Birmingham, but when we do we will let you in on the opening date, etc., etc.

He had bought the little man a pair of glasses. When he entered his place of business to thank him for his kind deed we just happened to be there. The little man thanked his benefactor again and again and wanted his praise as to how the new glasses looked and if he thought the tint was just right. The kind man who had bought the glasses told the little man that he thought the glass should have been tinted a bit more but other than that they looked very good; that if he was satisfied, all was well. The little man thanked him again and turned to leave.

You see he had to come to the man who had bought him the glasses to find out how they looked when he wore them. How the glasses appeared to others, he couldn't know. He was blind.

Saturday before last Dick Hayes had his showing of the new Chevrolet. He missed a bet by not staying open Sunday afternoon too. It was a beautiful spring day, even if it was in January. We saw out-of-towners, out-of-countyers and out-of-staters, peering in Hayes Chevrolet Company windows at the new Chevrolet that afternoon.

Dent Williams had the showing of his new Pontiac this past Sunday. It was supposed to be a showing, but few could get out to take a look at the beautiful new automobile. It was very much like a week end we had last year when everything was covered with solid ice for two or three days. It was a good day to stay close to a red hot stove.

Al Haack's order must have gone wrong—like when you order a certain kind of automobile. We stated a few days ago that he had put his order in for a big, fine boy. Well, last Wednesday Mrs. Haack presented him with a big, fine, girl, weighing in at between seven and eight pounds, we believe. Well, anyway, Mr. Haack is tickled to death with the new comer and tells us that the mother and daughter are both doing fine.

While we are on the subject, Mr. Haack has resigned at Woodyard Motor Company and is now with the Alabama Motor Club, travelling out of Birmingham. Mr. Turner from Prattville is the local manager at Woodyard Motors at present.

Pat's Place is making and serving delicious barbecues. Mr. Connie DeLoach, operator, is taking care to please his customers which is a "must" if you want them to call back for a refill. He won't have to worry about us calling back for a refill if he makes them all like the ones we got last Friday night. And the place was busy. Mr. DeLoach says he wants his friends and customers to get into the habit of saying. "Meet Me At Pat's."

ALABAMA * * * * HIGHLIGHTS

In the days before the coming of the white man to the regions now comprising this state, great herds of buffalo and elk grazed the flat lands of Alabama's Black Belt and Wiregrass sections.

In 1937 Alabama was producing more than one-half of the nation's cast iron soil pipe. Three-fourths of this output came from Anniston and the surrounding districts.

The first commercial airline operations in Alabama began in 1928 with the establishment of the St. Tammany and Gulf Airlines. This pioneer air route included New Orleans, Mobile, Birmingham, and Atlanta on the schedule.

Between 1820 and 1840 more than 200 private academies of learning were established in Alabama. To increase enrollments, the proprietors of these institutions came out with such adds as: "Don't send your daughters out of the State to some school with a big name where they learn but little save to dress fine, dip snuff, and think of sweethearts."

The first medical school in Alabama opened at Mobile in 1859 as The Medical College of Alabama. The institution was set up as a department of the University of Alabama. During the Federal occupation of the city following the war, the buildings of the college were used as a school for Negroes from 1865 to 1868.

The Hughes House, NW corner 3rd Street and Tuscaloosa Avenue, was the first home built in Double Springs, modern day Gadsden. The Hughes House was erected in 1835 by a half-breed Cherokee, John Riley. It was bought a year later by one Gabriel Hughes, whose name it still bears.

The first cotton cloth mill incorporated in Alabama was established in 1832 on the Flint River near Huntsville.

Legend has it that Huntsville's original First Methodist Church was used as a stable by Union troopers during the Civil War. The old structure was then burned by the invaders. The present building was erected in 1867. In 1916, more than a half century after the burning of the original structure, the Federal Government compensated the congregation for the damages inflicted on the ante-bellum house of worship.

Fat, in which fish has been fried, can be used again. By straining the used fat through a cloth, all odors and "fish taste" will be removed and this grease can be combined with other fat.

4th Chapter Of The Acts

As we come to the 4th chapter of The Acts we see the result of the miracle of the healing of the lame man in chapter three. The priests and the captain of the Temple, and the Sadducees were incensed at the Apostles' teaching of the resurrection from the dead by Jesus Christ. The Apostles were arrested and placed in prison. But the persecution against the men of God, and the spirit by which they endured the same, had its effect on the people. For in verse four it says, "Howbeit many of them heard the Word believed, and the number of the men was about five thousand. Think of it; five thousand men believing on the Lord Jesus Christ. It takes the best that is in a man for him to turn from sin, and turn to Christ. Any old fool can serve the devil and sin, but it takes a real "he" man to denounce sin, and come over on the Lord's side, and take a firm stand for Christ, and his teachings in this wicked and sinful world. But thank God, there are some men, men enough to do this very thing. There are some very fine Christian men in the world. It has been my privilege to meet and know some of them.

A. T. HICKMAN

Please note that it says, "They believed the Word." Not that they joined the church, or turned a new leaf, or reformed, but that they believed the Word, and believed on the Lord Jesus Christ. Friends, the only way to Salvation is by believing in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. He is the Way, the Life, and the Truth, no man cometh to the Father, but by Him. There is none other name giving under heaven whereby men can be saved. It is by grace, through faith in Christ.

The rulers were concerned as to what they would do with Peter and John. They could not speak against the miracle, for they saw it with their own eyes. But they did not want this cause to go farther. So they threatened the Apostles, and commanded them not to teach and preach any more in the name of Jesus Christ. But they were firm in their conviction, and steadfast in their faith and doctrine, and went right on teaching and preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ. There are some preachers today who will not listen to the whims and whines of the people, but go right along preaching the Word.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

Rheumatic Fever

Rheumatc Fever is the Number 1 child's disease but adults may have it too. It afflicts 50 times more children than infantile paralysis. During the last war it was found that there were about one million cases of rheumatic heart disease in the U. S. and about 150, 000 men were rejected from service because of it.

This disease does not pick by place age group, sex nor racial group. All of us are endangered by it, no one is absolutely safe.

Rheumatic fever usually causes a fever and a swelling and soreness of the joints. The symptoms can be so mild that they are not noticed. One type of symptom is a child that cannot be still; he squirms constantly. The worst part of this disease is a permanently damaged heart, and the disease may continue to damage the heart for some time after the symptoms have dissappeared. A person is not safe from a second attack because he has had it once. Instead second, or even more, attacks are likely because of a weakened condition, and these other attacks do more and more damage to the heart.

The earlier the disease is recognized the better chance a person has of complete recovery with no damage to his heart. Therefore periodic examinations are necessary. There is no "miracle" medicine for rheumatic fever. Bed rest, good nursing, and continuous medical attention are necessary. Bed rest must continue until the disease is well over. It has been estimated that one half the patients come through their first attack without heart disease.

Second attacks are very serious. Colds and sore throats are often the beginning of this recurrence. Once a person has had rheumatic fever, it is necessary that he be kept in the best of health and that he avoid colds and be kept away from those with colds.

Remember that early recognition means so much in this fight against rheumatic fever. Repeated joint or muscle pains call for an examination by a physician, but every ache and pain is not rheumatic fever. Periodic physical examinations are essential in fighting this disease. Care by a phsician and understanding by the family are essential once a person has rheumatic fever.

Nicest Compliment I've Had

One of the nicest comments I've received about this column was from an editor in Middle Alabama I called on. And while I don't like to give myself orchids, I think it illustrates a point.

"Joe," he said, "it so happens I don't agree with everything you say, but I always like to read your column. Because it gets down to earth and talks about the right to disagree. And it only asks for tolerance towards the other person's point of view."

He went on to explain, by way of illustration, that he never had happened to have a taste for ale or beer. But that when I spoke of the right to enjoy a moderate beverage like beer, well, he was right there with me!

And from where I sit, that's the important thing: not whether you share another person's tastes or point of view—but whether you recognize his right to exercise a free choice in a free land.

PLANTING TREES FOR CASH

In counties where P.M.A. Practice No. 12 has been adopted, farmers will receive $6 per 1,000 trees planted. Sixty-five per cent of the trees must live for payment to be made.

VALUE GF MANURE

Manure increases available plant food, tends to loosen hard, tight clay soils, makes soil easier to cultivate, increases water-holding capacity of soil, and adds beneficial bacteria to the soil.

SPEAKS-GOWAN MARRIAGE IN CLANTON

The marriage vows of Miss Sallie Dodd Gowan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Earl Gowan, and Francis William Speaks, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Speaks, were solemnized at an impressive ceremony performed at the First Baptist Church at seven o'clock Saturday evening, January 29th.

The Rev. Roswell E. Owens officiated at the double ring service. The pews were marked with single cathedral tapers set in bouquets of white gladioli and lilies tied with white satin ribbons.

Southern smilax and palms of woodwardia ferns, formed a background for a central fan arrangement of white gladioli, snapdragons and lilies. Bouquets of the same flowers were fastened to the wrought iron candelabra holding white tapers.

Mrs. Erle Ellis, organist, and Mrs. Carlisle Miller, violinist, rendered nuptial selections and traditional wedding marches. Mrs. Raymond Mims, soloist, sang How Do I Love Thee and Calm As The Night.

Mr. Cooper Speaks served his brother as best man. Ushers were Guy Higgins and Ben Roberts of Clanton, Robert Finney of Tuscaloosa, and John Speaks, brother of the groom, Sewanee, Tenn.

Mrs. John Higgins was her sister's matron of honor, and Miss Evelyn Lowe maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy Andrews of Mariana, Ark., and Miss Dolly Morton of Tuscaloosa. All wore identical dresses of forest green faille, featuring portrait neckline, fitted bodices, and bell skirts with bustle effect. They carried colonial bouquets of yellow spring flowers, tied with yellow streamers.

Misses Louise Golden, Martha Bell, Nancy Wilbanks and Joanna Gowan were junior bridesmaids, and wore miniature models and carried miniature bouquets.

Walter Earl Gowan, the bride's nephew was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Gowan wore a crepe dress of dove gray with a corsage of pink roses.

Mrs. Speaks, mother of the groom, chose a blue crepe and wore a corsage of pink roses.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was radiantly beautiful in a white satin gown with a yoke of chantilly lace which was appliqued in scallops to the tight-fitting bodice. The full skirt extending in a cathedral train was bordered with same lace. Her lace trimmed veil of illusion was caught to a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained with a reception at their home.

The reception rooms were beautifully decorated in the bridal theme. The bride's table, covered with a white organza cloth over white satin, was centered with a tiered cake, decorated with spun roses and orchids. Crystal candelabra held white tapers and spun orchids were reflected on mirror plaques.

Assisting in receiving the guests were Mrs. W. A. Willis, Sr., and Mrs. Edna Kinney.

Miss Mary Clyde Mims was in charge of the bride's book.

Mrs. Paul Page and Miss Martha Wingard served the cake.

Miss Alee Stewart Johnson and Miss Helen Stroud presided at the coffee service.

Others assisting were Miss Barbara Burnett, Mrs. H. G. Heflin, Mrs. Joe Earl Gowan, Mrs. Andy Jones, Miss Priscilla Johnson and Mrs. Sam Gowan.

For travelling Mrs. Speaks wore a two-toned brown suit with brown accessories and orchid corsage.

Radio Ramblings

(By JESSE CULP)

I've got some big news about the local radio station this week; and it's going to be some big news for lots of Clanton people as time goes on. If you listened to WKLF Monday at 5 o'clock, you know what I'm talking about. It's the new "Fashion Portraits" program.

Each week, a secret "Mr. X" is appointed, who in turn selects some lady (no age limit) in Clanton to reign as queen of the week. During that time she is showered with gifts from Clanton merchants, and on Wednesday afternoon of her reign, she is interviewed on the "Fashion Portraits" program. Mrs. Grady Heflin has the great honor of being this week's queen. She'll realize what a pleasant title that is by this time next week. Incidentally, the identity of "Mr. X" is not revealed.

There are several other newcomers to the WKLF program schedule this week. Every day of the week at 11:15 it's "Luncheon Melodies," a program of recorded tunes that are nice to listen to but don't often find their way into the popular record shows. In the afternoon, it's "Features in the News" with Paul Reid at one o'clock.

"America's Favorites," with song publisher Marion W. Easterling on commentary, is now on the air from 11:30 to 12:00 each day. Chilton County News has been moved over to the 12:00 spot.

The "Alabama Farm and Home Hour" made its debut on WKLF this week. The program is aimed at entertainment and information for the entire farm family, and features the music of the Peach Pickers. It is now heard each morning, Monday through Saturday, from 5:45 to 6:45.

"Are we starving to death?" is the subject for the current series of programs on "Facts for Farmers" at 12:15. This ought to be a regular listening spot for all farmers in Central Alabama. Another good farm listening bet is the "Auburn Daily News" at 12:30 each day. John McCune reports from Birmingham the latest national and state news, and also gives the market reports from over the southeast.

That's sign off time for this week. See you next Thursday. Until then, so long and good listening.

* * *

Mr. Chas Howard and Mr. Lloyd Howard made a business trip to Mobile last Thursday in the interests of Wayside Gardens. They brought back a full truck load of choice azaleas and camellias.

Mrs. Ralph Mason and Mrs. D. A. Mason of Selma, Ala., visited with Mrs. A. E. Reagan and other relatives on last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Porter entertained as their guests last week end Dr. and Mrs. Ir. Martin and young daughter of Birmingham; also Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Gentry and daughter, Imogene.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Orrville Freeman. A fine baby girl was born to them on last Tuesday, January 25th, at the Central Alabama Hospital. They have named the little girl Mona Dale.

Mrs. A. E. Reagan had as her Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth, Leonard Bosworth and Mr. and Mrs. John Brothers of Birmingham, the occasion being Mrs. Bosworth's birthday.

Mrs. Lula Willis, who has been visiting her son, Mr. J. A. Ogburn, and his family, returned to her home in Birmingham last week.

The new barber shop is nicely located in the building next to the H & J Grocery and which has recently been done over by Mr. Chas. Wade of Clanton. The Thorsby Barber Shop is operated by Mr. Lawrence Hayes, who formerly was located across the street next to the office of Dr. Conway.

Another new establishment which is getting under way in our town, is the Thorsby Candy Company, located in the building just vacated by the Thorsby Barber Shop. We have no particulars so far, but we do know that the making of candy here will soon be a reality. We will probably have some interesting news about this at a later date.

News has been received here of the death of Mrs. A. K. Horn, who passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Steve Pittman, in Montgomery, Ala. Mrs. Horn was among one of the old settlers of Thorsby and lived here for years until Mr. Horn retired from business and moved to Montgomery. There are many old friends here who were saddened by the news of her passing. Funeral services were held at Montgomery on Tuesday, February 1st.

The recent severe cold spell has been keenly felt after having enjoyed such balmy Spring weather. The lovely spring flowers, which had bursted forth, all too soon, looked quite sad, with heads hanging heavy with ice and many buds which are perhaps killed. But while we felt sad about our flowers, we were enjoying the beauty of the ice-covered trees, for it does present a pretty picture. We have been told by some of the biggest peach growers in the county that the peach buds were not far enough advanced to be hurt, so we think it is a little early to announce that there will perhaps be no peach festival this year as was hinted in the Sunday issue of The Birmingham News. We feel pretty sure there will be, unless the crop should be a complete failure.

The baptismal services which were to have taken place at the Baptist church last Sunday ,night were postponed on account of the weather and will be held on next Sunday night, the weather permitting.

Mrs. C. D. Gibbons has been on the sick list, but is on the road to recovery.

We are having some interesting basketball games here at the Junior High School. Last week our team defeated West End Merchants of Birmingham, and also a Clanton team. They were defeated by the Bessemer Civitans by a very close margin.

A very lovely picture of one of our young ladies appeared in last Saturday's issue of The Birmingham News. The picture is that of Miss Martha Green of New York City, formerly of the Isabella Community. Martha has signed a seven-year contract with the Harry Conover Modeling Agency, and has appeared in news reels and television shows, where she has modeled for fashion shows for Paramount Studios. This young lady has many friends here who were interested to learn of her success. She is a graduate of Thorsby Institute. Her sister, Miss Sara Green, also a graduate of Thorsby Institute, and her mother, Mrs. Joe Sewell Green, are now residing in Clanton, Ala.

ALABAMA GUARDSMEN TO HOLD GALA MILITARY BALL

It was announced today by Major General James S. Saliba, Adjutant General of the State of Alabama, that the National Guardsmen of the entire state would be invited to attend the first annual military ball of the Alabama National Guard, to be held in the city auditorium, Montgomery, February 12 from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m.

Music for dancing will be furnished by Blue Barron and his ever popular orchestra. A floor show consisting of Heatherton, Joan Dale, a Montgomery girl, with a lovely voice, and Konrad Klein, former European opera star recently discovered in Montgomery, together with a half hour coast to coast broadcast over WCOV and the Columbia Broadcasting System are the featured highlights of the military ball program.

It is the desire of the Adjutant General of the State, that all possible efforts be made to attend what promises to be the social highlights of the military year.

Fold dinner napkins in quarters when ironing one time. The next time fold in thirds. By doing this the napkins will have a longer life.

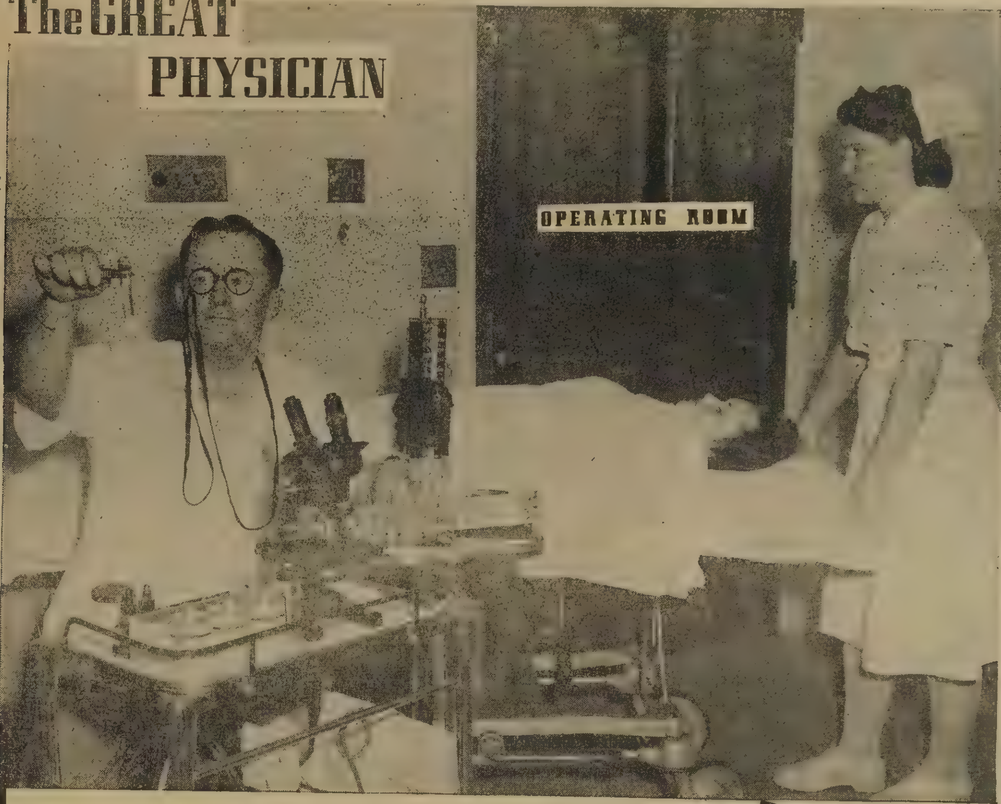
The GREAT PHYSICIAN



HATS off to the physicians and surgeons and nurses and all the wonderful healing fraternity, who have done so much to ease our pains and cure our sicknesses and help these complicated bodies to function properly and healthfully! They would be the first among us to join with the Psalmist of old that it is God "who healeth all my diseases"; they are the divine Physician's assistants, dedicated to the high task of bringing the ministries of God where they are most needed.

OF all the fine things recorded of Jesus none catch the imagination and hold it better than the stories of his gracious service to the bodies and the minds of men. The ancients very rightly believe that some evil forces at work in us must be the major causes of our ills; they called them 'demons' or 'unclean spirits' and they may have named them fully as wisely as we have tried to do when we call them 'germs' or 'microbes' or 'bacilli.' They were eminently correct too when they agreed that only a greater Power for good can make men well and drive out these evil things.

INSTEAD of one great Assistant, intelligently at work, God now has millions of highly trained helpers who are doing marvelous things with these bodies of ours.

BUT our deeper sicknesses are within and require more direct ministry from the Great Physician Himself; they also require more active and conscious cooperation of each of us sinners. For 'sin' is sickness of soul, a spirit out of condition, a mind and heart that are not functioning with clear thinking and good feeling or attitude. The Great Physician sets before us in the person of Jesus Christ the healthy sort of a person each of us ought to be. He is the normal Individual, whose thoughts and feelings led to beautiful and helpful living that was contagious. We must spend time in His company and 'catch' from Him the strength and the goodness we need. Then as we come in penitence, God will forgive us and cleanse us from the unrighteousness which is our great sickness.

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

Greensboro's 2nd Annual Camellia Show And Tour

Sunset Hill, home of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Lawson, Greensboro, Ala.

Sunday, February 13th, has been set as the date for Greensboro's second annual Camellia Show and tour of its ante bellum homes.

Three of Greensboro's stately ante bellum homes will welcome all visitors, while the City High School will be the scene of a reception and display of hundreds of varieties of Camellias, Japonicas and exhibits of antique glass, china and silver from Hale County homes, arranged in period and pattern table settings in the center of the school auditorium. Special arrangements of camellias and flowering branches will be displayed in 65 decorated alcoves. Nurseries from Mobile, Tuscaloosa, Augusta, Ga., and other camellia growing centers have made arrangements to send to the Festival their finest specimen blossoms. Prints and paintings of camellias by a number of nationally known artists have been lent for the occasion and will be hung in the auditorium.

Homes that will be open to the public will include the beautiful cottage type Winston Withers residence, the first part of which was built in the 1840's and additions to 1856; the ancestral home of Richmond Pearson Hobson, U. S. Naval hero of the Spanish American War, which is now a State shrine, and the gracious L. J. Lawson home on Tuscaloosa Street.

A new feature of this year's Festival, which will be of special interest to those who cherish Old South traditions, will be a pageantry of store window displays, each depicting a phase of life in the pre-war South. Merchants are vying with each other in producing artistic window settings symbolizing Old South customs.

Warned by the unexpected influx at the first Camellia Festival last year of over 5,000 visitors, where only a few hundred had been expected, special preparations have been made with the highway patrol to direct traffic. To avoid congestion at the High School Auditorium, tickets will be sold on highways leading into Greensboro. Cafes and filling stations will remain open throughout the day. Visitors who came early and bring their luncheons may picnic on the grounds of the old Southern University College Street, now a community park.

Jackson — 7.818 miles base and double surface treatment from Stevenson northwest toward the Tennessee state line, $95,933.

Wilcox — 5.768 miles grading, drainage, double surface treatment and bridges on a county road from Furman toward Pineapple. The roadway contract was let for $120,441. The bridge contract went for $63,390.

IMPORTS THROUGH MOBILE PORT HAVE SPURT IN OCTOBER

Montgomery — Word has been received from the U. S. Commerce Department that imports passing through the Port of Mobile showed an increase during last October.

Import figures last month put the total cargo values at $2,703,519.

During the same month of 1947, $1,149,204 worth of imports passed through the Mobile shipping installations.

The commerce department explained the increase by citing the rising amount of trade being carried on with Mexico and Cuba. Heavy shipments of sugar and manganese ore came in from Cuba, while mahogany and bananas were the big imports from Mexico.

Alabama's Two Bands Praised By President At Inauguaration

Washington, D. C. — The Alabama delegation, led by Gov. and Mrs. James E. Folsom, participated in many of the gala functions during the inauguration ceremonies by the Alabama participants brought an unending stream of compliments and congratulations from press and radio groups, as well as from spectators in general.

President Truman himself, after the inaugural parade, told Gov. Folsom that of the 84 bands participating, "None were better than the two bands from Alabama." And the President asked Gov. Folsom to thank the people of Alabama for honoring him so splendidly by sending the two bands to take part in his inaugural parade.

Taking its place according to rank of admittance into the Union, the Alabama parade group came twenty-third in the line-up of states. Six Alabama Highway motorcycle patrolmen, formed a "V", escorted the Gov. and Mrs Folsom who rode in a convertible with the Governor's special military aide, Lt. Col. D. T. Jones of the Secretary of National Defense's Office, and Cpl. Billie Bishop of the Alabama Highway Patrol.

Immediately behind the Governor, followed the Auburn band, which won the lead spot by toss of coin, and the University of Alabama band.

Washington papers estimated that 1,350,000 spectators watched the inaugural parade.

More invitations were extended to the Governor and his party than could be accepted, but among the major functions attended, other than the parade, were the following: The Truman-Barkley dinner; reception for Governors at home of Joseph E. Davies, former Ambassador to Russia; Inaugural Gala in which more than 700 stage and screen stars participated; the Alabama State Society Ball honoring the Governor and the Alabama Congressional Delegation; President Truman's reception at the National Gallery of Art; the Inaugural Ball; reception at the Norwegian Embassy; and reception given by Sen. J. Howard McGrath, chairman of National Democratic Committee.

Gov. Folsom gave a luncheon honoring Alabama's Senators and Congressmen at the Capitol, at which time he discussed phases of state business

More than 600 Alabamians attended the State Society Ball at the swank Wardman Park Hotel. Mr. Justice Hugo Black shared the spot-light in the receiving line with Gov. and Mrs. Folsom and the State Congressional Delegation and their wives.

It was during the inaugural ball, supplied with music by the orchestras of Benny Goodman, Guy Lombardo, Xavier Cugat, and the Marine Corps Band, that Gov. Folsom, on a special invitation brought by one of the President's aides, went up to the balcony for a short chat with President and Mrs. Truman in their exclusive box, surrounded on all sides by secret service men.

En route to Washington, 35 members of the delegation stopped off with Gov. and Mrs. Folsom in Richmond where they were entertained at breakfast by Gov. and Mrs. Tuck of Virginia. Gov. Tuck then took the group on a personally conducted four-hour tour of historic spots in Richmond.

State officials accompanying the Governor to the inauguration were J. D. Mitchell, Director, Dept. of Public Safety; Frank Bunkley, Chairman, ABC Board; C. C. Horton, Director, Dept. of Veterans' Affairs; R. R. Wade, Director, Dept. of Labor; O. H. Finney, Jr., Executive Secretary; Ralph Hammond, Director, Division of Records and Reports; and Miss Annie Lola Price, Secretary to Gov. Folsom.

Representing the state legislature in the delegation were Sen. A. L. Patterson of Phenix City, Sen. Broughton Lamberth of Alexander City; Sen. Joseph Langan of Mobile; and Rep. E. L. Roberts of Gadsden.

Sgt. Floyd Dyar and Cpl. Billie Bishop of the Highway Patrol were special aides to the Governor, and Cpls, Louis Phillips, M. C. Meredith, T. J. Carlisle, J. R. Melton, Harry Johnson, and John Stewart rode motorcycles in the inaugural parade.

Among others in the Alabama delegation were Col. and Mrs. Cliff Stiles, Birmingham; Dan Baker, Troy; Mr. and Mrs J. P. Faulk, Samson; Mr. and Mrs W. A. McWaters, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hatzler, Pitt Tyson Manor, Opal Pruitt, Jean Turner, Mrs. Alex Howell, Bob Finney, and Lois Caldwell — all of Montgomery; Mr. and Mrs Charlie Rainey, Culman; Mayor Hamner Cobb, Phenix City; Mr. and Mrs Jerome Phillips and Col. Joseph Rookis of Birmingham; Judge and Mrs William Taylor, Mrs. Frank Bunkley, Mr. and Mrs. "Red" Wilkerson of Mobile.

The students of the two Alabama bands remained in Washington an extra day for sightseeing. Their trip to the inauguration was made possible by people throughout the state contributing a little more than $14,000 to defray expenses.

Patrol Chief Stresses Many Dangers Of Winter Driving

Montgomery — With more autos in operation today than ever before, Patrol Chief Bankhead Bates last week urged every state motorists to be especially alert at the wheel during the winter season.

"Winter is a time of slick roads and poor visability," Chief Bates warned. "Only through remaining alert and keeping the safety devices on your car in tip-top shape can you hope to avoid the traffic hazards of the present season."

In issuing his warning to Alabama motorists, Chief Bates set forth the following winter driver's code:

1. Always plan on the weather being bad. You can't regulate the weather, but you can your driving.
2. Reduce speed when road surfaces are wet. This will reduce the chances of your car sliding out of control and the time it will take you to bring your vehicle to a hasty halt.
3. Keep windshield and windows clear. Check your defrosters and wipers.
4. Winter increases the danger of death or injury by carbon monoxide poisoning. Never warm your car up in a closed garage. Check exhaust system and floorboard for leaks. Manifold type heaters should not be used unless frequently examined for leaks and other defects.
5. Keep your tires in good shape so that they will be capable of coping with wintry roads.

BOY SCOUT SUNDAY

Next Sunday is Boy Scout Sunday. It will be marked in countless churches of all denominations. Scouts and leaders will attend religious services in uniform. Those of Jewish faith will hold ther observances in synagogues and temples on Friday evening, Feb. 11 and Saturday, Feb: 12. Many sermons, addressed to the Scouts, will touch on some aspect of the Boy Scout Week theme.

The programs of Scouting, leaders in the organization say, prepare Scouts to face the future, helping to build a new world with construction, not destruction as the goal. Scouting in the 42 nations recognized by the Boy Scout International Bureau has an enrollment of 4,409,780 Scouts and leaders.

DRAFT BOARDS NOT AUTHORIZED TO ACCEPT ENLISTMENTS FROM MEN UNDER 26

Montgomery — If you're in the draft age bracket of 19 through 25 and want to join a branch of the Armed Forces before your number comes up, you'll have to go to one of the regular enlistment centers, because your local draft board can't do you any good along this line.

Saying that there has been some misunderstanding regarding draft board acceptance of men under 26, State Selective Director Joe Langan said that, under the present regulations, local draft boards do not have the authority to accept men for enlistments who are in the age range of 19 through 25.

Langan said that the draft boards are referring volunteers in the draft age category to the regular enlistment centers.

Information regarding enlistment in the Armed Services can be obtained at any post office local recruiting station.

NEW GALLERY SEATS INSTALLED IN HOUSE AND SENATE CHAMBERS

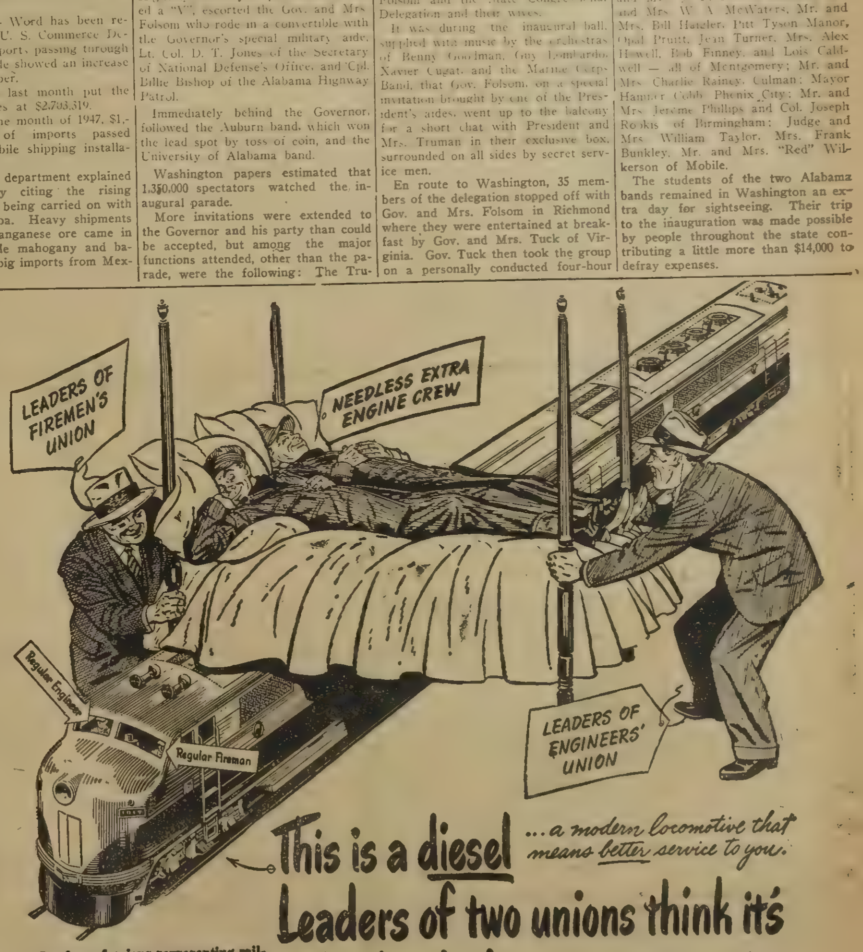
Montgomery — When spectators jam the Senate and House galleries in May to witness the convening of Alabama's 1949 legislature, they will be greeted by 155 brand-spanking-new, leather covered seats.

The new seats, which replaced the old wooden type, were recently installed at a cost of $4,363. The legislative fund footed the bill.

BOY SCOUT WEEK

The nation's 2,200,000 members of the Boy Scouts of America will mark the 39th anniversary of the organization during Boy Scout Week which opens Sunday, February 6, and closes Feb. 12.

The anniversary will be observed in every city and town and most villages and hamlets throughout the nation and its territories. Its theme this year is "Adventure — That's Scouting!" and the activities during the celebration will be related to the theme.



LEADERS OF FIREMEN'S UNION
NEEDLESS EXTRA ENGINE CREW
Regular Engineer
Regular Fireman
LEADERS OF ENGINEERS' UNION
This is a diesel ...a modern locomotive that means better service to you.
Leaders of two unions think it's a feather-bed ...a "make work" grab that means less service to you.

● Leaders of unions representing railroad engineers and firemen seek to force railroads to add extra, needless men on diesel locomotives. This is sheer waste —a "make-work" program which would mean fewer improvements and higher costs—for YOU!

Railroads use modern diesel locomotives because they are one of the means of giving faster, better service to you.

Two men compose the crew of a diesel. They occupy a clean, comfortable cab at the front. The engineer handles the throttle. The fireman sits and watches the track ahead. With no coal to shovel, he has practically nothing else to do.

No Benefit To You

Now the leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen want to use the diesel locomotive as a means of forcing a feather-bedding scheme on the railroads. The extra men they propose to add to the diesel crews are not needed. There is no work for them.

The union leaders are fighting among themselves about which union should furnish these extra, needless men. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers have even threatened a strike. You may not be interested in this dispute of these two unions, but you would be vitally concerned if these groups succeed in putting through this feather-bedding scheme, because it would mean a slowing up of the improvement program of the railroads—of which the diesel is the outstanding symbol.

Diesel crews are among the highest paid railroad employes—real aristocrats of labor! Their pay is high by any standard. Granting of these demands, therefore, would mean that the railroads would be paying out millions in unearned wages to those in the very highest pay brackets.

We'd Like To Spend This Money On You

You know how much the diesel has meant to you in increased speed, comfort and convenience. The railroads have many more of them on order for even greater improvement in service to you. But needless drains of money, such as this present demand of the unions for needless men on diesels, reduce the ability of the railroads to spend money on better service for you.

Proud as the railroads are of the diesel, it is only a small part of their improvement program. Since the War, literally billions of dollars have been spent on improvement of tracks and stations, on new passenger and freight cars, as well as on diesel locomotives, and on the many other less conspicuous details of railroading that contribute to improved service.

Feather-Bedding Means Less Service To You

But brazen feather-bedding schemes like the one now proposed would, if successful, divert large sums of money from our present improvement programs. Even worse, they make improvements like the diesel worthless, by making the cost of their operation prohibitive.

These demands are against YOUR interests —as well as those of the railroads. They are schemes to "make work". Neither you nor the railroads should be forced to pay such a penalty for progress.

That's why the railroads are resisting these "make work" demands to the last ditch—and why they are telling you about them.

Officials of the Jemison Post American Legion announced last week that plans were underway to build a ten thousand dollar Legion Home. According to Post Commander H. J. McCue, the land had already been donated for the project and only the cost of materials have to be arranged for. This the Legion is doing through populary subscriptions.

It is reported that actual work on the building will be done by members of the Legion. This will eliminate a large cost of the new structure and the money saved will go back into the building materials used. Most of the material will be bought at cost.

Local merchants who have fallen in line with the Legion and are sponsoring their cause are identified by advertising on these pages sponsored by Post No. 227 American Legion, Jemison, Ala. Officers of the Jemison Post are: H. J. McCue, Post Commander, Alton Cobb; First Vice-Commander, Jack LeNoir, Second Vice-Commander, Floyd Atkinson, Adjutant, John Watts, Sgt.-At-Arms, Frank Lessley, Historian, and Vaughn Martin, Chaplain.

NATIONAL PMA OFFICIAL VISITS LOCAL OFFICE

Mr. J. B. McClure of Washington, D. C., visited Chilton County last week accompanied by Mr. J. F. Cooke, of Auburn, who is State Director of Crop Insurance in Alabama. Mr. McClure is Chief Loss Adjuster of the program.

The distinguished visitors were making a ten-day tour of the Alabama counties under this program. These counties are: Chilton, Houston, Tuscaloosa, Limestone, DeKalb and Madison.

While here they conferred with Mr. Joe Campbell local PMA manager, on the 1949 crop program. This program which guarantees the planter against loss of the cost of his fertilizer and seed is a non-profit program and has proven quite popular in this county since the introduction of the program.

As one planter stated: "Just to know that even if the worst comes to the worst, I'll still have enough to pay for my fertilizer. That's enough to make it worthwhile. It's worth a dollar and five cents an acre to be able to sleep at night without that to worry about."

PREPARE, BAKE AND FREEZE EXTRA PIES

Auburn, Alabama - The way to keep extra mince and pecan pies on hand is to prepare, bake and then freeze them in the home freezer.

According to Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension food preservation specialist crusts of frozen mince and pecan pies will remain crisp for several months. Also, the flavor will be the same as when they were first baked.

After baking, allow pies to cool and then wrap them in cellophane paper and seal. Store in a pie box or between two paper plates. This will protect the crust from being broken during storage.

FAIRER COURT MARTIAL PRACTICE FOR ENLISTED MEN

In a sweeping innovation designed for fairer court martial practice enlisted men will be included on General and Special Courts Martial Board set up by the Army, it was stated today by Sgt. Jesse M. Trimble of the local Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

Army action on the matter of fairer court martial procedure came close on the heels of recommendations based on the findings of the Vanderbilt committee headed by Arthur T. Vanderbilt, Chief Justice of New Jersey Supreme Court.

Under the terms of the special act, the accused may request the presence of enlisted personnel on the board. The act further provides that at least one third of such boards must be composed of enlisted personnel.

In order to prepare personnel for such assignments, the Judge Advocate General will soon begin a series of classes in military law designed to educate personnel in military courts martial procedure. Those eligible for service are Master Sergeants, Sergeants First Class (formerly T-Sergenats. Both male and female enlisted personnel may be called upon for such duty, Sgt. Trimble announced.

TB DEATH RATE ON INCREASE

Alabama is one of only eight states in the nation showing an increase in tuberculosis death rates for 1947 over 1946.

This fact was revealed by Alabama Tuberculosis Association officials who quoted final figures just released by the National Office of Vital Statistics in Washington, D.C., through the National Tuberculosis Association.

According to the national figures, 1,147 Alabamians lost their lives from TB in 1947 as compared with 1,122 during 1946, said K. W. Grimley, executive secretary of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association.

Alabama's tuberculosis death rate increased 1.3 per cent in 1947. The 1947 death rate was 40.5 as compared with 40.0 per 100,000 in 1946. The national death rate for 1947 was 33.5 per 100,000, a decrease of 8.0 per cent for the period.

Other states showing an increase, besides Alabama, were Arkansas, Florida, Kansas, Maryland, Nebraska, Rhode Island and Wyoming.

SEN. HARDWICK TO ASK FOR JUNIOR DRIVERS' LICENSE LAW

Montgomery — Alabama children from 12 to 16 will have to get a junior drivers' license to operate motor bikes and scooters if the 1949 legislature passes a measure Sen. Hardwick plans to propose in May.

Hardwick said that the introduction of the measure to the law-making body comes directly from a suggestion by Highway Patrol Sgt. W. A. Norris that such a law would go a long way toward aiding the various levels of law enforcement officers in promoting children's safety programs.

Louie Reynolds seems to have a new girl. Who is she, Louie, or are you ashamed to tell us.

You know what, from the looks of things, I'm going to have to start letting the whole blasted line up at lunch. Boy! I'm late for civics nearly every day; that is, I don't get to have any fun before Mrs. Griffin gets there. (Most amusing).

Fred Thompson, in case you didn't know it, Shelby Studdard sure does look at you mighty peculiar, or haven't you noticed?

It beats me how these girls treat these boys around school (and elsewhere). Man! They're really rugged.

It seems some girls are too timid to cut in on another one. I wonder what I'd do in a case like that? (Cut in, no less.)

Teachers are the funniest people, aren't they, keeds? One day they're going to give you a test and the next day they're not, but usually they give 'em when they are least expected.

Billy Powell and Kathryn West didn't spare the dance floor last Friday night.

Harold Parr an Jearlyne Studdard seemed to have a pretty good time Friday night. I wonder why?

You know what, it seems a few people were slightly drowsy Monday morning. I wonder why?

Eugene Williams, Reedie Taylor and Barry Ray Tucker seemed to be on the low side since Betty Summerville left us; not to mention poor 'ole Winston.

Fred Thompson, Russell Williams, etc., etc., went to the river Friday instead of to the dance. What do you make of those kind of fellows?

Annette Broadhead seems to have an unknown boy friend and she won't tell us who he is. What's wrong, Annette? Not ashamed, are you?

It seems that Burt Inzer and Buddy Minshew got back to speaking again. What happened to the girl, boys?

Mrs. Griffin was accusing me of writing notes the other day. Now, I wonder what gave her that idea?

Joe Blair sure did look funny when Alice Deramus walked in the door at the party Friday night. What happened, Joe, get seasick?

WHY LITTLE PIGS DIE

A 24-year record kept on more than 15,000 pigs farrowed shows that more than one-third of the pigs fail to live to weaning age.

County hog profits early next fall will be much affected by the number of little pigs saved at and after farrowing time this February and March. Hog raisers who save big litters of big thrifty pigs will have a head start on a top hog crop six or seven months later.

Breeding and type of the sow affect litter size. Management and care of the sow at farrowing time also count. But nine times out of ten small weak litters can be traced to improper feeding of brood sows from breeding time to farrowing.

Agricultural experiment stations have proven that the ration fed brood sows during pregnancy affects not only size and strength of little pigs, but also affects the number of pigs born. When baby pigs are born strong and vigorous they are not so easily lain on by the sow and are better able to take care of themselves. Weak pigs are easily mashed and readily die from exposure and other causes.

Baby pigs averaging two and one-half pounds each at birth have five times a better chance to live to weaning age than pigs averaging one and one half pounds. And the heaviest pigs at birth also make the most rapid gains in the feed lot and are heavier at market age

Most Alabama farmers feed their sows on corn alone. Because corn is a fattening feed and is lacking in body and muscle building materials it alone is a very poor feed for brood sows. With protein supplement and grazing it is excellent.

The Iowa station found that sows fed corn and tankage supplement farrowed an average of almost one pig more per litter and their pigs averaged 2.4 pounds each at birth, compared to 1.8 pounds each for the sows fed corn alone. The pigs were twice as strong and vigorous at birth.

So sow rations are important to hog profits. Corn, hand-fed to prevent overweight, plus about one-fourth to one-half pound of tankage supplement hand-fed daily, along with good legume grazing, mineral mixture, and salt, will help insure big litters of strong pigs.

If green grazing is not available, a mixture of 30 pounds of ground, shelled corn, 30 pounds finely ground oats, 30 pounds ground alfalfa hay, and 10 pounds tankage makes a very excellent ration for the sows and gilts during gestation.

Nothing is more useful to man than those arts which have no utility.—Ovid.

HOGS NEED HOUSES

The hog, more than any other farm animal, is sensitive to the extreme of heat and cold.

All classes of hogs must have comfortable quarters in order to do well.

One of the advantages of raising hogs as a money crop is that expensive buildings and equipment are not needed. Too many farmers, however, have tried to raise hogs without any suitable farrowing houses and feeding equipment.

As a result, little pig losses are heavy at and after farrowing time. With older pigs and hogs, colds and pneumonia are the common results of overcrowded, damp, dusty and unsatisfactory housing conditions.

The lack of housing, or the wrong kind, can greatly affect sanitation in the hog lots. Large roundworms and other internal parasites thrive in dirty, wet, shady, and constantly-used hog lots.

A good farrowing house should be easily built, inexpensive, and easily moved from place to place. Such a model has been developed by A.P.I. extension specialists at Auburn. It is now being widely used by hog growers over the state. An A-type arrangement and one end open, it is about eight feet long by seven wide, with a dirt floor. The three sections of the house can easily be taken apart and hauled to clean ground in a matter of minutes. The guard rails can be made of pine poles and attached with bailing wire.

By using scrap materials, most farmers should be able to build one of these for less than $10. Another advantage is that the end section can be removed and it makes an excellent shade for hogs in the hot summer.

Blue prints of these are free for the asking at the county agent's office. In addition, plans for protein supplement, self-feeders, mineral mixture and salt self-feeders, ear corn feeding platforms and self-feeders and other feeding equipment that will soon pay for itself in feed saved, are available. All these, too, can be easily and cheaply built.

PEANUT ACREAGE BASED ON LAST THREE YEARS

Questions asked by Alabama peanut growers indicate that considerable confusion exists as to how the 22 per cent cut in acreage for 1949 will be handled.

Clearing this matter up, B. L. Collins, executive officer of the Production and Marketing Administration, explains that the reduction will not result in a 22 per cent cut to individual farms. The reduction might be more or less than 22 per cent due to the fact that the average harvested acres for the year 1946, 1947, and 1948 will be used as a basis for determining farm allotments..

Records are being checked now and farmers should receive their allotment notices around February 10.

USE STRIP CUP TO DETECT MASTITIS

If proper steps are taken when mastitis first show up in the strip cup a cow's affected quarter can be saved, clean cows will not be infected, and quality of milk will remain good.

J. R. Parrish, Extension Service dairyman, urges farmers to watch for any sign of infection at each milking. Avoid possibility of spreading infection to other quarters. Hot applications and rubbing with camphorated oil may be helpful.

In recent years some of the sulfa drugs have been found effective in mastitis control. More recently, injections of penicillin have cured a large percentage of mastitis cases. However when these methods are used, treatment should be made by a skilled veteranian.

BREAK LAND NOW FOR 1950 BIRD FOOD CROP

Auburn, Alabama - Many Alabama farmers and sportsmen are making preparations to provide food for game birds next year.

They are breaking land for bird food crops. If possible, plantings will be made where crops cannot be grazed. Usually the best place to plant such crops is along field borders or fence rows.

Four crops that will provide food and cover for quail are recommended by Earl F. Kennamer, A. P. I. Extension Service fish and wildlife marketing specialist. He says that large partridge peas and bicolor lespedeza are suitable for the entire state. Florida beggarweed is good for the southern third of the state. Common lespedeza, also known as Jap-clover, is very good for most sections of the state except sandy regions of south Alabama.

UNDULANT FEVER FROM SOWS A POSSIBILITY

" Farmers who assist sows at pigging time should guard themselves against infection which might lead to undulant fever," warns G. B. Phillips, Extension Service hog specialist, Auburn.

Swine brucellosis, formerly called Bang's disease, is easily transmitted to human beings. Long periods of sickness may result from undulant fever, the human form of swine brucellosis.

Remember that failure to wash and disinfect the hands properly after helping the sow to pig may be disastrous. Plenty of soap and water and an antiseptic are safeguards against contracting the swine type of undulant fever.

SAVE VITAMIN, COVER MILK WHILE HEATING

Keeping milk covered while heating helps save riboflavin, an important B-vitamin.

Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Exension Service nutritionist, Auburn, explains that riboflavin is destroyed easily by light and that this destruction is hastened by heat. Tests show that milk boiled in the light lost considerable riboflavin, but milk boiled in the dark lost little.

Miss Hulsey believes that it is important for the housewife to take every precaution against loss of this vitamin in milk, because milk is the food on which children and adults depend for most of the riboflavin they need for best health.

CORN MEAL ENRICHMENT

If you haven't tried enriched corn meal, now is the time to do it. The body makes better use of corn, bread made with enriched meal than it does bread made with meal lacking vitamins and minerals.

Art is simply a right method of doing things. — Thomas Aquinas.

It is not safe to buy land or to lend money and accept land as security without first investigating the Title of the land. Often there are unpaid mortgages and judgments or other liens, affecting the Title, which an Abstract would set out. Therefore, when buying land or lending money thereon, it is important that an Abstract of Title be furnished. A few dollars spent for an Abstract is cheaper than going ahead and having a law suit a little later on.

Disability Census To Be Taken

For the first time in several years, information on the extent of illness and disability in the country will be obtained as part of the Census Bureau's current population survey in February, it was announced today by District Supervisor Flora Stripling in Chilton Perry Area. The current population survey is conducted monthly with a representative cross section of 25,000 families throughout the country, Mrs. Stripling said, including many located in this area.

The information on illness and disability is being collected at the request of the Social Security Administration, the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, and the U. S. Public Health Service in furtherance of their programs for providing assistance and rehabilitation for disabled persons. Information will be obtained about short term illnesses as well as those of a more serious nature in order to get some indication of the general level of health in the country and the extent to which sickness has resulted in a loss of working time and income.

In addition to getting a count of the number of sick and disabled persons, questions will be asked about how long the disability has lasted and whether the person was working before becoming disabled.

These questions are in addition to the regular ones on employment and unemployment which are asked each month in the current population survey.

The February survey will be conducted in this area by a small staff of Census interviewers during the week of February 14 to 18, Supervisor Stripling said. She emphasized that all information supplied to the Census Bureau is treated as confidential under Federal law, and that only statistical summaries are published.

Veteran Farmers To Visit Auburn Experiment Station

Latest information on farming in this section of the state will be obtained by veterans taking on-the-farm training in Vocational Agriculture from Chilton County when they visit the experiment station at Auburn on February 12 and 24.

On this visit various experiments will be shown to the group by J. C. Grimes, superintendent of the station, and results will be studied. Latest developments in varieties, fertilizers, crops, grazing rotations and livestock will be given and also best farming practices to follow in this section of the state.

The ultimate aim of veterans taking on-the-farm training is to become established in farming on a sound basis. In order to do this they are following closely the recommendations of the experiment station located nearest their farms. The purpose of the visit to the station is to bring them up to date on these recommendations.

There will be 140 trainees from Chilton County making this visit under the supervision of M. D. Tingle, head veteran teacher of Vocational Agriculture.

"We have a Tire and Battery Service Department second to none," stated Mr. Herman LeCroy. He further added: "We have more floor space devoted to the display and storage of tires and tubes to fill the needs of the motoring public than any store in Central Alabama.

At present your Firestone Store maintains two buildings stocked full of bargains in automobile accessories, fishing equipment, electric appliances, garden tools and supplies, sporting goods, and many, many items that you will have to come in to see to appreciate.

Mr. LeCroy stated Monday he was "clearing the deck" for his New Spring Merchandise that was arriving daily and would like to see his friends and customers come in and avail themselves of the many bargains being offered.

Buy Needed Fertilizers Early

The farmer that wants to be assured of the amount and kind of fertilizer that he needs to apply to his 1949 crops should move the material to the farm now.

The 1949 fertilizer outlook information indicates that we will have about 7% more materials than in 1948. Although this may be the case, we will probably also have an increase in supply; therefore, expect 1948's scarcity to continue.

Farmers can aid the manufacturer by moving the mixed goods, now in warehouses to the farm. This movement will allow the small town dealers to re-order from the mixing plant and gives the plant space to mix another batch and have seasoned materials to meet planting season demands.

FARMERS UNION WILL MEET

Mt. Pleasant Local Farmers Union will meet at the Mt. Pleasant Schoolhouse Thursday night, February 10, at 7 o'clock. All members who have not placed their orders for fertilizer should do so at this meeting.

It gives drama, excitement and suspense to every audience to which it plays, and Miss King, United Production Director of the play, expressed herself as being highly pleased with the talented and versatile Clanton townspeople who are portraying the various character roles in the play.

We are still waiting for that epoch-marking moving picture that we see advertised so often under so many names.

Look at the calendar and tell us which half of the year has the larger number of days; then read the question over again.

No nation in the past history of the world has ever approached the generosity of the United States, exhibited in the treatment of friend and foe among the nations.

A headline in a Birmingham Daily said: "Craig Officer Speaks Beore Selma Kiwanis." We suspect that is true.

Understand parking meters are delayed a little but are on their way. Oh well, when they arrive guess we should say we're glad to meter.

Guess we should call our new bridge on Selma Road the bridge of sighs. Everybody who looks at it now sighs and says, "When?".

Bill Simpson, our most ardent fisherman friend, stated Tuesday that anyone who went to the river that day would catch a tub full of fish. Anyone who went to the river that day fishing didn't need a tub full of fish—he needed to be examined. (We would have said he needed a psychiatrist, but we can't spell it.)

Thank You, Mr. Jones

Our county papers are outstanding in their particular field of service. They are well made up, good print, and are looked forward to each week with interest. Furthermore, they are very generous in the publicity of our church news items and associational work. I wish to take this means of thanking them and showing a measure of appreciation. We have a great county and the papers are a great asset. — J. W. JONES.

The Faithful

No group of people are held in higher esteem by any weekly newspaper than its group of community correspondents. The COURANT enjoys that same esteem for its fine community correspondents. We have an excellent group doing this work now.

Being a community correspondent is a thankless and non-paying task. There's no money in it and more "cussing" than thanks, but we feel that these gatherers of news in the various communities throughout the county are performing a worthwhile civic task. By their unrewarded efforts they give the rest of us a chance to know what the residents of their communities are doing. No meal seems full without meat and the news sent in by these correspondents from all over the county is the "meat" of this and every weekly paper. THANKS. — Evergreen Courant.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

A lady who was shocked by the language used by two men repairing the telephone in her neighborhood, complained to the company. The foreman was called to explain the happening to his superior. "Me and Bill were on this job," said the foreman. "I was up on the telephone pole and accidentally let some hot lead fall on Bill, and it rolled down his back. Then he called up to me, "You really ought to be more careful, Harry. . ."

Isn't that a nice sidewalk around Dr. Moore's Clinic. It seems slow of course, but that street has certainly shown some improvements within the past two or three years, and the completed sidewalk around that corner finishes the curb and gutter along that block too.

Saturday is Lincoln's Birthday. Everything will be as usual except the banks will close and the post office, of course, will be closed for the day—that is, no deliveries.

Was looking at Bob Windham's "white kitchen" the other day at City Grill. Bob has plans for extensive remodeling in and around his place. We noticed a certificate on the back wall giving him a ninety-fve percent, for cleanliness and his sanitary improvements. He plans to raise his florescent lights to the ceiling and redo, (that's a good word. Pronounced reedo), his tables and booths. Bob claims the best cook in the state. His name is Albert Adkins, and he boasts a wide experience as a chef. Attractive window show cases will go in also for display of his bakery goods.

Been missing Pauline Ramsey's smiling countenance at the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company's checking counter for the past two weeks. Several times we have been in there, but haven't been able to catch Cecil busy. He's about the workingest fellow you ever saw and stays so busy that you have a hard time hemming him in a corner to talk to.

The treasurer of the women's aid society went into a bank to deposit the organization's funds. She handed the money to a hard-of-hearing cashier with the casual remark that "it was the aid money." The cashier thought she said the "egg money," and wanted to compliment her. "Remarkable," he said, "isn't it, how well the old hens are doing these days."

Charles and Minnie Wade are getting some good pictures. Guess they would have a pretty hard time pleasing everybody's taste in picture entertainment. There are some good pictures listed for the next few weeks too, that will be well worth seeing. In case you are interested watch the Wadesonian weekly program the News carry each week.

Last week we started a series of page ads publicizing our churches and encouraging attendance. These pages are sponsored and paid for by local merchants who are interested in the churches of our county. On the same page will appear each week the church calendar and the church leaders are requested to keep us posted of any changes in time, place, or personnel. If you are interested in contributing to this page by listing your business or name under the ad just call the News office for particulars. This is not a money-making scheme as the mats used on this page are copyrighted and are expensive.

We'd like to start a crusade or campaign, or something, to force young men to publish their picture along with brides-to-be. Every Sunday and in the weeklies, too, we see picture after picture of beautiful young girls, but never a picture of the spouse-to-be. When we see a pretty blond, we'd like to know what the heck John Jones, or Tom, Dick, or Harry Stoopnag, or whatever his name may be, looks like too. Maybe we don't approve and would rather he would be blond too, or fatter, or skinier, or maybe we just wouldn't like his looks. It don't seem fair to just publish half the picture.

Veteran's Benefits

The Chilton County News today begins a series of articles on federal benefits available to veterans and their dependents.

These articles, which will appear every week in Chilton County News, give highlights of benefits administered by the Veterans Administration and provide information on questions asked most frequently.

A digest of veterans benefits can be acquired by clipping and saving the articles. The first deals with compensation for service-connected disability.

To be eligible for this benefit, the veteran's disability must be shown to result from disease or injury incurred in, or aggravated by, active military or naval service in line of duty, and the veteran's discharge must be under other than dishonorable conditions.

Rates of payment in wartime cases are based on multiples of 10 per cent degree of disability as determined by the Veterans Administration. The payments range from $13.80 per month, the latter for 100 per cent disability.

Additional amounts are payable, such as $42 for the loss of a foot, hand, or eye. Helplessness, blindness, multiple amputations and similar severe disabilities carry rates of payment from $240 to $360 per month.

If the degree of disability is 60 per cent or more, additional amounts are payable for the dependency of a wife, children, or dependent parents.

Rates of payment in peacetime cases generally are 80 per cent of the wartime rates for the same conditions.

Full information on all veterans benefits can be obtained from your nearest Veterans Administration office or from the service officer of any service organization.

This is the first of a series of articles appearing every week in Chilton County News.

Non - service - connected disability pensions will be discussed next.

The 5th Chapter of Acts

The first thing that confronts us in this fifth chapter of The Acts, is the hypocrisy of Ananias and Sapphira, and their sudden and awful death. They had sold a possession, and were to bring all the money to the Apostles for distribution, like Barnabas did. But something either went wrong, or was already wrong, with Ananias. For instead of bringing all the money to the Apostles, he and his wife agreed to bring only a certain part. This act of hypocrisy was not kept secret from the apostle Peter, for the Holy Spirit revealed the fact to him. Peter asked Ananias why had he allowed satan to fill his heart to lie to the Holy Ghost, that he had not lied unto men, but unto God? This shows that it is the work of satan to put it into the hearts of people to lie, to steal, to murder, and to commit all kinds of sin. It was satan that put it into the heart of Judas to betray Jesus and to sell him for thirty pieces of silver. This thing was such a sin in the sight of God that Ananias did till God sent sudden judgment and destruction upon him and his wife.

A. T. HICKMAN

But friend, do not be too hasty to condemn Ananias for keeping back part of what he was suppose to bring to the Temple, if you are guilty of the same thing in principle. Do you bring one-tenth of all your net earnings into the House of God for the support of the ministry of His Word, or do you bring only a small portion of the tithe? If not, you are no better than Ananias and Sapphira. You are sharing more of the mercy of God than they, for God is allowing you to live longer, and giving you time to repent of your stealing and hypocrisy, while with Ananias there was no more mercy, but sudden death, and judgment.

No doubt this act of God was for the purpose to teach all men then, and now, that it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of a Just God. God said, This whole nation has robbed me in tithes and offerings. And that ye are cursed with a curse, for ye have robbed me. People who withhold from God that which He has ordained should be paid Him, suffer for it, sooner or later. If it is a sin to steal from man, it is also a sin to steal from God. We should be honest with God, and with our fellowman.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

Overweight

Being overweight is not the laughing matter that so many people make of it. Your health may be seriously harmed by obesity (overweight) because it seems to increase the occurrence of many diseases.

Doctors C. F. Gastineau, E. H. Rynearson, and Alice K. Irmisch of Rochester, Minn., point out in the Journal of the American Medical Association that between the ages of 45 and 50 years, 25 pounds of excess weight result in an increase of 25 per cent in the death rate.

The more overweight you are the greater danger there is to life and health. Obesity has been found to be associated with a higher occurrence of high blood pressure, diabetes, cancer, heart disease, kidney disease, hardening of the arteries, liver disease and varicose veins.

Emotions, training, and habit are the important things in whether one overeats or undereats. The eating habits of a person will determine whether he be overweight or not. It has been pointed out that glandular disorders are rarely the cause of either great overweight or leanness.

It cannot be said whether inheritance or environment is more important in the formation of eating habits. It is believed, however, that if mother sets a good table and takes a pride in it, if dad eats heartily and enjoys it, and if there is a feeling in the household that good food and plenty of it is the end and purpose of life, the whole family may become overweight just from pure habit of eating too much.

The above-mentioned doctors indicate that in general, the best way to get rid of excess weight is to eat less. They also say that several medicines which have been used for reducing do little good and that massage, local applications of heat and exercise have no effect on local deposits of fat.

Let us not allow our eating habits to endanger our health and lives. If you need to lose weight, see your doctor for a proper diet which will give you all the things your body needs.

GIVING THEM INDIVIDUAL ATTENTION IN THE HOME

Just so surely as life begins in the home so does that influence which is to mold character for either good or bad. The juvenile delinquency problem of today would not be so great if the youngsters in the home were given more individual attention from their parents. The sin of omission or neglect has arrested too many "well intended" parents. They try to mean well but forget that those hours of personal attention in the home can never be matched by outside teaching.

Be a pal to that girl or that boy of yours while a pal means so much. The supervised wholesome recreation and individual attention from father and mother will pay great dividends in a law abiding citizenry. It is too late after those most precious days pass and you find you have miserably failed as parents and the strong hand of the law has to be called in to discipline where you failed. Keep them in Sabbath Schools and church.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

THANKS FROM MRS. J. M. WILSON

I am sending a special thanks to each one of my good friends who helped in any way in my home, and to care for my children, the eight weeks I was sick.

Many thanks to the ones who gave the beautiful flowers; thanks to Dr. Charles Moore and all the nurses at Central Alabama Hospital for everything they did while I was in the hospital.

May the Lord's richest blessings abide with each one of you is my prayer. — Mrs. J. M. Wilson.

MT. NEBO METHODIST MEN'S CLUB

The Mt. Nebo Methodist Men's Club met Tuesday night, February 1st.

If you remember Tuesday night was just a little on the cool side to be out, but most of our men were present and some new ones, too. At the next meeting we hope to see those few that were not present and all those who wish to join our club.

We have set our goal two times to get fifty men to attend church services and we haven't quite reached our goal. No one has given up and again we set our goal for fifty men to attend church on Sunday, February 6th, and hope to go over. Again, I say that if none of these men get around to go see you, we always welcome you back to church. — Allan Williams, Secretary.

Commander Thanks Members And Friends For Cooperation

Since I cannot see all of you personally I will take this means to thank the members of Post 227 American Legion for their fine cooperation and work in getting things started for our new home. This is also a good opportunity to ask all of you ex-service men to join our Post and help us carry out our program.

Mr. J. B. Atkinson, Clanton, is due a vote of thanks from the organization for his work in preparing the papers free of charge, when the property was purchased for our Legion Club House.

Too, I thank the merchants for their support — financially and spiritually. They have backed us to the limit, and in behalf of Post 227, I wish to thank them.

Mr. Fred Smith, Mayor of Jemison, and Mr. Peterson, principal of Jemison High School, are both American Legion backers and had it not been for their help we could not have done the things we have. Mr. Peterson, we especially thank for the use of the auditorium.

Let us not leave out the Jemison Athletic Club. You could not find a better organization anywhere to work with and they have certainly helped us in every way possible.

If we have overlooked anyone it wasn't intended. What we wish to say is that everybody in Jemison, and half the county are behind us in what we are trying to do, and I want them all to know that the boys who are members of Post 227 American Legion, Jemison, Ala., appreciates it.—H. J. McCue, Commander.

HELEN FAYE COLLINS IS GOOD CITIZENSHIP GIRL AT JEMISON HIGH

It took Helen Faye Collins only one semester to convince her classmates that she was capable enough to be Senior Class President. This was quite an honor to be bestowed on her to be the first girl as Senior Class President. Yet she has displayed all the qualities that goes with such a duty. Helen is efficient, orderly, mannerly, and has initiative.

Hardly a year had passed when the faculty and students cast their votes for her as the Jemison High School "Good Citizenship Girl." Helen enrolled at Jemison one year ago from Thorsby Institute. She first attracted the faculty and students by the simple act of picking paper off the floor without being asked. When a student said to Helen, "Why do you pick paper off the floor without being asked?" Helen's reply was, "I want the floor to be clean and the paper should be picked up."

One teacher said that before long other students seemed to be influenced by Helen and unconsciously picked paper up without being asked. Helen is just that neat in all her work. She is neat in appearance and quite an attractive girl too. Helen is a good student. She belongs to the Beta Club and made Honor Roll this semester. She mixes well in any group. This year she chose to take Home Economics and would of necessity be placed in the same class as the ninth grade students. How has she gotten along with this younger group of girls? The answer is marvelous. Her kind attitude and straight forward thinking has won the admiration of every girl in that class. They said in one accord, Helen Faye Collins is truly the "Good Citizenship Girl."

Helen is the associate editor of the Panthergram, Jemison's school paper. She is reporter of the F.H.A. chapter. Helen types tests and other material for the faculty. On the week ends she works at a grocery store in Thorsby and supplies sometimes at a cafe there. In spite of all this extra work, Helen, because of her good management of time, is capable of always doing a good job of whatever she undertakes.

Helen spends her spare time reading. Novels are her favorite. Her vacation has not been decided upon. She would make a good teacher. Often-times she relieves a teacher who is ill or needs to be away from the room for a short period.

Helen is the daughter of W. A. Collins of Thorsby. In seventeen years she has acquired the charm, grace, and personality, that many wish to imitate. She is truly representative of the good citizens of Jemison and Chilton County.

MRS. JOHN LEVI,
Home Economics Teacher.

SENATOR JOHN SPARKMAN HOLDS KEY SPOTS ON SENATE COMMITTEES

Even though he has been a member of the Senate for only two years, Senator Sparkman of Alabama has been given very important Committee assignments.

Under the rules of the Senate, a Senator is allowed membership on two Standing Committees. Senator Sparkman is a member of the Senate Public Works Committee and the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

As a member of the Senate Public Works Committee, Sparkman is:

1. Chairman of the Subcommittee on Appropriations. The Subcommittee on Appropriations was set up in the Reorganization Act of 1945 and has three members.

As Chairman of this subcommittee, Senator Sparkman has a vote with the Senate Appropriations Committee on all subjects relating to public roads; public buildings; flood control; and rivers and harbors improvement.

Sparkman pointed out that he was particularly pleased with this appointment because it placed him in a key position to help in the development of Alabama's great waterway system. He emphasized that he would take advantage of this opportunity to help to obtain funds for the improvement and expansion of the Chattahoochee-Apalachicola, the Coosa-Alabama, and the Tennessee-Tombigbee waterway systems.

2. A member of the Subcommittee on Roads. This position enables him to exert strong influence in the Federal Aid Highway program.

In the powerful Senate Banking and Currency Committee, Senator Sparkman holds the following strong positions:

1. He is Chairman of the Subcommittee on Housing. This Subcommittee deals with rent control and all phases of the housing program such as housing for veterans; public housing; and rural farm housing.

2. Membership on the Subcommittee on Economic Stabilization. This subcommittee treats with price controls; allocations, and all matters looking toward the checking of the growth of inflation.

3. Sparkman is also a member of the Subcommittee on Small Business, which studies problems and ways of assisting small business concerns. The Subcommittee on Small Business has taken over the work formerly handled by the Senate Special Small Business Committee.

Another important Committee post held by Senator Sparkman is membership on the Joint Committee on the Economic Report. This committee is composed of members of both Houses of Congress and makes a continuing study of economic problems of the nation. It advises Congress on matters necessary to the nation's economic stability and to full employment.

In addition to the important assignments already mentioned, Sparkman holds membership on the Senate Office Building Commission. This Commission will supervise the construction of the Senate Office Building Annex to relieve crowded conditions of the Senate Office Building.

When asked about his influential committee assignments, Sen. Sparkman naturally expressed keen approval and pledged to do a conscientious job for Alabama and the nation.

Jemison Post Sponsors Box Supper March 5th

Post No. 227 American Legion, of Jemison, is sponsoring a box supper and fiddlers convention to be held at the high school auditorium on March 5th. Joe Rumore will be master of ceremonies.

Mr. H. J. McCue, post commander, urges all musicians who are interested to contact him. Everyone is cordially invited to attend and take part in the festivities.

PROVIDE ENOUGH HAY FOR GROWING CALVES

Auburn, Ala. — Growing calves will eat more hay when they have free access to it all day.

J. R. Parrish, A.P.I. Extension Service dairyman, reveals that one group of calves on test had access to hay only twice a day for periods of three hours each, or a total of six hours out of 24. Another group had access to hay for four three-hour periods, or a total of 12 hours.

Holstein calves that had hay for 12 hours consumed 25 per cent more hay than when hay was available only six hours a day. Jersey calves ate 39 per cent more.

Parrish urges dairymen to keep good hay before calves as much as possible. Hay is the principal source of iron in the ration and will help prevent anemia in young calves.

GROW CERTIFIED SEED ONLY WHEN QUALIFIED

Farmers often go into certified seed production with the expectation of getting rich quick.

"This is a mistake," warns Ralph R. Jones, A.P.I. Extension Service marketing specialist. He explains that such farmers are usually disapointed and soon out of business.

Certified seed must compete in price with other seed. They have to be grown under rigid standards and inspection of the Alabama Crop Improvement Association.

With these facts in mind, if a farmer still thinks he is interested in producing certified seed, he should see the local county agent for complete details.

DORMANT SPRAY FOR FRUIT TREES

The dormant or winter spray is applied to peach, plum, apple, and pear trees. The chief reason for spraying trees before growth starts in the spring is to control San Jose scale. At the same time, other minor pests will be controlled.

The undersigned committee will appreciate every person who desires to remain members of the Old Pleasant Grove Church to inform one of the members of this committee on or before March 1, 1949. As the church roll will be written and read at church on the first Sunday in March.—Arthur Henley, Fred Hosey, Clanton Route 3; Mrs. Garvis McGee, Clanton, Ala.; Mrs. Lula Best, Clanton Route 4.

LET'S FEED PIGS ONLY

When 3 ears of corn are tossed to wormy pigs, the worms get 1 ear. Runty slow-growing, pot-bellied pigs usually have large roundworms.

Rotated green grazing, using movable hog houses — instead of muddy, poorly-drained hog lots—is best prevention.

Best treatment is sodium flouride. Here's how it is used:

1. Mix one part of sodium flouride, by weight, with 100 parts dry ground feed. 1 ounce to 6 pounds feed is same proportion.
2. Give 8 to 12 weeks old pigs all of treated feed they'll eat in 1 day. Repeat treatment in 2½ months, if necessary.
3. Any kind of dry ground feed may be used that pigs will eat; corn meal, peanut meal, bought hog feed. It may be necessary to feed a day or two before treatment to get them used to it.
4. Be sure sodium flouride and feed are well mixed. Feed mixture dry; never mix with slop or water. Keep clean drinking water before pigs at all times.
5. Confine pigs on day of treatment; don't crowd; be sure each pig has enough through space. Don't treat old hogs, especially pregnant sows.
6. Sodium flouride is poisonous. Handle it as such. Most drug stores sell it. It's inexpensive. Get them to weigh out the ounces or pounds needed.

FRUITLESS APPLE TREES

Many apple varieties are not able to pollinate their own flowers and for this reason, no fruit is set. To overcome this problem, plant several trees of different varieties.

In the kitchen, convenient outlets should be placed about 42 inches above the floor. They are just above the average work surface at this height and afford easy attachment to most appliances.

Let's Balance The Scales

MARKETING would be an easy job if farmers could sell the entire year's production in a few minutes as is sometimes done with cotton. However, few Alabama products can be marketed by that system, reminds A. W. Jones, A.P.I. extension marketing specialist.

The consumer eats three times a day, says Jones. He cannot afford to purchase a year's supply of food at one time. Feed crops and most other products must be marketed throughout the year also.

The state's biggest problem in selling eggs and Grade A milk is found in the lack of balance between production and marketing. Our production peaks come when the market is weakest and best prices are paid when we have the least amount of produce for sale.

The smart farmer is one who makes his product fit the market requirements. He is one who provides a supply as steady as the buyers need. The purchaser can ill afford to leave a source of regular supply to take on another for a short period even if it is of better quality.

Stop and consider what products on your farm will be affected by this problem, and begin making plans to balance the scales of marketing and production in your farm operation.

The Seed's The Thing

TOO many of the $3,000,000 Alabama farmers use annually for planting seed are spent blindly. This is in spite of the fact that success of crop production depends upon the quality of seed planted.

Wise farmers read the tag before buying, says R. R. Jones, A.P.I. extension marketing specialist. Every bag or lot of seed sold in the state must bear a tag showing the variety, germination, purity and weed seed content.

Jones reminds farmers that two kinds of seed are available on the market—certified and uncertified. The term "Certified" has the same meaning as "Registered" has to livestock growers. A farmer who buys certified seed has assurance that they are pure or true to variety.

Certified seed are also usually higher in germination and lower in weed seed content. They cost a little more per bushel or per pound but are cheaper in the long run because of their quality. Conservative agronomists estimate the yield of high quality, certified seed to be from 15 to 20 per cent higher than the yield from ordinary seed.

A good supply of certified cotton and corn seed is now available. There is a limited supply for peanuts, soybeans, grain sorghum, and other crops. If your dealer cannot supply you with good seed, ask your county agent where you can get them. Seed supplies should be purchased or ordered this month.

Few people expect a major farm depression in 1949, but many farm economists think net farm incomes may be somewhat lower than last year.

Who knows the thoughts that pass in the mind of a farm boy as he does his chores in the evening after school? His dream is all his own, but Bobby Larkin, above, seems well pleased with his plans.

Bobby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Larkin of Coatopa community, Sumter County. With tongue in cheek he loiters here on the job of carrying in stovewood.

Alabama Peach Orchards Need More Variety

FOR a balanced peach orchard, the farmer needs several varieties growing different types of fruits that ripen along through the summer. That is why horticulturists and garden specialists at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, approved a long list of varieties for use in Alabama.

J. C. Ford, A.P.I. extension gardener, points out that farmers should make selections only after considering their individual needs and making allowances for growing conditions in their section.

In making recommendations, Ford explains that varieties ripening earlier than the July Elberta rarely suffer damage by late-brood worms. The Gleason's variety at Auburn and the Sullivan's variety of Chilton County have proved to be very good strains of "Early Elberta," he adds.

February Garden Chart

LISTED below are vegetables that good gardeners will plant during February. Recommended varieties are also named.

Irish Potatoes—Bliss Triumph, Cobbler, Sebago.
English Peas—Telephone, Thomas Laxton.
Beets—Crosby's Egyptian.
Carrots—Chatenay, Imperator.
Radishes—Scarlet Globe, Icicle.
Turnips—Purple Top Globe, Seven Top.
Onions—Bermuda Multiplier.
Cabbage—Char. Wakefield, Savoy.
Lettuce—Imperial 847.
Mustard—Sou. Giant Curled.

Dairy cows supply nearly one-fourth of all the food consumed by American families.

Crop Festival In Elmore

CORN, cotton growers and cotton ginners were honored at the Elmore County Field Crop Festival held late in December.

Young farmers and adults attended a banquet given by the Wetumpka Lions Club and warehousemen of Elmore County. They received certificates of merit for work done in cotton and corn improvement. Fifty-eight 4-H boys and farmers were awarded cotton certificates for producing a bale or more on one acre. Corn certificates were given to 77 youngsters and adults, and ginning certificates were awarded to two cotton ginners.

Highest yield reported on cotton was 987 pounds per acre. It was produced by Sonny and Buddy Lott, 4-H sons of J. V. Lott, Tallassee, Rt. 1. County corn champion was James Atkins, 4-H boy from Eclectic who harvested 83 bushels from one acre.

F. D. Perkins of Wetumpka and F. S. Macon of Wetumpka, Rt. 1, had the distinct honor of receiving the first progressive ginners certificates ever awarded in the state. They were commended by J. E. Morris, county agent, for excellent work in improving cotton quality.

"More important than the work of this group of leaders," Morris told the group, "is the influence they have on agriculture of the entire county. Average yields and the quality of produce are better this year than ever before. The results of the work done by you this year will be reflected in years to come."

Progressive ginners in Elmore were honored along with cotton and corn producers at a recent agricultural banquet sponsored by the Wetumpka Lions Club and warehousemen of the county.

Seed Treatment Helps Stands

SEVERAL seed treatment materials that give improved stands of cotton are now available.

The materials are Ceresan M, New Improved Ceresan, 2 per cent Ceresan, and Dow 9B. In tests conducted during the last three years at the A.P.I. agricultural experiment station, these seed disinfectants, when properly applied, resulted in 40 per cent more seedlings coming up.

A new machine for applying seed disinfectant was used in Alabama last year for the first time. It is known as the slurry seed treater. With this machine the disinfectant is applied in a water suspension. Its advantages are found in complete elimination of dust and in more accurate application of the material.

All seed whether fuzzy or re-ginned should be treated before planting.

Three Planting Rules For Cotton

RESULTS of experiments have shown for years that the cotton farmer who plants good seed, plants them early, and plants them on a firm seed bed is the one that makes his crop pay big money.

O. N. Andrews, A.P.I. extension cotton improvement specialist, makes this statement in encouraging farmers to prepare their cotton land early and get de-linted and treated seed.

Farmers using their own seed for planting would do well to have them de-linted and treated too, Andrews cautions. Better farmers in the state are having them tested for germination as well.

Seed samples for germination tests should be mailed to the State Seed Laboratory in Montgomery, he adds.

Two Big Hog Shows

THE month of February sees emphasis placed on swine breeding with two big shows and sales in the state. G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. extension hog specialist, points to these shows as indications of increased interest in swine breeding in Alabama.

The Duroc spring show and sale will be held at Ozark, February 10; the OIC show and sale will be February 25 at Winfield.

Officers of the Alabama Duroc Association, in making the announcement about the Ozark event, stated that some of the best Duroc lines in the southeast will be represented at the show. Some 30 bred gilts and 10 boars will compete for honors and will be sold in the afternoon. The show is being sponsored by the Ozark Chamber of Commerce.

The OIC show in Winfield will exhibit 30 bred gilts, 10 open gilts, and 11 males all of top quality, announced Sam Webster, Winfield, Rt. 2, who is president of the Alabama OIC Swine Breeders Association.

Brown Swiss Cows In Marengo

ALABAMA now lays claim to some of the large breed of Brown Swiss dairy cattle. These cows, natives of Switzerland, have been increasing in number in the U. S. steadily during the past few years and are now to be given a trial in the deep South.

Marengo County probably has more Brown Swiss cattle today than any county south of the state of Ohio, says Frank Jones, county agent. The animals were purchased at the Southern States Classic Sale of pure bred Brown Swiss. Bill Eddins of Demopolis purchased 14 females and one bull at the sale. W. S. Burkett, also of Marengo County purchased 6 cows, and John May of Gallion purchased 4.

The Brown Swiss cow normally weighs about 300 pounds more than the Jersey, Jones pointed out to farmers, and therefore they consume more feed, however, he added, they usually produce more milk than the smaller animals. The butterfat content of their milk averages around four per cent.

Salt Important

FEED cattle salt daily. Sodium and chloride, the elements of salt, are constantly excreted in milk and have to be replenished in the body of the cow.

There is nearly a gram of salt in a pint of milk. Besides that cows need salt for maintenance of the body.

Kudzu-Corn Rotation Pays Off

FOR several years many Alabama farmers have been experimenting with kudzu-corn rotations on eroded land, and they are reporting good results.

S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. extension soil conservationist, says that in all cases where records were kept the kudzu was allowed to become well established before it was followed by corn. It was at least four years old and had good growth before being turned under.

Records show that on one badly eroded field, kudzu was grown for a few years and then every fourth terrace was planted in corn. The yield from these strips equaled the corn crop produced by the entire field before it was planted in kudzu.

Also, kudzu furnishes hay and grazing, Doughty points out. Cultivating the corn does not destroy all of the crowns. These roots will grow and cover the land until planted in corn again four or more years later.

FEEDING SOWS like the one pictured here is one of the most important jobs Alabama hog growers have on their farms. Care given a sow during the gestation period may determine both the size and number of pigs that she will farrow in the spring.

A JANUARY GARDEN—The vegetables shown here were found recently growing in a garden not a mile from the center of town in Auburn. Along with the beets, carrots, savoy cabbage and kale pictured here, there was in this garden cabbage, collards, broccoli, lettuce, mustard, onions, English peas, rutabaga, turnips, garlic, brussel sprouts, strawberries, and tender greens—a total of 17 different vegetables.

Whose garden? Why it belongs to P. O. Davis, director, A.P.I. extension service. He has it ploughed once a year and does the rest of the work himself.

Insuring Irish Potatoes Against Blight

By COYT WILSON, Plant Pathologist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

SPRAYING or dusting Irish potatoes for control of early and late blight paid off three years out of four in experiments at the Gulf Coast Substation.

Spraying or dusting may be regarded as insurance against this disease. Results of tests show that it is not safe to wait until late blight appears on the plants to start the treatment.

Tests of several new sprays and dusts have been under way since 1945. Except for 1946 when blight was not serious, control of the disease by dusts or sprays resulted in profitable increases in yields. In other words, the increases returned a profit over and above the costs of the fungicide and application, and above additional labor used to harvest the increase in yield.

The Best Treatment

Dusts giving the best control of blight on Irish potatoes and resulting in profitable increases in yields were Parzate and Z-78. The best spray in the test was Dithane, which gave slightly higher yields than the two dusts. However, for most growers, dust is more convenient than a spray.

Copper dusts and sprays also gave good control of potato blight. However, yields of potatoes were a little less than from potatoes treated with Dithane spray, Parzate, or Z-78. Evidently the copper fungicides tend to stunt growth of potato plants, thus reducing yields.

How It Is Used

Both commercial growers and home gardeners can profit from the use of either of the two dusts or spray. The treatment is best started when the plants are 4 to 6 inches high. Applications should be repeated every 7 to 10 days until four or five applications are made.

The spray is made up of 2 quarts of Dithane D-14 thoroughly mixed in 100 gallons of water. This mixture is used at the rate of 100 gallons per acre per application. Both the Parzate and Z-78 (3.9% or 6%) come prepared and ready to use. Either dust is applied at the rate of 30 pounds per acre for each treatment.

Potato beetles may be controlled when necessary by use of DDT or lead arsenate. Either of these materials may be included in the fungicide dust or spray.

Arguta Wins Loving Cup In Dale

ARGUTA Home Demonstration Club has been selected as the outstanding club in Dale County for community activities during 1948; the club was awarded a loving cup for that honor.

The cup is passed on each year in Dale County to the club with the highest score, explains Nellie Daughtry, home demonstration agent. She says the ladies take great interest in scoring themselves each month and turning the scores in to the executive council. At the end of the year the council totals the scores on activities and gives the award to the winning club. The score sheets have designated points for various activities a club may participate in, says the home agent.

"The loving cup is not a reward for what the women do," says Miss Daughtry, "but is simply a token that reminds them and others of their achievement. The Arguta club is to be commended for winning the award in 1948."

Fruit And Vegetable Marketing Calls For Early Planning

FRUIT and vegetable buyers are attracted to areas where they find quality products to supply their needs for a reasonable length of time. Quality and quantity are the first things they look for.

That statement was made recently by John Bagby, A.P.I. extension specialist in marketing. He added that if buyers are to sell products they purchase from the farmer, they must get the quality consuming customers require. When products can not be resold the buyer must stop buying from the producer.

The specialist continued by advising farmers to plan marketing and production at the same time. Only the farmer who furnishes a steady supply for several weeks will find his produce easy to market, he stated.

Three steps suggested by Bagby for farmers planning their production and marketing are:

1. Produce crops best adapted to soils on your farm.
2. Use the best practices possible to produce high quality products.
3. Produce sufficient quantities to interest better buyers even though this may call for successive plantings with certain crops.

No Winter Grazing

SOMETHING is wrong somewhere if your winter grazing crops are not saving you heavy feed bills, raising your milk and meat production, and keeping your animals in thrifty condition.

J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. extension agronomist, reminds farmers that if grazing isn't plentiful, one of four things could account for it:

(1) Land preparation was not carried out in the right way.

(2) Not enough fertilizer was used on the crop.

(3) The date of planting was too late, or

(4) Local weather conditions have not been good.

If a farmer hasn't been successful with winter grazing, Lowery suggests that he study to determine where his possible errors with the crops may be. Then corrections can be made when he plans next year's grazing.

Plant More Pines

UNUSUAL interest is being shown at this time in the planting of forest seedlings. The state nursery, under the supervision of J. M. Stauffer, state forester, is in the midst of distributing the largest crop of seedlings it ever produced.

Fortunately for the landowner, the state P.M.A. has increased the payment for planting trees as a soil conservation practice. The payment this year will be increased from $1.60 to $6.00 per acre.

Doug Sellers, A.P.I. extension timber marketing specialist, says the new rate will just about cover the complete cost of planting, including purchase price, express and other incidentals. One thousand trees must be planted on each acre and 65 per cent must survive in order to qualify for payment.

Our foresters tell us that there is much land in Alabama that needs planting in trees. This land is in various stages of readiness for planting, but with more payment to help farmers, many acres will likely be planted in 1949.

Hunt Club Thrills Members For Eighty Years

THE year was 1865. Rev. J. R. "Preacher" Larkin and his neighbors had been struggling to straighten out the mess a war brought to their plantations.

It was Thanksgiving and the drudgery of work could be forgotten for a moment. This, plus the fact that meat was terribly scarce, gave the Reverend Larkin reason enough for deciding a hunt was what the folks of Coatopa community needed.

Into the nearby Tombigbee swamps went the Larkins, the Williamsons, the Pattons, Turners, Seals, Scales, and Torrys, and other men of that section of Sumter County. Within a week the larders were filled with deer, turkey, squirrel, wild hogs.

"Preacher" Larkin had started something that four generations were to keep going! Just the other day his great-grandsons and their neighbors were hunting the swamp, as had their kinsmen each winter for 80 years.

Will Larkin, affable son of the Reverend, and oldest living member of the family, was recalling recently some of "the good days" of his more than 55 years of annual hunts with neighbors.

"We have worn out three hunting lodges, and are now in the fourth. Everybody around here counts this event one of the year's biggest, so there's not much chance of the club playing out.

Will Larkin of the Coatopa community, Sumter County, likes to recall how his father and neighbors formed a hunting club 80 years ago to get meat for bare larders; and how the hunt became an annual event in the surrounding territory.

"I guess there would have been plenty hungry people around here in the '60's and '70's if a dozen deer and three times that many turkeys hadn't been an easy one-day's bag. Hunting is still plenty good, but not like that.

"Cypress used to grow thick and tall in the swamp, which contains 25 square miles. I remember seeing logs two feet across at the small end and over 50 feet long being cut for shipment to England. Before my family bought the swamp it was open to everyone who had a house to build or roof to put on.

"Although we have had as many as 100 people hunting at the same time, not one person has been injured.

"I feel that our annual hunts do much to keep people in our community close together. The hunt is loved by all, young and old, and not much after a youngster is knee high to a duck he asks his daddy, 'When can I go with everybody to the swamp?'

"Some folks," Mr. Larkin added with a twinkling eye, "say we made a mistake in '35. Until that year the hunt was strictly a man's business; the wives stayed at home. But we thought it would be nice to have them down for dinner one day. They took over the camp, and have been going each year since then."

And Now To Your Garden

By J. C. FORD
A.P.I. Extension Gardener

THE home garden needs special attention in February because this is a big planning month.

True, many of the plantings made in February will have to be redone, but with seed costing only five to 10 cents for each variety, the gardener making February plantings is taking a good risk. In all parts of Alabama root crops and leafy vegetables may be planted now.

Of course, the great weakness of gardeners is failing to use sufficient fertilizer. For example, lime or basic slag is needed in most gardens every four or five years. Basic slag may be broadcast at the rate of 200 pounds to a spot 22 by 100 feet; 100 pounds ground limestone would be sufficient on this garden.

Barnyard Manure Is Valuable

Manure is needed every year in the garden. Two big cotton baskets per 100 feet of row would not be over-doing it. A pound to every square foot of land area is a good recommendation to follow.

But lime and manure are not enough; our garden plants must have mineral food. A good over-all formula for home garden use is 10 pounds of 4-10-7 or 6-8-4 to each 100 feet of row. On sandy land where leaching is bad, this fertilizer should be applied one-half before planting and the rest two to three weeks later.

Borax Also Important

Additional nitrogen is necessary if best results are to be obtained in the garden. Leafy vegetables need two pounds of nitrate of soda to each 100 feet of row; pod and fruit-bearing plants one pound; and root crops one-half pound. The nitrogen should be applied 20 to 30 days after planting. Again in sandy soil it should be broken into two applications, two to three weeks apart.

Another thing the successful gardener never forgets is the place of borax in growing vegetables, particularly on sandy soils. Borax should be applied, two tablespoons to 100 feet of row, for growing beets, turnips, carrots, radishes, and rutabagas.

Feed your garden well and it will feed your family the same way. A garden is as good as the man who grows it.

Thin Pecan Trees!

FROM now until spring is a good time to cut out those crowded pecan trees. Four or five good, well-spaced trees per acre are much more profitable than twice that number crowding each other for food, water and light.

Along the Way

with

P. O. DAVIS
DIRECTOR, API EXTENSION SERVICE

IT is customary to speculate as to what farmer is a good farmer. Some, of course, are good; others better, and some not so good. A farmer good in one respect may not be in another. So no explicit definition can be given. By common usage, however, we can list major requirements. This is done by a statement of what a good farmer does, as follows:

1. He gets high production per man and per acre farmed.
2. He gets his production by applying good methods, good seed and livestock, and enough good power and equipment.
3. He produces at a low cost per bushel or pound, which is efficient farming.
4. He improves his land by a good system of farming, including enough fertilizer of the right kind, legumes and livestock.
5. He uses good seed of good varieties of crops; and also good livestock bred for efficient use of feed.

The Squeeze Is On

Efficiency in farming is always essential to success. It is more essential now than for several years past because prices paid for farm products are lower and prices paid by farmers in buying are as high or higher.

It appears that farmers are now in a real squeeze because of high costs and falling prices of farm products. This started in 1948 when farmers produced more and received a smaller net income. Whether or not it will continue throughout 1949 and into 1950 I don't know, but economists believe that it will.

A Plan Needed

High efficiency on a farm calls for a plan that keeps people, land, livestock, and equipment at productive work all of each year.

But efficient production isn't all. Each farmer is interested in more than production. Preparatory to production he wants to buy to the best advantage, fertilizer, seeds, and other needs. He wants the best at a fair price.

He is concerned also about selling to the best advantage.

Buying and selling call for cooperation among farmers. Farmer cooperatives properly organized, adequately financed, and efficiently managed, are very helpful to farmers.

A true farmer cooperative is organized, financed, and operated by farmers through representatives or board members whom they elect to act for them.

After Producing—Then What?

It's true also that mere buying, producing, and selling are not a complete story in farming. Processing is essential.

Corn now presents a big processing challenge. With livestock to process corn into meat or eggs, the net return to Alabama farmers for their 1948 corn crop would have been much bigger than it actually was.

At early January prices, a hog on a pasture of alfalfa, or any other good legume, would process a dollar's worth of corn into two dollar's worth of meat. But these prices may change any day.

Here a reminder is in order. It is simply that feed and livestock move hand in hand. When feed is ready, animals should be ready to eat it.

While 1949 is a year of challenge, it is also a year of opportunity. It is a year for efficient farming and one to keep agriculture sound so that efficient farming will pay.

1949 P.M.A. Changes

By W. H. MOORE, Administrative Assistant
Production and Marketing Administration

THE Production and Marketing Administration in Alabama has $6,685,000 to help farmers carry out needed conservation practices this year. In 1948 the amount was $3,602,000.

An increase of some $3,000,000 dollars in P.M.A. payments means Alabama farmers can complete more practices with less out-of-pocket cost in 1949. Some changes in assistance for different practices are these:

1. Terracing—increased from 70 cents to 90 cents per 100 linear feet.
2. 18% superphosphate (when applied to specified soil-building crops)—raised from $10 per acre to $12.
3. Basic slag (when applied to eligible soil-building crops)—increased from $5.60 to $7 per ton.
4. Agricultural limestone—increased approximately 10%.

Rates for other practices have been increased in about the same proportion.

Many farmers every year take full advantage of assistance offered through P.M.A. Considerable progress has been made in the past ten years toward meeting the conservation needs in the state, but the needs are still great. Conservation farming pays dividends in the form of increased farm income and better living conditions.

Every farmer is urged to consider the conservation needs on his farm and to consult his county P.M.A. committee for information on how to get assistance offered in the program.

This 4-H Club member started his project through the poultry chain and won first prize with his pullets at the Tuscaloosa Poultry Show last fall. He is especially proud of his first brood of layers and gladly paid $15 to the chain rather than give up 12 pullets.

Assistant Agent James Cooper believes this poultry chain is the only one operating in the state. Through it a boy or girl receives 100 baby chicks and in return provides some other member with chicks the next year.

New Treatment Found

ONE of the problems in using coldframes and hotbeds year after year has been the rapid decaying lumber used in their construction. A preservative safe for use on these frames has now been found.

Lyle Brown, A.P.I. extension horticulturist, reveals that after wood is soaked in pentachlorophenol and permitted to dry no fumes harmful to plants will escape.

"Experiments show that leaves directly touching the wood might be burned, but there is no danger of this damage extending to other parts of the plant or to others," he said.

Since pentachlorophenol offers a cheap and easy way to add years to the life of coldframes and hotbeds, Brown believes farmers will want to try it. Those interested should check with their county agents for details of its use.

It's A Challenge!

THE need for poultry and poultry products will equal that of any other period this year.

"Poultrymen can meet the demand in 1949 only by using good management practices," declares John Ivey, A.P.I. extension poultryman.

To obtain more efficient egg production, Ivey recommends that all non-producing birds be removed from the flock and that adequate replacements be brooded in the spring. When inefficient, feed-wasting birds are culled, good layers produce more eggs.

Like other meat, poultry has protein of high quality, and is also a good source of iron, phosphorus and B vitamins.

OLE MAN RIVER JUST KEPT ON RISING. When the Black Warrior started to climb out of its banks for the second time this winter it reached a 19-year high of 64.4 feet above normal run. The picture here demonstrates how man and beast were driven from their regular stomping grounds.

The scene is on Highway 11 South of Tuscaloosa some two miles from the river bed.

Twenty-five years of home demonstration work is represented in the life of each lady shown in the picture above. Members of home demonstration clubs in Limestone County, they started when the program was first organized there.

Time To Seed Pasture

THIS is the month for seeding permanent pastures in Alabama, particularly in the southern part of the state, remind A.P.I. extension agronomists.

Remember that a permanent pasture mixture, seeded on land prepared right, properly limed and fertilized may be the most profitable crop on your farm.

Keep in mind that land not suited for permanent pasture may produce good sericea for grazing.

More rural people used electric power for more purposes during 1948 than in any previous year, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Many farmers make good use of winter to build useful gadgets and handy appliances that will save hours of work when the busy season comes.

Alabama farm equipment dealers met recently in Mobile for their annual convention and business meeting.

At left above J. L. Lawson, assistant director, A.P.I. extension service, addresses the group of dealers. Seated at left is Beaty Whiddon of Dothan, retiring president of the organization.

Lawson encouraged the dealers in their efforts to give more complete service to the Alabama farmer and complimented them on progress being made by their association.

Right above, members are assembled for a business session during the convention.

Choctaw County Beef

J. H. BRUISTER of Yantley community in Choctaw County is well into the middle of a program for building a better beef herd. Most of his cows are now three-quarters Hereford or more.

"A definite plan for improvement of his beef herd is being followed by this farmer," says Mathew Sexton, Choctaw County Agent. "He has found that to stay in the beef cattle business he must keep his herd in line with the rapidly developing quality of beef animals in the South."

Sexton continued by pointing out that Mr. Bruister is building a system of pastures and feeding that will keep his enterprise on a sound basis. For winter grazing he is using caley peas, oats, and rye. In the spring he will follow the caley peas with Hegari which will be combined for fall and winter feeding.

"It is farmers like this one," says W. H. Gregory, A.P.I. extension livestock specialist, "farmers building beef herds with good quality cattle and sound feeding systems, that will set the pace for the beef cattle industry in Alabama for years to come."

Price Program Proposed By Grange Master

AT a recent meeting of the National Grange, Albert Goss, Master of the organization, proposed a three-point-price program for farm products. He advocated a high national income which includes full employment at high wages with all groups prospering together.

The price program introduced by Mr. Goss at the meeting may be summed up by points as follows:

1) Making full and effective use of marketing facilities by pushing surpluses and sparing products in short supply. Mr. Goss elaborated here by advocating a federal farm commission to keep a continuing inventory of supplies and full data on demand.

2) A flexible system of price supports, based on a revised and more up-to-date parity formula.

3) Floor prices set to prevent both overproduction and farm bankruptcy.

Five Rules For Pine Pruning

By EVAN MARTIN, A.P.I. Extension Forester

PINE pruning time is drawing to a close for Alabama—and many of our open-grown pines will never produce quality lumber unless they are pruned.

Here are some rules to follow when pruning:

1. Pick good trees which are well spaced over the area, about 200 to 300 per acre, and prune only these trees. The others should be cut for fuel or sold as pulpwood to reduce competition. Pruning all trees takes unnecessary time and work.

2. Prune high enough to make a clear 16 foot log. This means 17 feet from the ground, counting a one foot stump. Knot free logs are high grade logs. High grade logs bring more money.

3. Cut limbs close to the trunk to facilitate quick coverage of the scar.

4. If limbs to be removed are large they should be cut off to about two feet, then removed by making an undercut first, then a cut from the top. This reduces chances of the limb taking a strip of wood and bark with it when it falls.

5. Prune only in cold winter months. Spring and summer pruning invites insect and disease damage which often causes death of the tree and others in its vicinity. If you don't prune before the weather warms, it is safer to wait until next winter.

Fertilizer Controls Pond Moss

FERTILIZER applications for the control of moss and weeds in farm ponds is highly important, says Earl F. Kennamer, A.P.I. extension wildlife specialist.

Applications should be made now if moss and weeds are present, Kennamer advises. He adds that no fertilization is necessary before March 1 if underwater moss is not present.

The recommended amount of fertilizer for each application is 200 pounds of 6-8-4 and 20 pounds of nitrate of soda or its equivalent per acre. The fertilizer should be scattered over weed beds and applications made at 15-day intervals until weeds are covered by a scum-like growth.

Ponds with large amounts of over-flow water, such as mill ponds, can not usually be aided by fertilizer either for weed control or for fish production, says Kennamer.

Farm Equipment Association Elects New State Officers

A. D. WALDEN, Headland, will lead the Alabama Farm Equipment Association during 1949. The new president, succeeding Beaty Whiddon of Dothan, was elected at the annual meeting of the organization held recently in Mobile.

At the convention some 200 members and guests met for two days to dispose of current business, make plans for another year and to enjoy friendly association.

Other officers of the organization elected at the meeting are John B. Wilson of Decatur, vice-president; J. B. Wilson of Auburn, secretary-treasurer, and directors Eugene Munger of Montgomery, R. C. Christopher of Fort Payne, W. P. Nesbitt of Gadsden, H. W. Bryson of Enterprise, C. R. Everette of Anniston, and B. C. Gates of Foley.

Howard Yeilding of Birmingham is national councilor for the state association.

Blasting Demands Caution

DYNAMITE blasting takes an annual toll of lives and limbs with accidents. At best it is a dangerous job, but if the best methods are used and cautions are observed the blasting of boulders and stones can be accomplished in relative safety.

J. B. Wilson, A.P.I. extension engineer, lists the safest ways for doing the job. They include mudcapping, gopher holing, and the borehole method.

When mudcapping, Wilson explains, load explosives on top of the boulder and cover with a good layer of stiff mud.

The gopher hole is made by digging a small tunnel under the boulder, placing charge in the tunnel and tamping well with mud.

To use the borehold method drill a hole near center of the boulder, place charges and tamp.

"Fuse with cap or electric exploder may be used," says the engineer, "but remember that long lead wires are necessary when using electric exploders."

Among Madison County's 3351 improved and refinished rural mail boxes is that of Mrs. Bess Tipton (right) of Huntsville, Route 3.

Observing the attractive mail box is Mrs. Oenone Cook, home demonstration agent. She says Mrs. Tipton did a great service in putting over the mail box program in her community.

Madison County claims the distinction of leading Alabama in number of refinished rural mail boxes.

Beef Shows Improve Annually In State

By FOY HELMS, A.P.I. Extension Statistician

NEW records were made at fat stock shows and sales in Alabama in 1948. Two new county shows and sales were held; two new features were added and carried out at other shows. Youngsters and leaders are aiming now toward still better shows this spring.

Beef cattle shows and sales were attended by more people last year than ever before. This attendance indicates continued and increasing interest in the livestock industry of the state.

No Two-Time Winners

Pen-of-three competition was added to shows in 1948 to eliminate repetition of championship winning by individuals. The new plan assures that a different boy or girl will achieve this honor every year at each show. Individuals who had champion calves at previous shows may not enter individual competition again.

Former championship winners entered pen-of-three animals in the shows at Dothan, Grove Hill, Gadsden, Birmingham, Mobile, and Montgomery last spring. Eleven such entries were shown and sold. Most of the animals graded prime, choice, or good. The grades indicate that the boy or girl had gained much from previous experience in feeding cattle.

Better Records By Boys And Girls

Throughout the state business and civic organizations and individuals actively participated in the staging of these shows and sales. They showed greater interest than ever before. Interest and activity by organizations and individuals is adding prestige to the shows year by year.

Great improvement was shown too in records kept by boys and girls as compared with those of 1947. The data revealed that feeding costs, on the average were lower in '48, which means that more home-grown feed was used. The use of more home-grown feed, of course, means more net profit to the boy or girl.

And How About Grades?

The quality of animals entered in 1948 was much better than in earlier years. Twenty prime animals were exhibited and sold in 1948, compared with 6 the previous year.

Percentages that show improvement being made in grades are found in the chart below.

Year	% Prime	% Choice	% Good	% Medium	% Common
1947	.32	17.8	54.1	22.8	4.8
1948	2.0	49.0	31.0	15.0	3.0

Don't Wait!

HAVE you made arrangements for your spring fertilizer needs? Getting this done ahead of time may save you much trouble in the spring.

"Indications are," says J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. extension agronomist, "that there will still be difficulty in getting needed fertilizers, especially nitrogen."

It is of particular importance that farmers have the fertilizer on hand that they will need for top dressing small grain the last part of February, Lowery pointed out.

Marion Farmer Has Learned About Grazing

W. C. GILBERT of Brilliant, Alabama, believes in having plenty of winter grazing for his livestock.

At the present time, he is grazing his dairy cows on oats and crimson clover. He has 20 acres of crimson clover and oats, and three acres of crimson clover alone. Part of his winter grazing land has been seeded to white Dutch clover for permanent pasture.

Recently, a group of farmers visited his farm, and he told them, "The days the cows graze it does not take nearly as much feed as when they are given feed alone."

Gilbert is working toward a year-round grazing system by planting and maintaining sericea on up-land and seeding and fertilizing low moist land for pasture. He grows corn and hay on his farm to furnish his own barn feed.

Are You A Courteous Hunter?

"HUNTING on another person's property without first asking permission is the same as driving off in an automobile without the owner's consent," declares Earl F. Kennamer, A.P.I. extension wildlife specialist.

Too many hunters barge into a field or woods to hunt without realizing they may be entering private property. Kennamer points out that many farmers, even though their lands are posted, are most willing to grant permission to hunt on their property.

Farmers rightfully become angry when strangers trample down their fall planted oats, leave gates open and let livestock escape, or cause other damage. The fact that a person requests to shoot on private property is a good sign that he wants to do the right thing.

A sportsman becomes a good friend of the farmer when he offers to pay for any damage he might do while hunting on the farmer's property.

Rats Are Expensive

THE board bill for one rat amounts to $5 a year, and damage by these rodents amounts to $10 million annually in the state.

The dollar sign, if it were the only consideration, would be enough to bring forth an all out war against rats, but that is not where the damage ends; they also carry disease. Rats are carriers of Brill's fever, a disease transmitted to people by fleas. Hundreds of cases are reported in Alabama every year.

W. A. Ruffin, A.P.I. extension entomologist, makes these statements and outlines a system of controlling rats and mice.

"Rats can be controlled by the use of poison bait, traps, poison gas, and rat dogs or cats," says Ruffin. "They move around considerably, therefore the most effective control is handled by communities or towns."

He explains that the safest way to kill large numbers of rats is found in the use of baits containing poisons harmless to other animals. Corroded beef or fish makes the best bait. The poison should be divided and put out late in the afternoon.

Since the rodents are concentrated in buildings during cold weather, that is the best time for rat control campaigns. Bait, placed in or near holes, around walls in buildings, and wherever rats have been seen, is usually most effective during the winter months.

Plan For Living!

HOW much planning for living is done around the fireside in your home? Planning is an essential part of any operation—it involves thinking through a situation and deciding what is best to do. Nowhere is it more important than in the family circle.

It is the opinion of Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. extension home economist, that if a family plans to spend and save for what they want they get more for their money as a final result.

"With proper planning they look for and find better ways of doing things," says Miss Mitchell, "and they learn to get the best values for their money."

Home planning makes for better relationships in the family and gives the children a greater understanding of life, the economist added. She believes every family should take time out now and then to "thrash things out" together.

Below, brother and sister attend the party. Mary Dell McCain, state 4-H Club leader for girls, is registering Mary Frances and Carey Gibbons, Deatsville, Alabama. Mary Frances is a senior in Home Economics Education and Carey is a sophomore in Agricultural Science.

In the above pictures, A. P. I. extension workers are shown with farm and home agents visiting Alabama from foreign countries.

At left, Jorge Bolton C., right, is being welcomed in Tallapoosa County by Fletcher Farrington, county agent. Bolton, a county agent from Chile, will observe extension work in Tallapoosa County for five weeks.

At right, Senorita Graziella Llarena, home agent from Havana, Cuba, is shown with Miss Margaret Oliver, left, A.P.I. extension district agent, as they prepare for a trip to Crenshaw County. Senorita Llarena will visit there for six weeks before going to Jackson County.

Foreigners Study Extension Methods In Alabama

EXTENSION workers from two foreign countries are visiting in Alabama to study operations of the A.P.I. extension service and lives of rural people in the state.

Senorita Graziella Llarena, Havana, Cuba, home demonstration agent and Jorge Bolton C., Chilean county agent, will each be with extension workers in Alabama for a period of several weeks. The educational set-up in their respective countries is relatively new and the agents are seeking information that will enable them to build successful organizations at home.

The Cuban senorita will spend six weeks with county personnel in Crenshaw County. Following her visit there, she will stay a like period in Jackson County before leaving the state.

"I was here for the 4-H Club Congress in Chicago and enjoyed the program very much," said Miss Llarena. "Your 4-H Club organization is very similar to the 5-C Clubs in Cuba."

Bolton is now spending five weeks in Tallapoosa County concentrating on dairy projects being carried out there. He will later work with the editorial department in Auburn. The county agent stayed some weeks in the state of Illinois before coming to Alabama and will visit in California prior to returning home.

No Dove Shooting In February

THE Fish and Wildlife Service explains the new and stricter regulations on dove shooting by pointing out the danger of the birds becoming extinct in the South.

If added restrictions were not practiced, they believe the sport of dove shooting would soon be but a pleasant memory of the past. That is the reason for the shorter season, the lower bag and possession limit and the "afternoon only" rule put into effect this season.

Housewives walk at least four miles and spend 25 hours a year in making just one bed by the common household method.

More Poultry Farming In Lamar

LAMAR County farmers are supplementing incomes with the sale of poultry and poultry products.

An excellent example of this diversified source of the dollar is found on the farm of A. C. Sprouce of Vernon. County Agent T. P. McCabe reports Sprouce's flock of 207 New Hampshire Red hens layed 6,312 (526 dozen) eggs in one 30-day period. On the market, the farmer received 65 cents a dozen on delivery. In other words, the chickens brought $341.90 to the Sprouce family in one month.

So pleased is farmer Sprouce with his flock that he is now constructing a building that will enable him to enlarge his flock this spring.

"Increasing numbers of Lamar County farmers are adding poultry projects to farm operations," says McCabe. "Enough houses are now under construction to accommodate several thousand baby chicks."

A. C. Sprouce, Vernon, Alabama, is shown here gathering eggs laid by his flock of 207 New Hampshire Reds.

"They are the best bunch of layers I ever had," said the Lamar County farmer as he counted out $341.90—money grossed from one month's sales.

Research Results

in brief from A.P.I. AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION

TWO AND ONE-HALF ACRES of feed and forage crops per cow produced an average of 186 pounds of marketable beef per acre annually for the past three years at the main station at Auburn. These crops are one acre each of sericea and kudzu, and one-half acre of manganese bur clover followed by grain sorghum.

* * *

WATER MOSSES AND OTHER UNDERWATER WEEDS in fish ponds are controlled by winter fertilization. Fertilizer is applied at the rate of 100 pounds of 6-8-4 and 10 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre February 1, 15, and March 1. Applications are then repeated at 4-week intervals until the mosses and weeds are completely covered with green, hair-like algae which smother and kill them.

* * *

LESPEDEZA SERICEA furnished sufficient grazing for one cow per acre from April to November on the main station at Auburn. Sericea has proved a good grazing crop on hilly land.

* * *

THREE-FOURTHS OF THE MASH for laying hens is replaced and high egg production is maintained by feeding good succulent crops such as alfalfa, crimson clover, soybeans, or white clover along with a full feeding of grain.

* * *

ANNUAL SPRING FERTILIZATION OF FRUITS improves the quality and yields. The main station uses effectively 1 to 2 pounds of a 6-8-4 fertilizer per tree or vine for each year of age up to a maximum of 800 to 1,000 pounds per acre. Four to 6 weeks later, each tree or vine receives one-half pound of nitrate of soda for each year of age up to 200 pounds per acre.

* * *

JOHNSON GRASS AND RESEEDING CRIMSON CLOVER COMBINATION is furnishing grazing for cattle at Auburn during the winter, spring and early summer. The stand of Johnson grass is maintained by allowing it to grow up in late summer. It is then cut for hay, stacked in the field, and if needed, is fed to the cattle in the winter while they are grazing clover.

* * *

MORE AND BETTER FISHING in farm ponds is obtained when fertilization is begun in February. Three applications of 100 pounds of 6-8-4 fertilizer plus 10 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre applied at 2-week intervals beginning the first of February increases food for bream while they are growing rapidly and forming eggs to be laid in the spring.

* * *

ONLY PONDS PROTECTED from excessive flood waters respond well to early fertilization. If large amounts of run-off water from heavy spring rains pass through the pond, fertilization is begun in March.

* * *

WOODLOTS BRING HIGH RETURNS only if fires are kept out. Fires destroy small trees, damage large trees, and reduce tree growth considerably. At Auburn, one acre of woodlot burned annually produced only one-sixth of a cord of wood; burned every five years, two-thirds of a cord; and protected from fire, over two cords of wood every year.

New Trade School At Dothan Is Flooded With Applicants

Montgomery — The first in a series of new state vocational trade schools, as provided by the 1947 legislature, has opened at Napier Field, Dothan.

School Director R. L. Turner said, "Applications for enrollment have been beyond our expectations, and for most of the courses, the only satisfaction we can give to applicants is to place them on a waiting list."

The director said also that the school would concern itself with "quality and not quantity" in preparing its students for jobs in the industrial world.

Most of the applicants thus far have been from veterans who desire to take the schooling under the GI Bill of Rights.

The rather wide curriculum was determined by the possibilities of employment in southeast Alabama after the student graduate. The following courses are offered: Sheetmetal shop, cabinet and woodshop, auto body and fender shop, auto mechanics, tractor and farm machinery repairing, and automotive machine shop, . . .When a second shop building is completed, six additional courses will be offered.

Courses in optical mechanics, neon processing, and sign printing will be offered as soon as qualified instructors can be found.

The school will give special attention to the training of handicapped veterans.

George Wallace, member of the legislature from Clayton, was the author of the bill which provided for the trade schools.

STATE HEALTH WORKERS TO HOLD MEETING IN B'HAM

Montgomery — February 18-19 is the date that has been set for an annual meeting of the state's public health workers.

The assembly will be made up of nurses, county health officers, sanitation officers, bureau and division directors, laboratory technicians and others connected with the various health programs over Alabama, according to State Health Officer Dr. D. G. Gill.

SELLING EQUITY IN 1948 LOAN COTTON

In some instances Alabama farmers are not receiving a fair return when they sell their equity in 1948 loan cotton.

This is why B. L. Collins, executive officer of the Production and Marketing Administration, states that borrowers should understand fully the conditions under which they transfer title to their cotton.

As an indication of the value of producer's equity in 1948 loan cotton, the loan rate in Montgomery was 30.99 cents based on 15-16-inch white middling. The price of the same grade of cotton in Montgomery on January 28 was 32.74 cents, giving the producer an equity of 1.76 cent per pound less storage and interest.

TIPS ON SELECTING A WASHING MACHINE

Auburn, Ala. — One of the important things to consider when buying a washing machine is the size of the tub.

Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, advises that if washings are large, a larger tub will mean fewer loads. This will save time and electricity. Overloading a small tub places a strain on the motor and results in poor washing.

Washing mechanisms differ little when it comes to efficiency in washing. The real efficiency of any washing machine depends upon the user. Put in the right amount of clothes, use the right water temperature, and use the right amount of soap and water softener.

Make certain when selecting a machine that the wringer has an automatic safety release which will release and stop the rollers if anything, including the hand, gets caught between the rollers.

GOOD VARIETIES MEAN LONGER COTTON STAPLE

Most of Alabama's cotton acreage is planted to three or four recommended varieties. As a result, 98 per cent of her cotton is 15-16-inch or longer.

According to O. N. Andrews, A.P.I. Extension Service cotton improvement specialist, Auburn, one-variety cotton communities are largely responsible for this record. Farmers in these organized communities plant an adopted variety. Then they follow a system of seed multiplication that guarantee an annual supply of pure planting seed not more than two years from the breeder. This is done by planting at least 10 per cent of the community's acreage to breeder seed each year.

BE ECONOMICAL, USE THE CASSEROLE DISH

Food cooked in the casserole can be a combination of vegetables, meats, meat substitutes, or a combination of all of these.

"Since this is true, there are many advantages in preparing and serving a casserole dish for family meals," says Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist, Auburn. She points out that the homemaker's time is saved, as well as fuel and bits of food. In addition, it is a good way to use canned meats and vegetables.

Let the casserole dish serve as the main dish or the hub around which the rest of the meal is planned. The meal is completed with the addition of a salad, bread, beverage, and dessert.

Last Minute Preparations On Camellia Festival Underway

Greensboro, Ala. — Final preparations for next Sunday's Old Home Pilgrimage and Camellia Festival were under way this week, with practically every resident of this community enrolled on one or more committees handling different features of the event. Miss Julia Corley, who planned and successfully promoted last year's flower festival, is again serving as general chairman of arrangements.

Despite the late January freeze, Greensboro's famous giant camellia shrubs are expected to contribute their beauty to the occasion, since many of the buds had not yet opened when the cold wave came.

In addition to the growing camellias, visitors will have the oportunity of seeing an elaborate indoor exhibition of rare varieties and specimens of Camellia Japonica blossoms at the City High School auditorium, which will also be the scene of a reception from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Hale County homes and many ante bellum Black Belt mansions in neighboring counties are placing on display exhibits of antique glass, china and silver which have long been treasured heirlooms. These will be arranged in the school auditorium in period and pattern table settings.

Homes open this year for inspection of visitors will include the venerable ante bellum mansion of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Yon, which was built in 1830; the cottage type Winston Withers residence, the first part of which was built in 1840; the ancestral home of Richmond Pearson Hobson, U. S. Naval hero of the Spanish-American war, and the gracious L. J. Lawson home on Tuscaloosa Street.

Greensboro's Old Home Pilgrimage and Flower Festival, in February, 1948, attracted more than 5,000 visitors, from practically every Alabama county and 14 other States.

SOME FACTS ABOUT HOG CHOLERA VACCINE

It is evident that hog cholera will never be eradicated through the serum and virus method. In fact, cholera is often actually spread by careless use of virus.

The Bureau of Animal Industry, Washington, which did the pioneer work in developing anti-hog cholera serum and virus, developed the new crystal violet vaccine.

About 80,000 hogs were treated for cholera in 1948 under the state program. About 25,000 of these were given the vaccine treatment. Results were good. Interest on the part of farmers and farm leaders is widespread.

Following are the advantages of this new product:

1. There is no danger of spreading cholera with it. Half of a lot of pigs may be treated; the other half untreated. The untreated will not contract the disease because of the vaccination of others. Its use does not contaminate farms.

2. Recommended dosage for all pigs, regardless of weight or age, is 5 cc's. Present state "cost price" is 9.2c per cc or 46c per pig. So, for shoates above weaning age it is more economical than serum and virus.

The following may be considered as disadvantages:

1. Two weeks after treatment is required for immunity to fully develop. Therefore, hogs definitely exposed to cholera or if cholera is already in the community it is risky to treat and wait the two required weeks.

2. The BAI says immunity lasts at least 10 months. At present it is not considered a lifetime immunity. However, all market hogs should go to market before their time runs out; breeding stock should be revaccinated every year.

Other facts to keep in mind:

1. Where serum is still effective, vaccine will not take effect. If serum is, or has been given, six weeks should elapse before using the vaccine.

2. Pigs suckling sows that have had serum seem to get a certain amount of immunity from the sow. Wait two weeks after weaning before vaccinating such pigs with vaccine for reasons stated in above paragraph.

Dr. R. S. Sugg, state veterinarian, and other livestock authorities believe that county agents would do well to stress the vaccine method of cholera control, on a community basis, over the serum and virus method, subject to the foregoing conditions.

CURE MANGY PIGS

It's true. Time means nothing to a hog! But time means much to the hog's owner, who's looking for the most profit.

Mangy pigs lose time, growth and dollars. And pigs with mange don't enjoy scratching and rubbing themselves. Tney are "poor doing" pigs.

The mange mite is a little "spider" that burrows into the skin and lays eggs in the tunnel it forms. The hair appears dry and dead. The hide becomes heavy and thick, finally cracks open.

There's a new simple treatment method of control. It's benzene hexachloride, commonly called BHC. One complete spraying is usually sufficient. And lice are also killed.

Treatment is easy. Take too pounds of 5% gamma, wettable powder, mix well with 5 gallons of water, and spray pigs completely. Be sure the body is completely wet with the material.

And be sure the BHC is a wettable powder. The form usually used in boll weevil poison is difficult to use.

BHC has an "un-delightful" odor—smells like a wet, musty basement. The odor will stay on clothes for several days, so it should be put only on the hogs. They don't mind the smell!

CHARLES (Blackie) COX

Charles Cox, former athlete at Chilton County High, is playing his second season with the Troy State basketball team. Cox, a sophomore, was also a member of the Paper Bowl grid squad of '48. He is a capable performer on the hardwood and is equally effective on defense and offense.

Why Dutch is Growing a Beard

That beard on Dutch Miller's chin doesn't mean that he's getting ready to play Santa Claus. He's simply paying off the election bet he lost to Cappy Swanson.

And while some folks allow it's all a lot of nonsense—like the wheelbarrow ride that Cappy had to give Dutch after last election day—from where I sit, it's a mighty wholesome aftermath to a difference of opinion.

Because good Americans all take their politics and voting mighty seriously. But when the issue's settled, and the die is cast, they accept the verdict in a spirit of good humor.

And that's as it should be when it comes to any difference of opinion. Some folks vote for beer as their favorite beverage — others vote for cider. In fact, we all have differences of taste in almost everything! But that doesn't mean that we can't live together in a spirit of good fellowship.

William R. Giles of Mineral Springs Comunity and William P. Varden of Jemison, were injured early Saturday morning when their car left the road at Mineral Springs. Both were brought to Clanton Hospital but Giles later transferred to Veterans Hospital at Montgomery. Varden received bad cuts about the head and face.

Clifton J. Carden of Saganaw was the driver of an automobile Saturday morning that wrecked near Maplesville. J. C. Foshee, owner of the car, was taken to Day Clinic at Maplesville where he was given first aid. Carden was not injured. Mr. Foshee's home is at Calera.

Both accidents were investigated by State Patrolmen Kendrick and Braswell.

The new Watson's Store will open it's doors for business next Saturday morning, February 19th.

The store is modern in every way and occupies the buildings on Second Avenue, formerly occupied by the Alabama Power Company office and City Grocery.

Much remodelling, both inside and outside, was done on the building and according to an advertisement in this issue of the News, the Watson's Store is here to stay and will bring to Clanton, Chilton County, and surrounding territory, prices and quality merchandise, second to none.

Mr. H. M. Linton, store manager, invites inspection of the new store and reminds you that Saturday will be "Open House" at Watson's.

WHERE'S OUR 1947 NEWS FILE?

Are you by any chance the culprit who borrowed our 1947 Chilton County News file? When we say, file, we mean the volumn of bound copies of the Chilton County News for the year 1947. Someone came in and borrowed it and failed to return it. We have forgotten who it was. If you are him—bring it back. — THE EDITOR.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL WANTS SHRUBBERY

Here is a chance for you to get rid of all that shrubbery you are thinning out and throwing away. You can get rid of the greenery and do a good turn at the same time.

If you have any you don't want, call the school or Mrs. R. M. Tucker at 178-J, and arrangements will be made to get it to the school for reseting.

On Saturday night, February 5th, at 8 o'clock, Miss Mavanelle McKee became the bride of Mr. Erskine Jackson. They were quietly married at the home of Rev. W. D. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. W. R. Legg of Thorsby and is a senior in the Jemison High School. Mr. Jackson is the son of Mrs. L. M. Jackson and the late L. M. Jackson of Thorsby, and is an employee of the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton, Ala.

Chamber Of Commerce Starts Memb'rship Drive

One of the most extensive membership drives ever attempted by any local organization is scheduled to get underway in Clanton shortly when every local business firm will be urged to join the local Chamber of Commerce, according to Mr. M. C. Godwin, newly elected president of the local body.

Mr. Godwin in a statement for the press, urged that every business firm in the city of Clanton join the local chapter. He said that a larger membership than ever before is needed now in an effort to sell the City of Clanton to the hundreds of new industries that are daily looking for new locations. Mr. Godwin also urged the full cooperation and support of every merchant in a further effort to sell and promote the City of Clanton to prospective businesses during the coming year.

No definite date had been set as yet for the start of the new campaign but it will be attempted very shortly. This was decided at a meeting late last week by all the newly-elected officers of the local chapter. These include, besides Mr. Godwin, John Mullins, vice president; Louie Smith, treasurer; and Reedie Taylor, Claud Craig, Dave Cohen and Grady Heflin.

Congressman Ed DeGraffenried Sponsors Veteran Legislation

Congressman Edward DeGraffenried, newly elected Congressman of the Sixth Congressional District, introduced the following bill on February 8th, 1949. The bill was referred to the Committee on Veterans Affairs:

To authorize the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs to pay service charges for cashing veterans' checks.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of American in Congress assembled,

That member banks of Federal Reserve banks shall receive and pay without charge the face value of checks drawn on the United States Treasury in payment of pension or other benefits to veterans.

SECTION 2. NATIONAL GUARD MILITARY BALL

The first annual military ball of the Alabama National Guard, held in Montgomery last Saturday night, was a huge success. Approximately 2,000 guardsmen and their ladies attended.

Governor and Mrs. James E. Folsom were there. Other distinguished guests there were: Maj. Gen. A. G. Paxton, Commanding General of 31st Infantry Division; Maj. Gen. James S. Saliba, the Adjutant General of Alabama; Brig. Gen. Walter J. Hanna, Deputy Commander of 31st Infantry Division, and many others too numerous to mention.

Music and floor show was furnished by Blue Barron and his orchestra. Master of Ceremonies was Mr. Ray Heagerton. The Ball was on a coast to coast network over CBS from 10:15 until 10:30.

Those present from Company B, 167th Infantry Regiment, Clanton, were: Lt. and Mrs. Lee D. Easterling, Jr.; M-Sgt. and Mrs. Hobson G. Searcy; Sgt. 1-C and Mrs. James C. Martin; Sgt. and Mrs. Samuel J. Lawrence; Pfc. James M. Hargrove and Miss Annette Mims; Pfc. Reuben M. Thomaston and Miss Joan Aussant.

It is the hope of all guardsmen that it won't be too long until plans are made for the next annual ball.

HUGE RESERVE HELD BY CHILTON CITIZENS IN U. S. SAVINGS BONDS

Total sales of U. S. Savings Bonds in Chilton County during January amounted to $19,200.00. In releasing these figures, Mr. John Hollis, County Savings Bonds Chairman, announced that citizens of Chilton County now hold $1,917,056 in United States Savings Bonds. Mr. Hollis emphasized the fact that these holdings constitute a tremendous reserve of future buying power for the days that lie ahead.

Mr. Hollis called attention to the United States Treasury's final report for 1948, which showed a big gain in Savings Bonds sales over the nation. The total of $7,295,000,000 amounted to a gain of 9% over Redemptions of Series E. F and G Bonds were 2% below the preceding year. Excess of 1948 cash sales over redemptions was $2,727,000,000—a gain of 33% over 1947.

Cash sales of Series E Bonds last year amounted to $4,224,000,000. This was $495,148,000 over redemptions, a gain of 219% over 1947, which reflects particularly the success of the Security Loan program last spring and summer. At the close of 1948, E Bond sales topped those of the preceding year by 3%, while redemptions were 5% less.

The 1947 redemptions exceeded sales during nine months of that year. The pattern for 1948 was in complete reversal, with sales exceeding redemptions in each month of the first, third and fourth quarters. Only in the second quarter were redemptions ahead of sales.

Mr. Hollis called on all citizens of Chilton County to continue building for the future through the regular purchase of U. S. Savings Bonds.

Vacations Essential

With the advent of Spring weather, the people of Chilton County are beginning to make their plans for the vacation season of the year.

We do not hesitate to urge every person to take a vacation if possible. The extent of the occasion can be adjusted to fit the pocketbook of the individual family.

Our readers should not overlook the facilities offered to vacationists by Federal and State parks. In many areas of the United States, there are accommodations for those who wish to use them. As a rule, these Government-sponsored parks and their faciities are taxed to the utmost and, in many cases, advance reservations are necessary.

The usefulness of a vacation has been thoroughly established by those who study the human body and its needs. Every worker should have a resting time and, insofar as modern employers are concerned, it is usually with full pay. The result is beneficial to the worker and to the employer.

We will not end this article on vacations without suggesting that those who administer the affairs of Government, including local officials, should give some serious consideration to the possibilty of establishing a nearby camp, or park, for the use of those living around it. Some effort should be made to provide low-cost facilities so that it will be possible for every family to have an outing this summer.

Teach Youngsters To Swim

Mothers of children in Chilton County are somewhat concerned over the dangers that lurk in the waters. They know that their children want to swim and that many of them go boating and fishing.

In many communities of the United States, there are organized classes for the purpose of teaching youngsters to swim. This is a good community undertaking and, no doubt, has saved many lives in the past.

No one doubts the attraction that water offers to growing youngsters. Naturally, boys and girls desire to swim and to play in the water. They should have the opportunity, but, before they swim, they should have proper instruction.

Most of us are ready to take good advice if it is what we want to do.

There is no reason for capitalism to fear communism if capitalism is the best economic system, as shown by its fruits.

Classified advertising in Chilton County News offers more for your money, to both buyer and seller, than any other business device we know about.

Baseball is the great American sport, and in our opinion the American Legion deserves a general vote of thanks for what it is doing to stimulate the game among the youngsters of the nation.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Before another week we will all have celebrated the birthday of a great American. Since you are going to celebrate his birthday you should know a little about the man. Here are a few maximums of George Washington:

Speak no evil of the absent, for it is unjust.

Let your conversation be without malice or envy.

Speak not of doleful things in times of mirth nor at the table.

Be not apt to relate news, if you know not the truth thereof.

Detract not from others, but neither be excessive in commending.

Let your discourse with men of business be short and comprehensive.

Gaze not on the marks or blemishes of others and ask not how they came.

Associate yourself with men of good quality, if you esteem your reputation.

When a man does all he can, though it succeeds not well, blame not him that did it.

Show not yourself glad at the misfortune of another, though he were your enemy.

Now you can go out an quote George Washington any time you get ready.

What's this about Joe Campbell resigning his place at PMA and accepting a position with an insurance company. Understand Joe is going to remain in Clanton, and that's good. If Joe were to leave we wouldn't have anyone to argue wth. We can always depend on a good argument with Joe Campbell no matter what the subject may be or which side we take.

By-the-way, we do wish him well in his new place and want to say that we are glad he and family are staying with us. We don't know how he'll do it, but we bet a dime he starts an argument about this paragraph.

Drove around the other evening with the boss and enjoyed the beautiful lawns that are a part of Clanton. Not too many flowers are blooming yet but the grass is getting green and there are quite a few japonica bushes in bloom and lots and lots of buttercups, and daffidills. Mrs. Will Culp has a most beautiful japonica. And of course Mrs. E. E. Upchurch and Mrs. Reynolds across the street. Mrs. Kunkle had a beauty too. The lawns of the Craigs, the Walkers, the Reynolds, the Upchurches, the Wades, and many, many more that we can't get around to naming, (but we better). What we could have said in one sentence is that Spring is on the way and it is showing in the lawns of our residents—but that wouldn't have helped fill this column.

They're getting around to having that J. N. Dennis Day. There's no need for us to say more as we said our piece about what we thought of Mr. Dennis several months ago in this column. We still feel the same and we still feel that a fellow should be given his flowers while he yet lives and not after he is beyond enjoying them.

Shook the hand of Judge J. O. Middleton down the street the other day. He was boarding a bus for Montgomery and his daily toil. The Judge told us that he was giving his old Buick a rest. Seems to us that the Judge is about due for a rest also. He has been hitting the ball for a lot of years and certainly deserves one. He is one of the most popular officeholders in Montgomery and has served his county, his state, and his nation well.

We see Mayor C. Fenn Jones back in town. He has been to Miami and to Cuba on a short vacation and looks like he had a pleasant trip. He was with Judge and Mrs. J. Lee Smith and Mrs. Arthur Johnson. Must be pretty rough having to get back to the daily grind after a vacation like that.

What's this about far away places beckoning to our own Cohen Stapp? Understand that Columbus is after him and we do not mean the ancient explorer, either. We wish Cohen all the luck in the world, and think he deserves it, but we would a lot rather see him stay with us here in Chilton County.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

ECZEMA

We often hear the expression "skin as smooth as a baby's." Some infants, however, are bothered with Skin diseases, and perhaps the greatest plague to a baby's skin is eczema.

Eczema is the result of your baby's being allergic to something, which means that he or his skin is very sensitive to a certain thing or things. Doctors believe that a food allergy is the most frequent cause of eczema, and many different foods have been known to cause the disease in sensitive babies. Some babies are so sensitive that they do not have to eat the food; in extremely severe cases the odor of the food may cause eczema to appear.

Things other than food can cause a child to have this disease. Wool, silk, and fur are the most frequent trouble makers, and the child does not have to wear these materials. Anyone who wears them and handles the baby may cause the child to have eczema.

Other children may be allergic to feathers, starch, cotton, kapok, shellac, dye or even baby oils and powder. Even human dandruff may cause eczema, and some babies are sensitive to certain things before birth.

If eczema be scratched large areas of skin may become moist, bleed, or become crusty. A danger of eczema is that bacterial skin diseases often appear over the areas affected by eczema. The greatest danger, however, lies in the fact that eczema may be a forerunner to asthma if the skin is not treated properly.

Prevention of eczema begins with careful diet for the expectant mother and avoidance of these things in the baby's food or environment to which he may be allergic.

Treatment of eczema should always be done under your physician's orders. He will run skin tests to find out what the baby should avoid and will probably prescribe ointments and antiseptics to ease the itching. Often a child will be allergic to several things, and this fact makes treatment difficult.

Choosing Of Deacons

(Acts 6:1-8)

A. T. HICKMAN

Here in the sixth chapter of The Acts we have the first chosen helpers among the lay membership of the church. Their work was to look after some of the business matters of the church, and to assist the preachers in any way they need help. There was no name or title given to these chosen helpers then; but later on in church history the helpers of this sort were called deacons. Here we have a murmuring and a complaint in the church. It was not about the preachers, or the song leader; or about anything that was being done. But about what was not being done. There was a neglect of duty in the church that was responsible for this particular murmuring. Thank God for men who will rise up and call attention of matters that are being neglected in the church.

To settle this affair; the Apostles called the whole church together, and laid the matter before them, and asked that the church choose seven men whom they might appoint over this business matter.

What is most interesting here, is the qualification for those chosen to serve as deacons. They were to have an honest report. That is they were to be honest men. Men that could be trusted. Faithful men. Every deacon should be an honest man. But if he is not a tither, one who pays tithes and offerings for the support of the ministry, he is not a honest man. He may appear before man to be honest, but not before Almighty God. Second, another requirement was, they must be filled with the Holy Ghost. Sure, every deacon should be a spirit-filled man. If he is not filled with the Holy Ghost, he is this much disqualified as a deacon. Not only be filled with the Spirit, but maintain a Spirit-filled experience. Paul in writing to the church at Ephesus, said, "Be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess, but be filled with the Spirit. . . Another requirement, they must be filled with wisdom. Solomon says, "Wisdom is the principle thing, therefore get wisdom." James says, "If any man lack wisdom, let him ask of God, and it shall be given him."

Many foolish things are done often times in churches that would not be done, if the lay members only had wisdom. They also must be filled with faith. And other requirements are found in I Timothy, third chapter, saying, "Likewise must the deacons be grave, not double tongued, not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre. Holding the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience, and let these also first be proved, then let them use the office of deacon, being found blameless. Even so must their wives be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things. And let the deacons be the husbands of one wife, ruling their children and their own houses well. For they that have used the office of a deacon well purchase to themselves a good degree, and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus."

Let us hope and pray that the deacons of all our churches will do their utmost to measure up to these Bible qualifications. God bless you deacons, is my prayer. You have a place in the church, and we pastors appreciate your faithful service.

Veterans' Benefits

Veterans of World War I and World War II may be entitled to pension payments for disease or injury not caused by service in the armed forces if they are adjudged by the Veterans Administration to be permanently and totally disabled.

In addition to the total and permanently disability, the veteran must have 90 days' or more active service in the armed forces, unless discharged sooner for disability in line of duty. The discharge must be under other than dishonorable conditions.

Veterans who are rated at less than 100 per cent disabled, but who are in fact unemployable by reason of the disability may be granted a pension. After reaching 55, age, as well as disability, is considered.

The disabilities, of course, must be of a permanent nature.

The rate of payment is $60 per

Radio Ramblings

(By JESSE CULP)

"This is ABS, the Associated Broadcasting Service." You'll be hearing that announcement many times in the future, and it will sign off many top-notch radio programs. This week, in case you are not already familiar with the fact, a large "network with out lines" was inaugurated in Alabama, with WBRC-FM as the mother station. WKLF is one of the twenty-odd stations on this new hookup, and we expect to bring you many fine programs through this connection.

I'd like to call your attention to a few of the programs which are now being carried on WKLF from ABS. Each morning at 10:15 it's "Bill Kitay's Quarter Hour," a program of folks and things. "Happy Hal" Burns, famous hillbilly star and disc jockey, comes out your way with his "Dinnerbell Roundup" each day from 11:00 to 11:30 and again from 1:00 to 1:30. At 2:15 all the women folks will want to listen for "Good Afternoon, Ladies." And for all the kiddies we bring you "Let's Make Believe" at 4:15 each day. There will be more good programs added to the schedule as time goes on, and we'll keep you informed on those in "Radio Ramblings."

Mrs. Henry Grady Heflin was one of the happiest women you ever saw by the time she got through being showered with gifts as the first "Queen for the week." Mrs. Robbie Hardy Powers is this week's queen, and Barbara Burnett is next week's lucky gal.

You know, each week a Mr. X, whose identity is not revealed, selects a Clanton lady (no age limitations) to be queen for a week. Then, for one solid week she is showered with gifts from Clanton business houses and at the end of her reign is interviewed on the "Fashion Portrait" program on WKLF Wednesday at 5:00 in the afternoon.

There is no more "Club 980" on WKLF. Henceforth, that program will be known as "Club Request." Cousin Paul will be airing it now from 3:00 to 4:30 each afternoon. Rev. Atchison is now heard at 4:30. Incidentally, Rev. Atchison can now make himself right at home on his program. He broadcasts right from his home each day.

If anyone knows of a sure-fire way to get paint off clothes, please contact Grady Carter. He is wearing about half of the fresh paint off the transmitter tuning house.

The other day I broadcast on the "Alabama Farm and Home Hour" (Monday through Saturday 5:45 to 6:45) a way to get rid of the fleas on your dog. Since then I've had so many inquiries about it that I will repeat it here. Just mix up a good strong solution of salt water (common table salt) and bath your dog in it. I haven't tried it YET, but those who have say that it will really get those fleas.

That's sign off time for this week. Until next Thursday, so long and good listening.

For a different coating to spread on a ham that is to be baked, season cranberry sauce with mustard, allspice, and a little cider vinegar.

CLANTON STUDY CLUB

The February meeting of the Clanton Study Club was held on Friday, February 4th, at the home of Mrs. Grady Heflin. Lovely arrangements of choice cut flowers is the club colors graced the receiving rooms.

Mrs. Frank Scott, president, presided over the meeting, which was opened with the Club Collect by the members.

Reports were made by the various officers. Mrs. Erle Ellis, the program director for the afternoon, introduced the speakers, and the following program, which was most interesting, was presented: "Recreational Needs in the South, Present Resources, Future Developments, Miss Mary Barclift; "Health Problems and Problems of Welfare in the South," Mrs. W .C. Golden.

At the conclusion of these excellent talks, a delightful salad plate was served the members and guests.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ENLARGEMENT PROGRAM AT CONCORD CHURCH

On February 20th, or next Sunday, Mr. E. A. Herron, State Sunday School Secretary for Alabama Baptists, will occupy the pulpit at the 11 o'clock hour, and we hope you will come and hear this very consecrated layman. He is a very strong speaker and will not only inform you, but will interest you.

On next Monday night Miss Thelma Moats of Andalusia will begin a study course with the book, "Building A Standard Sunday School." Miss Moats will teach through Friday night.

On Wednesday, February 23rd, beginning at 9:30 a.m. and going until 2:30 p.m., we will have a Sunday School Clinic, conducted by nine State Sunday School workers. Every phase of Sunday School work will be discussed. This is the greatest opportunity the Baptists of the Chilton-Unity associations have ever had. We hope that all superintendents and teachers of the two associations will come.

We will have lunch at the church at the noon hour. In order to give the ladies of Concord Church the opportunity to enjoy and be benefitted by the conferences, we ask visitors to bring a basket lunch and let Concord furnish the drinks.

We hope you come and pray that this may be a great day for the Lord's work through our Sunday Schools.

A LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Red Level, Ala., Feb. 14, 1949.

The Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.

Gentlemen:

On Friday night, February 11, 1949, I was in your City and had the opportunity to attend a play, "The Light Eternal," presented by the Lions Club of Clanton.

This was one of the best plays I have ever seen and carried the greatest story ever told. Takes from the Bible and gave us the story in a way that any person who might be interested could understand the message that God meant for mankind to know. From His promise to His people to the Coming of the Christ.

I saw some of the best amateur actors—men, women and children from your local community act in this play. These people had given of their time and money to present this play to raise funds for sight conservation for poor children of your community. I also saw that the people of your community did not support these people with their attendance, and in it they missed a great sermon, a beautiful lesson; missed seeing some of the best local talent I have ever seen, and missed a great opportunity to help some unfortunate children. The Lions Club is dedicated to this service and it takes organized effort to do the service they try to do.

This is being sent to you in order that you might publish it in your paper if you see fit, not as criticism to the fine people of Clanton, but in order that they might know what they missed.

You have one of the best communities in Alabama of its size, and I would not have them think that I would criticize the people.

Yours very truly,
OTTIS L. COOPER,
Past Dept. Comdr. American Legion.

SOUTHERN BELL BUSINESS INCREASE — EARNINGS DECREASE

The Southern Bell Telephone Company reported today that it handled the largest volume of business in its history in 1948, although its earnings, except for the year 1947, were the lowest in 28 years.

In a statement summarizing 1948 results, the Company disclosed that it spent more than $152,000,000 last year to improve and extend service and that it added the near-rocord total of 367,613 new telephones. At the end of the year, Southern Bell had more tan double the number of telephones in service in 1939.

The Company also reported that the addition of new switchboards and outside plant facilities made possible faster local and long distance telephone service and incerased the proportion of long distance calls completed.

Both local and long distance calling volumes soared to new Company records in 1948. Although the volume of business produced revenues 209 per cent more than in 1949 — expenses reached a new high, being 256 per cent above 1939 expense levels.

The return on each dollar of Southern Bell's capital in 1948 was only 4.03 per cent as compared with 6.90 per cent in 1939. Officials pointed out that the 1948 earnings figure includes substantial sums being held by the Company under bond and subject to refund to customers in event of adverse rate decisions.

"Although the 1948 return is slightly higher than the 2.51 per cent return of 1947, the Company's earnings in the overall are still far below the level necessary to attract sufficient capital with which to finance continued expansion," Southern Bell officials said.

"Despite the addition of more than 367,000 new telephones in 1948, the demand for service in the nine Southeastern states served by Southern Bell continues much higher than the national average. It is a healthy sign of progress that a great proportion of this demand is in the small towns and rural areas. If we are to meet this demand we must continue to construct record amounts of new telephone facilities, upwards of $140,000,000 will be required in 1949 for service improvements and expansion. In attempting to raise the money to finance this program we are in competition with other expanding businesses whose current earnings generally greatly exceed both their pre-war earnings and the current earnings of Southern Bell.

"Another aspect of the Company's present low earnings situation which is causing grave concern is that in times like the present when business is good, expansion is in order and new capital for expansion required, something more than average earnings are required to provide against the inevitable slack periods when less than average earnings will be obtained. Southern Bell's present earnings are below those requirements."

PLANTING TREES

Alabama farmers, 4-H'ers, and veteran trainees are in the middle of their greatest tree planting season. This has been made possible by the donation of over half a million trees by two of the largest paper companies in the state.

Men with prior service in any branch of the Armed Forces may now enlist for assignment of at least one year's duration within the United States, Sgt. James J. Aussant of the local United States Army and Air Force recruiting station announced today.

More than 800 assignments now exist for former members of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Force and Coast Guard, who were honorably discharged on or after May 12, 1945. Many of the 800 assignments are to units located within the Third Army Area. A list of these vacancies is available now at your local Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

HOW TO AVOID CRACKED CONCRETE BLOCK WALLS

Auburn, Ala. — Cracking of concrete block walls is generally caused by use of "green" blocks, poor foundations, or lack of proper reinforcement.

J. T. Gaillard, A.P.I. Extension Service engineer, warns that all blocks should cure at least 28 days before they are used.

Every precaution should be taken to prevent cracking since such damage is very difficult to repair.

"May your New Home be everything you hope for it to be"

Mayor Smith Congratulates American Legion Post No. 227

Congratulations on the wonderful progress you are showing. Just think, only a few weeks ago Jemison Post 227 was born. Today it has over sixty members. The interesting part they are active members, with the location for their home secured and donations coming in; they are worthy of your support. They served their country that you, as well as they, could build a home.

Jemison continues to move forward with two business buildings under construction, located in one will be a beauty parlor and barber shop. Rumors are that several dwellings are to be built in the Spring, also a new service station.

What is happening up at Jemison High, with an enrollment of over one thousand? Yes, it is a combination auditorium and gymnasium under construction. Plans are to have it completed for graduation. The Jemison Athletic Association has purchased additional lights for the ball field, and very soon you will see a crew working on the field; men, not boys, getting it in shape for the coming season. So come out and help them.

By the way, there isn't any pay, unless you get the wrong idea. That's the way they get things done up Jemison way.

Be looking for you!

FRED SMITH,
Mayor of Jemison.

REPORT ON ATHLETICS AT JEMISON HI

Our basketball teams have made good records this year. The high school "A" team has won 11 games and lost four. The "B" team has won 12, lost two. There are five games yet to play. Namely: Wetumpka, Weogufka (2), Clanton and McDory.

The Jemison "A's" (Independent team) has not done badly. They have played 500 ball for the season. Right now this team is handicapped, having lost two players.

All teams will enter tournaments.

WHAT THE AMERICAN LEGION STANDS FOR

We would like to give you some information as to what the American Legion stands for. First the Legion stands for service to God and country.

Veterans rights. Which means that Veterans will work together for veterans.

One of our many duties is to protect the widows and orphans of veterans. To assist them in every way to see that they are given their just dues and cared for in time of trouble. When a veteran dies the Legion sees that he is buried with military honors.

Legionnaires believe in, and work for, good government. Each member takes a keen interest in the management of his city, his county, and his country.

We cooperate with the churches and Sunday Schools and endeavor in every way to encourage attendance by our membership.

These are a few things that the Legion believes in and works to accomplish. — H. J. McCUE, Post Commander.

FREEZE COCONUT MEAT WHEN IT IS CHEAPEST

[illegible]

Auburn, Ala. — How would you like to have fresh coconut the year 'round? It's possible when coconut meat is frozen and stored in the home freezer.

Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist, reveals that within the next few months, fresh coconuts will be selling at greatly reduced prices.

Since it will be a good time to freeez coconuts, here's an easy way to remove the meat from the shell. First drain milk then place coconut in a hot oven at 350 degrees F. for 20 minutes. Remove coconut from oven and tap lightly with a hammer. Sometimes the meat comes out whole.

Next, remove skin from the coconut meat, grate, mix with a small amount of the milk, add one tablespoonful sugar to each coconut, then pack tightly into containers and freeze at 0 degrees F.

To avoid waste, Miss Curtis recommends that coconut meat be frozen in amounts that will be used at one time.

GOOD POULTRY CARE MEANS MORE PROFIT

Good care of the poultry flock calls for sanitation, declares John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultryman, Auburn. It is the best prevention against poultry diseases.

Another important thing to remember is that the amount of heat required depends upon kind of house, kind of brooder, and age of chicks. Keep chicks comfortable, avoid overheating. Allow at least one square foot of floor space for every two chicks. Never place over 250 to 350 chicks around one brooder.

One four-foot hopper for each 100 chicks should be provided. Increase hopper space as chicks grow older. Provide two half-gallon jars of water per 100 chicks and plenty of green feed.

Teach chicks to roost as soon as possible after they are received. Turn them out early so they will get plenty of sunshine. Separate pullets and cockerels as early as possible and place pullets on clean range at an early age. Vaccinate pullets against fowlpox when 10 weeks of age.

Liberty National Passes Half Million Mark

Liberty National Life Insurance Company completed its best year in company history December 31, 1948, President Frank P. Samford announced at the annual meeting of stockholders today. Stockholders gathered at the Company's Home Office in Birmingham to hear the report presented by President Samford and to elect directors for the coming year.

According to the president's report insurance in force increased over forty-five million dollars bringing the total insurance in force to $504,587,924.00. During the year the Company issued policies at the rate of over a thousand each day and had over two million one hundred thousand policies in force at the end of the year. It was also reported that assets of the Company increased over ten million dollars to a record total of $63,174,691.40. Surplus to policyholders at the year end was over six million six hundred thousand dollars.

President Samford said: "Last year your Company again made a greater increase in insurance in force and a greater increase in assets than during the previous year. We continue to write more Ordinary insurance and more Industrial insurance in Alabama than any other company operating in this state. Our operation is not so concentrated in other states, but we are certainly getting our share of the business in every territory in which we have an office. Your company has now reached a position of eminence in the life insurance industry as a whole, ranking tenth in the entire nation in the amount of Industrial insurance in force and seventh in the South in total insurance in force. You have a fine company, one that is making an enviable record, one that is growing and gaining greater recognition each year. You have a right to be proud of its accomplishments.

Directors Named—

Following the President's report the stockholders re-elected the entire Board of Directors to serve during 1949. Directors elected were: L. E. Bashinsky, E. A. Camp, Jr., J. D. McSpadden, F. P. Can Black-Draught Help Physical Fatigue?

Yes, Black-Draught may help physical fatigue if the only reason you have that listless feeling is because of constipation. Black-Draught, the friendly laxative, is usually prompt and thorough when taken as directed. It costs only a penny or less a dose. That's why it has been a best-seller with four generations. If you are troubled with such symptoms as loss of appetite, headache, upset stomach, flatulence, physical fatigue, sleeplessness, mental haziness, bad breath — and if these symptoms are due only to constipation — then see what Black-Draught may do for you. NO CORN QUOTAS OR ALLOTMENTS FOR '49

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that no corn acreage allotments will be determined for 1949 production and that no corn marketing quotas will be in effect for the marketing year beginning October 1, 1949.

Explaining this action, B. L. Collins, executive officer of the Production and Marketing Administration, says that the Department feels that adequate reserves should be maintained. If livestock, dairy, and poultry production are to be stabilized at desirably high levels to meet domestic and world needs, reserves of corn and other feed grains are necessary.

Collins further states that corn production in 1947 offers a good illustration of what can happen when corn reserves are reduced too far. Because of generally bad weather that year, total U. S. corn production was only 2, 384,000,000 bushels. This was almost 800,000,000 bushels short of the presently estimated corn crop needed for the 1949-50 marketing year.

LISTER HILL NAMED TO VITAL APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE JOBS

Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, who has been appointed to the Senate Appropriations Committee, is the only member to receive six assignments to sub-committees of the Appropriations Committee.

Senator Hill is also on the Labor and Public Welfare Committee which handles his education, public health and library bills, and veterans legislation.

Commenting on his Appropriations appointment, Senator Hill said:

"The Appropriations Committee is perhaps the most important Committee in the Senate. It is a key position in which to see that adequate funds are provided for the many programs essential to our people. At the same time it gives me an opportunity to watch federal expenditures more closely to prevent waste and over-lapping functions and to assure effective, economic operation of our government.

"As author of the original Unification bill, I am determined that we get real unification of the armed forces. On the Appropriations Committee I can do a better job of seeing that America gets a dollar's worth of security for every dollar spent on the armed forces."

The subcommittee assignments include:

Agriculture — appropriations for all farm programs such as farm support prices, Triple-A programs, school lunch program, soil conservation, Extension Service, REA, farm tenancy and subsistence loans, crop insurance and farm credit, experiment stations, forestry and the various programs for farm research.

Armed Services — appropriations to insure the national security, including the office of the Secretary of National Defense, Army, Navy and Air Force, the National Security Resources Board and the National Security Council.

Independent Offices—appropriations for TVA, waterways development, public roads, Veterans Administration, the Housing and Home Finance Agency responsible for overall direction of housing programs, Atomic Energy Commission, and the agencies handling freight rates, radio, public power, trade and tariffs, such as the Inter-State Commerce Commission, Federal Communications Commission, Federal Power Comission, Federal Trade Commission and Tariff Commission.

Federal Security Agency and Labor —appropriations for education, public health and social security programs, vocational rehabilitation, Labor Department, National Labor Relations Board, railroad mediation and retirement boards and Mediation and Conciliation Service.

State, Justice, Commerce and Judiciary — appropriations for programs dealing with international affairs under the State Department, the Anti-trust, FBI and other Justice Department functions under the Attorney General, and the courts, judges and referees under the federal judiciary.

District of Columbia — Senator Hill was made Chairman of the subcommittee handling appropriations for the government, facilities and services in the District of Columbia.

WAY TO REMOVE GREASE SPOTS ON HOME WALLS

Many unsightly grease spots on walls can be removed by one of the following methods, according to Alice Feavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist.

Apply fullers earth or magnesia to the spot. Let stand over night, then brush off powder. A clean blotter placed over the spot and pressed with a warm iron may remove the spot. The blotter should be changed often.

Sen. John Sparkman Introduces Noteworthy Legislation

Senator John Sparkman, Alabama, is sponsoring in the Congress now in session bills of far reaching effect. Among the most important are several to provide a more adequate housing program. Among these bills are:

The Housing Act of 1949—

This bill provides for Federal aid to local agencies for clearance of slum areas; a low-rent public housing program to aid those families whose incomes are so low they could not otherwise have decent housing; a Federal program of housing research designed to reduce housing cost and increase housing production.

The Farm Housing Act of 1949—

Feeling that other housing bills do not provide a sufficient farm housing program, Senator Sparkman introduced a separate farm housing bill.

The bill authorizes assistance from the Department of Agriculture not only for farm dwellings, but for farm buildings such as barns and other buildings essential to a complete farm unit; also to improve or repair dwellings and to provide toilet facilities and other santary living conditions.

A Bill To Amend The National Housing Act—

This bill would improve the present plan of long-term loans to non-profit housing cooperatives, especially those composed of veterans of World War II; it would make permanent the present authorization to insure lending institutions against losses they may sustain on home modernization, repair loans and small loans for the construction of modest homes; it would extend for one year the present authority of FHA to insure mortgages on rental housing projects; it would liberalize terms for construction of three and four bedroom homes; and would provide for deferment of mortgage payments under certain conditions.

A Veterans Housing Bill—

That would liberalize secondary markets for GI mortgages by authorizing the Veterans' Administration to purchase up until June 30, 1952, loans up to $10,000 which carry an interest rate of 4 per cent with the provision that lenders who sell such loans to VA would agree to originate new mortgage loans to veterans at 4 per cent equivalent to amounts sold; and would authorize the Veterans' Administration to make direct 4 per cent loans not to exceed $10,000 to veterans unable to obtain private loans.

Sparkman has joined with the Senators from Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas in sponsoring a Gulf State Fisheries Compact. The Compact would promote, develop and conserve the Gulf Coast fishing industry.

The Senator is co-author of "The Full Employment Act of 1950," designed to promote full employment and a stable economy for the nation.

He has introduced a bill that would increase the entrance salary of new employees in the field service of the Post Office Department, and would raise compensation for those employed since June 30, 1948, who have not already attained a rating of Grade 5.

Of particular national interest is a resolution joined in by Sparkman that proposes an amendment to the Constitution to abolish the electoral college. Each state would retain the same number of electoral votes but they would be divided among the presidential candidates according to their percentage of the state popular vote.

Senator Sparkman has joined with Senator Lister Hill in introducing two bills dealing with Social Security.

One bill would restore eligibility to Social Security coverage to employees and workers who are paid on a commission basis. The other bill, one which the two Senators have supported the last several years, would provide that Federal aid to states for the aged, the blind, and dependent children, be given on the basis of need as determined by per capita income. Federal aid could be granted to a maximum of $25 per month per person to the aged and blind and $13.50 for the first dependent child and $9.00 for each additional child.

He and Senator Hill are also promoting a bill that would donate schools built under the National Defense Housing Act to local school agencies.

A resolution jointly sponsored by Senators Sparkman and Hill would exempt Federal tax on admission to certain charitable entertainments.

Senator Sparkman as Chairman of the Senate Subrommittee on Housing is now holding hearings on housing proposals in order to secure all facts necessary for a sound housing program. Sparkman is also actively pushing the other bills that carry his name.

with a convenient Extension Telephone in your own room

Ever wished for the privacy of a desert island when you're on the telephone? It's all yours with an extension telephone.

This is one of the many advantages an extension telephone provides for the home and family. An extension saves time and steps. It improves your service and makes your telephone more valuable by increasing its usefulness. Extension telephones can now be installed in homes at small cost. You don't need to write or come to the office. Just call our Business Office.

Orders for main telephone service are sometimes delayed because of shortages of central office and other equipment, which are not involved in the installation of extension telephones. That's why you can now get extension telephones, though there may still be delays in furnishing main telephone service.

National F. F. A. Week
February 19-26

National FFA Week is February 19-26 and Future Farmers everywhere will celebrate this important event. (See story.)

NATIONAL FFA WEEK FEBRUARY 19-26

Future Farmers all over Alabama and all over the nation will celebrate next week February 19-26 as National FFA Week as announced by Nick Lindsay, state FFA president, Orrville, Alabama.

President Lindsay said that plans have been released to the 200 Future Farmer chapters in Alabama for conducting the most elaborate celebration in the history of FFA, the world's largest farm boys organization. The FFA is the national organization for boys studying vocational agriculture.

"I BELIEVE IN THE FUTURE OF FARMING" will be on the tongues of FFA boys everywhere next week. This statement was selected as the theme of 1949 FFA Week because it is the first seven words in their own FFA creed.

Individual FFA chapters will conduct their own local programs which will include banquets, radio broadcasts, programs at civic club meetings, contests and games, programs in school assembly, barbecue and fish fries, conduct tours, parades, have torch light ceremonies and many other unusual activities. National radio programs will be broadcast all during the week.

Why was February 19-26 selected for National FFA Week? It was because the Future Farmers of America admire George Washington for the traits of leadership that he exhibited during his lifetime and for the principles that he lived and fought to establish and preserve. George Washington also was one of America's first scientific farmers. He introduced some of the soil conservation practices that American farmers are just beginning to put into general practice.

The Future Farmers of America national camp is located on land that was once farmed by Washington. The George Washington Grist Mill, oldest relic of his occupacy of Mount Vernon, is leased by the FFA and kept open to the public. The FFA members chose the week of George Washington's birthday as National FFA Week out of honor and respect for the "Father of Our Country."

FUMIGATE GARDEN TO CONTROL ROOT-KNOT

Auburn, Ala. — If the garden area is small, J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension Service garden specialist, says that the right amount of fumigant per row can best be applied by using a fruit jar.

A 10- or 20-penny nail hole should be made near one margin of the jar lid to pour the liquid through. A somewhat smaller air hole is necessary near the opposite side of the lid.

See the local county agent for recommended materials to use.

HOG-KILLING TIME

Scald whole hog four to six minutes in water at 145 degrees. This temperature is important enough to check with a thermometer.

SOWING and REAPING

After every sowing there must some day be a reaping. In whatever church you may attend you'll be taught that "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." These men sowed wheat, good wheat, and as you can well see they are reaping a bountiful harvest.

Stop, my brother—what of the seed you are sowing, as along life's way you go? Do you choose them with carefulness, knowing you're going to reap just what you sow? It may be thoughts and words you're sowing which into deeds will surely grow; bringing blessings or curses but—you're going to reap just what you sow.

If you sow of the flesh do not expect to reap of the spirit, for you may be sure that by and by when your harvest you garner—you're going to reap just what you sow. Attend the church of your choice regularly and your sowing will be for glory and honor.

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

JOBS IN ARMY OPEN FOR WOMEN

Women are serving in more than 406 non-combatant jobs as members of the WAC-WAF it was announced today by Sgt. Aussant of the local U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station.

Jobs have been opened in new fields for women in the Army and Air Force today and under the New Career Management Plan it's now possible for advancement from apprenticeship to a supervisory status in a short time.

Out standing members of the WAC-WAF are now being selected to attend Officers Candidate School and after successful completion of the school they are commissioned as Second Lieutenants. This opportunity is also available to women not now members of the WAC-WAF if they meet the required standards.

Present requirements for enlistment in the Women's Army Corps and Women's Air Force are necessarily high, therefore, in order for a young woman to be able to apply for enlistment they must be between the ages of 18-34, have a certificate of graduation from an accrediated high school or possess an equivalent certificate, be a citizen of the United States and be able to pass the physical and mental examinations as prescribed by the Army and Air Force. Young women between the age of 18-21 must also have their parents consent.

Interested applicants should contact their local recruiting station immediately, as the Army and Air Force requirements are rapidly being filled.

Thorsby News

(By MISS C. N. TURNQUIST — Correspondent)

Thorsby Institute News—

The Helen Keller Literary Society met Friday and elected the following officers:

Bobby Gibbons, President; Charles Bradford, Vice President; Carolyn Klinner, Secretary.

The Helen Keller Literary Society had a Valentine party Saturday night in the dining hall of Thorsby Institute. The room was decorated in red and white.

There was a short program including two duets by Mrs. Herbert Petersen and Mrs. Eva Turner. Bessie Plumlee sang a song which Mr. W. T. Leary had written, and Caroline McNeill read about the History of Valentine's Day. Various group games were played and many Valentines were distributed. Jello with whipped cream and wafers and candy were served.

The evening closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

Next Saturday night at 7:30 in the Institute auditorium the annual declamatory contest will take place. No admission is charged. Everyone is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Henderson Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sims of Birmingham were supper guests of Mrs. G. S. Burnette and Dr. and Mrs. V. E. Wyatt on Saturday night.

Miss Margaret Ward of Birmingham week ended here with her brother, Billy Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Holcombe enjoyed a visit from his sister, Mrs. Carr, of Birmingham, this week end.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jackson and children visited here with friends last Sunday. The Jacksons are now living in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Turnquist, Mrs. James Bosworth and Mrs. A. E. Reagan visited in Birmingham last Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss and Mr. and Mrs. Karl Peterson. They brought back with them their sister, Mrs. Anna Thorson, who arrived there from Chicago some days previous and who will visit among relatives in the South for some weeks. Mrs. Thorson has many friends in Thorsby who welcome her back here, it having been about two years since she was here.

Friends of Mr. Henry Raybon sympathize with him in the loss of his mother, Mrs. Sandy Raybon. Mrs. Raybon passed away on Friday morning, February 11th, and funeral services were held at Montevallo, Ala., on Sunday afternoon. She leaves her husband, four daughters and two sons, besides a number of other relatives. Those of the family attending funeral services from here were: Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Raybon, Mr. Roy Raybon, Mr. Phares Raybon of Tuscaloosa, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lambert of Montgomery, Ala.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth enjoyed a motor trip to Birmingham Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. John Brothers, who returned with them Sunday night and remained here through Monday.

Reports at the time of this writing state that her condition is not improved and it is hoped that she will respond to the treatments being given her at the hospital. Mrs. Goodgame has many relatives and friends here who are quite concerned about her and trust that she will recover.

We visited the new candy kitchen the other day when the place was really busy making candy. Quite a large number of folks were on the job and it was most interesting to watch how stick candy was made. We had always wondered how they put the red stripe on stick candy and our curiosity was satisfied right here in Thorsby. They really seemed to know just how to handle the stuff. Later on they will make different kinds of candy.

Mr. Earl Marcus is serving on the Federal Jury in Montgomery this week.

The little parkway along the railroad is taking a very nice look, thanks to our Mayor who is personally having this work done. Mr. Patrick has had men working on this strip of ground for several days and it is certainly looking nice. Later on grass seed will be sown and a few flowers are to be planted and it should look very pretty when finished.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Marcus and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Collins returned Friday night after touring in Florida for a week. The party left here on Sunday morning and went to Jacksonville, Fla., then to St. Augustine, Fla. Here they saw the Fountain of Youth and drank of the water. (Don't you think Delbert and Earl look younger?) Their next stop was Daytona Beach where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Collins. They spent two nights with these folks and went sight seeing to different points while there. Their next point of interest was New Smyrna Beach, where they visited the Marine Studios, the world's largest acquarium. This they said was most interesting. They next went to Orlando, Lakeland, St. Petersburg, Tampa, then Brooksville where they called on the Blickensderfers, then Silver Springs at Ocala and the last night out was spent at Tallahassee. They had a wonderful trip but said that Thorsby did look so good to them when they got back. We are glad they had a nice trip and are glad that they are back.

He reported a wonderful time.

Mrs. Dewey Robinson of Oklahoma City is visiting her mother, Mrs. L. M. Jackson and other relatives.

THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

By "Tuck"

I wonder what happened to Marion Deaton Saturday night? He wasn't at Mary Ann Taylor's party.

Speaking of absentees, I don't believe I saw Eugene Williams or Marcus Klinner there either. What happened to you guys, something more important come up? It couldn't have been more important than that party!

Wallace Neeley seemed to have a pretty good time at the party Saturday night—that is, at the last of it. (The last was enough, wasn't it, Wallace?)

I believe if I were Mrs. Griffin I'd leave Civics class the eighth period. Boy, Myron Ievine acts like he doesn't know better. (Do you, Myron?)

I just thought of a nice, pleasant thought. About those two weeks straight tests in Civics. Boy, that can wear a guy down in a little while! (How about it, Mrs. Griffin?) A hint to the wise should be sufficient you know.

By the way, Annette Broadhead seems to be wondering about Hugh Bates. Say, Hugh, maybe you'd better straighten her out.

It seems that some guys don't have any manners when it comes to staring at others down at the school. And my advice to them (as if they or anyone else would take it) is to put a shutter on those eyes. Not literally speaking, of course. As I said before, a hint to the wise is sufficient, fellas.

Jearlyne Studdard, seems that you have quite a few eyes peeled on you. Let's see, there's one, two, three, oh well, no need to count 'em all. I've got to write just a little more.

Elvin Ellison seems to be hardly working, (Oh, pardon me, Elvin) working hard down at the drug store these days. Don't let it get you down, Elvin.

Pat Broadhead is still trying to get Joe Phillip Klinner to look her way. What's wrong Pat, lose your touch?

I wonder who Barbara Ann Davidson has on the hook these days. From where I see it, looks like she has a lotta boys trying to get on it.

Joe Douglas Grooms seemed to have a pretty good time at the party Saturday night. I wonder why?

Say, if you ever play wink, don't sit in the chairs Ann Huddleston or Ruby Crew have. That is, if you swap places with the girls. Oh, my aching head!

You know what, I think a lot more people should come over to the church on Saturday nights. We really have fun down there. Bro. Rountree is a lotta fun

Cox Favors Legislation Prohibiting Members Holding Jobs With State

Would Go Further And Include Corporation Lawyers In Bill

In a statement to the press Tuesday Legislator C. B. Cox, of Chilton County, stated he was highly in favor of the Bill to be introduced in the coming Legislature, that will prohibit members of that body holding State jobs.

"Provided," stated Mr. Cox, "They include in the Bill a clause prohibiting corporation lawyers from holding state office and serving corporations at the same time." He further stated, "I believe that a corporation would have just as much influence over their attorney serving in either chamber as would the Governor over a member of either House or Senate serving the State."

He continued, "There are several other amendments that can be attached to this Bill that would effect members now serving in the House and Senate and which will no doubt be introduced at the proper time."

The above statements of Mr. Cox were made when he was asked what his stand would be when, and if, the Bill was introduced in the coming legislature to prohibit members of either House from holding State jobs during their term of office.

We Visit Mr. Polk And The New 1949 Dodge

(By BEN)

As modern as Tomorrow, is what you will exclaim when you see the New 1949 Dodge that will be on display at Polk Brothers Motor Company Friday.

Mr. W. M. Polk took the writer in to see the New Dodge Tuesday afternoon and we can assure you it is a beauty. Shorter but longer, lower but higher, and narrower but wider, were not coined just for publicity, but are a reality. It is one of the roomiest models we have seen and has graceful lines that will hold it's own in any company. The one we saw was a Coronet-Gyro-Matic. A four-door sedan.

Mr. Polk has planned a big day Friday when he will have his show room decked out in Florida palms and azaleas. In such a setting the New Dodge will look more beautiful than ever and you had better mark the date on your calendar now, so that you will not miss this showing.

Prizes of azalea plants will be given during the day to visitors.

MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB

On February 15th at the Methodist Church the Clanton Music Appreciation Club sponsored a program of American music played and sung by local music pupils.

Stephen Foster's best-loved songs composed the first part of the program; Edward Macdowell's compositions, the second, Mary Ann Oglesby summarized the work which the Federation of Music Clubs does with young people. Charles Bradford led the entire group in singing "Old Folks at Home" and "Oh, Susanna." Robert Owens accompanied these with the trumpet. Lenore Oglesby, Sarah Madge Mullins and Donnie Klinner sang "Sweetly She Sleeps" and "My Alice Fair."

Patricia Huddleston, Sarah Madge Mullins, Jon Will Pitts and Charles Bradford then followed with the lyric, "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming." Other Stephen Foster favorites were presented as a medley, Carolyn Klinner playing the piano and Bobby Owens the trumpet. Jon Will Pitts concluded with a baritone solo, "Beautiful Dreamer."

The second part was opened by Sarah Madge Mullins, who played Macdowell's "Scotch Poem" as a piano solo. Other Macdowell music included Pat Huddleston's singing of "Through a Meadow" and Midsummer Lullaby." Annette Huddleston accompanied her sister for both. Carolyn Klinner followed with "To A Wild Rose" as a piano solo, and Mary Ann Oglesby finished with "The Witches' Dance"—also a piano solo.

To conclude the all-young-musicians' program little Beth Smith read a poem which her aunt, Clara Lundie Crawford, wrote particularly for the program. Beth is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. John R. Smith.

Columbia Concert Trio Here March 4th

Three young musical stars form the Columbia Concert Trio which will be heard here on Friday, March 4th, at 8:00 p.m. at the Baptist Church are: The violinist Ariana Bronn, the violencellist Ardyth Walker and the pianist Richard Gregor. These brilliant young American artists, hailing respectively from the east, middle west, and the northwest, are now on their second successful country-wide tour. An ensemble which presents the piano trio masterpieces of the great composers, their repertoire ranges from the beautiful and noble works of chamber music literature to special arrangements for their three instruments of American folk tunes. In addition to trios, each artist, in the course of the program, is heard in an individual group of solos.

Violinist Ariana Bronn, a New Yorker, studied under her father, a pupil of the great Leopold Auer, and himself one of the leading teachers in this country. She was encouraged to pursue a serious career by Heifetz who heard Ariana play when she was eleven. The following year she won the award of "The Society for the Advancement of Young Musicians" — a Carnegie Hall debut. Since then she has played three recitals at New York's Town Hall, toured the country in Concert, and been soloist with the orchestras of St. Louis, Buffalo, Elizabeth, Chautauqua, Charleston and Charlotte; she has also been soloist with the New York Carnegie "Pops" series. In the words of the New York Herald Tribune, "She is a full fledged young artist."

'Cellist Ardyth Walker comes from Iowa. At fifteen she won a scholarship at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, and on graduation, came to New York on a fellowship to the Juilliard Graduate School where she studied under the distinguished 'Cellist Felix Salmond. Since then she has appeared in recital and as soloist with orchestra the length and breadth of this country and in Canada. Last year, in her first appearance in Washington, D. C., the Evening Star reported "An impressive debut," also "a lovely tone, rich in volume and quality and supported by a prodigious technique."

Pianist Richard Gregor, a native of the State of Washington, was raised in Spokane. After high school graduation he won a scholarship for study with the late Olga Samaroff Stokowski at the Philadelphia Conservatory. Subsequently he spent four years on a fellowship at the Juilliard Graduate School where he continued to study under Mme. Stokowski. After his debut at Town Hall in 1946 the New York Times first praised his brilliant technique but added: "More important, he is musical. He has a mind of his own and when he undertakes a piece of music, he treats it as if it meant something to him. . .he has a fresh personal approach."

Members of Clanton Community Concerts are anticipating this program with much pleasure and enthusiasm.

A Call To Prayer

You are invited to join with all peoples in a fellowship of prayer on the World Day of Prayer Friday, March 4th, 1949. Watch next week's paper for the time and place.

DAILY PRAYER OF HIGH RESOLVE

Infinite God, yet tender Father of us all, we bow before Thee in adoration. In differing speech we utter our praise, confess our sins, declare our vows of consecration. Thou understandest all.

Forgive our generation the sin of walled-up thinking, and give us grace to expand our caring from narrow domestic and national walls to vast human family, until children now paralyzed by fear may feel the loving touch of mothers far away.

In hatred of war and its killing we are united. Hold us to a new high unity, our Father, and in that unity give us grace to change our behavior that wars may cease and Thy Kingdom come. Grant us strength to melt our pride into humility, to change our race and class prejudice into fellowship, to turn our selfishness into sharing. Rewrite into our hearts the sure knowledge that Thine is the Kingdom and Thine the power.

In this chill hour of the world's winter of indecision, grant to all mankind the shining courage to follow the difficult road of the Man of Galilee, the Christ of Calvary — our Lord. AMEN.

The Shame Of Alabama

Going on a trip?

—Down to the store for groceries? —Across the state to visit relatives? —Across the country on a vacation?

Will you get there?

Don't be too sure. Last year more than 30,000 Alabamians didn't. And of that 30,000 more than 686 didn't get back either—not under their own power. They're dead.

They didn't get there. Instead, they caromed off cold, hard highway concrete like a rabbit thrown against a stone wall—or lay ever so still in the rank weeds at a roadside—or felt that millennial instant of exquisite misery as truck wheels passed over their bodies — or ended up impaled on the knobs and gadgets of their own auto dashboards and steering wheels.

They didn't get there. Will you?

Revolting? Yes—but fact. Inescapable? Absolutely not—but then, none of them EXPECTED it—Not a single one. . . .

In the silvery Alabama twilight a newspaper reporter knocks on the door of a modest cottage. A young housewife answers, and a couple of youngsters peep out from behind her skirt. The newspaper reporter says, "Mrs. Brown?"

"Yes?"

"Could I get a picture of your husband?"

"A picture of my husband—but what do you want it for?"

"You hadn't heard? Oh, I'm terribly sorry - - - - Mr. Brown was killed in a traffic accident an hour ago. We got the story over the wire, and wanted a picture for the paper."

Tough on the reporter. . . .but tougher on Mrs. Brown. . . .

A girl from Indiana goes about her chores in the kitchen. Her Alabama husband will be home soon, and hungry — but worry gnaws at the back of her mind. Her precious first-born, in his tenth day at kindergarten, is overdue. . . .A siren wails in the distance, closes in, screeches into silence down at the corner. She gets to the door just in time to see a still small form plucked from the pavement. . . .The next ten days are her own particular nightmare. . . .

The college formal is breaking up. . . .Life and love and everything are fresh and young and radiant. . . .Two couples hustle into a sedan, roar off into the darkness intent on scrambled eggs and coffee before the dormitory matron misses the girls. . . .The highway is smooth, wide and deserted. . . ..The speeding car tops a rise. . . . A farmer is fixing a flat on his truck, his body covering the tail light. No light. . . .

Grandpa keeps chipper in spite of his years. . . .walks everywhere. . . .sometimes stays in town all night. . . . one morning they find him in his serene eternal sleep, a few feet from a neighbor's front doorstep. . . .The coroner's report says, "death was not immediate, but occurred at least three hours before discovery of the body."

Yes, it happens in Alabama—the same Alabama the stars fell on, the same Alabama of proud traditions, of boundless energy, of modern cities and backwoods wisdom. Alabama's citizens, justly proud of many things. have no reason to be proud of their traffic record—it is the worst in the nation.

Statistics are impersonal—but they have their human lesson. In 1948 more than 686 were killed and over 30,000 injured on Alabama highways. Multiply those figures by five—the grief-stricken, the anxious, the financially crippled five that accompany every traffic casualty—and you realize that the lives of more than 150,000 Alabamians are violently and brutally affected by accidents every year. 150,000 people are a sizeable piece of population—and at that rate it won't take long to get around to everyone in the state.

If by chance you're cold-blooded about the human misery involved, let's take a look at the money. In terms of direct economic loss—life expectancies lost, damages, hospital bills, time lost from work, etc.—the state's annual accident bill is over 45 million dollars.

Here's another interesting statistic: It is almost twice as dangerous to ride an automobile on Alabama highways as it is to fly a scheduled airline over the State.

The Alabama rate of 12.6 traffic deaths per 100 million vehicle-miles travelled compares with a national average of 7.7. It is higher than the rate of any other state in the South, or in the nation. If the Alabama record were just as good as average. 265 citizens would be kept alive every year. If the Alabama record were as good as the BEST, 460 lives would be saved.

The gas is sold, the wheels turn, and the slaughter goes on year after year.

If you could hear the crashes all from one street corner, you would hear one every eight minutes—a grinding, bloody symphony of human error and human grief. Yet it goes on —day in and day out, month in and month out, year in and year out—and traffic authorities swear it's all preventable.

In view of this, the public unconcern is remarkabe. The reason, really is easy to explain. An air crash is sensational —a murder is interesting—a hanging is exciting — because they don't happen very often. . . .But traffic accidents? They happen so often they're not news. . . .very commonplace, everyday occurrences.

Commonplace or not, Mr. Alabama, you've got to face up to them every time you get behind the wheel, every time you walk across the street.

Planning a trip?

Will you get there?

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Cohen Stapp made the trip to Columbus but comes back with the good news that he will not accept the position. We think he has a mighty good argument too. He says that they wanted him to move to their fair city when he went to work there. But, no soap. Cohen says he can't leave Chilton County. Which is pretty straight thinking, we think.

Did you ever stop to think what you get for the fifteen cents you pay a shine boy to shine your shoes. It isn't the shine on your shoes you pay for. Take for instance when you shine your own shoes at home. You put a little polish on them, wait for a minute for it to dry, then rub it good with a soft cloth and presto, you have a shine. But not so with the shine boy. He wets your shoes with a soapy goo that chills your foot good. Then he stands back for a minute and watches your foot like a cat watching a rat. All of a sudden he leaps at your foot with two brushes flailing away at the same time, and every other stroke busting a corn wide open. Then he knocks out a tune or two with his shine rag, seldom if ever touching your shoe but apparently working himself half to death in the effort to give you a jim dandy shine. Finally he gets around to putting a little polish on the toe of your shoe. Then he straightens up and surveys the barber shop and its occupants. If there is no conversation that he is interested in he lifts one of the rags and looks at it with great concern. No, that's not the one. He lifts another rag, inspects it well. Yep, that's it. So deciding he sqats at a comfortable squat, and proceeds to fan away at the shoe until he is satisfied that everybody concerned is satisfied he is earning his money. Then another jig with the rag across the ozone where it won't touch the shoe. If the rag touches the shoe it will lose some of it's zip and pop, and won't sound like he is doing a fancy job. After that, another attack on the corns with the brushes and he pats your shoe and that is the signal for you to get down. You are now supposed to have a super-fine shine job. The only trouble is that you have to call for some help to get down and get your "dogs" going again. The kindly barber takes your arm and steadies you on the floor until you get the feeling back in your feet and then away you go, happy and gay, until tomorrow when you go in for another one of those barber shop shines.

This is Brotherhood Week. Of course we shouldn't just have a brotherhood week. Or a brotherhood month, or a year. We should think of our fellowman each day, each week, each month, year, and always. We don't suppose when the line was written about "Do Unto Others. . . ." it was mentioned about a fellow's creed, or religion, or color, or reputation. Only the fact that he was your fellowman.

State Senator W. A. Gulledge made the front pages this week and we want to be one of the first to congratulate him. In competition with hundreds of other Southern timbermen Mr. Gulledge won second place in a timber marking contest at Montgomery. He really tied for First Place, but the tie was decided by lot and Mr. Gulledge lost. Well, win or lose, or draw, we now know that Mr. Gulledge is the best timber marker in the State of Alabama, anyway.

Did you ever have news so close under your nose that you couldn't recognize it? We guess that is the only reason we can give for being a week late in reporting the promotion of our good friend, J. E. Bonnett. (We carried his picture last week). Bonnett, as you know, was made superintendent of the local Family Reserve Insurance Company office here. We knew he had been promoted, and he has been one of our good friends for many years, but we overlooked one of the big moments in his life, and we must apologize. We're really sorry our news reporting was late, but our congratulations is just as sincere.

W. A. Crowson is a member of the Christian Temperance Union and thinks the people should be advised more fully as to the evils of strong drink. He brought us a phamplet this week that contains some mighty interesting information compiled by the drys.

Veterans' Benefits

Dependents of veterans whose death is due to a service-connected disability may be eligible for compensation payments under certain conditions outlined by the Veterans Administration.

For dependents to be eligible, the veteran's death must have been the direct result of disease or injury incurred in line of duty, or eligibility may be established if disease or injury incurred in line of duty contributed to the cause of death. The veterans's discharge must have been under other than dishonorable conditions.

This benefit is payable to widows who have not remarried, unmarried children under 18, and dependent parents. In the case of children, the age limit is extended to 21 if the chlid is attending a school approved by the Veterans Administration. This does not apply to service by the veteran before 1903.

To be eligible, the widow of a World War I veteran must have been married to the veteran before December 13, 1944, or have been married continuously for 10 years before the veteran's death.

In wartime cases, an eligible widow without any children may receive $75 per month. An eligible widow with one child may receive $100 per month, with $15 for each additional child. Other rates are: No widow, one child, $58; no widow, two children, $82; no widow, three children, $106, with $20 for each additional child; one parent, $60; two parents, $35 each.

In peacetime cases, all rates generally are 80 per cent of the wartime rates.

Full information on all veterans' benefits can be obtained at your nearest Veterans Administration office or from the service officer of any service organization.

This is the third of a series of articles on benefits for veterans and their dependents appearing every week in the Chilton County News.

Pension for non-service-connected death will be discussed next.

Persons Speaks In Washington For Rural Phones In Alabama

Montgomery, Ala. — Gordon Persons, President, Alabama Public Service Commission, this week appeared before the U. S. Senate Agriculture Committee to speak in favor of a proposed bill to provide rural telephone service.

Persons testified that the bill would allow "thousands of rural homes in Alabama to get telephones which they couldn't otherwise enjoy."

He said, also, that, if passed, the measure would enable some 90 independent telephone exchanges in the state to borrow funds for expansion purposes and new equipment.

REVIVAL AT SAMARIA

(Acts 8th Chapter)

In the beginning of this chapter we have the information concerning the great persecution which broke out against the church in Jerusalem. This scattered the Christians abroad throughout the regions of Judea and Samaria, except the Apostles. This persecution broke out against the church because of the intolerance of the Jews toward the Christians and the doctrine of the resurrection of Jesus Christ, which was proof of his Sonship, or Deity. The seventh chapter of Acts reveals more about this persecution.

A. T. HICKMAN

During the heat of this persecution, one of the deacons of the church, by the name of Phillip, went to Samaria and preached Christ unto them. Up to this time Phillip was not a preacher, only a deacon. Would to God that we had deacons today that were on fire for God that would give them a testimony for Christ wherever they go. Men with holy zeal, full of faith, and wisdom, and the power of the Holy Spirit. If we did have such men, we would have better churches, and more Holy Ghost, heaven sent revivals in our land.

Now the city of Samaria and the surrounding community had been long neglected by the Jewish religious leaders, for the Jews had no dealings with the Samaritans. The place was full of false ideas, superstition and witchcraft. Before the days of Christ it had been the home of the wicked king, Ahab. But at this time Simon was present to bewitch the people, and had for a long time bewitched the people with sorcery. But God had His eye upon the city of Samaria. He had a man that would be more than a match for Simon. God is always more than a match for the devil. Phillip was God's man for this place. A man full of faith, full of wisdom, and full of the Holy Spirit, and full of the Word of God. Like Jonah, he entered the city preaching Christ to the people. The folk gave heed with one accord to his preaching. God opened their hearts to receive the Gospel, and to believe the things concerning the Kingdom of God. A wave of faith swept over the people, and there were mighty miracles done through the power of God upon Phillip's life. The sick were healed, evil spirits were cast out of those possessed with them. The lame were made to walk. This became a "City Wide Revival." (Continued next week.)

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

Headaches

When that nagging headache makes life miserable, the chances are very good that it is caused by emotional stress. This fact has been reported by five New York physicians.

Three of these physicians conducted special headache clinics. They found that headaches for which there is no apparent physical cause and headaches following head injuries were by far the most common among patients. Fifty to sixty per cent of their patients responded favorably to almost any medicine and almost as well to harmless substitutes which contained no effective drug. Because of their study these physicians believe that most of the headaches were responses of the body to a disturbing emotional stress.

Two other New York physicians studied migraine headaches. They found that the typical sufferer from such headaches is ambitious and tends to be a perfectionist in all he does. These people are usually tense, driving persons who get satisfaction from doing more things and doing them better than other people. To do this, these persons have to use great amounts of energy, and they become resentful because they cannot keep up with the load which the world and they imposed on themselves. As a result these people become tense and tired, and migraine headaches appear. However, it is also pointed out that migraine headaches may follow a period of normal living during which time the tension has built up.

When you have such headaches you should see your doctor for a proper diagnosis. However, the decision on what to do about it is entirely up to the patient. The doctor can only diagnose, point out to you the cost you pay for living such a tense life, and point the way to relief. The decision to follow the doctor's instructions must rest with the patient.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

480 Chapoo Road,
Shanghai 5, China,
January 19, 1949.

Dear Editor:

Last September I meant to write to you about the Christmas treat I wished to give to my 1,000 ragged Sunday School children, but unfortunately I became very ill all of a sudden, and so I couldn't write to my great sorrow. Now I am a little better, I wish to let you know my little ones had a good time last Christmas.

We are planning to have an Easter treat, God willing, this Easter, and wish to give the little ones candy and Easter eggs. We have a great time every Easter telling the Story of our Saviour's Resurrection. My little "Brownies" and I wish you a very happy Easter.

Send us missionaries—lots of them. Do pray for us at this time especially because we have many problems and difficulties to face.

Pray for the children that they may escape the troubles and have a joyful Easter.

Pray that the Lord will spare me another 16 more years of service for Him in China.

I enclose a Chinese bill that went out of circulation while I was ill; but it will be a curiosity to you.

Yours in Christ's glad service,
(REV.) H. G. C. HALLOCK.

The new landscaping project which has been in progress for two years is now reaching completion, and the flowers tell their own story.

"We have the prettiest capitol in the nation," the Governor said, "and now we have the prettiest capitol grounds."

The Governor suggested that families begin planning Sunday trips to the capitol to see the flowers at their best.

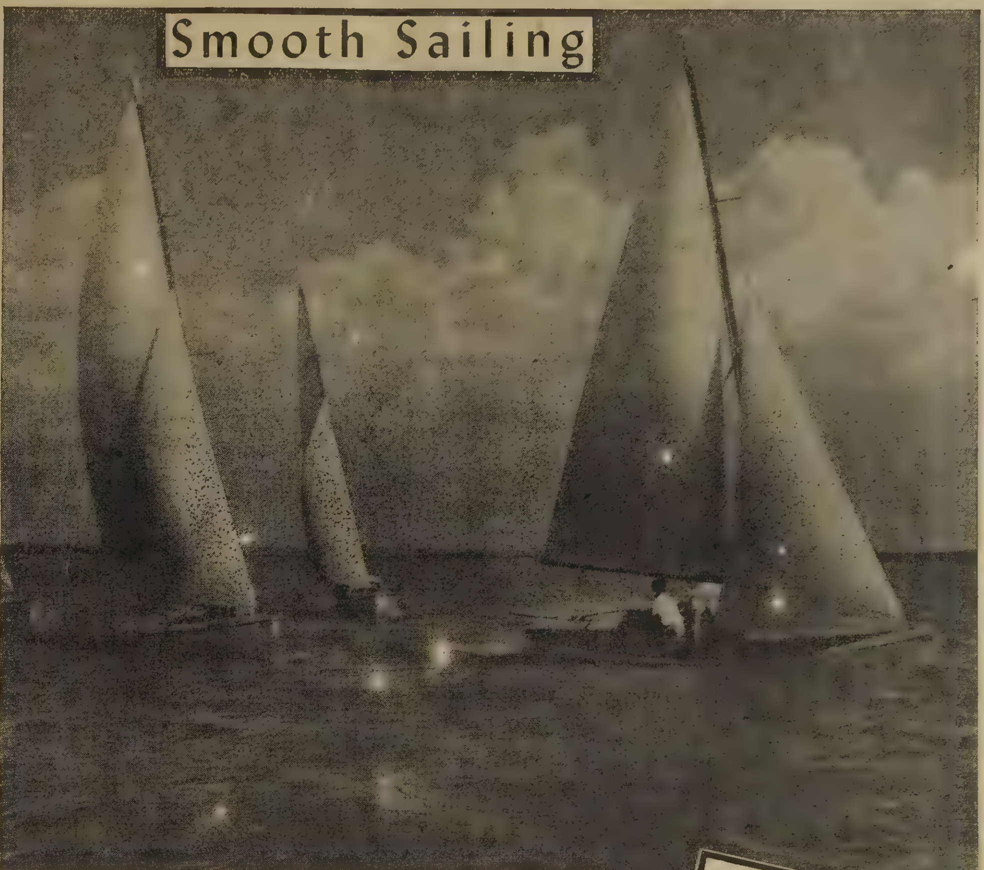
Smooth Sailing



Individuals and nations join in the dream of "smooth sailing" for the days ahead. We are not disturbed by a little rough weather and some drifting from our course, if only tomorrow we may have the better weather for the craft on which we travel.

This is God's world in which we live and the soul who expects "smooth sailing" must learn the laws of the winds of God. We must know in which direction to chart our course and how to man the sails for the best use of the winds as they blow. As you start the day's sailing, stop for a brief moment or two to ask the Great Pilot of all sea-going ships, what is the course he recommends. Be sure you have read carefully the guide book for mariners; its called The Sermon on the Mount. It will tell you how to meet the winds and how to make them drive your ship toward the desired haven. You must know how to tack as you face the difficult head-on winds which will surely meet you somewhere on your journey. Examine well the cargo and the passengers which you have aboard. Be sure the compass is working exactly that you may not drift too far from the course. The most important part of sailing is in the preparation for sailing and in the good judgment used in finding the right companionship.

In the long ago a dozen men sailed a difficult sea and feared in the storm that their little craft would founder. But they had asked a Master Sailor to go with them; and when they waked him from his rest to face the storm, they were amazed to hear the command, "Peace, be still," and to see the raging waters calmed under his authority. Men who had been having a rough voyage because of the Companion they had chosen found the "smooth sailing" which they longed for. "Jesus, Saviour, pilot me over life's tempestuous sea."

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

WELFARE BOARD APPROVES $45 MONTHLY OLD AGE ASSISTANCE

Montgomery, Ala.—The State Welfare Board has given its unanimous approval to Gov. James E. Folsom's proposal to aid Alabama's aged through a $45 monthly assistance payment program.

The projected program would be financed jointly by the federal, state and local governments, with the federal agency furnishing the majority of the funds under the recently adopted social security matching set-up.

The Welfare Board also adopted a resolution approving a proposed biennial budget of $61,600,000 for the operation of the welfare department. Miss Loula Dunn, director, said that this figure had to be based "not only on estimated needs of the people but also on the existing matching basis under which federal funds are released to the state."

Saying that three-fourths of the applications filed with the department for financial aid came from Alabama's aged, Miss Dunn added, "This is not surprising since Alabama's aged population has increased at a rate of 10 times that of the increase in the total population since 1940."

Of the 89,644 cases receiving aid in December, 69,628 were in the old-age bracket. These cases received an average payment of $22.58 as compared to the national average of $41.50.

The approval of the proposed budget would mean that 105,000 needy persons could receive welfare aid, Miss Dunn said. Of this total, 80,000 old people could be taken care of. The remaining 25,000 would consist of the blind and handicapped children.

ALABAMA IS TOP STATE IN NATION IN TREE FARM DEVELOPMENT

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama's outstanding role in the timber industry was spot-lighted here this week when more than 300 delegates gathered to attend the Southern Forest Conference which was sponsored by the Forest Farmers Association.

Of particular interest was the fact that Alabama, with its 324 Tree Farms, leads all the other 47 states in this development. There is a total of 2,241,700 acres in Alabama which are included in the Tree Farm projects.

These Tree Farms must have adequate fire control measures, and the owners must practice selective cutting which will assure continuous production of the timber crop.

The State Department of Conservation is cooperating fully with this forest program, and is now distributing millions of pine seedlings yearly to expand the Tree Farm movement. Its ultimate goal is the distribution of 100,000,000 yearly.

A broom handle can be very useful tool! Hammer or screw a hook into the end and it will be very helpful in reaching and pulling down unbreakable boxes of supplies and elusive window shade cords.

TWO ALABAMIANS NAMED TO POSTS ON BOARD OF GOVERNORS

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama's quota of representatives on the Board of Governors of the newly established Southern Foundation has been filled with the naming of Pitt Tyson Maner, of Montgomery, and A. L. Smith, of Huntsville, by Governor Folsom.

The foundation was formed last December at a meeting of southern governors in Savannah, Ga. The purpose of the organization is to correct what the Dixie chief executives termed "untruths and half-truths" about the South which have been put into circulation.

Maner is employed by the State Department of Industrial Relations, while Smith is the circulation manager of The Huntsville Times.

Each of the southern states is allowed to place two representatives on the foundation.

STATE'S LARGEST CRIME WAVE IN HALF CENTURY

Montgomery, Ala. — Crime is definitely on the upsweep in Alabama, according to C. T. Donaldson, Director of the State Bureau of Investigation.

Reports from over the state, Donaldson said, reveal that the new wave of burglaries has netted thieves in the neighborhood of $100,000 in the last six months. January of this year alone showed a 140 per cent increase in criminal activities in the state over the first month of 1948.

Donaldson said that many of the "jobs," especially in the safe-cracking department, appear to have been done by experts, while others showed signs of being pulled by amateurs.

Several of the cities hardest hit by recent robberies and burglaries are Montgomery, Birmingham, Mobile, Atmore, Huntsville, Oneonta, Parrish, and Fayette. Escambia County has had 14 robberies in the past few months, according to Sheriff W. W. Fountain.

There is some talk in lawmaking circles that a measure will be introduced to the legislature making safe-cracking a capital offense in Alabama.

AVOID CATCHING DOG IN FOX TRAP

An elevated trap set is less likely to take dogs than any other, according to Earl F. Kennamer, A.P.I. Extension Service wildlife specialist.

The trapper first locates an area having a lone stump or mound of earth. The stump or mound should be the highest point a fox might climb in the area. A sawdust pile is often ideal for the elevated set.

If a stump is the highest point, a hole large enough to seat the open trap is chopped in the top. Trap is covered lightly with soil and leaves. If a mound of earth or sawdust pile is used, trap is buried in the top and chain is tied to a clog or staked if necessary.

About ten feet from the stump or mound a dead rabbit or chicken entrails or other bait is dropped. Should a fox come along and scent the bait, his first reaction will be to hop upon the nearest high object to survey the situation before taking the bait. If a dog arrives first, he will simply eat the bait.

GREEN FEED A MUST FOR POULTRY FLOCK

Auburn, Ala. — Chickens of all ages should be supplied with plenty of tender, green feed at all times during the year.

John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultryman, points out that green feed increases growth and egg production as well as livability of both young and old birds. Also, green feed acts as a tonic and regulator.

When storing eggs, place large end up in order to keep as much of the original quality as possible.

Law Enforcement Officers And Laymen Meet In Montgomery

To Plot Campaign Against Alabama Accident Menace

Montgomery, Ala. — Law enforcement officers and laymen in all walks of life will come to this city February 23 and 24 to hold a state-wide Highway Safety Conference.

The conference is the beginning of an all-out attempt to find solutions to the various traffic hazards that took the lives of 686 Alabamians and injured more than 30,000 persons last year over the state.

According to a spokesman of the Governor's Highway Safety Committee, the assembly will lay out comprehensive plans to reduce accidents on a long-range basis.

During the conference, the governor's committee will make a roport on its findings in relation to causes and possible remedies of traffic accidents in Alabama.

The delegates to the conference will be addressed by two of the nation's leading safety educators, Donald S. Leonard, Commissioner of the Michigan State Police and Franklin M. Kreml, Director of the Northwestern Traffic Institute.

A panel discussion will be held during the conference on "The Safety Movement and Its Application in Alabama."

Alabama's safety drive will be directed along the lines prescribed by the President's Highway Safety Conference.

American Cancer Society - Alabama Division

The Fayette, Ala., Lion's Club has its first non-male member and, at the same time, probably the most unique life-saving project in Alabama.

The first is Mrs. Lillian G. Meade, Executive Director of the Alabama Division, American Cancer Society, and the second is working to prevent the preventable deaths cancer is causing in Fayette County.

Both were "adopted" by the Fayette Lions at the recent state meeting of the Alabama Division in Montgomery when 150 cancer fighters from all over the state met to map the most extensive effort in the Divisions history to bring the No. 2 killer under control.

Twenty members of the Fayette club journeyed to Montgomery to occupy an honored position on the Society's program alongside some of Alabama's most noted scientists and national leaders in the cancer fight.

The story has its beginning three years ago when Mrs. Meade was asked to talk to the Fayette Lions about cancer. When she has finished, the members asked her: "Now. . .what can we personally do about cancer."

"Well, the first thing you can do," she told them, "is have a physical examination yourselves. Then start telling other people about cancer."

On the spot, the Lions arranged, as a club project, for all members to have the examination, and to send Mrs. Meade certification that they had had it. They did, and every year since have faithfully carried out their pledge. Every member takes an annual cancer examination.

They were invited to the recent Montgomery meeting in recognition of their unique project. They were hailed and applauded by the cancer fighters.

But at the annual dinner, they rose in a body and interrupted the formal program.

"You have applauded us," they said, "but we want to give the honor to the one who really deserves it. She is the one who started us fighting cancer. She is the one who stays in behind us and sees that we don't lag in the job that we have taken on.

"The highest honor we can give to anyone is membership in our Lions Club. So in recognition of what she has done for us in our club and for what she has done in fighting cancer in Alabama, we have unanimously elected Mrs. Lillian G. Meade an Honorary Lioness."

Then the Lions presented Mrs. Meade with a handsome pin and ear ring set as badges of her new station as the only non-male member of the Fayette Club.

The cancer control work of the Fayette Lions is not word-of-mouth service. One of their most prominent members, Probate Judge J. C. McGough, is Fayette County Commander for the American Cancer Society, directing the year 'round cancer education program, and the club each April conducts the cancer financial campaign in the county.

Year after year they have consistently led the rest of the state by raising a higher percentage of their goal than any other county.

For Sunday night supper, make a delicious dish by combining canned crab meat with a cream sauce flavored with a little dry mustard. Sprinkle shredded cheese on top and brown lightly.

THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

By "Tuck"

I wonder why Joanne Scott doesn't show she likes Richard Easterling? She says it a lot, but I haven't seen anything to prove it yet.

Joe Douglas Grooms seems to have a pretty good time in Civics fifth period. It couldn't be where you sit, could it, Doug?

Speaking of having fun, Jearlyne Studdard, Annette Broadhead and Billy Powell seem to have a pretty good time in Civics eighth period. (Boy, Mrs. Griffin, it seems that you don't bear down on those Civics students hard enough.)

Mrs. Griffin seems to have a magnetic personality or something, she kinda draws people to her. (Maybe that's how she got those walls painted the other day.)

Nine of our bright high school students went to Montgomery the other day to the Debate Clinic sponsored by the University of Alabama. Among them were as follows: Aubrey Neeley, Frank Donovan, Hershel Smith, Jon Will Pitts, Myron Levine, Elizabeth Sheppard, Martha Mayo, Joanne Scott and Helen Todd. We wish you people lots of luck on anything or any contest you might enter from now on.

By the way, if any of you decide to go fishing for whales (King size, that is), come up to the Chilton County News and look at the king sized fishing pole. And I do mean King Sized!!!

There is going to be a county wide contest of the best poems, essays, etc., etc., this coming April 15th. The contest is going to be sponsored by the American Association of University Women (April 15th is when the contest closes, my error.) But! There is going to be a school contest that opens April 1st and there are going to be cash prizes, so, if any of you want to enter, see the sponsor of the contest in Room 13 at the High School. Of course, there are going to be some rules and regulations, but you can get those in the February 18th issue of the Chit-Chatter.

Man! That Eloise Sheppard gets cuter every day, doesn't she, keeds?

Well, this was the week of the dark ages, wasn't it, folks? I guess you might call it six weeks tests, but dark ages fit it better, don't you think?

You know what? You might call this a little free publicity, but Alred's Drug Store really makes good chocolate milks. How about it, Elvin?

Bobby Kinney sure did have a good time in English Monday at the sixth period. But didn't we all? (Of course, we studied a little bit, but don't get any wrong ideas. That's not every day, you know?

Boy, I could really get a lotta girls mad at me with some pictures I've seen of them in the third and fourth grade. They've improved just a little bit. Did I say start? Haw! There aren't many girls in school that don't already hate me.

BOWLES

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson and son, Charles, visited Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Williams Saturday night.

Miss Elsie Jean Williams visited Misses Flora and Edith Williams Sunday morning.

Misses Willie Pearl, Frances and Clydie Ruth Chandler had as their guests Sunday afternoon Misses Flora and Edith Williams, Morris and Will Frank Williams, J. L. Thompson and Carl Rhodes.

Little Myra Fay Chandler spent Monday night with Mrs. J. F. Spigner and Mrs. W. J. Gafford.

Misses Flora Ann and Edith Williams and Clydie Ruth Chandler visited Mrs. Charles Jackson Sunday morning.

Miss Clydie Ruth Chandler spent Friday night with Mrs. J. F. Spigner.

Mis Frances Chandler had as her guests Saturday night Mr. Ed Spigner, Miss Jessie Mae Hayes and Mr. Herman Hayes of Plantersville.

Miss Flora Ann Williams spent Monday night with Miss Frances Chandler.

Miss Edith Williams spent Wednesday night with Miss Willie Pearl Chandler.

Bill Clack of Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Randle Ledbetter spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Preston Deramus of Clanton.

To remove iron rust from sheets and towels, apply a little salt or lemon juice to the spot and hang immediately in the sun.

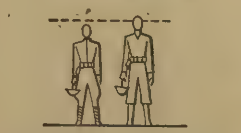
DODGE TO INTRODUCE NEW KIND OF CAR BUILT FOR TODAY'S BIGGER TALLER AMERICANS

Daring New Dodge establishes new trend . . . provides more head room, elbow room and leg room, at the same time decreasing outside dimensions. Extreme lines, uncomfortable seats and cramped interiors have no place in Dodge thinking.

"BODY-CRAMPING ROOF LINES MUST GO," said Dodge! Army physical exams revealed that our wartime generation was bigger, taller and more active. A car with more interior space—not less—is the goal Dodge engineers achieved.



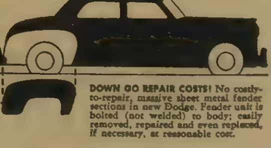
Army statistics revealed that the G.I.'s of World War II averaged 1½" taller than the Doughboys of World War I. The same statistics showed they were also heavier and more active.

DODGE STARTED WITH A SPACIOUS INTERIOR—and practically built the rest of the car around it! Here is room to "roam around in"—plenty of room to let the human body take positions that are natural and therefore comfortable.

DODGE SAID "NO" TO THIS . . . repairing dented or torn fenders is sure to be costly when fenders are formed right into great masses of sheet metal. Now look below and see why Dodge owners don't have this worry.

TIRING? YES! Doctors agree that people can't go for long periods "sitting on their spines" without becoming tired, irritable. Dodge did something about this, too!

AH-H! RELAXING! Dodge "knee level" seats, shown above, put the entire body in a natural position . . . with full leg support for restful, all-day comfort.



DOWN GO REPAIR COSTS! No costly-to-repair, massive sheet metal fender sections in new Dodge. Fender unit is bolted (not welded) to body; easily removed, repaired and even replaced, if necessary, at reasonable cost.

" 'NECK-CRICKING' CONTOURS ARE ALREADY OLD-FASHIONED," says Dodge. How can today's bigger, taller Americans be comfortable in a car where it's even hard to lean back or sit up straight?

DODGE ROOMINESS IS ROOM ALL AROUND . . . The new Dodge, shorter, narrower and lower, gives you more elbow room . . . leg room . . . head room . . . that today's bigger Americans will WELCOME!

LOWER ON THE OUTSIDE . . . Higher on the Inside • SHORTER ON THE OUTSIDE . . . Longer on the Inside
NARROWER ON THE OUTSIDE . . . Wider on the Inside

SEE HOW DODGE DOES IT! Coming Feb. 25th

DIFFERENT TIMES TO ADD SALAD DRESSING

Auburn, Ala. — When to add the dressing depends upon the kind of salad served.

Since French dressing tends to wilt salad greens, Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist, recommends that dressing not be added until salad is ready to serve.

One exception to the rule is when meat or a cooked vegetable-mix makes up the salad. When this is the case, many housewives prefer to marinate ingredients in French dressing an hour or two for added flavor.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Chelsie Thrash, William M. Northcutt, Clyde Wood, and O. H. Lawrence prepared a soil and water conservation farm plan last week with the North Central Soil Conservation District. Kudzu, sericea lespedeza and water disposal areas were planned for each of these farms. The long time conservation plan calls for annual and perennial sod crops and they will be utilized by adding dairy cows.

* * *

Terrace lines were run for Charles Foshee on approximately 25 acres. The terrace will empty in a meadow outlet. Charles plans to establish a patch of partridge peas and bicolor lespedeza for quail.

* * *

There has been a considerable acreage of kudzu planned for Chilton County and most everyone will agree there is room for a lot more. The crowns and seedlings are not on the market in sufficient quantity to supply the demand. Contact one of your neighbors who has kudzu or dig them whenever it is convenient, and plant some. If planted soon, managed, and fertilized properly it will pay big dividends in years to come.

* * *

The time to overseed oats with kobe lespedeza is at hand. Ask Neal Harrell, C. R. Childress, Chick Fiquette, J. N. Dennis, S. D. Posey, W. A. Williams, J. S. Johnson, or someone else you know that has grown kobe and get their experience. It is one of our best summer legumes, hays and soil builders. For open crop land small grain and kobe lespedeza is one of our best rotations.

• • •

A small tour is planned Saturday, February 26th, the "J. N. Dennis Day." Come and see a good grazing system. Kudzu and sericea with Hard-seed Crimson Clover, Manganese bur clover, caley peas and grandifloria vetch reseeding on both of the above perennials.

CONTROL DISEASES BY TREATING TOMATO SEED

Auburn, Ala. — "If untreated tomato seed have not been planted, why not treat them with one of the materials that will control some of the diseases that attack tomato plants?" asks Lyle Brown, A.P.I. Extension Service horticulturist.

The local county agent can give you the names of materials used for this purpose.

To prevent potatoes from cracking while baking, rub them with fat or butter.

SCALE INSECTS

Among the worst pests found on fruit trees and evergreen flowering shrubs are the scale insects. These insects can be controlled with an oil emulsion. To control scale insects on evergreen plants such as camellias, a special kind of emulsion called Volck is recommended. See the local county agent for further information.

MORE FRUIT TREES

Reports from county and home demonstration agents indicate that only about 50 per cent of Alabama farm families grow fruits for home use.

So that nails and screws can be found easily, put spare ones in glass jars.

Local Highway Patrolmen To Crack Down On One Tag Autos

Orders Come Direct From Governor All Cars Must Display Front Rear Tags

Local Highway Patrolmen, Kendricks and Braswell, received orders direct from the Governor to "crack down" on any automobile driver whose car did not carry two license plates, both back and front, and whose tags were not entirely visible.

The letter stated: "It has come to my attention that robed and hooded mobs are using their cars over the streets and highways with tags removed or concealed in violation of the laws of this state. I am sure I can depend upon you to see that the laws of the State are observed and abided by to the end that all persons and their property are fully protected." . . . . "You will see that each and every officer of your Department is fully informed of the contents of this letter and that they comply with it." (Signed) Gov. James E. Folsom.

The orders were addressed to Hon. J. D. Mitchell, Director of Public Safety. When asked about their plans this week Patrolmen Kendricks and Braswell stated that the orders would be strictly enforced in their territory and asked the general public to please cooperate with them in every way in checking their automobile tags now, so that they would not have to make arrests unless absolutely necessary.

The guests were received at the door by Mrs. Erle Ellis, president of the club, Mrs. Herbert Klinner, former president, and other members of the club. Mrs. W. A. Willis, secretary of the club, presided at the guest book with the assistance of Mrs. Leonard Farley, treasurer.

Mrs. Claude Craig and Mrs. J. E. Gowan served tea and coffee at the beautifully decorated dining table during the first hour. Mrs. Grady Heflin served with Mrs. R. H. Kirkpatrick during the remainder of the tea. They were assisted by Mrs. Reedie Taylor and Mrs. Joe Campbell, and other members of the club. Miss Elizabeth B. Barton welcomed the guests in the solorium.

Classical records were enjoyed during the early part of the afternoon. Mrs. Raymond Mims, Mrs. Percy Pitts and Mrs. Bert Snead, members of the club, entertained the guests with vocal and piano selections. Other numbers on the program were vocal selections by Misses Mary Clyde Mims and Patricia Huddleston and Messrs. Cooper Speaks, Henry Heflin and Jon Will Pitts, and piano selections by Miss Evelyn Jones.

After the refreshments and social hour Mrs. Luther Little, Mrs. Sibley McGowan and Mrs. Joe Mullins ushered the guests through the beautiful garden, which is one of the show places of the city.

Kiwanis Club To Repeat Their Minstrel Show

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton is to give a repeat performance of the "Sugar Foot Ministrel" it put on last December for the benefit of the Chilton County High School Band. The members of the band have offered to sell tickets to this show and the band will give several numbers before the performance that evening and during the intermission also.

If you missed the show last December here is an opportunity for you to spend a most delightful evening and help along a good cause at the same time. You will doubtless be solicited by a member of the band to buy one or more tickets for this show, the price will be 60 and 40 cents.

The time — 7:30 Thursday night, March 10, 1949, at the City Hall.

Stock Shows Will Start March 29th

Thirteen major fat stock shows and sales are scheduled in Alabama during the ten weeks begining March 29th, J. E. Moreno, Director Agricultural Division, Alabama State Chamber of Commerce.

Beginning with the Grove Hill event March 29, the shows will reach the end of the 1949 season with the annual show and sale in Birmingham May 5 and 6.

The 13 shows slated during the year are two more than were held during 1948, and indicated the rapid growth of the cattle industry in Alabama, Moreno, who is also secretary of the Alabama Cattlesmen's Association, said. In addition, Moreno is a member of the official Rules Committee of all of the shows, along with J. L. Lawson, assistant director of the Extension Service at Auburn and J. C. Cannon, supervisor of vocational training in Alabama.

April is the big month for the shows and sales with ten events on the calender. The Birmingham date in May is the only show held so late, although the Demopolis show and sale is planned for March 30 and 31, the two days following the opening show date in Grove Hill.

Monroeville leads the April parade with the show set April 1. Mobile follows closely with April 5 and 6, with Dothan next April 12 and 13. Selma's dates are April 14 and 15, and Evergreen, Eufaula, and Opelika follow April 18, 19 and 20 with a single day at each city.

The Gadsden show and sale is set April 21 and 22, with the Montgomery program planned April 26 & 27. Dates for the Decatur show are April 28 and 29, with the Birmingham event set to wind up the shows for the year May 5 and 6.

Government To Buy Low Grade Potatoes

The same support price, adjusted only by months and by states, will be paid for U. S. No. 1, U. S. Commercial, U. S. No. 1 Size B, and U. S. No. 2 grades.

Explaining this action, B. L. Collins, executive officer of the Production and Marketing Administration, states that if all the 2's and B's produced by eligible growers in 1948 had been sold to the government, more than half the surplus purchases would have been of these low grades rather than only 14 per cent.

This is why it is believed that a single support price for all eligible grades should effectively channel poor quality potatoes to the government and good quality to market if there is a surplus. However, it should not encourage the production of poor quality potatoes solely for sale to the government because growers should be interested in securing greater returns than the support price which they can do only by obtaining commercial market premiums for good quality potatoes.

Over 200 Colored Trainees Visit A P I

Auburn, Ala. — About 225 colored G.I. Trainees from six nearby counties toured A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station here this week to study research results in feed and forage crops, animal breeding, poultry, home gardening, farm ponds and treating fence posts.

Counties represented and vocational agriculture teachers leading the groups were: Macon, S. M. Eich, Jr., Tuskegee; Autauga, B. R. Dunn, Prattville; Lee, P. I. Washington, Opelika; Russell, Frank G. Hendrick, Phenix City; Elmore, W. W. Crowder, Wetumpka; and Chilton, M. D. Tingle, Clanton.

It was a return visit for many in the groups, numbers of whom have put to use information gained here. When explained that alfalfa had produced an average of 4½ tons of hay per acre per year for the last four years and made $225 to $250 worth of milk from grazing, Roger Williams of Lee County said, "I've just got to have three acres of alfalfa next fall." any similar statements were made regarding improved and new practices observed at the station.

Roger produces and sells about 5 gallons of milk a day to supplement cotton income on his 40-acre farm. He owns 16 head of cattle that have 16 acres of good winter grazing — two acres reseeding crimson clover and 14 acres of oats and vetch. The living costs of his family of four is reduced 85 per cent from home produced foods and other necessities.

Artificial breeding of dairy cows drew a great deal of interest from the various groups. Although a very small percentage of the G.I. farmers had used this service before visiting the artificial breeding headquarters, many indicated their intention to take advantage of the service when available in the near future. They were told that it isn't impossible for the offspring from the average Alabama cow bred to the average bull of the Artificial Breeding Unit to produce twice as much milk as her dam.

The groups saw and learned about research-tested methods for controlling lice, mites and pullorum disease in small farm flocks.

In connection with home gardens, they were shown vegetables from straw banks, pits, and house storage, use of cold frames and window flats for plant production and advantageous use of space around the house and poultry runs for growing fruits and vegetables for home use.

The groups were shown a method for treating fence posts by a cold-soaking process.

Staff members assisting with the tours included: K. M. Autrey, head of the dairy department; D. F. King, head of the poultry department; L. M. Ware, head of the horticulture department; J. M Lawrence, assistant fish culturist; T. D. Stevens, head of the forestry department; and J. C. Grimes, head of the animal husbandry departmnt.

HOMEMAKERS SET OWN CLEANING STANDARDS

Every housekeeper has her own standards of cleanliness. When her home falls below these standards, she is upset.

Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, points out that the pressure of other jobs may make it impossible for her to keep her home as clean as she would like.

When this is the case, usually a definite but flexible plan will help. Remember that a thin layer of dirt is easily and quickly removed, but an accumulation is hard to remove because it cakes and requires extra time and equipment for cleaning.

Enlist the cooperation of all family members. A cheerful attitude on the part of the housekeeper makes it easier to get other family members to help. Give children responsibilities suited to their ages. Even a very small child can hang up his clothes if low hooks are provided.

Mr. W.M. Polk Announces New Line Of Johnson Outboards

Polk Bros. Motor Co., now has on display the revolutionary Johnson QD, the gear shift outboard motor that has been the center of attraction at both the New York and Chicago motor boat shows as well as in Johnson dealer showrooms throughout the country.

Mr. W. M. Polk of Polk Bros. Motor Co., states that there are no less than forty brand new features in the ten horsepower Johnson Model QD. Headline features are NEUTRAL-FORWARD-REVERSE and the separate Mile-Master fuel tank.

The ease of operation, the convenience of controlling the direction of your boat merely by the flick of the gear shift knob will make the Johnson QD an all-around family favorite to be enjoyed equally by men, women and children Mr. Polk said.

The new Johnson Model QD, with its terrific acceleration is engineered also for slowest trolling speeds to please the needs of the fisherman. The consistent high speeds mean that the fisherman can get to his favorite fishing spots in a hurry. The consistent slow speeds mean that he can leisurely loaf along at a lazy pace, casting or trolling at will for his favorite catch. And, with the separate Mile-Master fuel tank, with its big five gallon capacity, he can go for hours without refueling.

It was pointed out by Mr. Polk that the gear shift mechanism in the Johnson QD is a development by the Johnson engineering department. Work was first begun on this particular model over five years ago with final costs running close to the million dollar mark.

Mr. Polk further added that four built-in features make the Johnson gear shift control practical: Automatic speed limitation in neutral and reverse; automatic exhaust diversion in reverse; automatic anti-tilt lock in reverse; and automatic absorption of shock in the rubber floated propeller.

Extensive tests both at the Johnson factory in Waukegan, Illinois and at their proving waters in Florida have resulted, Mr. Polk said, in the development of the most revolutionary Johnson outboard motor since the invention of the first lightweight models in the early 1920's.

Henderson Papers Comment On CIO Program For South

(J. C. Henderson, newly elected president of the Alabama Press Association prints in his newspapers an editorial on CIO plans to organize the South's industries that will be read with general interest. Mr. Henderson is editor and publisher of the Alexander City Outlook, Dadeville Record, Opelika Eagle, Goodwater Enterprise Chronicle, and Tallapoosa News.)

(Alexander City Outlook)

Do you play tiddly-winks, hopscotch, or mumblepeg? If so you'll probably be slapped on the back and challenged pretty soon in a friendly game in one of these folksy pastimes. Do you like to sit around a pot-bellied stove in an old-fashioned general merchandise store, perched on a nail keg, swapping tall-tales with your cronies? If so, you'll probably be having some new company soon. Do you mind someone using your church for ulterior, sinister motives? If not, you'll probably be having a new temporary parishioner or two pretty soon.

For, according to Victor Riesel syndicated labor writer, the CIO is sending 6,000 volunteer workers and 200 organizers into the South to conduct a "folksy campaign," employing only "the homiest of techniques," in an attempt to sign thousands of new members. "They'll drop on on their neighbors just to gossip. They'll hike over to filling stations, just to mix with the boys. They'll stand around gabbing at the plant's gates or entrances. They'll sit with the townsfolk at local grocery and general stores . . .When a chap waves his hand and says, "Howdy, Deacon," he can be greeting someone from his local union headquarters, for example, as well as from his church.

* * * *

So, that's the way the new "Operation Tricksy" will work. Mr. Riesel says that he's been sitting-in on briefing sessions, listening to Van Bittner tell his crusaders how to conquer the South. They've been told they must play at being neignbors, churchmen, moral crusaders. No more rough-house stuff. No more visiting honky-tonks. No more drinking booze. No more getting drunk and gambling. No more running around with loose women. No nore fussing and quarreling among hemselves. That kind of thing just von't work with Southerners. It was ried last time, "Operation Dixie," and t was one colossal flop.

Mr. Riesel says the CIO badly needs iew members. He says tne CIO badly ieeds more money. He says the CIO s to spend $2,500,000 for its 1949 inasion of the South. Somebody's got to ay. Mr. Riesel says the CIO is askng for $3 a man from its 400,000 texile union members; and Mr. Riesel ays the CIO is counting on collectng initiation dues and regular memberhip fees from at least 3,000,000 of the ,000,000 Southern factory workers. No iention is made in Mr. Riesel's story f the "holy cause" of the crusaders. t's just money that's wanted from the ew members.

* * *

And they expect to get it by trickng Southern people. By pretending to e neighborly. By attending church and rayer-meeting wherever the grass ooks greenest. By posing as devout, ioral men and women. Mr. Riesel says even the toughest union leaders" have een told they must conduct themlves as sweet little Christians when iey go South. Mr. Riesel says "Fath" Van Bittner has had help of church aders in instructing the "Operation ricksy" boys how to behave in chur, and what they are supposed to beeve if they decide to be Baptists, ethodists, or Presbyterians. "Rugged -year-old Van Bittner knows the outh," says Mr. Riesel.

We don't think so. Not if Van Bittr thinks the Southern people will ll for cheap trickery, religious hyprisy, pretending morality on the part those being sent into the South to b the workers of their well-earned yrolls. The entire technique on "Opation Tricksy" is an insult to every cent Southerner.

FARMERS UNION CALLS FOR 100 PERCENT PARITY

A committee of Congress this week heard for the first time tne National Marmers Union proposal for 100 percent parity price supperts for family-type farmers. In testimony to a House Committee on Agriculture, James G. Farmers Union, told the Committee: Patton, President of the National "One thing I am absolutely sure of is that the rank and file farmers of this country will insist of revision of the present law." Patton pointed out to the Committee that achievement of 100 percent of parity was perfectly feasable and a practical matter if the proposal were approached from the standpoint of commodity credit loans at 100 percent of parity on the average volume of production of a family farm for each crop. Patton also urged upon the Committee the merits of using incentive systems of higher than 100 percent of parity to promote adjustments and shifts from one crop to another. Several members of the Committee expressed emphatic agreement with the proposal that farmers receive 100 percent of parity while making no commitments on the methods whereby that might be done.

Patton Presents FU Objectives for World Development To Pres. Truman

Considerable progress was made this week in advancing the long-range objectives of the National Farmers Union through an open letter by President Patton to President Truman regarding the development of underdeveloped areas and through numerous conferences by FU representatives and visiting prize-winning FUers with Department officials.

Patton's letter to the President commended him for his proposal to take American "know how" to the underdeveloped areas of the earth. "This call", Patton said, "for positive action to shape a better world has come like the proverbial breath of fresh air." Patton expressed the hope that the United States in carrying out the proposed program would act through the United Nations and its agencies and that high profits from the areas developed would not be drained off by American competition. This, Patton said, would cause the plan to fail.

HEART DISEASE STILL THE BIGGEST KILLER

Heart disease killed Alabamians in November at an average rate of about one death every 82 minutes.

The State Health Department made public today a mortality report covering this disease. The report, prepared by its Bureau of Vital Statistics, showed that 528 Alabama deaths were attributed to heart disease during that 30-day period. Of this two-race total, 322 were of white people and 206 of Negroes.

Heart disease has long been the leading cause of death in this state and in the entire United States.

"IF EVERY ONE"

If everyone who drives a car could lie a month in bed
With broken bones and stitched up wounds, or fractures of the head,
And here endure the agonies as many people do,
They'd never preach safety any more to me or you.

If everyone could stand by the bed of some close friend,
And hear the doctor say "No hopes," before that fatal end,
And see him there unconscious, never knowing what took place,
The laws and rules of traffic, I'm sure, we'd soon embrace.

If everyone could meet the wife and children left behind,
And step into the darkened home where once the sun-light shined,
And look upon the vacant chairs where Daddy used to sit,
I'm sure each reckless driver would be forced to think of it.

If someone would realize the pedestrians on the street,
Have just as much the right of way as those upon the seat,
And train their eyes for children who run recklessly at play,
This steady toll of human lives would drop from day to day.

If everyone would check his car before he takes a trip,
For worn out tires, loose steering wheels and brakes that fail to grip,
And pay attention to his lights while driving roads at night,
Another score for safety could be chalked up in the fight.

If everyone who drives a car would heed the danger signs,
Placed by the highway engineers who also mark the lines,
To keep traffic in the lane and give it proper space,
The accidents we read about could not have taken place.

And last, if he who takes the wheel would say a little prayer,
And keep in mind those in the car depending on his care,
And make a vow and pledge himself to never take a chance,
The great crusade for safety then would suddenly advance.

TIME TO CHECK UP ON CANNED FOOD BUDGET

Will last year's canned food budget supply a sufficient amount of fruit, vegetables, and meat to make up two thirds of all meals served until canning season is here again?

If so, Lavada Curtis, API Extension Service food preservation specialist, says that a good job has been done.

With last year's budget in mind, now is a good time to check on the amount canned last year and the amount left on the pantry shelf. If too much canned food will be left over, cut down on the amount of food canned for 1949 and 1950.

According to the Alabama food conservation budget, the following amounts of food should be canned for one person: 66 pints of tomatoes, 66 pints of vegetables, 70 pints of fruit, and 20 pints of meat. Naturally the food budget will vary according to the age of each child in the family.

It's Bigger Than You Are

Many questions have been asked and much has been said about where the Peach Festival should be held this spring.

Where is it going to be held? Are personal feelings and selfish interests going to ruin our peach festival when it has grown to the mammoth celebration it has?

Chilton County's annual Peach Festival is bigger than any one man or any one organization, or any one group. It is sponsored and produced for the benefit of Chilton County as a whole and that is the attitude that should be taken by each and every member of the Committee who's duty it is to stage the annual festival.

As one member of the committee said, if it is going to cause hard feelings among the people of our county instead of creating good fellowship and unity of purpose, then it should be discarded. It is defeating it's own purpose.

Let's get together and work in harmony on our 1949 edition of our Chilton County Peach Festival. It is for the good of our county and what helps our county helps us all.

The National Guard

The National Guard has reached a strength of 320,182 officers and enlisted men, its greatest strength since World War I, according to press dispatches from Washington.

To any person to whom national defense is more than a catch phrase, this is reassuring news that the National Guard again is gaining strength to protect the freedom and security of our country.

The service of the National Guard in both World Wars has been as distinguished as it has been timely. General Eisenhower in his recent book, "Crusade in Europe," paid tribute to the Guard for furnishing men in organized units in a time when our armed strength was at its lowest ebb.

General Marshall, who recently retired as Secretary of State, emphasized the importance of the National Guard when as Chief of Staff of the United States Army he drew up the plan for our postwar military establishment. The Guard now has its most important mission in more than 300 years of its existence As an integral part of the Army and Air Force of the United States, it is expected to be capable of immediately furnishing trained units at full strength and with full equipment in the event of any emergency.

Part of this National Guard Defense Establishment is Company B, 167th Infantry Regiment here in Clanton. They have grown to a strength of 110 men, and will have a strength of 167 when completely organized.

At the same time they have been training for their Federal mission, the Clanton unit of the Alabama National Guard are prepared to serve the community in time of local disaster.

The remarkable growth of the National Guard here in Clanton and throughout the United States is a distinctly encouraging sign of our time. For one thing it shows that the general apathy toward military security, so common to democracies following a war, is being overcome in this country. Too, it well demonstrates the fact that our young American men - that group their elders are often inclined to call "softees" but always manage to win a war - not only are willing to give some time to military service, but are also actually are eager to do so.

The National Guard attracts its men because it has something to offer them . . . something to do something to learn, something that moves. And therein, we think, lies the answer to why the National Guard, year in and year out, continues to fill its ranks with young and able men.

The Guard was nothing new when a lieutenant colonel, George Washington, was one of its commanders. Like a rare wine or a fine violin, it has improved with age.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Jim Blalock brought us a honey of a fishing pole last week. It was thirty-nine feet long and standing by the Chilton County News building reached several feet higher. Looks like it would easily hold a whale if there were whales in the Coosa river. Jim said he had about twelve just like it he was using at his camp on the river.

Well we've seen the new Fords, the new Kaiser-Frazer, the Chevrolets, the Pontiacs, the Dodges, and now we're waiting to see the new Plymouths.

And if our guess is right it won't be long now. We saw Mr. J. A. Lambert and Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer rushing to the Bus Station Thursday morning and we are sure they were on their way to a new car showing. Those shows have been coming so regular for the past few weeks that whenever you see one of our local automobile dealers rushing down the street with a suit case in his hand you can be pretty certain that somewhere in this old country, (Atlanta, Chicago, Memphis, New York, etc.) there is a new car show in progress. Well just about all have had their showing now and when the Plymouth dealers announce theirs we can all sit back and wait for them to get some to sell.

Speaking of automobiles reminds us that for some time we have intended to publicly thank Rip Burnett and "Shack" Shackleford for the "Ford Times" that comes to us each month. It is a most readable little book and we really enjoy it. In case you are not familiar with the magazine it is a travelogue and is published by the Ford Motor Co. A very interesting piece of reading.

A young lady stalled her car at a traffic light one winter day. She pushed on her starter, tried again, chocked her motor, while behind her an impatient motorist honked his horn steadily. Finally she got out and walked back. "I'm awfully sorry, but I don't seem to be able to start my car," she told the driver of the other car pleasantly. "If you'll go up there and start it for me, I'll stay here and lean on your horn."

We didn't send flowers to the funeral last Sunday of Mr. John VanDerveer, Sr. We knew Mr. John well and he was a very, very good friend of ours. He spent much of his time at the News office gossiping and passing the time of day with us. He helped us in many things, and gave us much appreciated advice on many subjects. He was a veritable fountain of information and we used him often. For the past two years he has been looking after our interests in the office supply line and was often seen with a product on his way to make a sale or a delivery. It wasn't what Mr. John made out of the trade in a financial way but it gave him something to do—he was a great helper of his fellowman. Mr. John wasn't the kind to appreciate flowers after he was dead. We thought a lot of Mr. John VanDerveer. We will miss him a lot, too. But we didn't send flowers—he understands.

Now wasn't that business trip to Mobile a little bit too timely? We are referring to our popular Methodist pastor, Rev. Carlisle Miller. He went to Mobile this past week-end to conduct services at the Chickasaw Methodist Church. Since we heard about that we have just been putting two and two together—it being Mardi Gras and azalia time and all.

We were drinking coffee at the cafe the other morning when we run into Julian Evans. Julian was telling us about the nice "Court of Honor", they had at the high school the night before. Julian said that in front of him sat Mr. and Mrs. Herman LeCroy, on one side sat Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Holliman. On the other side sat Mr. and Mrs. Erle Ellis and behind him sat another couple we do not recall. Julian says all these couples, including himself (he isn't married), at a Boy Scout Court of Honor and none with children of their own. Herman LeCroy who was sitting at the counter between us spoke up and said: "Well Julian, we are doing better than you are—you haven't even been exposed."

The Lighted Pathway

THE TWELVE

The twelve men that Jesus choose to be his apostles were men of varying and sometimes clashing personalities, which is proof in itself that persons of different interests and character traits can be united in Christ.

Let us examine briefly the personalities of The Twelve:

PETER was a well-to-do business man whose natural name was Simon. Jesus changed his name to Peter (Greek) or Cephas (Aramic), both words meaning "rock". He was enthusiastic, energetic, impulsive and impetuous.

JOHN was highly ambitious and wanted to sit at the right hand of Christ in the kingdom. Jesus named him the "Son of Thunder," a name apparently given because of sudden outbursts of thundering words of violent temper.

PHILIP was down to earth, as we would say today. He had a matter of fact mind. His faith was manifest when Jesus fed the great multitude with the few loaves and fishes.

MATTHEW was a publican, a hated tax collector. He was wealthy and educated, but was looked upon as an outcast.

JAMES was a brother of John, and also was named a "Son of Thunder" by Jesus, which would indicate that he also was given to sudden and violent outbursts of words and temper.

THOMAS was the doubter. He was the "from Missouri" type. He had to be shown. He was skeptical and demanded proof.

ANDREW was a brother of Peter and along with John was one of the first to accept Jesus. It took courage to become an early convert of Jesus. The name Andrew means "manly."

THADDAEUS: We know very little of Thaddaeus. Yet he must have had desirable character traits or Jesus would not have chosen him.

SIMON was a Zealot, a member of a highly nationalistic sect. The Zealots despised the publicans. Thus, he and Matthew were natural enemies.

BARTHOLOMEW is thought to be the person referred to as Nathaniel. Jesus called him a man without guile —a man unpossessed of deceitful cunning or trickery.

JAMES: The second James numbered among The Twelve, was called "The Little", probably because of his small physical build.

JUDAS ISCARIOT was the betrayer. He was selfish, dishonest and easily disappointed. He expected rich rewards, and when these did not materialize, he betrayed Jesus.

Not one of The Twelve was a man of religion. Their interests were varied, so were their personalities. Yet they became united in Christ (except for Judas) and became the spearhead of Christianity.

Veterans' Benefits

(Fourth of a series)

Pension for non-service-connected deaths may be payable to widows or children of World War I or World War II veterans under laws administered by the Veterans Administration.

This benefit is payable to unremarried widows, and to unmarried children under 18, or 21 if attending a school approved by the Veterans Administration. Dependent parents are not eligible for this benefit.

For the widow or children of a World War I veteran to be eligible, the veteran must have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable after at least 90 days service; or if he served less than 90 days he must have been discharged for disability incurred in service in line of duty.

To be eligible, the widow of a World War I veteran must have been married to the veteran before December 14, 1944, or have been married to the veteran continuously for ten years before his death.

Widows or children of World War II veterans may obtain a pension for non-service-connected death if the veteran at the time of death was receiving compensation or retirement pay for a service-connected disability, even though the disability was not the cause of death.

In addition, widows or children of World War II veterans may be eligible if the veteran at the time of death had a service-connected disability which can be proven to an ascertainable degree even though it had not been established during the veteran's life.

The service - connected disability need not be the cause of death.

Monthly rates of pay for this benefit are: widow, no child, $42; widow, one child, $54 (each additional child, $6); no widow, one child, $21.60; no widow, two children, $32.40; no widow, three children $43.20 (each additional child, $4.80).

This benefit is not payable to a widow without minor children during a calender year when her annual income exceeds $1,000, nor to a widow with a child or children whose annual income exceeds $2,500. Pension payments are not included in calculating the annual income.

Full information on all veterans benefits can be obtained from your nearest Veterans Administration office or from the service officer of any service organization.

This is the fourth of a series of articles on benefits for veterans and their dependents appearing every Thursday in the Chilton County News.

Education and training under the G. I. Bill will be discussed next.

USE WATER-DDT SPRAY IN UNFINISHED ATTIC

Auburn, Ala.- Flies and wasps often appear with the first warm days of spring and become a nuisance in unfinished attics.

To control these pests, W.A. Ruffin, API Extension Service entomologist, suggests spraying walls and rafters of unfinished attics with a water-dispersible DDT spray. It is made by mixing 12 tablespoons of 50 per cent wettable DDT powder in one gallon of water.

If an oil spray is used on finished attics to avoid the white deposit left by the water spray, exercise care to avoid a fire hazard. Never use an oil spray near an open fire, a lighted cigarette, or a running electric motor which may give off sparks.

NEW HARMONY

Our revival began Monday night, February 21, with Bro. Ellis Cleckler of Oak Grove Community doing the preaching. We are not sure just how long it will run, but we feel that many hearts have been blessed already. There has been a real nice attendance most every night. We are very glad to have the many visitors from surrounding communities and give each one a cordial invitation back.

We have had some special singers. We are always glad to have good singers come by and help us out.

There is some sickness in the community, but we hope that every one will soon be well.

Mrs. Minnie Smitherman was operated on in a Selma hospital some time back, but is now back at home and seems to be doing nicely, although she still not able to do anything. We hope that very soon she will be able to be out and about her work.

Mrs. Ella Smitherman has been very ill in the Clanton Hospital, but is now at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lela Littleton, and is improving some. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Ethel Smith and children arrived home Saturday morning from Florida. We are very glad to see some of our folks coming back, as each one is sadly missed in our church.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith and baby, Juanita, visited Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hix in Montgomery Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Littleton have sold their place and are moving to a new location. We hope they will not be too far away to come to church. The place was sold to Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Baker, who will soon be moving in.

Remember to attend our church services beginning each night at 7:00 and Sunday School Sunday at 10:00.

PLEASANT GROVE METHODIST CHURCH

We had a good crowd out for our Sunday School Sunday considering the weather. Rev. J. W. Gibson brought one of the finest lecturers to the adult class that we think we have ever heard.

Among those who attended the Laymen's service at Cedar Grove Sunday and the Second Quarterly Conference were: Mr. T. J. Headley, Mrs. Lula Best, Miss Dean Scott, Fred Hosey, James Hosey, Dick Hosey, and Mark Hosey.

Rev. Rountree, Mrs. Rountree and baby spent Monday with the Mark Hosey family.

Mr. T. J. Headley took Sunday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hosey and family.

Dick Hosey of Birmingham, Ala., is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hosey.

Everybody be sure to come to Sunday School next Sunday and stay for preaching. The church had an old-fashioned altar rail built in the church this week. Someone of our young people don't know what an altar is, but we have a nice one in our church. We want to give Rev. Rountree, Mr. Mark Hosey and Dick Hosey congratulations for this nice work they did in making the altar for the church.

Annual Basketball Tournament To Be Held At Tuscaloosa

Tuscaloosa, Ala.- The University of Alabama and the Tuscaloosa Junior Chamber of Commerce will play host to the state's annual high school basketball tournament for the 23rd successive year, it was announced here this week by director Frank Thomas following a meeting with Cliff Harper, secretary of the Alabama High School Coaches' Association.

Seperate tournaments for the "A" and "B" schools will be held for the second straight year with the "B" tourney set for Friday and Saturday, March 4-5, and the "A" meet scheduled the following weekend, March 11-12. First round games will get underway Friday morning with the finals set for Saturday night. All contests will be played in Foster Auditorium, site of Crimson Tide varsity contests.

Harper stated that drawings for the two tournaments will be held in Montgomery on the Sunday preceding each meet, rather than on the preceding Thursday night as has been the custom in recent years. The pairings for the "B" tournament will be made Feb. 27 and for the "A" tournament on March 6.

The visiting teams will again be housed on the University's Northington campus with the university furnishing rooms and meals and the Junior Chamber providing entertainment for the various teams and awarding trophies to the finalists in both tournaments.

Etowah County High defeated McGill for the 1948 "A" championship while Hubbertville beat Corner for the "B" title.

TIRE PLANT WORKERS BACK AT WORK AFTER STRIKE SETTLEMENT

Montgomery- After a one week lay-off approximately 1,000 employees of the B. F. Goodrich Co.'s Tuscaloosa tire manufacturing plant are back at their jobs.

The plant shut down Feb. 14 when the members of Local 351, United Rubber Workers (CIO) walked out voluntarily over what the union spokesmen termed various grievances. R. R. Wade, Director of the State Labor Department, said the union members were dissatisfied with work assignments given two of the tire company's employees.

Wade said the disagreement will be handled through regular dispute procedures. Some 1,000 tires and tubes are turned out at the Tuscaloosa plant each day of full scale operation.

The decision to return to work was reached by a mass meeting of the striking workers. Wade said

WARNING AGAINST ANTHRAX 'SCARES'

Of all the diseases affecting livestock and human beings, one of the oldest and most deadly is anthrax. It spreads fast, kills fast, and sometimes causes disastrous lossses. The spores of anthrax live in the soil, surviving for years under the worst conditions.

A cow killed by anthrax.

Nevertheless, anthrax "scares" and indiscriminate vaccination should be avoided. Outbreaks have been reported in almost every state at various times, but the disease is a constant hazard in only a few well-defined regions.

If an anthrax outbreak occurs in a new area, livestock owners should co-operate fully and promptly with local veterinarians and livestock sanitary officials. Except in established anthrax areas, an outbreak usually can be controlled by vaccinating stock on the infected premises and adjacent farms.

One of the common and serious mistakes, in handling new outbreaks, is the indiscriminate vaccination of cattle, horses and mules outside the actual danger zone. This practice may serve to start fresh outbreaks.

In all cases, one precaution is vital. Carcasses of anthrax victims must be disposed of, quickly and thoroughly, by complete burning. And the persons doing the job should use every precaution to avoid exposure. Human beings can readily contract anthrax by careless handling of sick or dead animals.

When a suspected or known case of anthrax appears the first thing to do is to call the veterinarian. He can examine the ailing or dead animal, determine whether anthrax was the cause of trouble, and prescribe measures to check the outbreak before it causes widespread losses.

(Acts — 8th Chapter)

Another wonderful thing about the revival at Samaria is this. Acts 8:14: "Now when the Apostles which were at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the Word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John." Now, this was after Samaria had received the Word of God by the ministry of Phillip. The revival was already in progress. The people had heard the Gospel; received the Word; had already believed the Word; obeyed the Word; had been baptized in water, and there was great joy in the city.

A. T. HICKMAN

This city-wide revival had filled the hearts of the people with the greatest joy they had ever witnessed before.

But for what purpose did Peter and John come to Samaria? Verse 15 says, "Who, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Ghost; for as yet he was fallen upon none of them, only they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost." Please notice that it was after the people had received, and believed Phillip's teaching, the things pertaining to the Kingdom of God, and had been baptized with water, that Peter and John came down from Jerusalem, and prayed for the young believers, and laid hands on them that they might receive the Holy Ghost, for He was not fallen upon none of them. But when they had prayed for them, they received the Holy Ghost. If they had received the infilling of the Holy Ghost at the time of their conversion, or when they were baptized in water there would have been no occasion for the ministry of Peter and John.

This proves that the Baptism of the Holy Ghost is distinct too, and subsequent to regeneration. It is true that every one receives the Spirit of Christ when he is saved, for it is the working of the Holy Spirit that we are regenerated, but it is one thing to be regenerated by the Holy Spirit, and quite another thing to be baptized with the Holy Spirit. All of the Apostles that received the Holy Spirit on the Day of Pentecost were already converted people. Had been made clean through the Word. Been baptized in water, had been commissioned to preach the Gospel, all before they received the Holy Ghost Baptism.

Friends, the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to those afar off, and to as many as the Lord our God shall call. (Continued next week).

Veterans Training Increase Expected In Two Years

Montgomery, Ala.- Feb. 23, 1949- A strong upsurge in requests for education and training available to Alabama veterans under the G. I. Bill is expected to occur within the next two years, according to C. C. Horton, Director of the Department Veteran's Affairs.

"Reports from our county offices indicate an increasing number of inquiries regarding eligibility for such training and questions relative to the facilities available throughout the nation. According to the report of the Administrator of Veterans Affairs under date of June 30, 1948, only 1,073 Alabama veterans had exhausted their entitlement to such benefits, out of nearly 300,000 eligibles. At that time 165,408 veterans had applied for education and training under the G. I. Bill, and 51-674 were continued in training.

"For most veterans throughout the the nation, all educational benefits under this law must be begun by July 25, 1951, and in my opinion, the majority of Alabama veterans will not let this opportunity slip away without capitalizing upon it. Veterans can draw subsistence allowances from the federal government while attending school or college, or while in training on the job or on the farm, and the apparent downward trend in business generally, will undoubtedly stimulate many additional veterans to turn to these benefits."

Citing as an illustration the recent lay-off of a number of railway employees, Horton also prophesied that veterans may find that they have trained themselves in fields in which job opportunities will be non-existent or very limited in coming years. Such veterans, he pointed out, if they have eligibility time remaining, may decide to pursue a course of education or training leading to proficiency in some other field where the job opportunities are brighter. No reliable estimates have been offered as to the total number of Alabama veterans who may take some form of education before their entitlement expires, but it is anticipated that by the time the program is ended more than 200,000 will have secured some benefits under the educational provisions of the law. During the fiscal year 1948 more than 50 millions of dollars came into Alabama from subsistence allowances alone, with 17 1-2 million being paid for tuition, equipment, etc., this being exclusive of amounts paid for vocational rehabilitation under Public Law 16 which brought in an additional 6 million dollars, and also excludes readjustment allowances paid.

There was a Tacky Party given Saturday night by the Christian Endeavor Society. Prizes were given for the most tacky costume. First prize was won by Bobbie Barnett and Virginia Johnson. Second prize was won by Bobby Gibbons and Earl Mims. And the third prize was won by Jean Grey, Carolyn McNeil and Adele Slagle, and Bessie Plumlee. Refreshments were served and the party was ended with the singing of TAPS. A good time was had by all.

Bridal Shower—

One of the loveliest events of the season was that of a bridal shower given by Mrs. S. F. Higdon at her home here for Miss Inez Cox, bride elect.

The rooms were very lovely in white Spring flowers and white candles were placed in white candle holders and tied with green and white satin ribbons. In the receiving line were the bride elect and her mother, Mrs. Enoch Cox, Mrs. C. O. Lawrence, the groom's mother, and Mrs. A. G. Roberts of Birmingham, sister of the bride elect. Miss Cox wore a lovely evening dress of rose colored crepe and her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Cox wore acqua crepe trimmed in lace. Mrs. Lawrence was in blue with pink and blue corsage. Mrs. Roberts wore pink crepe and marquisitte with corsage of white carnations. Assisting Mrs. Higdon in entertaining the guests and serving were: Mrs. Carl McDowell of Clanton, Mrs. Frank Porter, Miss Joan Christiansen, Miss Norma Jean Honeycutt and Misses Elizabeth Jean and Mary Frances Collins. Little individual cakes trimmed in lilies of the valley and green punch were served to the guests.

On Wednesday afternoon a group of ladies went to Jemison, Ala., to visit with Mrs. Lina Dyrhovd and help her celebrate her 87th birthday. Those who enjoyed this little party were: Mrs. J. O. Johnson, Mrs. Marie Peterson, Mrs. Anna S. Thorson, Miss Naemi Turnquist, Miss Anna Werness and Mrs. Marie Graves and Mrs. Bosworth. They furnished refreshments which were enjoyed and a good time was had. Mrs. Dyrhovd was made happy by having her friends call on her. A good many who could not go to see her, remembered her with cards.

Mrs. Foster, mother of Mrs. W. F. Holcombe, is here with Mr. Holcombe while she is in the hospital. Friends of "Dan" will be glad to know that she is recovering nicely from a recent operation.

Mr. and Mrs. John Higgins moved into their lovely new home last week and we are happy to welcome this young couple to Thorsby.

Mrs. Eula Higgins is visiting with her son, Guy Higgins, in Norfolk, Va.

Mrs. H. G. Maynard remains quite ill at her home here. We hope that she will soon be on the road to recovery.

Mr. N. C. (Pete) Peterson returned Sunday from the Highland Baptist Hospital in Birmingham where he has been under treatment for two weeks. Mr. Peterson was able to return to his work in Siluria, Ala., today. We hope that he will continue to improve in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Littleton spent the week end in Siluria, Ala., with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Huggins, Mr. and Mrs. T. McCoy of Bluff Springs, Fla., stopped Monday for a short visit with their cousin, Mrs. A. W. Livingston, as they returned from a two-weeks stay at Hot Springs, Ark.

Mrs. Vince Reynolds of Calera visited her father, Pops Pearson, and Aunt Margaret Salter Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. N. C. Peterson entertained a few friends at her home here on last Friday afternoon complimenting Mrs. Carl Turnquist and Mrs. Anna Thorson. Delicious refreshments were served to about ten guests.

We are proud of our traffic lights that have been installed and have been badly needed for some time. We hope this will keep people from speeding through our town as we have seen many do, even though we had speed limit signs to the north and the south of us.

Mr. Bentley has greatly improved the looks of our town by giving all of his buildings along the highway a fresh, new coat of paint. Wilber Marcus has also given his store front a face lifting. The Thorsby Ice Plant has improved their front by putting in a new plate glass front, in fact, everywhere you look, folks are improving their buildings. It must be that Spring is in the air.

Mrs. Fred Howard returned last week from Atlanta, where she has been visiting for two months with her daughter, Mrs. S. E. Simms, and family.

We have had quite a lot of sickness in our midst during the past week or so. Mr. Ogburn was confined to his home for several days with a bad case of flu. Leonard Bosworth and Mrs. James Bosworth have also been confined to their homes with bad colds, and almost everywhere we hear folks complaining of bad colds. We suppose it is due to the mild weather we have been having, when folks will get a little careless in their habits.

If you want to see some real action going on in Thorsby, take a ride down the highway, or you can walk, it isn't far, and see what the Chilton County

Rheumatism

In a 48 page booklet, a committee of 12 of the nation's leading doctors have issued a complete report of years of research on rheumatism and arthritis.

From their findings a formula called Ru-Tel was then tested by physicians and clinics and has achieved remarkable results in relieving the pains of rheumatism, arthritis, backache and neuritis. Ru-Tel Tablets are pleasant to take, do not upset the stomach—give quick soothing relief, sometimes overnight. Now Ru-Tel Tablets are available through all druggists. First bottle must help or your money refunded.

GO TO CHURCH ON SUNDAY

FROM THE HEART OF A SOUL

A clean life is more to be desired than gold . . . and the consolation a lucky possessor has in knowing that he or she is privileged to reap daily from its huge storehouse of self-created blessings is unspeakable. The testimony given here is not an occasion of pride nor of idle show but may these facts be influential in your scheme of living . . . may they challenge you to find yourself in time to avoid embarrassment.

A a good home is unquestionably one of the greatest privileges of any individual and its influence is evidenced through many generations. Parents who spend hours teaching and leading their youngsters to a better understanding of the things beautiful and most of all . . . how to live, shall not have spent life nor time in vain.

THE curse of drink and its companionate sins is without question the greatest evil of this generation. It knows no bounds, nationality nor faith. It prays upon those who are weak enough to accept what it offers and prostitutes without discrimination. A clean life cannot be hidden. Its smile is radiant; its influence profound; never looks dissipated and always is on the alert. Your church can help you to live clean. Attend regularly and give systematically to her program.

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

By "Tuck"

Well, I guess everyone has seen the way Mrs. Griffin cleaned up, haven't you? Boy, it really looks swell. Of course, she had a little help doing it, but not much.

By the way, if anyone has a copy of the book, MOORE'S HISTORY OF ALABAMA, would they please donate it to the Chilton County High School? Because we need some mighty bad.

I wonder if Billy Powell had a good time at the band party Friday night? How about it, Billy, didja???

Marion Deaton says he still hasn't got him a girl yet. What's wrong, Marion, slipping? Or is it the girls that are slipping?

Alice Deramus and Joe Blair sure do have a good time in Civics fifth period. Say, Joe, that's a very good excuse for getting out of Civics: Quote, "Mrs. Griffin, I've got a headache," unquote. No kiddin', Joe, I wish I could do it.

It was too bad about us losing the tournament, wasn't it, Keeds? Oh well, we can't win every time.

Say, that animal show at school was really good, wasn't it, keeds? That little monkey named "Judy" was kinda cute at times. (Or rather all the time.)

Well, guys, it looks like spring training is here at last, doesn't it? Boy, there sure are some little squirts going out this time, and I'm not omitting myself, either.

I don't believe I've ever seen the grass at school looking any better. Boy, those FFA guys really have it looking swell. Keep it up guys.

Hey, Shelby Studdard, won't Fred pay any attention to you anymore? You must be slipping. How about it Fred, is it Shelby or you???

We've really got a good gang eating in the lunchroom now. Take it from me and don't get in the back of the line if you can help it. I'm just about the last one to leave every day.

I wonder who that was Peggy Wade was with in the picture show last Wednesday night. What say, Peggy??

Say I wonder what happened to Edwina Williamson's boy friend? Did he leave you, Edwina, or did you leave him?

Looks like Bobby Kinney and Grace Lawrence are still going strong but I do think Grace treats him too rough, doesn't she, Kinney?

It seems that the story we've been reading in English has made Benny Ray Tucker a little daffy. He goes around quoting from it all the time.

HIGHLAND

We had a nice crowd out for church Sunday and Sunday night, even though the weather was bad. Bro. G. H. Hamm delivered two wonderful sermons. All who were not present, missed a blessing.

Remember our Sunday School every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Every one has a special invitation to come out and be with us.

The Rev. Dewey Hughes will be doing the preaching for the revival at this place.

Bro. G. H. Hamm, the pastor, will preach for us again the second Sunday and Sunday night.

The church will meet each Saturday night before the third Sunday of each month for prayer service and conference, for the purpose of transacting the business of the church. Each member is requested to be present

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton had as their week end guest their daughter, Miss Marietta Hamilton, of Montevallo College; Miss Noradene Dickey, from Birmingham; also their son, Lecil Hamilton, of Birmingham.

We were glad to have Mr. Luther Little from Samaria with us last Sunlay and made a very interesting talk

NEW SALEM

There will be an afternoon singing here March 6th, at 1:30 p.m. Everyone has a special invitation to attend. The John Deason and the Liberty Hill quartets are to be here, so you better be present if you want to hear some real good singing. All the surrounding communities are urged to come. We will have both the Stamps-Baxter and Vaughn Books. — J. A. Davenport, Chairman; J. L. Hayes, Co-Chairman.

J. THOMAS DANIEL

J. Thomas Daniel, age 89, formerly of Lomax-Clanton, Ala., Route 4, died Sunday at 11:00 a.m., at the home of a daughter, Mrs. J. W. Gandy, of Deatsville, Ala.

The funeral was held at 10:00 a.m. Tuesday from the Church of Christ, Lomax, Ala. The remains were carried to Marble Valley in Coosa County, conducted by the R. L. Huffman, of Lomax, Ala., and Percy Nichols at Marble Valley.

Veteran Training Increase Expected In Next Two Years

Montgomery, Ala.- Feb. 23, 1949- A strong upsurge in requests for education and training available to Alabama veterans under the G. I. Bill is expected to occur within the next two years, according to C. C. Horton, Director of the Department Veteran's Affairs.

"Reports from our county offices indicate an increasing number of inquiries regarding eligibility for such training and questions relative to the facilities available throughout the nation. According to the report of the Administrator of Veterans Affairs under date of June 30, 1948, only 1,073 Alabama veterans had exhausted their entitlement to such benefits, out of nearly 300,000 eligibles. At that time 165,408 veterans had applied for education and training under the G. I. Bill, and 51-674 were continued in training.

"For most veterans throughout the the nation, all educational benefits under this law must be begun by July 25, 1951, and in my opinion, the majority of Alabama veterans will not let this opportunity slip away without capitalizing upon it. Veterans can draw subsistence allowances from the federal government while attending school or college, or while in training on the job or on the farm, and the apparent downward trend in business generally, will undoubtedly stimulate many additional veterans to turn to these benefits."

Citing as an illustration the recent lay-off of a number of railway employees, Horton also prophesied that veterans may find that they have trained themselves in fields in which job opportunities will be non-existent or very limited in coming years. Such veterans, he pointed out, if they have eligibility time remaining, may decide to pursue a course of education or training leading to proficiency in some other field where the job opportunities are brighter. No reliable estimates have been offered as to the total number of Alabama veterans who may take some form of education before their entitlement expires, but it is anticipated that by the time the program is ended more than 200,000 will have secured some benefits under the educational provisions of the law. During the fiscal year 1948 more than 50 millions of dollars came into Alabama from subsistence allowances alone, with 17 1-2 million being paid for tuition, equipment, etc., this being exclusive of amounts paid for vocational rehabilitation under Public Law 16 which brought in an additional 6 million dollars, and also excludes readjustment allowances paid.

ON-THE-FARM TRAINING-

Veteran Cornelius Mullins Shows A Lot Of Progress Over A Very Short Period Of Time

Cornelius Mullins is a veteran that has shown a great deal of progress since enrolling with the Veterans Farm Training Program.

He was enrolled February 1, 1947. At that time Mr. Mullins and his new teacher planned a long range farming program which they believed would put the trainee on his way to successful farming.

Since that time, Mr. Mullins has developed more than his plans called for He has built and landscaped a fine new home. Also he has completely furnished the house with good substantial furniture and modern conveniences.

Mr. Mullins has installed a pump and water system.

Since coming on the program he has cleared and seeded four acres of permanent pasture.

Last year he made better than 50 bushels of corn per acre and bumper cotton crop.

Mr. Mullins bought a farmall cub tractor and already found that it is a very profitable machine. He can turn off his work with ease and comfort and also in such a short period of time that he has left plenty of spare time to use in other money making enterprises.

FOLSOM LASHES OUT AT KKK UPRISINGS IN STATE

Montgomery- In an effort to stem the recent activities of the Ku Klux Klan in Alabama, Gov. James E. Folsom has asked all local, county, and state law enforcement officers to crack down on demonstrations of any "hooded or unhooded" mobs.

Referring to recent Ku Klux parades and cross burnings reported over the state in the past few months, the governor said he had instructed all law enforcement officers to haul in any vehicle driver whose license plates are hidden. Witnesses of parades by the clansmen have reported that the Ku Kluxers not only cover their faces with hoods but also their auto licenses. The Alabama law requires that autos must have their licensc plates plainly visible at all times.

"I want to make this plain," the governor said at a press conference, "a man's home is his castle. However he wants to defend it is up to that man." Folsom said he had particular reference to the cross burnings in the yards of several citizens recently.

Following the press conference Folsom left for Washington to appear before the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in an attempt to secure more money for Alabama to build additional miles of secondary roads.

It is not safe to buy land or to lend money and accept land as security without first investigating the Title of the land. Often there are unpaid mortgages and judgments or other liens, affecting the Title, which an Abstract would set out. Therefore, when buying land or lending money thereon, it is important that an Abstract of Title be furnished. A few dollars spent for an Abstract is cheaper than going ahead and having a law suit a little later on.

"All season long those spots where the wagon done stood look greener and growed thicker than the rest of the field. The farmer figured that every place he stop must'a got about 300 pound of Soda an acre and made twice as much oats. He told me, 'I should'a parked that wagon all over the field!'"

This Month in rural Alabama

MARCH 3, 1949

. . . . . . SECTION OF - CHILTON COUNTY NEWS - CLANTON, ALA. . . . . . .

National 4-H Club Week

THE week of March 5th-13th, this year, is National 4-H Club week. Approximately two million farm youngsters will do honor to their organization.

Alabama's more than 3,000 4-H Clubs, composed of 122,000 members will pay tribute to 4-H Club week in a number of ways. Throughout the state boys and girls will resound the theme of this year's celebration—"Better Living for a Better World."

First of all, National 4-H Club Week is "check up" week for all members. They will look at projects, at club activities, county goals and accomplishments to see how they may be improved. Several Alabama counties are holding tours to look at project work in different communities.

Four-H meetings in every county are being highlighted with special programs. Window displays showing what 4-H work is accomplishing have been placed in towns and cities in the state. Many rural churches are honoring local clubs with Rural Life Sunday, where members take part on programs, act as ushers, etc.

A Two-Fold Purpose

Four-H Club work, as organized in Alabama, serves a two-fold purpose. First, it teaches farming and home making practices by having members do these jobs at home in their projects. Then, it develops leadership and citizenship qualities through meetings and other activities. Some 15,500 members receive training as club, county and state officers each year.

"Club work keeps the member busy," says Hanchey Logue, state 4-H Club leader, "and at the same time offers him something to look forward to."

Logue points out that project work is the key to 4-H accomplishment and training, because, "it is by doing that we learn and grow." Another important phase of the work is keeping records on what is done, adds the leader.

Unsung Heroes Of 4-H

While celebrating National 4-H Club Week, members will remember leaders who make their work possible. Too often volunteer local leaders of 4-H Clubs are the unsung heroes of the program. These men and women spend freely of their time and energies to help youngsters carry on projects and activities.

Another group of heroes that deserve praise are 4-H parents. Mothers and dads help keep their youngsters busy by backing them in their work and encouraging their participation. Enthusiasm would often lag at home if members were not reminded of the work that is needed on that corn patch, with that calf, or on that home improvement project.

Parents and others learn lessons themselves by watching the outcome of project work and by checking records. These are projects carried out according to recommendations from latest research and under the supervision of the county extension agents—they are projects designed for the purpose of teaching.

"MY HEART TO GREATER LOYALTY . . . ."

Farm boys and girls throughout Alabama and in other states are this week paying tribute to local 4-H clubs and to the rural youth movement in America. It is National 4-H Club Week.

In churches and schools, in towns and cities, and all across the country youngsters are being honored as they tell a romantic story about the 4-H Club—largest group of organized rural young people in the world.

Theirs is a story of accomplishment—one of learning and doing, of working and playing, of living, a story of leadership and citizenship for today and tomorrow. The projects they exhibit to the world and at home show how they will some day carry the load.

The girl in the picture is Nina Spinks, member of the Damascus 4-H Club in Coffee County. Here she pauses in repeating the 4-H pledge and "pledges her heart to loyalty."

The West Side Home Demonstration Club

The lovely home of Miss Mariah Freeman on Maplesville Route One was the scene for the first meeting of the newly organized Home Demonstration Club. Their meeting was held on Friday afternoon, February 25th. The guest speaker of the afternoon was the very charming Mrs. W. J. Preston, of Jemison. She also presided over the election of officers. BREEDING WORKSTOCK

Mares usually come in heat 6 to 10 days after foaling and can be re-bred on the seventh to ninth day, provided there are no infections or injuries at time of foaling.

The most serious weakness in many terracing jobs has been the failure to provide enough outlets for safe disposal of water from terrace ends.

HOG-OFF CORN FOR GREATER PROFITS

During a three-year experiment corn hogged-off at the Sand Mountain Substation brought about $1 per bushel more than it would have sold for on the market.

According to G. B. Phillips, API Extension Service hog specialist, station records for 1948 showed that 58 pigs hogged-off 12 acres of corn and made gains of 756 pounds of walking-hog-meat per acre.

These pigs bought and paid for the corn produced at the rate of $2.33 per bushel or $121.29 per acre. Phillips emphasizes the following fact. All expences including cost of pigs and supplement are counted out and the returns given represent the price paid by the hogs for the corn in the field.

PROTEIN IN EGGS IS SUBSTITUTE FOR MEAT

Auburn, Ala.- Because eggs sell by the dozen and meat by the pound, housewives often wonder which will give the most food for the money spent.

When faced with this problem, Mary Hulsey, API Extension Service nutritionist, remembers that a dozen large size eggs give a pound and a half of meat-alternate food and that eight large eggs give a pound. Therefore when large eggs sell for 60 cents a dozen, they furnish protein food at40 cents a pound. This is because the shells, which are the only waste, weigh little compared to bones and other meat waste.

EARLY SWEETPOTATOES

An early crop of sweetpotatoes to be harvested in late July and early August may be the means of providing some cash income at a time when there is very little else to sell. In addition to the cash income, the unsalable potatoes will provide excellent feed for hogs.

BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE URGENTLY NEEDS COLLECTORS

Veterans who qualify in this examination will be given preference as provided for in the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944.

A written test and experience are required. Applicants with certain types of education may qualify without any experience, by simply passing the written test.

For Description of duties, forms to file and other information, see Mr. Reese G. Mullins at the local Post Office, or apply at any first- or second-class post office located in the States listed above. Applications must be received by the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Regional Office, Atlanta 3, Georgia, not later than April 4, 1949 to be acceptable.

POLE AND LINE DAYS WILL SOON BE HERE

Auburn, Ala.- Alabama fishern should be getting their tackle re because March, April, and May three of the best months of the y for catching bass and bluegills, acco ing to Earl F. Kennamer, API Ext sion Service wildlife specialist.

Especially good bass fishing can expected in March and April. T artificial bait angler as well as live bait angler can usually catch g strings during these times.

Late April and the month of M are excellent for bream fishing cause males become hungry w guarding spawning beds.

If bass have only been stocke year or less, new pond owners sho not allow fishing until after June The reason for this is that if fish is permitted in a pond not over a y old the older bass will be removed fore they spawn. If bass were stoc last year, it is likely that the bass not spawn this spring. Therefore f ing of all kinds should be avoided til after June, 1950. Bass may be ta from older ponds any time of the y

Disease From Hogs

SWINE brucellosis, formally called Bangs disease, is transmitted to human beings in the form of undulant fever. When this happens long periods of sickness, and sometimes death, is the result.

"Farmers who assist sows at pigging time should guard themselves against infection which might lead to undulant fever," warns G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. extension hog specialist. "The disease is especially easy to pick up at this time."

In listing precautions against the disease, Phillips says failure to wash and disinfect hands properly after helping the sow may be disastrous. Plenty of soap and water and antiseptics are safeguards against contracting it, he adds.

Blount County Farm Woman Says Year-Round Gardening Possible

MRS. P. M. HARTLEY of Pine Grove, in Blount County, is proving that year-round gardens can be successful. She says a little work, fertilizer, and good seed will keep the garden green in fall and winter; that's the way hers has been this year.

"Many of my neighbors grow only one garden a year, as we used to, in the spring. But last summer my family decided to give the year-round garden a try—and it works," states Mrs. Hartley.

A Fertile Beginning

The farm woman fertilized her garden with two tons of stable manure and 1,000 pounds of 6-8-4 fertilizer per acre. She had the mixture cut into the soil several times, making the ground thoroughly pliable before planting. In August she planted her fall garden.

With continued plantings and constant work Mrs. Hartley raised eight vegetables for fall and winter growth. Among them are firm heads of cabbage and lettuce, radishes, carrots, turnips, collards and others.

It Fits The Budget

A member of the Pine Grove Home Demonstration Club, Mrs. Hartley reported to fellow members that she filled her family budget with canned foods from her garden. The budget called for more than a thousand cans of vegetables.

Yes, a garden can be grown when it is not spring. If others resolve to put forth more effort on this important operation, Alabama will see more fresh vegetables growing next winter.

Mrs. P. M. Hartley, Blount County farm woman is shown here with vegetables in her fall and winter garden. She grew an abundance of eight green and root crops that her neighbors didn't have.

The Pine Grove home demonstration club member says good seed, fertilizer, and a little work are all that are needed.

D.C.TILL & SONS
LANDS SAKE
Use PHOSPHATE
LIMESTONE

Heifers shown in the above picture are to replace brood cows on the D. C. Till and Sons farm in Lowndes County. They were selected from the Till herd of more than 300 Herefords. With the calves are Mr. Till and one of the sons, David, Jr.

William Till is pictured, below, with trucks that spread 3,000 pounds of limestone and phosphate last year. Note the slogan on the door of each truck.

Till Partnership Makes Farming A Business

HERE is the story of a partnership—one where father and sons teamed up to do a good job of farming.

D. C. Till and Sons, Hayneville, Alabama, organized the operation of their 3400-acre farm so that each shares in responsibility.

A Cattleman

In charge of livestock, composed mostly of beef cattle, is David C. Till, Jr. David, an Auburn graduate, succeeded in building up a herd of 275 brood cows since he finished school in 1943. The cattle feed on some of the best permanent pastures and winter grazing crops in the state.

This spring, he will sell 32 choice steers fattened by creep-feeding. They are now on full feed of corn, cottonseed meal and hay; they have had minerals before them all their life. Waste feed in the calf lot goes to fattening hogs penned with the steers.

An Engineer

The mechanical engineer in the Till family is son, William; he is in charge of machinery on the farm. In cooperation with the Lowndes PMA program, he spread 3,000 tons of lime and phosphate in 1948 with trucks from the farm.

According to J. W. Mathews, county agent, spreader service is responsible for large amounts of agricultural minerals being spread on pastures in the county. He predicts an increase in the practice this year.

In preparation for this William added another truck to his operation. On each truck he paints the slogan, "For Land's Sake," use phosphate and limestone. He says it will keep Lowndes farmers conscious of these necessary materials.

And Their Dad

Father Till runs the store and gin in this partnership. Handling fertilizer is his speciality.

"In days gone by we used to plant 400 acres of cotton. Today, we plant no cotton at all—we're livestock farmers," says Till, "but it still takes fertilizer."

Since the partnership was formed in 1946, when the boys came home from service, 600 acres of pasture land have been improved and 70 acres of oats are grown each year for winter feed. Silage is fed as a supplement to grazing and hay.

When it really works, no partnership can be more pleasant than a father-sons combination—that's what the Tills say.

* * *

Sparks, dead vegetation, combustible rubbish, wood shingle roofs and the wind combine to form a leading cause of farm fires.

Unfertilized farm ponds will support from 100 to 200 pounds of fish per acre. Fertilized ponds will support from 500 to 600 pounds.

Spring Forest Tasks

By IVAN R. MARTIN
A.P.I. Extension Forester

TIMBER work will soon take a back seat on the farm front. But before placing it there for the year here are some things that may be done in closing out winter work:

1. Farmers should cut their own trees and get them manufactured for repair lumber this month. Lumber dries more thoroughly in late spring and summer.

2. Pruning should be finished this month and no more done until next winter. This minimizes chances of insect infestations in remaining trees.

3. North Alabama farmers can plant a few more trees in March if the weather stays cool, but planting should be finished in South Alabama.

4. Take special precautions with fires during March. Plow around all new ground before burning. March is one of our worst fire months because grass hasn't "greened up" yet and some fields are being burned over for planting.

Mastitis Control Easiest When In Early Stages

THE dread disease, mastitis, can best be controlled among dairy cows when in its early stage.

If proper steps are taken when signs first show up in the strip cup, a cow's affected quarter can be saved. Furthermore clean cows will not become infected, and the quality of milk will remain good.

J. R. Parrish, A.P.I. extension dairyman, urges farmers to watch for signs of infection at each milking and avoid the possibility of spreading infection to other quarters. He suggests that hot applications and rubbing with camphorated oil may be helpful.

In recent years some of the sulfa drugs have been found effective in mastitis control. More recently, injections of penicillin have cured a large percentage of mastitis cases. However Parrish warns that when these methods are used, treatment should be made by a skilled veterinarian.

Typical of program planning meetings held throughout Alabama early this year by farm groups was a session of the Lee County council of home demonstration clubs.

These ladies, like members of other councils in the state, outlined a plan of work for 1949. Then the council and extension workers coordinated plans with those of adult farmers and 4-H Clubs. Representatives of the three groups combine to form a county extension council and make up a plan of farm and home work.

Objectives of Elmore County dairymen as outlined in planning meetings early this year include an expanded program of producing milk profitably for Grade A markets.

County Agent J. E. Morriss says this means improved breeding and culling of herds, plus a sound feed production program.

One of the county's most promising young dairymen is C. V. "Buck" Lott, Tallassee, Rt. 1. The pictures above are of his Grade A barn. At left, Lott is shown in his clean, modern-equipped milk room; at right, above, on the stoop in front of the barn; and, below, inside the milking section.

In the picture at lower right Buck holds in his hands what he calls the "key to success" in Grade A dairying—a long handled scrub brush.

Reclamation Project To Begin

A seven million acre project in land reclamation is being started in Alabama thi month. When this project is completed productive acres in the state will be nearl doubled.

Land that is now idle is sorely needed fo feed production. Much of it is steep, but i handled right, it can be made to pay its ow way. A combination of livestock and machinery makes the program feasible.

Eight schools have been scheduled by A P.I. extension engineers for the month March and April. During each of these the hope to reclaim 20 to 30 acres of idle lan and plant the areas to perennial legume Here is the schedule for schools to be held i various counties over the state:

Butler County—March 15-16.
Pike County—March 17-18.
Marengo County—March 22-23.
Fayette County—March 24-25.
Tallapoosa County—April 5-6.
Talladega County—April 12-13.
Etowah County—April 14-15.
Lawrence County—April 19-20.

Don't Wait Too Long

NOW is the time to get seed for corn, cotton, soybean, grain sorghum, sweet sorghum, and peanut plantings if they are not on hand—don't wait until time to plant. Get certified seed for planting if possible.

A.P.I. extension agronomists point out these needs and caution farmers to look at the seed they buy. Check the tag to see that the germination and purity are good and that seed are free of weeds.

Vine Cutting Sweet Potatoes Answer To Growing Problems

EVERY indication points to a scarcity good sweetpotato seed and plants th year and Alabama regulations prohibit t sale of those not certified.

John Bagby, A.P.I. extension marketi specialist says farmers can overcome t shortage by making vine cuttings from mother patch. One acre of plants set ear in April (South Alabama) will easily produ enough vine cuttings to set five or more acr

This method is more economical than usi all slips to set the desired acreage, says Ba by. Vine cuttings also produce more unifo potatoes of better size and shape for mark he adds.

More Milk Is Needed

THIS month will probably prove critical f dairy cattle and calves in Alabama, b since January was a "summer" month, far ers may have enough feed to care for cat and maintain production to meet consum demands.

J. R. Parrish, A.P.I. extension dairyma makes this observation and recalls other p sibilities for dairying in this section.

Per capita consumption of fluid milk about 180 pounds in Alabama, whereas c sumption in New York is 340 pounds. A erage for the nation of all dairy produ consumed is about 750 pounds.

If we produced all the milk needed in t State and consumption was up to New Yo standards, income from our milk would eq that of cotton. Therefore, considerable pansion on a sound basis seems justifia Parrish concludes.

Your Cattle Starving?

IT is well known by cattlemen that many cows live all winter, then die in March. More of them die from malnutrition than from all other causes combined.

Unfortunately, most cattlemen are familiar with a condition called "the far-away-look" in cows eyes. This is usually caused by malnutrition which develops into anemia of the brain in many cases. When this happens cows lose interest in eating, walk in circles until they drop, and almost always they die.

Southeastern cattlemen have been very fortunate this winter in having some mild weather. Cattlemen in large areas of the United States have had the most severe winter in 60 years, and thousands of cattle have been lost. In Alabama we should resolve to lose not a single cow from malnutrition or exposure.

W. H. Gregory, A.P.I. extension livestock specialist, reminds us that there is a great shortage of brood cows in the nation, and that any cow is worth a lot of money. If some animals continue to stay weak on green grazing, give them dry hay, he says, because under some conditions green grazing is too washy.

A New Service For Consumers

A new service became available to housewives and other consumers recently when Miss Dorothy Overbey, former home agent in Randolph County, was named specialist in consumer education on the A.P.I. extension staff.

Miss Overbey will assist housewives and other consumers by advising them on how to stretch the food dollar and make it provide maximum nutrition. She will help them make use of abundant food crops and will keep them informed as to what these crops will be.

The new specialist will be located in Birmingham and will be associated with Austin Ezzell, A.P.I. extension specialist in consumer marketing. Her work, though concentrated in the Birmingham area, will likely prove helpful to producers and consumers throughout the state.

A native of Franklin, Tennessee, Miss Overbey received her home economics degree at the University of Tennessee. She taught vocational home economics at Heflin, Alabama, and was assistant home agent in Jefferson and Fayette counties before going to Randolph where she was home agent for five years.

More grazing from oats by top dressing was the outcome here on the farm of R. B. Trawick, Henry County.

Trawick reports that the oats, planted in September, were top dressed with 100 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre the first of November. On the six-acre patch between November 2 and January 15 the oats provided ample grazing for eight sows with fall litters (total of 48 hogs) and three cows.

Both Trawick and his son, Willie Lee, are enthusiastic about results obtained by top dressing.

"We got more grazing from this six acres by top dressing than we have been getting on 25 acres without top dressing," said Willie.

At their annual directors' meeting in Auburn recently officials of the state council of home demonstration clubs discussed plans for coming activities.

Lily Flagg Of Madison Best Cotton Community

LILY Flagg community of Madison County, named winner of the state-wide cotton improvement contest, received a $2,000 award last week. According to judges that community made the most improvement in quality of cotton produced and in yields per acre during 1948.

Winners named in the four extension districts were Helicon community in Winston County, Central Elmore in Elmore, Tyler in Dallas, and Brent in Bibb.

The award given Lily Flagg was donated jointly by the Alabama Cotton Manufacturers Association and the Alabama-Florida Cottonseed Products Association. The organizations awarded the four districts' champions $500 each. The money is to be used for community improvements.

O. N. Andrews, A.P.I. extension cotton specialist, says winners were selected from Alabama's 286 one-variety communities. Farmers in these groups used a single variety of seed and followed a definite seed renewal plan.

Andrews said the purpose of competition was to encourage growers in producing high yields of quality cotton.

County winners listed were Hanceville, Cullman County; Highmound, Blount; Rogersville, Lauderdale; Coastal Plain, Tallapoosa; Loachapoka, Lee; Penton, Chambers; Cuba, Sumter; Moore's Valley, Marengo; Moundville, Hale; Bluff, Fayette; Palmetto, Pickens, and White Plains, Calhoun County.

* * *

From 1937 to 1947 farmers in the United States doubled their use of commercial fertilizer, increasing from 8,400,000 tons to 16,800,000 tons.

Better Hurry!

SCALE insects will again damage fruit and orchard trees all over the state unless farmers spray now to control these pests.

The recommended practice is spraying with oil emulsion and this job must be done before new growth begins in the spring. Do not spray when there is danger of a hard freeze.

Cotton Planted Early Yields Best

AGRONOMISTS are reminding us again that early planting is the best practice in growing cotton.

Reports from the Tennessee Valley Substation show highest yields of cotton were made over a period of eight years on cotton planted April 11. Similar tests in other parts of the state show the importance of early planting. Of course planting dates in Central and South Alabama are earlier than for the Tennessee Valley and Sand Mountain.

A.P.I. extension cotton specialist O. N. Andrews, in stressing the need for early planting in the state, points out that farmers are now planting cotton an average of one week to 10 days earlier than they did a few years ago.

Highest yields were obtained in other experiments in the state on the following planting dates:

Sand Mountain, April 16; Aliceville, April 10; Monroeville, March 26; Prattville, March 27; LaFayette, April 2.

D.H.I.A. Testers Trained At Auburn

ALABAMA'S first short-course to train personnel in dairy herd improvement association work has just been completed in Auburn.

A staff provided by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute gave nine days of intensive instruction to future supervisors and official testers from 25 counties. The course was designed to take care of individual county needs for highly trained men in this expanding phase of the dairy program.

Pete Turnham, A.P.I. assistant extension dairyman in charge of this field of work, said those at the school learned how to test cows and keep accurate feed and production records. The Babcock test for fat in milk, feeding, breeding, and management were other items emphasized.

In addition to Turnham, those of the short-course staff were Dr. K. M. Autrey, Dr. R. S. Sugg, Dr. Reid O. Davis, John Parrish, J. C. Lowery, G. H. Rollins, and W. A. Ruffin.

Asparagus, when planted and well-cared for, lasts for many years and has other uses besides being a delicious food. Picture A, left above, shows the plant in use as an ornamental and low screen plant.

The roots of an eight-year-old asparagus plant are so extensive that they can not be packed in an ordinary wheelbarrow. Picture B at left shows them in comparison to a human hand.

Picture A1, above, demonstrates how asparagus plants are best harvested. When shoots reach a height of eight to 12 inches, and before side limbs appear, they should be broken off or cut at the surface of the ground.

Let's Grow More Asparagus For Home Use

By C. L. ISBELL, Horticulturist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

ASPARAGUS is a good food. It is available for use from the garden in spring before most other vegetables are ready.

On the market, asparagus is so expensive the farmer does not feel he can afford to buy it. Enough may be grown on a small area to supply the needs of a family. It is easily grown and a well-cared for planting lasts many years. It is a good ornamental used as a low screen plant during the growing season. The mature plants with rich yellow or red berries may be used for decorating. These are reasons for Alabama home gardeners to include a planting of this vegetable.

Garden experiments were conducted at Auburn with the Mary Washington variety of asparagus from crowns planted in December, 1940. The first harvest, a small one, was made in the spring of 1942. Larger harvests were made the following years. The average annual yield of good asparagus for the period, 1942 through 1945, was about 64 pounds per 100 feet of row or at the rate of just about 7,000 pounds per acre. Asparagus does not reach its maximum yield until it is several years old. Therefore, the average yield over a longer period could be expected to be greater than for only five years.

The Mary Washington variety is considered best for most southern conditions. A planting may be started from either seed or crowns planted about 18 inches apart in the drill. It is usually considered best to use crowns because the first harvest can be made a year earlier than when seed are planted.

Before planting the soil should be put in the best possible condition, including working in large quantities of manure. This is necessary because plants remain in the same place for many years. They make enormous root and crown development.

Heavy applications of manure and complete fertilizer should be added once or twice annually during the life of asparagus plants. Enough shallow cultivation to control weeds and grass is recommended.

Under Alabama conditions, pests have generally not been serious with the plant but it is occasionally attacked by the asparagus beetle. The beetle is easily controlled with the Auburn-recommended combination garden dust.

Small harvests may be made over a period of two to three weeks, beginning the second spring after planting. Shoots are harvested when they reach a height of eight to 12 inches and before side limbs appear. They should be broken off or cut at the surface of the ground.

During harvest season all shoots must be harvested. If some are allowed to stand few or no other shoots will come up. After the planting is six to eight years old harvest season each spring may last for six to eight weeks.

* * *

In planting a garden, a good idea is to provide space for and select suitable varieties of vegetables for canning.

Fresh vegetables contain many necessary vitamins and mineral elements important to good health during the winter months.

Along the Way
with P. O. DAVIS
DIRECTOR, API EXTENSION SERVICE

MIDDLE TENNESSEE is a great livestock area. I was thrilled with observations in passing through there recently on a bus. I saw cattle, hogs, and sheep grazing on small grain, rye grass, and legumes. They were fat and sleek.

As I looked I reminded myself that we can do as well with livestock almost anywhere in Alabama as they're doing in Tennessee. We don't have as much phosphate in our soil but we can add it; also potash, nitrogen and other plant needs.

Any good farming thrills me but I'm especially thrilled when I see animals grazing on luxurious pasture of any kind in winter. It represents animals at work, land at work, and wealth being created while land is improved.

And it is clear that more livestock is the way to more money and richer land in Alabama. There are other smaller ways but our opportunities for raising cattle, for dairying, for producing hogs, and sheep, and poultry are tremendous.

We have made excellent progress along these lines but a bigger and a better day is ahead for us. We are on the way. We are traveling safely and wisely, so success is promised.

The Killer

We don't seem to know it—or if we do we won't admit it—but cancer is a tremendous killer of human beings. It is high, too, on the list of things that cause people to suffer. Cancer kills about 200,000 people annually in the United States. This is six times the number killed by automobiles. Even during World War II cancer was killing three times as many as were killed in battle.

Cancer is a deadly disease but it is not so deadly if detected early and treated. Here are signs that may indicate cancer:

1) Any sore that does not heal.
2) A lump or thickening in the breast or elsewhere.
3) Unusual bleeding or discharge.
4) Any change in a wart or mole.
5) Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing.
6) Persistent hoarseness or cough.
7) Any change in normal bowel habits.

If, therefore, you have either of these I suggest you see your family physician right away. Delay may be fatal.

Growing Corn Is Simple

Corn production is on the march in Alabama. Last year the state average was the highest ever, 21.5 bushels. Our records at Auburn show 242 farmers, 4-H Club boys and F.F.A. students made 100 bushels or more on an acre and 300 farmers averaged 50 bushels or more on their entire crop of at least five acres. The actual number is much bigger than this, only this 300 reported.

Some of this was due to favorable weather. On the other hand, unfavorable weather hurt elsewhere. But most of it was due to better farming. This included better preparation of the land, planting good seed at the right time, thick spacing, more and better fertilizer and very little cultivation—just enough to kill weeds and grass.

So corn production is very simple. It is easy for a farmer to make much more corn than most of us have been making. It takes more money for fertilizer, but it takes less work for cultivating than most farmers have been doing. It requires good seed of a good variety about which a farmer should consult his county agent.

Testing Started For Alabama Dairy Cows

By PETE B. TURNHAM
A.P.I. Assistant Extension Dairyman

ANY dairy herd—large or small, good or poor—becomes more profitable when low producers are replaced with better cows. Good herds cannot be developed quickly, but production levels can be improved gradually by effective culling, proper feeding and careful breeding.

In making selections the dairyman must know the production of every cow in his herd, year after year. Fortunately, a simple inexpensive plan for getting such records is now available to Alabama dairymen.

A most practical and economical way for the dairyman to obtain records continuously is through membership in a dairy-herd-improvement association (D.H.I.A.). The association provides a tester who visits each herd once a month to keep milk production and breeding records on all cows.

D.H.I.A. programs are being started in eight counties in the state at this time. Shelby County took the lead by forming an association early in January. Members of the new organization enrolled approximately 1,000 cows at the initial meeting. Other counties are in different stages of organizing.

Records do not increase milk production, but they guide the farmer. They help him use dairy practices which build up and maintain high-producing, money-making herds.

The value of D.H.I.A. records is indicated by herd production of members compared to non-members. Average production of all cows in the United States is 5,238 pounds of milk and 199 pounds of butterfat. Average of D.H.I.A. members' cows is 8,480 pounds of milk and 348 pounds of butterfat for the same period.

Cover Milk While Cooking

MANY foods lose valuable vitamins and minerals when cooked too long at high temperatures. Milk is one of these sensitive foods and, especially if exposed to light, loses value upon heating.

"Keeping milk covered while cooking helps save riboflavin, an important B-vitamin," says Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. extension nutritionist.

She explains that riboflavin is destroyed easily by light and that this destruction is hastened by heat. Tests show that milk boiled in the light loses considerable riboflavin, while milk boiled in the dark loses little.

Miss Hulsey believes it is important for the housewife to take every precaution against loss of this vitamin, because it is the food on which children and adults depend for good health.

Sericea, The Great

LESPEDEZA is rapidly becoming one of Alabama's greatest perennials for grazing. It is making good grazing on land where it is difficult or impossible to have good permanent pasture.

Good farmers all over the state are planting hill land in sericea in place of trying to establish permanent pasture on it, says J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. extension agronomist.

"Another good thing about sericea," adds Lowery, "you can establish crimson clover with it to furnish grazing during the winter and spring. The sericea makes a good hay crop also."

Increasing acreage of this important crop, for grazing and for hay, is good business. If a farmer has a few acres to harvest for seed he can use them to increase acreage or to sell next year.

Kudzu Plantings

KUDZU plantings should be completed by the middle of March reminds S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. extension soil conservationist. For best results, he recommends that crowns be set immediately after they are dug.

When this isn't possible, says Doughty, be sure to keep crowns moist and protected from cold until they are planted. Get crowns from neighbors, or as close by as possible.

Special Care Needed For Sows And Pigs At Farrowing Time

SODIUM fluoride is the best known treatment for large roundworms, but livestock specialists say this treatment does not kill little roundworms that go into the liver and lungs of pigs. Sanitation is the only way—and here are the steps they advise farmers to take:

1. Put sows in the farrowing pens several days before farrowing time.

2. Have farrowing houses on ground where hogs have not recently run—preferably on green sod.

3. Put one can of lye in 25 gallons of hot water and scald sides and walls. Follow with a good disinfectant.

4. Wash sows udders with warm water and soap when they go to farrowing pens.

5. When pigs are big enough, move sows and pigs to green grazing. Carry pigs; if they walk, they pick up worm eggs.

Officers and directors of the Shelby County Dairy Herd Improvement Association are shown here shortly after their election at the group's organizational meeting.

Shelby County dairymen boast the first organization of this kind in Alabama; they formed their association early in January this year. Other county groups have been organized since.

Livestock Farming Offers Promise In State

By A. W. JONES
A.P.I. Extension Specialist in Marketing

THE market prices you are paying now for farm supplies — fertilizer, machinery, labor, etc., are higher than you paid in previous years while the prices of things you sell are lower. This means you must be efficient in buying, producing, and selling if you are to pay expenses and make money.

Alabama farmers must buy supplies they need without gambling on more than can be handled. They need to purchase a variety and quality of seed that will produce what they want and what the market will demand.

Watch Out For Labor

High-priced labor must not be used to do what good machinery can accomplish. We are told that as of June last year farmers paid 58 per cent more for machinery than before the war, and received 175 per cent more for products sold. Hired labor at the same time cost 276 per cent more than before the war.

There is opportunity now for more farmers to produce high quality seed for market. The spring harvest of legume and pasture seed was short last year. More of these will be needed this year.

Marketing through livestock, we believe, offers an even greater opportunity. Every farmer should do as much of this as possible. Also, he should make livestock do as much harvesting as he can. They will do it, save labor, and in many cases, do a better job than if it is gathered by hand and fed.

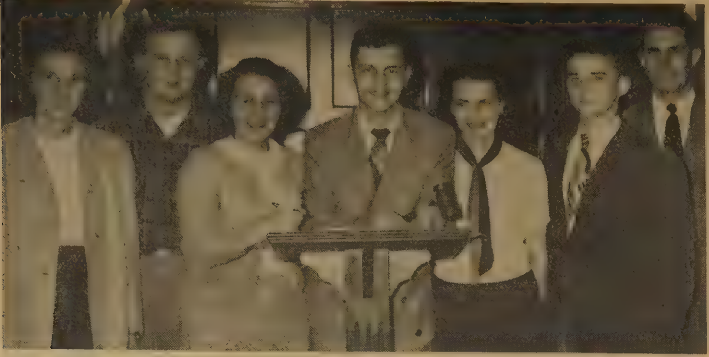
Dollars And Cents

Spring hogs, finished to good weights (180-240 pounds), are likely to bring best profits. From March until August the price of hogs usually advances. In spite of lower hog prices the price of corn is still proportionately lower, and selling good hogs is an attractive source of income.

The trend of prices for livestock and livestock products during the past year has been more favorable than for major field crops. Studying these may give you the foresight to expand the sale of livestock from your farm.

* * *

About 16 per cent of the weight of the average butcher hog is made into lard. The leaf fat makes the best lard; the back fat is second best, and other fat makes the poorest lard.



4-H GOES TO COLLEGE

The A.P.I. 4-H Club, a recently organized collegiate group, is now active on the campus at Auburn.

Members of the club, farm boys and girls with previous 4-H training, selected leadership development as a major project this year.

Other activities of the group will include giving a reception each quarter for freshmen who have been 4-H members, and helping them get enrolled in college. The club will also take part in the State 4-H Leadership Camp held in the summer at Auburn.

Alabama Broiler Industry Proves Promising

By C. T. BAILEY

A bright future with continued rapid expansion is almost a certainty for broiler production in Alabama.

The industry is well adapted to small farms and tenant units. Its intensified nature makes it possible for a farmer to make an independent living on a few acres. Large farms produce grain which is processed into balanced poultry rations by local mills; these in turn are carried back to small farms to be fed.

As the livestock program grows, more packing houses develop locally to supply protein supplements for balanced rations. Local markets for grain, poultry, eggs, and livestock are automatically a boon to broiler production.

Example Cited

This is proved by what happened in North Alabama. Production of these crops expanded when mill markets for grain and seed were established in Decatur and Guntersville. These were followed by expansion of grade A and B milk markets.

At that point broilers and poultry made the greatest advance. Ed Wilson of Athens built a modern large poultry dressing plant. In three years the business had grown to a production of 65,000 broilers weekly, 60 per cent of which were grown locally. Though production continued to grow rapidly, the market grew faster than production.

Others became interested and soon Beasley Produce Co. of Athens was producing several thousand broilers weekly. Nashville and Birmingham processors were buying from this area.

Expansion Opens Other Fields

Expansions in broiler production created demands for more hatchery capacity which resulted in an increase of 490,000 capacity within three years.

The area of production continued to expand. In 1947 farmers in the Sand Mountain area, with financial aid from the Alabama State Market Board and with educational assistance from the A.P.I. extension service, organized a poultry cooperative. They built a dressing plant at Albertville, and began operation. It is growing rapidly and gives a new source of income to farmers of that area.

A recent survey shows that growers are producing broilers that average 2¾ pounds in 10 weeks, netting them $173 per 1,000 birds. What once were unprofitable early morning and late afternoon hours are now returning growers $1.75 per hour.

Tips On Bedding Sweet Potatoes

MARCH is sweet potato bedding month over most of Alabama. It's time now to clean up, repair, and disinfect old hotbeds. A good spray for disinfecting is bichloride of mercury solution used at the rate of one ounce to eight gallons of water.

For flue-heated beds, farmers should get the wood supply that will be necessary for keeping the bed going. It is important with any bed to disinfect seed before planting and to cover with sawdust after soil has been used to the top level of potatoes, states Lyle Brown, A.P.I. extension horticulturist.

A cover of light sheeting over the bed will pay off in protection against heavy rains and frost and in keeping the soil and plants warm and moist.

Handling Seed Peanuts

ARE you afraid to use machine-shelled peanuts for seed? There is no need to be, provided the seed are treated immediately after shelling.

In tests conducted by the A.P.I. experiment station, seed shelled and treated nine weeks before planting produced stands as good as those shelled and treated one day before planting. Two per cent Ceresan is one of the best seed-treating materials.

There is danger in treated seed used for human food, livestock feed, or in oil mills. Seed should always be plainly labeled.

Certified Seed Must Be Inspected In The Field Before Deadline

FARMERS who expect to produce certified seed in 1949 should make applications for membership in the Alabama Crop Improvement Association as soon as they decide what seed crops they will have. Application forms may be obtained at local county agents' offices, filled out and mailed to the association at Auburn, Alabama.

As soon as applications are received, the association will mail field inspection request forms to members. Requests for field inspection must be filed for different crops not later than the following dates:

1. Crimson Clover—Not later than April 1.
2. Small Grains—Not later than April 1.
3. Meadow Fescue—Not later than April 15.
4. Peanuts—Not later than May 1.
5. Hybrid Corn—Not later than May 15.
6. Grain Sorghum—Not later than July 1.
7. Soybeans—Not later than July 15.
8. Open-Pollinated Corn—Not later than August 1.

More Peanuts Per Acre

THE average yield of peanuts in Alabama is too low. Every farmer should get his yield up to at least 1,000 pounds per acre. Through good management, many growers can get yields up to 1,500 pounds or more.

Now is the time to start working toward increases, asserts A.P.I. Extension Agronomist J. C. Lowery. He also says higher production is a "must" for a long time peanut program in the state.

Another thing is high quality. Dixie Runners are paying off with high yields and low damage per cent. Farmers who plant them this year will get the benefit of improved breeding.

A good stand is also essential to good yields. To get a stand it is necessary to get seed shelled on a machine designed for that purpose and properly operated. The seed should be treated and put down plenty thick.

This bull is of Dowdy breeding out of four star bull of Mr. R. B. Kent's herd. The dam of the bull has been tested; therefore the bull isn't rated, but the dam is a high producer with a long constant production period.

Tom believes his bull is going to improve his herd and help improve dairy cattle in his neighborhood. To produce milk good heifers must be grown.

Fishing

Best at Lake Mead

LAS VEGAS, NEV.—Five hundred feet up near-by desert mountainsides where goats and jackrabbits once struggled for existence is to be found today some of the best fresh-water fishing in the world.

While most of the country's fishing sites are snowed in or closed for the season. Lake Mead, the man-made body of water stretching 115 miles from Hoover (Boulder) dam to Grand Canyon, continues to produce bass, blue gill, perch and catfish in fabulous numbers. They are so plentiful that the season is open day and night the year around.

For 13 years now, since the reservior started filling in 1935, fishermen have come to take daily limits of 10 bass, some weighing 12 to 15 pounds; 25 catfish, and 20 crappie, perch and blue gill.

Models Must Have More Than Beauty, Grace for Success

NEW YORK.—Mrs. Eileen Ford, who operates a $250,000-a-year model agency, said a successful cover girl must have "ego satisfaction." She also needs "individuality analysis" and "quality control."

But the girls couldn't make the grade on shapely legs, or other physical accoutrements, alone. "They must be well adjusted mentally," she said.

That's where Mrs. Ford comes in. Only 23 and pretty enough to be a model, Mrs. Ford said she was well trained in psychology while attending Barnard college.

"When I started the agency," she said, "I was quick to learn that models who ruined costly poses did so mainly because of their mental attitudes."

She said she immediately put a stop to the undy ad and leg art business.

"I insisted on stimulating 'quality control' by elevating modeling to a profession of which any model's mother would be proud," she said. "'Ego satisfaction,' I found was just as important and I gave every effort to building up the confidence of our girls. We give them every attention and try to keep their minds free from worry."

Mrs. Ford said she uses psychology on her customers, too. "I have long talks with them on the telephone," she said, "and I try to analyze their moods. If the client is upset and disgruntled about something, it's easy to detect it. The problem then is to send him a girl who is chic and refreshing. A blonde, perhaps, tall and slender, with a sympathetic smile."

One-Year Term Marines To Get Special Training

NEW YORK.— Approximately three of every four one-year enlistees in the Marine Corps will receive specialist schooling after "boot" camp, under a new program approved by Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commandant of the marine corps.

Decision to concentrate on specialist training for 18-year-olds was prompted in part by results of aptitude studies. Average general classification test scores reported for one-year enlistees now at Marine corps recruit depots are: San Diego, Calif., 115; Parris Island, S. C., 109. Average wartime score for the Marine Corps was 104.

Men selected for formal technical training will commence study in one of the following schools: clerical, engineer, ordnance repair, automotive repair, supply-clerical, photographic, electronics and cooking and baking. aviation students, after a basic technical school, will be further assigned for schooling as aviation electricians, machinists, structural machinists and electronics specialists.

Vatican Engineers Making St. Peter's Basilica Safe

ROME.—Vatican engineers are working to make St. Peter's Basilica, Christendom's largest church, completely safe for the thousands of visitors expected during the 1950 holy year.

The task is complicated by two factors peculiar to the great basilica, he said:

Part of St. Peter's is built on a shaky foundation and the structure, made mostly of porous limestone, sops up underground moisture. This moisture rusts the iron clamps which, along with mortar bind together the limestone, marble and clay blocks.

The structure holds an enormous throng. When 50,000 persons are in it, they may raise the temperature as much as 10 degrees. This causes a peculiar reaction on the mortar. Two huge chunks, one weighing nearly 200 pounds and another 600 pounds, crashed into chapels in 1947.

Engineers were replacing the iron clamps with bronze and reinforcing the mortar as well as the basilica's foundation.

The first basilica on the site was built by Constantine in 326. It was torn down in the 16th century.

University Women Hold Regular Meeting

The Chilton County branch of the American Association of University Women held its regular monthly meeting in the library of Chilton County High School last Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Before the opening meeting a brief business session was held in a classroom.

The program was presented by Miss Elizabeth B. Barton, chairman of the committee on International Relations. Oratorical contestants of the Birmingham News contest, Ann Horne and Martha Mayo spoke on the subjects, "Some Sources of World Peace" and "Some Essentials of World Peace."

Mr. Henry Adair spoke on "Mexico". He found the people very cordial and gracious to strangers. He emphasized the contrast in the standards of living and difference in altitude of the land. He said that all schools taught English. He displayed a number of souvenirs from Mexico that were purchased by Joe Mullins, Jr. last August during their trip to Mexico.

Miss Ethel Alexander and Mrs. E. B. Allison were hostesses of the meeting.

Almost One-Third Of All U.S. Women Drawing Pay Checks

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Almost one-third of all women of working age are drawing a pay envelope according to the women's bureau of the labor department.

A new handbook on Facts on Women Workers also disclosed that the place of one fifth of the country's married women appears to be outside the home.

"In sharp contrast to the popularly envisioned picture of the 'average' family, consisting of father, mother, and children, stands the fact that in 1946 over 6,500,000 families had a woman head," the 79-page compendium said.

Until 1900, women constituted less than 20 per cent of all workers in the labor force, according to the report, based on census figures. Less than 20 per cent of women worked for pay. But in 1947, latest year reported, women in the labor force numbered 16,323,000, constituted 27.6 per cent of all workers, and 29.8 per cent of all women of working age were drawing a pay envelope.

The bureau said it was seeking to promote a more realistic concept of the American family pattern.

Analyzing the economic responsibilities of women workers, the bureau estimated that 84 of every 100 working women do so to support themselves and others.

A section of the handbook on women's earnings showed that the 1946 median of all women working full-time was $1,671, and that only about one women in ten made as much as $2,500 annually.

State labor laws for women were analyzed, as was legislation affecting household employes. The political and civil status of women as of Jan. 1, 1948, with all principal legal sex distinctions is noted. The book concludes with a selected bibliography on American women and a list of national women's organizations.

Alaskan Railroad Manager Says Lady Section Crew Best

He explained to the senate interior committee that eight Indian women comprised the section gang at Cantwell, about halfway between Anchorage and Fairbanks.

"That section is the best-kept section along the railroad," he said. "It is rugged country."

Behind The 4-H Club

AMONG friends and backers of Alabama's 4-H Club members is the state department of the American Legion. Support of rural youth development is high on the organization's list of 1949 activities.

Head of the Legion's 4-H committee is John D. Hill, Birmingham. All commanders have been asked to set up a program to assist county extension personnel in their work with Alabama's 122,000 4-H membership.

In some counties committees have already formulated a program, and work has started.

Judge Hill, United States attorney for the North Alabama district, is very interested in farm youth work. He believes the Legion's 4-H activity will prove worthy in helping to promote good citizenship. Through 4-H work, he thinks farm boys and girls will become stronger leaders in the years ahead.

Tractor Clinics For Farm Boys

AT four district tractor clinics, assistant county agents and volunteer local 4-H leaders from each county learned how to keep farm tractors in good condition.

They are now ready to hold similar clinics with local 4-H tractor clubs back home. More than 500 maintenance kits have been ordered for use in local training this spring.

With increased mechanized farming, tractor clinics are more important than ever, says Hanchey E. Logue, state 4-H Club leader.

"Some may have learned well by the 'hit and miss' method, but 4-H farmers are learning as they grow," the leader adds.

Last year tractor clinics in 54 counties were attended by 1500 young operators.

The district's recent tractor schools were made possible by the Pan-American Petroleum Company, in cooperation with the National Committee on boys and girls club work and the A.P.I. extension service.

Growing Alfalfa In Alabama

By CHARLES F. SIMMONS, Head,
Department of Agronomy and Soils
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

FEW studies have attracted the interest of Alabama farmers more than recent work by the A.P.I. agricultural experiment station on alfalfa fertilizer requirements. This work shows that alfalfa can be grown on most of the well-drained soils of the state if the crop is properly fertilized and limed.

Alfalfa, considered the best hay crop, was grown in Alabama only on the more productive soils of the Tennessee Valley until research was expanded on its fertilizer requirements. Now thousands of farmers have seen alfalfa growing at the main experiment station at Auburn, and on substations and experiment fields; and are growing alfalfa not only in the Tennessee Valley, but on Sand Mountain, in the Coastal Plain areas and in the Piedmont section of the state.

Once a good stand of alfalfa is obtained, it can be expected to produce two to four tons of hay annually for several years if properly fertilized and given good treatment. On all soils of the state where grown, the crop needs phosphorus and potash; borax is needed, too, on most soils. Since fertilizer needs vary with soil conditions, farmers are advised to see their county agent and get specific recommendations from the experiment station unit serving their area.

On established stands of alfalfa best results are obtained by broadcasting fertilizer in late winter or following the first cutting of hay.

It's highly important for dairy calves to get plenty of good roughage early in life. They need the iron that's in it.

Watch For The Demon!

MARCH is a month of destructive fires in woodlands and on other farm lands. Let's do our best to eliminate them this year.

Some few farmers continue the practice of burning stalks and other crop residues. When they realize that field fires destroy plant food and humus and often lead to damage in adjacent woods and fields, this practice will come to an end in Alabama.

Farm tractor safety and maintenance are two things being stressed at Alabama's 4-H tractor clinics.

Research Results

in brief from A.P.I. AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION

HYBRID CORN PLANTED MARCH 1 for the past three years at the Gulf Coast Substation produced an average of 10 more bushels per acre than hybrid corn planted 15 to 30 days later, and 25 more bushels per acre than that planted two months later. Yields of open pollinated varieties were reduced about the same as hybrids when planted after March 1.

* * *

CORN PLANTED FROM APRIL 1 TO MAY 15 has produced best yields in all sections of the state except the Gulf Coast area. Yields of corn planted later than May 15 are usually reduced considerably by worms and dry weather. Grain sorghum produces more grain than late planted corn.

* * *

HOGGING-OFF CORN at the Sand Mountain Substation in 1948 paid about $129 per acre over and above the value of pigs and supplement, or $2:33 per bushel of corn—a dollar above the local cash market. The average gain per acre was 756 pounds.

* * *

SERICEA on one-time abandoned land produced $15.85 worth of milk per acre per month, or about $100 gross value per acre, during a six months period at the Upper Coastal Plain Substation.

* * *

FOUR-YEAR-OLD STANDS OF SERICEA at the Upper Coastal Plain Substation are kept free of sedge by an annual application of 500 pounds per acre of 0-14-10 fertilizer.

TOMATO PLANTS FOR THE EARLY COMMERCIAL CROP are transplanted to the field about March 15 to 20 at the Gulf Coas Substation. Numerous tests show that mos satisfactory results are obtained by applying 1,500 pounds of 4-10-7 fertilizer in the row seven to 10 days before transplanting.

THIRTY-SEVEN COMMON STEER bought in September, 1947, and grazed o crimson clover-rye grass mixture and oats sold in June, 1948, for $64.70 above all out-of pocket costs. This was in an experiment o winter-time use of land and crops at the Tennessee Valley Substation.

IRISH POTATOES PRODUCE MOST SATISFACTORY YIELDS in the home garde when fertilized with 1,500 pounds per acr (10 pounds per 100 feet of row) of 4-10- fertilizer, setting 1½-ounce seed pieces 1 inches apart, cultivating just enough to con trol weeds, and dusting every week with a all purpose garden dust.

YIELDS OF EARLY SPRING VEGETABLES grown on light sandy soils are in creased two to four times from an applicatio of six to 12 tons per acre of stable manure, i addition to 800 to 1,200 pounds of a com mercial fertilizer. Yields are further increa ed two to three times by dividing the nitro gen into two or three applications in seaso of high rainfall.

Congratulations Thorsby

New traffic lights and new blinkers have been installed at Thorsby. This calls for congratulations, especially when we are working hard to keep traffic deaths and accidents at a minimum. Everything possible should be done to lessen the heavy toll that traffic accidents are taking in lives and money and Thorsby's Mayor and Council should be complimented on their forward step in promoting safety by installing the new lights.

Would it be telling you something that you don't know if we said that Alabama's highway's are awful?

Had you noticed that when a politician who is holding office elects to bring about certain reform, it is usually some reform that will be to his advantage?

The old saying that "nothing succeeds like success," isn't secessarily so. How about the half-wit whose ambition is to go ninety miles an hour and reaches it only to reach a curve and a telephone pole at the same time?

It would not be money wasted if the City Council and Mayor took steps to have installed blinkers below the curve at Ellis Tourist Court and in South Clanton. This would forewarn the motoring public that traffic lights were ahead and it was time to slow down.

Many Chilton County farmers are bragging about enjoying their strawberries and cream early this year. Mr. J. L. Penton of Route 1 says that he has been eating fresh strawberries from his patch since the first of the year. Talks cheap. We're from Missouri.

We hope all the natural gas we are hearing about coming through Chilton County isn't a lot of hot air.

Never put off until March 15th what you are supposed to do before that date. If you do your Uncle Samuel will add about ten per-cent — and a lot of harsh words.

Out For Business

According to a survey, many retail stores are increasing their promotional efforts this year. That simply means that still more effort will be devoted to seeking the good will and patronage of the buying public

In all but a few fields, the buyers' market is back and shortages are a thing of the past. The "easy money" spending spree has ost most of its momentum, and people want full value for what they spend. This has led to more aggressive competition among stores of all types and sizes, and to an even greater realization on the part of the merchants that their future depends on how well consumers are served.

In the future business will go where it is invited and will remain where the invitation is continuous. Newspaper advertising is the medium through merchants can seek this business. The tendency of some merchants to slacken up on advertising when business is off does not make good sense. The time to put more thought on a well planned promotional campaign is here. Buyers who are watching for the best buys, and those merchants who ask for the business of the people of any community are the ones who will come nearer getting it.

Alabama Biggest Crop

Alabama's biggest crop, at least in point of acreage, is wood. Forests cover 58 per cent of the land of Alabama. They embrace 37 per cent of the land designated by the Census Bureau as farms.

Much of that land is good for little else. A recent University of North Carolina study concludes that trees are the logical crop for 56 per cent of the land in the South. That figure is approximately true for Alabama. The best crop, for most of our soil, is timber.

That has a number of meanings. For one thing, we shall not be able to expand very much our acreage of crop lands. Practically all of the land suitable for growing crops in Alabama is now devoted to that purpose. And even some of the hillsides now being cultivated should be turned into woodlands.

Forestry, however, should be looked upon as a farming and not a mining operation. Sustained yield should be the goal.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Dear reader please forgive us if you see too many personal paragraphs in the column this week. You see we don't become a grandpa every day in the week so you can understand our excitement. Foxy grandpa, that's us.

Visiting the Navy Base at Millington, Tenn. last week-end to see our new grand baby. That is quite a place. Some ten thousand sailors are stationed there and for a green-horn like ourselves it is next to impossible to get around. You get absolutely no co-operation or information from anyone and as a whole the attitude is rude. We did find one Navy Nurse (Ah, sweet mysteries of life) who was new and hadn't learned she was supposed to be insulting to all civilians. Wonder who they think pays the income taxes to keep them in pretty uniforms? The least thing they could do is to use part of that money to maintain a booth where you could get a little information — without be treated like a Nazi or a Russian spy. Anyway, enough of what we think of certain personnel. That grand-baby is a honey. We used kid J. E. Easterling about being an old grandpa but we haven't opened our mouth since last week. All are doing fine and it looks like papa Lelyn will also survive. Grandma is spending this week up there telling them how to raise a child — Probably in 1000 easy lessons.

You know since you were a baby in a hospital things have changed a lot. Now the mother gets out of bed within the first twenty-four hours and walks all over the hospital and exercises constantly. All the babies are in a sound-proof room (thank goodness) and at certain hours of the day all the proud parents line up in front of the large glass windows and when a nurse draws the curtains back each stares with pride at their off-spring. The other night June came out of her room and caught Lelyn looking at another baby and shouted, "traitor".

Remember: Knowledge is power, if we know it about the right person.

We should have had better sense than to try to pull any fast ones on Rev. Carlisle Miller like we did last week when we wrote about him going to South Alabama. He was asking about if we knew first-hand that he was out of town on Sunday or if we just heard that he didn't preach. Thet's hitting below the belt — like we did.

Incidentally, the Rev. Miller is preaching a series of sermons on the Ten Commandments that are really worth going to hear. The series will last about five more weeks. They're wonderful, you should hear them.

Didn't this bad spell of weather ruin our pretty spring flowers? The azaleas, japonicas, jonquils, hyacinths, etc., are looking mighty ragged these days.

K. A. Hardy wrote a wonderful piece to the News last week in regards to careful driving but from the looks of the week-end traffic toll it wasn't read or digested. We are running it again this week for the benefit of those who missed it last week and we hope you will cut it out and paste it up where you can see and read it often. It carries an important message for all of us.

Saw a sign in the maternity ward of a hospital the other day which read: "Quiet, Babies At Work."

Speaking of signs, we heard of one near a school crossing: "Be careful of Our Children. We love Our Little Tax Deductions."

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

Proceed Cautiously

Every new advance in science may also hold a new danger. This is the case with pesticides, which are materials used to control pests such as insects, weeds, or rats. Some of the newer pesticides seem to be making our food unfit for eating. New means of controlling pests have developed so rapidly that in many cases it is not known how safe they are. For example it is now known that DDT leaves a residue in food that has been sprayed with this insect killer. We do not know as yet just what effect this residue may have on people who eat this contaminated food.

Before the last war there were relatively few pesticides used and people knew how to prepare food to remove most of the pest killer that might be left on the fruit or vegetable. For example, thorough washing and peeling fruits and vegetables would remove most of the residues from the sprays used at that time. It is estimated now however, that there are about 7,000 brands of pesticides on the market. What dangers these new advances in science may hold for man when he uses them is not known as yet.

Of less immediate danger in the use of insecticides, or insect killers, is the fact that useful insects may be destroyed too. For example, some kill bees as well as harmful insects, and bees are needed to help pollinate the various plants. Some pesticides kill birds which are needed to kill insects, and others kill useful plants as well as weeds or may damage necessary soil bacteria.

As spring comes on, let us proceed with caution. Studies are being made to determine how dangerious various pesticides may be to agriculture and to the human body. Until more facts and safeguards are known and until these facts can be gotten to people and these safeguards used, we must proceed cautiously.

4-H WORK IN GARDEN AND ORCHARD IN '48

Over 25,000 horticultural projects were started in 1948 by Alabama 4-H Club boys and girls.

"Not only did they start that many projects," reveals J. C. Ford, API Extension Service garden and orchard specialist, Auburn, "they completed and submitted reports on 19,000 of them."

He points out that completion of projects by colored 4-H Club members was only one per cent lower than for white members in 1948.

The total acreage amounted to 5,627 acres worked by white members and 1,617 acres worked by colored members. The average size of each project was 0.37 acre.

Philip Goes South

Acts. 8;26-39

Philip had been in the city of Samaria for several days, and perhaps several weeks. He had witnessed his greatest revival in that city. He was successful in establishing a Spirit-filled church in Samaria. Philip possibly would have liked to remain there and pastored the church, but the Lord spaked unto him to go South. God wanted him to continue his evangelistic ministry.

A. T. HICKMAN

Now while Philip was on his way south, he saw a man sitting in his chariot reading the prophecy of Isaiah. This man was Ethiopiana . . and had been to Jerusalem for to worship; and was returning home, empty in soul, not knowing the Messiah; yet he made an attempt to worship God without the knowledge of the Saviour. How pitiful it is for people today to try to worship God without having an experience of Salvation. You talk about something being awkward, and out of place, its people attempting to worship the Lord without the born again experience. Such is mockery in the sight of God. God is a spirit, and he that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth; for He seeketh such to worship Him, that will worship Him in spirit and in truth.

Again the Holy Spirit spaked to Philip and told him to go and join himself to this chariot. Philip ran to this man, and found him reading the Scriptures. He asked the man did he understand what he read. The answer was he could not understand, except some man should teach him. The natural man cannot understand the things of the Spirit of God. They are foolishness unto him, neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned. This man needed a spiritual guide, a teacher of divine truths. So Philip took the same Scripture and preached unto him Jesus Christ. We can imagine Philip telling of John the Baptist, and then the coming of the Messiah; and his ministry, his death on the cross, and his resurrection, and the great Commission to the Church to go into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature, that he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, and he that believeth not shall be damned . . .So this man wanted to be baptized, and Philip told him he might on one condition, that is, if he believed with all his heart. He assured Philip that he believed that Jesus was the Son of God. Then the two men went down into the water, and Philip baptized the Eunuch. Nothing is said about him joining the church. There was no waiting for a decision of some Church Board, not even from the church. There are some practices today among some church groups that I think is unscriptural, but that is another subject. Jesus had given the commandment for the Gospel to be preached, for diciples to be made, and baptized, and Philip was carrying out the orders of his Lord.

After the eunuch was baptized, and the two men came up out of the water, the Lord caught away Philip, and the eunuch went on his way rejoicing.

We certainly want to congratulate these people on their recent achievements. We mean by that, that they have been awarded service pins and certificates, and they are as follows:

Five Years: R. J. Hogue, Myrtice Logan, Rudow McDowell.

Ten Years: William A. Moatts, W. O. Neeley.

Fifteen Years: E. G. Jones.

Twenty Years: W. C. Davidson, L. H. Bannister.

And after a brief interview with Mr. Paul A. Redmond, Jr. he made an interesting speech and awarded the service pins, and his purpose was and I quote, "To award these service pins and certificates to employees in recognition for their faithful service to the Alabama Mills."

Mr. A. H. Randall, vice-president of the corporation said, and I quote again, "I hope that in another twenty years you people will get another service pin and that I will have the pleasure of awarding them."

A brief interview with Mr. E. G. Jones was that when he first went to work for Alabama Mills he was a frame tender. He has worked at several different places, among which are Talladega, Sylacauga, and Clanton. Mr. Jones says that he has had chances for advancement but didn't take them.

Another interview was with Mr. W. C. Davidson. When Mr. Davidson first started with Alabama Mills he was a helper on a truck. Mr. Davidson was promoted from truck driver to the machine shop and from that, foreman of the Jasper machine shop for eight years. He is foreman at the Alabama Mills machine shop here at Clanton and has been for several years.

Our last interview was with Mr. L. H. Bannister. His first job with Alabama Mills was as a machinist. Mr. Bannister says that he has worked practically at all of the Alabama Mills doing repair work on the machines, with his headquarters at Jasper, Ala.

We wish all of these people a bright future and a huge sucess. And I think I am correct in saying that we are all, "One Big Happy Family" over here at Alabama Mills.

BUY CHICKS NOW AND GET AN EARLY START

If chicks have not been started, they should be at the earliest possible date advises John Weeks, Extension Service poultryman.

In selecting a breed, stick to the old standbys: They are Rhode Island Reds New Hampshires, Barred Rocks, White Rocks, and White Leghorns. These birds have been found most profitable. Also, when buying chicks, remember that the strain is as important as the breed.

Don't be tempted by cheap prices or fancy advertising. It doesn't pay to buy cheap chicks.

Weeks recommends that three "straight run" chicks be bought for each pullet expected to be housed next fall. Half should prove to be pullets of which 90 per cent should live. Naturally, there will be a few pullets to cull before moving birds into the laying house.

In buying chicks to be raised for egg production, get clean chicks. Have everything ready for the chicks before they arrive. The brooders should be in operation at least 24 hours beforehand.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means of thanking everyone for their kindness and help during the illness and death of our dear husband and father. We feel deeply indebted to our many friends for what they did for us in trying to make our grief less. We know that no one ever will take his place in our lives. That place in our home is empty. But we thank God that our loved one lived a life that was a credit to his family. We have no fear that he is not waiting on the other side for his family.

Pray that we will live a life that we will meet dad and be with him in beautiful Heaven. May God in His mercy comfort and bring peace to us all. God knows best. May we become reconciled to his will. Mrs. J. C. Veazey and family.

Those enjoying this occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Hanson, Mrs. Anna Phalin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howard, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Peterson and daughter Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Turnquist, Mr. and Mrs. John Brothers, Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth, Mrs. Anna Thorson, Mrs. Marie Regan, and Miss Naomi Turnquist.

S-Sgt Thomas Phalin returned last Friday to Camp Pickett, Va. after spending a month here with his mother Mrs. Anna Phalin.

Three couples have changed their place of residence here this past week-the Thomas Childress family has taken an apartment upstairs over the Thorsby Sundries store, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Littleton have moved into the Gentry home vacated by Thomas Childress, and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Martin, Jr. have vacated the upstairs apartment at the R. R. Franklin home and are occupying the Higgins home just vacated by the Arnold Littletons.

●

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Peterson of Detroit, Mich. spent a few days here with his mother, Mrs. Charles Peterson, and his sister, Mrs. Roy Raybon, and family.

●

The Chilton County Blackberry Growers Association is hard at work building their packing and loading shed and we are enjoying a trip down there each day watching the work as it takes shape. We wondered how the thing was going to look when we first went down there and saw all the telephone poles being "planted" but we are beginning to understand now, just what it is all about. Business will soon begin to pick up down in "South Thorsby."

■

We are proud of the part that The Bank of Thorsby and its Officers are playing in the development of our farm program and the assistance it is giving to the farmers of this community. Since Mr. Ogburn attended a Farm Bureau meeting in Biloxi, Miss. recently, a letter has been received by the President of the bank, commenting on the splendid work being done by Mr. Ogburn and the bank in aiding the farm program. We quote from a letter from the State Farm Bureau President: "We certainly appreciate the cooperation of your bank and Mr. Ogburn in helping us put over our Farm Bureau program. He attended our meeting in Biloxi and we felt that he contributed a lot to the meeting, giving us the banker's standpoint about the farm program. He has been worth a lot to the farm movement in this state. We want to commend you in having such a good man to represent your organization and the bankers at our Farm Bureau meeting in Biloxi" Signed— Walter L. Randolph, Pres.

■

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gentry are occupying their lovely new home just short of Thorsby. Mr. Gentry razed the old home completely and built an entirely new home, and its a beauty. The new home recently built by Eugene Davenport also looks lovely. We are proud of these new homes as they present an atmosphere of prosperity to people traveling our way.

Mr. H. L. Collins, one of our boys, who now lives in Birmingham and is employed as book-keeper at the TCI plant in Ensley, was singled out last Thursday by the Superintendent of the TCI to be his guest at a banquet given by Birmingham Business Men. H. L. was soloist at this banquet, singing Irish classics, so appropriate to St. Patrick's Day, and so well suited to his rich baritone voice. H. L. began his musical training at Thorsby Institute, then studied at Howard College and also had some training at the Birmingham Conservatory of music. He has been singing with a quartette over the radio for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferrell Williamson of Clanton (Billy Ann Parrish) are the proud parents of a fine boy born to them on March 3rd at the Jefferson Hospital in Birmingham. The young fellow weighed eight pounds and his name is Robert Terrell. Mother and son are doing fine, and their many friends here are happy to congratulate them.

●

Did you know that our Independent Basket Ball Team won a trophy last week in the state tournament? They won third place and came very near to placing first. We are proud of these boys even if we have probably not given them our support as we should have, but our hats are off to them anyway, and we hope when another year rolls around, they'll be hearing more from us than in the past.

●

The Thorsby Civic Club held their regular monthly meeting on last Monday night at the Junior High School. A Pot Luck Supper was enjoyed and we have never seen so much delicious food as was served at this supper. The coming Peach Festival was discussed and the Club pledged its support and will go all out to help make the Festival a sucess.Mr. Donald Merchant was nominated and elected to represent the Club. Mr. Merchant was elected by a unanimous vote. Our guest speaker for the evening was Judge Melton of Wetumpka who spoke on the subject of "Changing Times." His talk was most entertaining. Mrs. Melton was also a guest. Other out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Preston of Jemison and their son Joe Preston of Birmingham. Between 60 and 70 people enjoyed this most enjoyable Civic affair.

Vets Benefits

(Fifth of a Series)

The so-called G. I. Bill (Public Law 346) provides education, on-the-job or on-the-farm training for eligible World War II veterans.

The veteran must have had at least 90 days active service, with a discharge under conditions other than dishonorable. Some part of the period of active service must have been between Sept. 1, 1940, and July 25, 1947.

A veteran with less than 90 days active service may be eligible if he was discharged for actual service-incurred disability.

This benefit provides one full year of education or training, plus the time the veteran was in service between Sept. 16, 1940, and July 25, 1947, up to four years maximum. Special conditions of eligibility are provided under the Armed Forces Voluntary Recruitment Act of 1945.

For full-time institutional training, subsistence allowance is paid at the following rates: $75 per month if there are no dependents; $105 per month if there is one dependent; and $120 per month for more than one dependent. Lesser amounts are paid for part-time training. All expenses of tuition, books and supplies are paid at a rate not to exceed $500 per year.

Subsistence allowance for veterans engaged in on-the-job or on-the-farm training and pursuing a course of six hours or more a week related study is payable as follows: $67.50 per month if there are no dependents; $93.75 if there is one dependent; and $97.50 if there are two or more dependents.

There is a limitation on wages and subsistence under which the combined amounts cannot exceed $210 per month for the veteran without dependents; $270 per month for the veteran with one dependent; and $290 per month for the veteran with two or more dependents.

In the case of a veteran receiving pay for training on the job, the subsistence is reduced in accordance with the journeyman wage rate and the trainee wages received.

Full information on all veterans benefits can be obtained from your nearest Veterans Administration office or from the service officer of any service organization.

This is the fifth of a series of articles on benefits for veterans appearing every Thursday in the Chilton County News.

Vocational rehabilitation for disabled veterans under Public Law 16 will be discussed next week.

FENCE POSTS

Timber for posts can be obtained from thinning young stands of timber, clearing for pasture or cropland, and removing undesirable timber from woodlands. To control decay of fence posts, use an oil base preservative such as five per cent pentachlorphenol or coal tar creosote mixed with kerosene, distillate, fuel oil, or Diesel fuel.

One marketing practice that is coming into more frequent use is prepackaging products in consumer-size packages.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

We Both Won This One

Blew my top the other morning when I discovered a shirt I'd put on had two buttons missing.

"Joe," the missus says, "do you ever read what you write? For a man who writes newspaper pieces all about tolerance, you sometimes show a lot of race prejudice."

"Race prejudice!" I hollers. "No one can accuse me of that." "I mean prejudice against the entire human race," she interrupts with a smile. "Why get mad at the world over two little buttons?" That took the wind out of me.

From where I sit (as I told the missus that evening), a lot of us sometimes get too worked up over little things . . . little differences of opinion or taste. One person prefers beer or ale, another prefers cider or lemonade. But why criticize the other fellow just because his tastes aren't the same as ours? "That sounds more like you, Joe," she laughs, snipping off a thread. (It so happens she was sewing on buttons.)

BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS

The date of our Church Study Course is March 28th - April 1st, 1949. We want to urge all church members to be with us in the study. The hours are: 7:15 to 9:00 P. M sharp. The books are as follows:

Juniors — My Family and I by V. F. Van Nesa. Intermediates — A Faithe to Live, by Sodie. Young People - The Eternal King, by Martha Boone Leavell. Adults — The Baptist Adult Union Manual, by J. E. Lambdin. Adults — Into all the World, by Brown and Freeman

Mrs. A. O. Morty will be with us to teach.

Rev. John B. Rollins and family want to personally thank the Thorsby Fire Department for their efficiency in handling the fire fighting equipment on the night when their garage burned. It was through their promptness and capability as fire fighters, and the alertness of our Chief of Police, A. W. Livingston, that our neighbor's houses were saved and possibly the pasterium. No town is safe without a fire department. Thank you.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, and beautiful floral offerings received during the death of our beloved husband and dady—Fred Calloway—especially do we thank the doctor and Rev. Edward Cumbie, Elvin Edgar, Cecil Elliand W. W. Robinson. God bless each of you is our prayer.—The Calloway Family.

Oldest
Duck Hunter Found

WARE, MASS.—Game Warden Franklin Graves claims he's found the oldest duck hunter in the United States.

Graves made his discovery while on duty on Cape Cod.

Coming upon a 76-year-old man crouched in a blind, Graves asked the old felow how he was doing.

'Poorly," was the reply, "but my father's doing right well."

A short distance away with a rapidly filling bag of ducks was the father, William Swan of Reading—age 100.

Woman Heating Home With Device Trapping Heat From Sun's Rays

DOVER, MASS.—Dr. Maria Telkes heats her home with an 800-square-foot glass and metal device that traps the sun's rays for her "solar house." The rest of the heating system consists of a cheap chemical unit that Dr. Telkes developed in experiments at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The pioneer model cost about $3,000 to install but Dr. Telkes expects it to operate indefinitely without additional expense. There are other benefits besides the end of fuel bills, she says. No fire hazards. No coal or oil shortages. No transportation tie-ups. And no coal-shoveling, ash-carrying or mechanical breakdowns.

To find out whether the unit will heat the house during the cold weather, she will live in her five-room home during the winter She won't pronounce the experiment a success until she's been without any other source of heat through the bitterest part of the winter.

From the heat trap built into the south side of Dr. Telke's house, the solar warmth is conducted to a series of "heat bins." Each bin contains an inexpensive chemical compound known as sodium sulfate dekahydrate. When the chemical is warmed, it melts and absorbs heat. When it solidifies, it releases the heat.

A thermostatic control system is connected to each bin which in turn is hooked up to warm air rigisters. When the thermostat is adjusted to raise the house temperature, stored heat is released from the chemical and wafted into the rooms via the registers. Dr. Telkes said the chemical can store heat up for ten days.

Russians
Claim Supersonic Rocket

BERLIN.—The world's first piloted supersonic rocket projectile is the spearhead of a new, gigantic Soviet air force, a Russian science magazine has claimed.

The aircraft-rocket was described by the magazine Vokrug Seveta (Around the World) as "flying with a speed far in excess of sound," which is about 700 miles an hour at sea level.

The projectile was said to have been put through its first public paces on Red air force day June 25, when, the Soviet author d, "a huge crowd stood awe struck by the sight of this extraordinary propellerless machine hurtling past them at colossal speed."

Experts "Debunk" Lot Of Gadgets Marketed As Cure for Ills

WASHINGTON.—Experts gathered in the debunking laboratories of the national food and drug administration and regarded a mounting stack of gadgets which have been sold an panaceas for plagues of the human race.

The public has been buying them as cures for everything from falling hair to hemophilia.

Successful sales of some of them apparently depend on how many ailments the inventor can list as curable through use of his contraption—and those claims are the basis of seizure and prosecution by the food and drug administration.

"There has been a deluge of them since the war," says George P. Larrick, associate commissioner of the administration.

"Some of the inventions are actually dangerous," says Dr. Irvin Kerlan, medical officer in charge of therapeutic devices.

"High on the list of gadgets we seek out is that which claims a cure for a serious disease, particularly that disease which grows progressively worse while the patient tinkers with the new miracle machine."

One of the newest devices and still under litigation in the Mid-west is a dumbbell-appearing creation in which the center bar is supposed to be filled with water which has been exposed to cosmic rays.

By merely holding the dumbbell, the patient is supposed to absorb the latent energy and acquire a resistance to diseases and ailments. The cost is between $50 and $100.

OIL SOURCES

Men Drilling Below Water

CHICAGO,-(U.P.)-For more than a year, about 500 men have been living on islands of steel in the Gulf of Mexico, drilling for oil below the surface of the water.

Two oil men attending the annual convention of the American Petroleum institute said the operation, known as offshore drilling, is being carried on by 15 oil companies. Their operations cover a 2,500,000-acre area from six to 20 miles off the shores of Texas and Louisiana.

The oil man said their companies have achieved "fairly good" results so far, compared with land operations which cost much less than offshore drilling.

Before underwater drilling can begin, gangs must construct their 1,500-ton steel islands by driving pilings 100 feet below the ocean bed, and extending them 50 feet in the water and 40 feet above the water's surface. Construction of the pilings costs an oil firm about $1,000,000 before drilling can start.

Crews Change Work

Offshore drilling camps then are set up on the pilings over an approximate 190-by-80-foot area. Besides the drilling platforms, each camp includes a bunkhouse and cookhouse and enough supplies to provision a 15-man crew for three weeks.

However, crews usually work for several days only and then are transplanted to shore for as many days off. Shifts of workers alternate around the clock all year.

The oil men said their principal headaches are the tropical storms which sweep the gulf area from May through November. However, the pilings are considered as safe as the ground on shore and the men seldom are called in from their camps atop the pilings. The pilings are built to withstand 165-mile winds and 35-foot waves.

Underwater drilling was started after geologists reported what they termed a "continental shelf" in the gulf waters. The "shelf" is composed of land which extends many miles into the water before dropping to oceanic depths.

Use Gravity Meter

American oil men in Venezuela were the first to employ offshore drilling methods and succeeded in recovering oil from depths of 100 feet below the surface of Lake Maracaibo.

Geologists use a gravity meter to outline areas which should be tested for drilling. The instrument reveals disturbed areas which show where oil may be present, but the oil men said the only sure way to test the ground is to start digging operations.

The oil men said that offshore drilling in the Gulf of Mexico was started by oil firms in an effort to augment America's crude oil supply and reserves.

War Trials Judge Suggests Trying War-Makers Early

LOS ANGELES.—The presiding judge of the Nuernberg war crime trials has said that future wars may be prevented by trying international criminals before hostilities break out.

Judge Michael A. Musmanno of Pittsburgh urged establishment through the Unuited Nations of a peacetime international court to try criminals responsible for inciting war.

A former Navy captain, Musmanno presided over history's biggest murder trial — that of Nazi generals accused of slaying one million persons. He is here to confer on a forthcoming movie based on a 20-volume research work he compiled to prove Hitler is dead.

"Throughout history the man who burned one house and killed one innocent person would be hanged for arson and murder, but if he destroyed a whole civilization he was given a comfortable niche in history," the judge said. "The great newsness which comes from World War II is the creation of a tribunal able to judge international criminals.

"The hell with this idea that any one nation is responsible for international crime. Was Germany responsible for what happened in Europe — or was Hitler?"

Musmanno called Hitler "the most monumental figure of all history, able by his strange, overwhelming magnetism and personality to dominate the men around him."

Antique Dealer Uncovers Ancient "Shocking Machine"

NEW LEBANON, N. Y.— An antique dealer's search of a New Lebanon barn turned up an electric "shocking machine" used by the Shakers more than 100 years ago to treat coughs and colds.

The strange therapeutic device consists of a glass cylinder that generates static electricity by turning against a chamois pad. It is considered the most complete example of its kind. The only other known specimen, incomplete, is in the New York State museum in Albany.

References to the "shocking machine" were found in an 1827 journal of the Shakers, a religious sect.

Tale Retold of Lincoln's Visiting New England Site

HINGHAM, MASS.— The oft-mentioned possibility that Abraham Lincoln may have visited his ancestral home here 100 years ago has been revived.

The question arose when the Lincoln house was presented to the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities. During a visit to Boston in September, 1848, Lincoln was supposed to have "vanished for three days.

The lost three days are discussed in Elizabeth Coatsworth's new book, "South Shore Town."

Miss Coatsworth believes Lincoln may have visited Hingham in those three days to "commune with the ghosts of his ancestors and to draw vigor from their yeoman blood."

The first ancestor of Lincoln came to Hingham from Hingham, England, in 1637. The Lincoln house, a story and a half gambrel roof cottage, was built some time later on the original land plot of the Lincoln family.

Drift of South America From Africa Idea Studied

CINCINNATI.—Did South America drift apart from the continent of Africa?

The question is reopened by the research work in South America of Dr. Kenneth E. Caster of the University of Cincinnati, assistant professor of geology and fellow in the graduate school of arts and sciences. He returned recently after almost four years in South America, where he traveled widely gathering geologic data, much of which bears on the theory of "continental drift."

His visit to South America was under the asupices of the United States department of state and the Guggenheim foundation.

"None of the findings in South America definitely proves or disproves the drift hypothesis, but they are significant enough to warrant additional field studies in South Africa, India and Australia to make necessary comparison," Dr. Caster said.

He added that he hoped to make trips to those continents to continue his research.

Neighbors' Charity Puts Postmistress Out of Job

WALES, WIS. — Her neighbors' charity has put Postmistress Mrs. Hazel B. Mason right out of a job.

The residents of this Waukesha county village have sent so many relief packages to Europe that post office receipts have gone over the $1,500 per year limit set for fourth class post offices.

That pushes Wales up to third class and automatically vacates the postmaster's position. It must be filled through a competitive civil service examination.

Mrs. Mason, who has been postmistress for 19 years, had to send to the town newspaper a notice that her position is open and examinations will be held. However, she can take the examination herself and there's a good chance there will be no contest.

NEW HARMONY

Our revival closed Wednesday night. Bro. Ellis Cleckler preached some good sermons which we feel sure everyone enjoyed. Our hearts were indeed blessed by these services.

We were very glad to have the many visitors, and hope they will continue to come even though the revival has closed.

The attendance was a little small over the week end due to the bad weather and othr things. But we hope to see everyone back next week end, as this is our pastor's appointment.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Littleton and children attended the quarterly union of the P.F.B.H. Church which was held at Shawmut Church March 5-6.

Bro. Thomas Smith preached at Zion Ridge Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Smitherman and children, Philip and Ruby; Mrs. Ethel Smith and children attended services at Zion Ridge Saturday night.

If you have never been to our church why not come by and pay us a visit some time. We will do our best to make you feel welcome.

NEW SALEM

We especially thank the John Deason and the Liberty Hill quartets for their fine numbers and cooperation.

The Chilton County Thursday night singing will begin again here Thursday night. Everyone has a special invitation to come sing or to listen. This is to be a county affair, not one church for it will go from church to church. So if you want a blessing, you better attend these singings. May we thank you in advance for your cooperation. —J. A. Davenport.

PROVING SIRES

Alabama had two sires proven during 1948. With an expanding D.H.I.A. program, many more should be proved this year. To serve a bull, at least five lactation records of 305 days each must be completed on dams. Then five or more such records must be completed by their daughters.

COX TEMPORARILY REPLACES BALLARD AS ETOWAH COUNTY SHERIFF

Montgomery- Coroner Jesse Cox has been named acting sheriff of Etowah County by Gov. James E. Folsom.

The appointment was made to temporarily fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Ira C. Ballard as sheriff. Ballard stepped down from the office he was elected to in 1946 just as the grand jury launched a "general investigation" of the sheriff's office.

Upon the completion of a preliminary survey of the office the grand jury advised Judge J. H. Disque, Jr. that it did not consider it necessary to carry the investigation further.

Ballard said his resignation was due to a lack "of harmony and cooperation between the various law enforcement agencies of the state and county."

PROVIDE GOOD COLD FRAME FOR PLANTS

For the production of plants on a large scale, the cold frame should be about ten feet wide with a ridgepole cloth frame for cover.

According to Lyle Brown, API Extension Service horticulturist, a bed 60 feet long will take care of enough plants for one acre.

The cold frame soil should be a sandy soil with at least one- fourth well-rotted organic matter or a mixture of sand and peat, half and half, thoroughly mixed with it. To each bushel of soil add one-fourth pound of 4-10-7 fertilizer.

After the cold frame area has been cleaned out and leveled, add about an inch of clean sand, then add the soil mixture, level and water down. This should be done about two weeks before plants are set. Space plants four inches apart on the square in the frame.

COLLINS CHAPEL

The Collins Chapel P.-T.A. met last Friday, March 4th. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Hoyt Burgess, Mrs. Vollie Littleton ably presided. The devotional was given by Mrs. Glenn Sessions who read very effectively Proverbs 15.

Mr. McGee of Clanton and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Houk, of Montgomery, were welcome visitors. Mr. Houk gave a most interesting address on School Bus Transportation. He reminded us that the school bus carried the most priceless cargo of any vehicle.

Come next First Friday to the P.-T.A.

"One of our neighbor farmers usually puts about 150 pound of Chilean Soda on his oats for top-dressing. Last spring he hauled it to the field in a wagon. Wherever he stop to fill the distributor, some of the Soda spilled on the ground.

"All season long those spots where the wagon done stood look greener and growed thicker than the rest of the field. The farmer figured that every place he stop must'a 'got about 300 pound of Soda an acre and made twice as much oats. He told me, 'I should'a parked that wagon all over the field!'"

The STRAIGHT and NARROW WAY

A playground does not need a straight path, but the highway which takes men to important goals must be as straight and direct as the engineers can make it. Much of the work of the road makers of our day is consumed in straightening out the winding roads of yesterday. Trucks loaded with milk and food for hungry people, hospital ambulances carrying sick and ailing men, automobiles filled with travelers pointed towards home, all sorts of busy workmen of the world are demanding the straight road. For the most of the way all that we ask is one narrow lane along which the motor vehicles may spin toward their destination.

Great spiritual leaders and teachers have insisted through the centuries that every soul must demand the same sort of straight and narrow way along which it moves with directness and devotion toward the good goal. The wide roads which are only midways of State Fairs and playgrounds for the immature spirits take us nowhere worth the going; if we tarry too long with the jostling and self-indulgent throng we find the goals that are destructive. The Kingdom of God is not reached in such fashion. If you are bent toward the heavenly goal of the spirit, choose the straight and narrow way that leads to life everlasting. "Heaven is not reached by the single bound"; it is the faithful day-by-day movement of mind and heart, in the high company of faithful souls, which will bring us "where the blessed are."

The straight and narrow road begins exactly where you are standing today. If you will lift your eyes to the hills of God, the path will be seen shining with the footprints of the good and the noble pilgrims who have gone ahead. Join them.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

(By JESSE CULP)

What's your car tag number? If you don't know, better check up and see. It might be your lucky number, if you listen to "Tag Time" on WKLF, heard each day at 12:05. Each day on the program, a tag number is read on the air, and the owner of that tag can have a free wash and grease job simply by driving by the sponsor's place of business. Listen each day; you never know when your tag number may be called.

Rev. Hymon Atchison is being heard twice daily this week — at 5:45 in the morning and at his regular afternoon time of 4:30. He is asking his listeners to write in and let him know which of the two times they like better.

"Jess's Jamboree" is another newcomer. It's heard each morning from 6:15 to 6:45. "Rising Time" is heard at 7:15. It features the latest popular request tunes, along with birthday salutes, time signals, poetry, and weather forecasts. It's purpose is to get everyone off to a good start for the day. Requests are invited.

As you may know already, March brought along another half hour broadcast activity for WKLF. In the 5:30 spot, ABS brings you "Teen Time," with music beamed to the younger set. This follows "Let's Make Believe," a story hour for the kiddies which is heard at 5:15. Your child will enjoy it if you will let him or her listen every day. At 5:45, Dave Overton gives you the "Last Word in Sports."

Dick Haymes is the newest of the WBS stars to get his own show on WKLF. It's heard on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday at 8:15 in the morning. Dick has as his guest vocalist lovely Helen Forrest, and is accompanied by Carmen Dragon and the orchestra.

Helen Stroud was the happy "Fashion Queen" last week. Helen — as have all the others — seemed quite pleased with the proceedings. And who would not be, with all those lovely gifts?

Would you like to hear a good mystery story and find out how you can get free a book of magic tricks that you can perform? Listen tomorrow at 11:00 and find out, when it's time for "Blackstone, the Magic Detective."

Bob Tabor is now "chief dog house builder" at WKLF. It all goes back to the old saying that "every boy should have a dog."

You too can be a winner on "Dinner Call," heard each Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday at 5:00. Listen this afternoon at 5:00 and find out all about it, if you don't know already.

My congratulations go out this week to Peggy Ann Ruddick of Stanton, president of the Chilton County 4-H Club Council, and all her 4-H'ers in Chilton County. This is National 4-H Club Week, and a good time for us all to give a hearty pat on the back to all those rural young people who are doing such grand work in the 4-H Club. Peggy Ann was on the air last Monday on "Facts for Farmers."

That's sign off time for this week. Until next Thursday, so long and good listening.

ESTIMATING MATERIAL NEEDED FOR CURTAINS

Auburn, Ala.- "Curtains and draperies are not difficult to make if measurements are right and accurate cutting is done," says Alice Peavy, API Extension Service home management specialist.

The best way to estimate the amount of material needed is to measure from the bottom of the rod to the desired length at the bottom, then add the allowance for hems, casings, headings, and shrinkage. For example, a window may be 72 inches long and the curtains are to have a three inch hem, a one-inch finished heading, and a one-inch finished casing, which means that two inches each have to be added for both casing and heading, since the measurement was taken from the bottom of the rod. One inch is allowed for turning in the raw edges, and the width of the hem is allowed for shrinkage.

POULTRY TIP

Birds should be carefully inspected for external parasites. If lice are present, treat birds with sodium flouride.

Senior Play At Isabella

The Seniors will present their play, "Oh, Promise Me!" at Isabella High School, Friday evening March 18th.

You will find many plausible situations and a wealth of action.

Barry Hollis (Glenn Jones), 21, has just graduated from Princeton, thereby coming into the fortune left him by his late father's will. He has a reputation as a playboy, but has resolved to settle down and become a worthy member of the community.

On a train back from Princeton, he meets and immediately falls in love with Gladys Vance (Barbara LeNoir). He persuades his aunt, Mrs. Sue Hollis (Martha McKee), with whom he and his sister June (Celocptine Elliott), make their home, to send Gladys a note inviting her for a visit. Another note goes to Patsie Linden (Mary Clay Hayes), a hard-boiled little dancer and old flame of Barry's asking her to return his frat pin. Alas, the notes get mixed! Patsie arrives with her mother, Mrs. Linden (Margie Apperson), an ex-burlesque queen, and threatens a breach of promise suit unless Barry marries her immediately.

Then Barry has a bright idea. He couldn't possibly marry Patsie if he had a wife and family. So he gets Ann Furber (Marianne Wells), the butler's daughter, to pretend to be his wife — and to make it more convincing, he "borrows" a strange baby, which belongs to Mrs. Jones (Hildred Klinner). Into the situation marches Gladys, the light of his life, and Barry is in an awful pickle! He has to convince Patsie that he is married and Gladys that he isn't. Furber (Dale Nabars) is the butler and Kathleen (Lassie Brasher) is the cook in this household. Ralph Saunders (Shirley Mooney) makes a surprise visit to see Ann.

From this point, complications pile on complications. Seth Miller (Julious Smith), a very able lawyer, comes on the scene and gives a helping hand. The climax comes with an artist. Then to top this, all of Barry's "dream girls" desert him — that is all exept one. Who she is we don't divulge here, but she helps to bring the play to a suprising finish amid a whirlwind of laughter.

The admission will be 30 and 40 cents. The play will begin at 7:30.

TAX COLLECTIONS FOR FEBRUARY HIT SLUMP FROM FIRST MONTH

Montgomery- Tax collections by the State Revenue Department during February dropped off $1,215,278 from the total taken in for January.

Although the February collections fell off from the $7,805,344 collected the first month of 1949, they were $423,332 higher than the $6,166,734 taken in during the same month last year.

Revenue Commissioner Phillip Hamm said that the decline from the January figure was a natural reaction, since the February collections are based on January business. January is always a slow month coming as it does after the holiday season," the revenue head added.

The sales tax still rides at the top of the heap as the chief revenue producer. During February it yielded $2,329,507 as compared to the $2,300,5 4 it brought in during the same month last year.

Running second as a revenue source was the state's gasoline tax which reached $2,296,587 during February. The same month last year brought in $2,124,845.

In the third place was the income tax with $819,983 for last month's collections as compared with the take of $713,350 during February, 1948.

The state's tobacco tax ran fourth as the most important levy, bringing the state $570,619 as compared to $558,604 for the same month last year.

CARMICHAEL GIVES RULING ON ILLEGITIMATE BIRTH REGISTRATION

Montgomery- In an advisory opinion requested by State Health Officer D. G. Gill from Attorney General A. A. Carmichael, it was held that the name of the father of an illegitimate child cannot be placed upon the birth certificate until "sufficient" proof of the child's legitimation has been furnished.

Carmichael said that, in his opinion, "sufficient proof" is established when the father marries the mother of the child and recognizes the offspring as his own.

"It is my opinion," the attorney general held further, "that once a father has recognized a child as his own after subsequent marriage, the child is at such time legitimized and a later denial could not refute this status."

BLANCH VEGETABLES THEN FREEZE THEM

Scalding vegetables before freezing them is necessary to preserve flavor, certain vitamins, and color, according to Lavada Curtis, API Extension Service food preservation specialist.

At least one gallon of boiling water is needed for each pound of vegetable. For leafy vegetables, use two gallans per pound. Move the basket or other container up and down in the water to heat the vegetables evenly. Cool quickly in water to which ice has been added. Do not allow vegetable to stand in water longer than necessary for cooling. Drain, wrap, and freeze.

APPLICATIONS OPENED FOR SIX MERIT SYSTEM EXAMS

Montgomery- The State Personnel Department has announced that it is open to receive applications for examinations in the following merit system job classifications:

Auto Mechanic Helper, ($125-$165); Auto Mechanic, ($165-$220), Senior Auto Mechanic, ($200-$250); Motor Equipment Operator, ($125-$165); Sr. Motor Equipment Operator, ($150-$205); and Principal Motor Equipment Operator, ($185-$235).

All applications must be received by March 25. Application blanks may be had by writing the State Personnel Department, Montgomery, Alabama.

COUNTY COUNCIL P.-T. A. ENDORSES HEALTH PROGRAM

The Chilton County Council of P.-T. A. met March 2nd in the office of the Superintendent of Education. Reports from P.-T.A.'s represented were given and plans were made for the last Council meeting of the year to be held on April 6th.

The Council pledges its cooperation with Dr. Moore and Mr. Boockholdt in carrying out the health program for the benefit of the children in Chilton County. A schedule is being printed in the papers each week telling of the dates and time on which Dr. Moore will be at the various schools for check-up and vaccination of the children entering school for the first time in the Fall. Parents of pre-school children urged to get them to these places at the time specified, or, if they prefer, to have their family doctor give the necessary vaccinations before school begins in September 1949. But the child MUST have a certificate showing he has been vaccinated against certain diseases before he can enter school. We are all aware of the importance of this health program which will help to keep our children free of disease. Let's all cooperate to the fullest extent.

Mrs. Lloyd Howard, Council Pres.

W. C. KAUS SHOWS ORDERED TO LEAVE BY CITY COUNCIL

According to a statement Wednesday by Mayor C. Fenn Jones, the W. C. Kaus Shows that have been playing here this week have been ordered by the City Council to leavee Clanton.

Trouble started the first of the week when two young men reported heavy losses at one of the "booths" at the carnival grounds. At that time the Council met and revoked the license of the carnival and ordered them to leave Clanton. All cost for rents, lights etc., plus the city amusement tax was paid into the City treasury.

It is understood that the show refunded the loss of one of the young men who lost so heavily.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. James Parr was carried to the Central Alabama Hospital Wednesday morning, where she will be for a few days.

BETTER SPEECH CLUB VISITS AVE MARIA GROTTO

There was excitement in Mrs. Thomas' classroom Wednesday morning, March 9th, 1949, for the Greyhound Special had already parked in front of the school ready to take the Better Speech Club to Little Jerusalem. We had previously made special preparations for the trip, forming rules for conduct, studying Alabama maps and reading all available materials on Ave Maria Grotto.

Our bus headed straight up Highway 31 for Cullman. We hurried past blossoming orchards, budding forest trees, unusual rock formations, rippling streams and rivers, and several towns and cities.

After lunch, we went into the museum where we heard more of the minature work done by Brother Joseph. It was in the museum, also, that we paid for entrance into the park. The Brother who has charge of the museum became our interesting guide. Among the chief centers of interest to our group were: The Bethlehem Scene, Handsel's visit to the Castle of the Fairies, our southwestern missions, particularly the Alamo, the Ave Maria Grotto, Noah's Ark, The Tower of Babel, and a Benedictine dedication to the twenty-nine boys of St. Bernard College, who gave their lives in World War II.

All the beautiful work in the park has been created by Brother Joseph and is displayed attractively beyond our ability to describe.

Purchases were made by the members of our group when we passed through the museum on our way to the bus.

On our way home we stopped at Vulcan where we had fun finding various images in the marble walls. We climbed up those steep steps and looked out over the city. Our bus looked like a tinsy toy. After making purchases at the park shop we hurried home.

We particularly appreciate the care and patience of our bus driver, Mr. Ryall. — The Better Speech Club.

Elsewhere in this issue of the News details will be found regarding Western Auto Associate Store's fishing contest to run for several months. Prizes will be given by Western Auto Associate Store each week for the biggest bass caught in the county and everybody has a chance. Get into the contest. You can't lose but you can have plenty of fun.

CONCERT TRIO APPRECIATED BY MUSIC LOVERS

On Friday evening, March 4th, at 8 o'clock, at Clanton Baptist Church, The Clanton Community Concert Association presented "The Columbia Concert Trio" — Miss Ariana Bronn's violinist, Miss Ardyth Walker, 'Cellist and Mr. Richard Gregor, Pianist, in probably the most enjoyable and most enthusiastically received program in the history of Clanton Community Concerts.

In addition to trios, each artist was heard in individual solos for his or her instrument.

The trio's opening rendition of Handel's Passacaglia aroused the attention and interest of the audience at once and throughout the program there was an atmosphere of enjoyment and appreciation.

The brilliant technique of Pianist Richard Gregor in his Chopin programme was outstanding. He displayed the touch and finish of a true artist.

Violinist, Ariana Bronn's interpretation of Fritz Kreisler was indeed beautiful and exquisite and 'Cellist Ardyth Walker's Chopin was presented with a master skill.

"On tour" a collection of favorite American Folk Tunes received great applause.

These young artists were very definitely "musical" and each in his or her own way displayed an individual interpretation and appreciation of selections rendered.

The arrangement of the program, the types and variety of compositions chosen and the personal charm and skill of the artists combined to make of this an altogether brilliant and pleasing performance.

Mr. Hollis also called attention to certain pertinent facts concerning the 1949 Spring Savings Bonds Drive. The Campaign will be known as the "OPPORTUNITY DRIVE," and will run from May 16 through June 30. A national goal of $1,040,000,000 in Series E Bonds has been set, with state and county quotas to be announced later.

Johnson Enrolled In Vets Farm Training Program

Mr. J. Sam Johnson is enrolled on the Veterans' Institutional On-the-Farm Training Program in Chilton County and is doing a fine job from both the standpoint of soil conservation and cash crops.

Mr. Johnson owns 160 acres on the Lay Dam road. On this farm there are 20 acres of peach trees, 20 acres in kobe lespedeza and oats, 27 acres in sericea, 28 acres in kudza, 6 acres in bahia grass, 1 acre in Kentucky 31 fescue and 12 acres in Tanger peas. In addition the trainee has his entire peach orchard in caley peas. Also Mr. Johnson has grafted 300 peach and plum trees for setting next year. He has established a 2 acre patch of hard seed crimson clover for seed gathering purposes.

Mr. Johnson's future plans call for fencing 60 acres with woven wire and putting out 10 acres of Kentucky 31 fescue and an additional 10 acres in kudzu. The trainee plans, for utilizing the hay and grazing crops, to buy 6 to 8 brood cows, a pure bred white face bull and five gilts for brood sows.

Appearing in the above picture are, reading from left to right, J. Sam Johnson, B. B. Darnell, Assistant District Supervisor, and Howard C. Abbott, disabled veteran enrolled in Public Law 16 as a poultry farmer.

Mr. Johnson's instructor, R. F. Williamson, believes that with the present set up and future plans on the 160 acre farm Mr. Johnson will have one of the best veteran programs in the country.

Thirteen major fat stock shows and sales are scheduled in Alabama during the ten weeks begining March 29th, J. E. Moreno, Director Agricultural Division, Alabama State Chamber of Commerce.

Beginning with the Grove Hill event March 29, the shows will reach the end of the 1949 season with the annual show and sale in Birmingham May 5 and 6.

Fancied Sea Serpent Finally Identified as Elephant Seal

MONTEREY, CALIF.—Bobo the sea serpent, which frightened many Monterey bay fishermen by surfacing beside small boats, has turned out to be an elephant seal.

Identification was made by attaches of Hopkins marine station, after the "serpent" 17½ feet long, was washed up on the beach near Fort Ord. The cause of death was not apparent.

Scientists said elephant seals, possessing a small trunk, have teeth up to eight inches long and faces frequently coated with barnacles. Once they were fairly common in northern California waters.

Saxon Mines Harbor Reds

HAMBURG, GERMANY.—Christina Peter, a 24-year-old German girl, who volunteered for low-grade uranium mining in Saxony, said she estimated that more than 100,000 Germans were at work in the mines. Food, liquor and cigarettes were fairly plentiful but Communists were continually trying to convince workers to join the party.

A German-speaking Russian officer trained German girls on Russian-built listening instruments. The instrument, Christina said, had two large earphones and a metal stick. Both were connected with a battery which was carried on a belt around the shoulder.

Before she was sent into the mine, she worked with a group of Russian and German technicians equipped with divining rods and other instruments to combe the surface.

Had To Report

Whenever her earphone reacted with a bell-like sound she had to report to the next Russian, who marked the place and ordered a Russian technician to go through the test again.

After that job she was sent underground into a primitively constructed mine. Her job was to test all ore and rocks coming out of the tunnels for radium or Uranium, she said, was easily recognized by a violet - colored stripe going through the stones.

All the labor is not voluntary. An 18-year-old German youth who escaped estimated that, between 30,000 and 50,000 persons were in Soviet forced labor camps in Saxony.

Still wearing the rubberized clothing and boots issued to him when he went to work in the uranium mines, Gerhard Rieffenstahl described conditions in the labor camps. A blond six - foot youth, Rieffenstahl, now virtually a human skeleton, said he lost thirty-five pounds during his two months of forced labor for the Russians.

Lived in Barracks

The miners live in barracks, small camps and among the German populace, the youth said. He stayed in a room with 10 other men. Although they were unguarded, they were warned not to try to leave. The entire area was blocked off, with guards at all railroad stations and roads.

The miners are fairly well paid, Rieffenstahl said. He received 400 marks per month, which is $33 at the official rate of exchange, or about $10 at the more realistic black market rate.

Food rations were supposedly somewhat higher than in Berlin, but only in theory. The penalty for being late to work was a 50 per cent cut in rations, and since the mines were far from the barracks and the transport system porly organized, few workers were ever on time.

SEEK BETTER PAY

Women Quit House Jobs

WASHINGTON. — The shift of women away from domestic service was emphasized in an analysis by the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labor of women's occupational trends since 1940.

Women workers in domestic service declined 29 per cent in the eight years, while the number of women in clerical jobs rose 78 per cent, and the total of saleswomen was up 62 per cent. The comparatively small group of women proprietors and officials doubled, and women labor operatives and craftsmen increased by 60 per cent.

With full employment and an over-all expanding labor force, domestic workers constituted the only category of women workers that registered a numerical decline, though women in professional jobs has become a smaller proportion of the total number of such workers.

Miss Frieda Miller, director of the Women's Bureau, attributed the continuing flight of the housemaid from the United States home "simply to the fact that there are better and more desirable jobs for women."

Pay Is Factor

Asked if economic inflation had not also made it impossible for the average housewife to pay for the services of a maid, Miss Miller replied:

"If those workers could not get another job that paid as much, they would be forced to take housework. The better job pulls the worker from the poorer one."

In April, 1940, the total of women in domestic service was 2,100,000 in an over-all women's labor force of 11,920,000. In October, 1948, the comparative figures were 1,484,000 and 17,371,000, respectively.

Miss Miller said that she could see no end to this trend.

"Certainly in the last war we shot ourselves out of any chance of ever again having 'service' in the sense of a household staff standing by waiting for orders," she commented. "I recall a conversation between two English friends, a mother of 80 and her middle-aged daughter which ended with the daughter saying, 'I always had six people in service, and now we've only got one for the two of us.'

Must Demonstrate

"It seems to me that home service still could be purchased on the basis of specific jobs at which workers would be required to prove proficiency, as a stenographer must demonstrate her number of words per minute.

"But we are a backward nation on that score. On the basis of the small study we have made, examples of household job descriptions and standards are hard to find. That concept of domestic service apparently is neither general nor acceptable in this country. Domestic work remains the one example of 'buying a pig in a poke' with every transaction."

Radio Ramblings

(By JESSE CULP)

In case you got behind or didn't hear about the cowbell auction that went on on "Jesse's Jamboree" (6:15 to 6:45), Hiram Littlejohn of West Point got the bell for $14.85 for the Red Cross. Hiram — better known as "Big John" of the Liberty Hill Quartet—says the cowbell will be on display in his store for a week or so and will then be returned for use on "Jesse's Jamboree." Thanks again to all you folks who responded so nicely to a good cause.

A lot of people are learning to tune in each day at 10:15 for "Bill Kitay's Quarter Hour" from ABS. Bill Kitay is a Birmingham newspaperman, and many of you have read his articles. He is a keen student of human nature, and has many interesting stories to tell.

"Adventures in Homemaking" is one of the special programs which WKLF brings to its listeners each week from Alabama College in Montevallo. All the housewives will want to listen each Tuesday morning at 9:30 for "Adventures in Homemaking."

"Vocals by Locals," heard each Saturday morning at 9:00 is still in search of new talent. Anyone who is talented in the field of popular music is invited to come by on Wednesday afternoons for an audition. Listen this Saturday for a special program. A voice student from Alabama College will be the featured guest.

Mrs. Mamie C. Smith was our charming fashion queen for this past week, and certainly she was deserving of the honor. Mrs. Smith is perhaps as well known and loved around Clanton as any other lady.

The lucky tag numbers on "Tag Time" last week were as follows: (beginning Tuesday and going through Monday of this week) 14C 1049; 14D 213; 14C 753; 14C 482; and 14D 829. Each day, Monday through Friday, on "Tag Time" (12:05 to 12:15) an automobile tag number is read on the air, and the motorist who has that tag number can get a free wash and grease job for his car by driving in to the sponsor's place of business any time within a week from the time his number is called.

Radio stations often perform many varied services over the country. Perhaps the best known of these are the help that they render in time of floods, storms, or other such disasters. A very unusual service was rendered by Station WENR in Chicago recently, during the historic flight of Bill Odum. His radio it seems was tuned to their frequency, and so they stayed on the air several hours extra in order to guide him across the midwest. From there the task was assumed by an eastern station.

That's sign off time for this week. Until next Thursday, so long and good listening.

One Clanton Might Try

Recently we have noticed two Alabama cities in a population class comparable to ours that have created new rules and regulations regarding solicitors and "rackets." Talladega and Roanoke, Alabama.

The Chamber of Commerce is behind the action and has published cards for the windows of the merchants reading: "Positively no subscriptions, advertising, or other contributions unless approved in writing by the Chamber of Commerce."

This seems a wise step by the merchants of Talladega and Roanoke, and would be wise for our merchants to follow. It would certainly eliminate a lot of "phoney" solicitors who bedevil us daily and who are probably well fixed financially. The local businessman, not knowing the facts behind the case and with no way of finding out, is the victim.

The Talladega Chamber of Commerce sends this bit of information along with the window cards:

"Ask this question. Do you have a permit?

"Throughout the year you will be solicited by many different species of advertising salesmen. They are selling advertising that may be classed as 'good, bad, and indifferent.'

"Because Talladega is a trading center and the county seat, you are also asked for donations to this and that organization, institution, charity, which also may be termed as 'good, bad and indifferent.' You have neither the time, nor funds, to make an investigation of every scheme — it's our business.

"Many 'advertising rackets' are launched simply because business seems to be good, money is free and high pressure salesmen must make a living. Or because some local organization falls prey to a promoter who uses their name for a percentage.

"We don't ask you to give these salesmen the 'bum's rush.' Merely ask them if they have a permit obtained from the Chamber of Commerce. No reasonable salesman or solicitor will refuse to secure such a permit.

"Pertinent information as to circulation, costs and solicitation must be given and filed in the office of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Written application for permit must designate guarantee of performance.

"The permit costs nothing and is good for the length of time issued.

"This service will save you time and money and is for your convenience.

"It is supervised by a committee of your fellow businessmen.

Recipe For Fun

Was that you we heard groaning about looking on page four for Table III and still not finding how to secure an exemption for the $25 Joe didn't pay back?

Are you really having some troubles?

Well, after you have completed your calculations and written that check payable to the Internal Revenue Commissioner, you are entitled to a little fun.

Try chewing on this tidbit.

An inventory check by the Internal Revenue Department reveals that in 1946, the Bureau printed 500 million tax forms and 115 million instruction sheets to supply 47 million taxpayers.

And just to give the public, who must foot the bill, something to gripe about, the Internal Revenue people have leased a building in which they store hundreds of obsolete forms that will never be used. — Andalusia Star-News.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

You folks remember Lawrence Duffey. He came to Clanton about 1940 and opened Radio Electric Service Shop right next door to the Martin Watch Shop. Lawrence later sold out to the Popwell Brothers and went back to his native Cullman. That was about the time hostilities broke out around the world and Lawrence did a hitch in Uncle Sam's Army. But what we are getting around to is that Lawrence has broken into the news. His picture was in the paper the other day. He was elected commander of District 1, Veteran's of Foreign Wars at a meeting at Scottsboro the other day. We know his friends here will be glad for him and wish him well.

They were discussing the train robbers the other day down the street and how little sense they showed in going to a pawn shop in Washington only a few miles from the scene of their crime. J. E. Easterling told Jelly Bean: "That was plain dumb. Those guys would make good barbers."

We were talking to Mayor Jones recently about the new parking meters to be installed soon. The Mayor tells us that he was assured by letter that the new meters were shipped around the first of March. That means it won't be long now.

Mr. W. E. Easterling raised that fishing cane that stands in front of the News office. Those who pass have called it everything from a whale pole on down, it being some 39 feet in length. For a good long time we have known that Mr. Easterling's son, Gerthie, raised cane. And we know his daughter, Mrs. Amy Murrah, and according to husband Cecil, we understand she raises cain now and then—but we didn't know until this week that their Dad raised cane. From the looks of that cane out front of the office he raised more cain than they do. Anyway Mr. Easterling and Jim Blalock, we haven't heard anyone say they had seen a bigger one.

We never cease to marvel at the power that John L. Lewis has over the miners. One million-five hundred thousand dollars — the amount the two-weeks lay-off will cost the Alabama miners — ain't hay. But because the master speaks the servant obeys.

There ought to be a law. For instance our pet peeve is the young fellows who stand at the curtain door in the picture shows and smoke cigarettes and smell up the place. Naturally the smoke is pulled directly down the aisle and those sitting towards the back get a smoke screen thrown up around them. We have a bad habit of smoking cigarettes too, but we never saw the time that we couldn't forego the pleasure long enough to see a picture show. And anyhow, there is a law — it's against the law to smoke in a picture show.

Maplesville merchants will start their summer closing on the first Wednesday in April. We mean closing at noon Wednesday's like we are doing in Clanton. Elsewhere in this issue of the News you will find a list of the merchants which is just about every store in town.

Reckon it's true that Mrs. Charlie Cox waked up the other night and told Mr. Cox she heard a noise and thought there was a robber in the house. Mr. Charlie, being a bit sleepy, mumbled: "There might be a robber in the Senate, yes, but the House, never."

This is a pretty good story for this time of year, everyone being tax conscious. "Fine piece of land out here," said the dusty, shrewd-looking man as he got out of his car outside the farmer's house. "You're right there," replied the farmer eagerly. "It's the best in the county." "Bit too high a figure for a poor man, I reckon?" asked the stranger. "It's worth every penny of $1500 an acre," answered the farmer, with an eye to business. "Were you thinking of buying and settling in these parts?" "Nope" said the stranger, making some notes. "I'm the new tax man."

Hope all you folks got your returns off before Tuesday to the eternal revenue department.

Oh yeah, we been intending to give Amy Mims a plug down at the new Record Bar. It's at Luker Furniture Co., you know. Amy says she's keeping records in more ways than one. We imagine its quite a job to be custodian of several thousand records and have to put your hand on a certain one at a moments notice.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

Heartburn

Practically everyone at one time or another has suffered from that uncomfortable burning inside that is called heartburn. One usually associates this condition with an upset in his digestive process. However, it is learned now that heartburn is often caused by faulty eating habits and emotional disturbances and tension.

The cause of heartburn has been studied by two doctors, Henry J. Tumen, M.D. and Edwin M. Cohn, M.D. of the Graduate School of Medicine, University of Pennsylvania and the Jewish Hospital. These doctors point out that heartburn is not a symptom of ulcer or overacidity of the digestive system.

In nearly three-fourths of the forty-six patients treated by the above doctors for heartburn, it was found that the discomfort due to the burning sensation was worse during periods of emotional strain than at a less emotionally upsetting time. It was also found that thirty-four of the group were substantially improved by a program of education in eating habits and by a discussion of emotional and personality problems.

On the matter of eating habits the patients were told to eat slowly and to eat meals which were properly spaced. They were also instructed to avoid the habits of getting most of the day's food at one large meal, of drinking excessive fluids with meals, and of eating foods that seem to cause heartburn.

It is emphasized that the specific foods which seem to cause the condition vary with the individual. Coffee, onions, cabbage, and chocolate were found to be the outstanding examples of specific foods, and foods described by patients as causing heartburn were mostly fats, sweets, and spices. It is also thought that swallowing air in drinking carbonated soft drinks or in chewing gum may be a factor.

Baptism Alone Will Not Save

We are sure that this statement is true. Baptism alone will not save. For in this eighth chapter of Acts we find a man who joined himself to the company of believers, and was baptized, but his heart was not right in the sight of God. In Acts 8;13 it says, "Then Simon himself believed also, and when he was baptized, he continued with Philip, and wondered, beholding the miracles and signs which were done."

A. T. HICKMAN

It was the supernatural power about Philip's ministry that attracted Simon. And when Peter and John came down from Jerusalem to pray for the young Christians that they might receive the Holy Ghost, and saw that through laying on one of the apostles hands the Holy Ghost was given, he offered them money, saying, "Give me this power, that on whomsoever I lay hands he may receive the Holy Ghost." But Peter said to Simon, "Thy money perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money. Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter; for thy heart is not right in the sight of God." He was told to repent of his wickedness, and to pray to God, that the thought of his heart might be forgiven him. That he was in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity.

Now, this was the condition of a man that had already made a confession of faith, and had been baptized. But he was not right with God. There are multiplied thousands in the same condition. They can only point back to the time they joined the church and were baptized. But as far as having a real heart-felt salvation, knowing that they have been born of the Holy Spirit, and walkness in newness of life, they know nothing of such an experience.

Such was my experience for two years. I had joined the church, had been baptized. I had done what the minister told me to do, but there was no change in my life. But one day God dwelt wonderfully with my heart. I was convicted of my sins by the Holy Spirit. I repented, confessed and forsook all my sins; believed on Christ with, and from the heart. Then I was regenerated and made into a new creation. Old things passed away, and all things became new. Everything seemed different. The singing of the birds was sweeter than before. The flowers and roses seemed to bear the fragrance of a loving Savior, and the Creator of all things. The fleecy, floating clouds seemed to be the play ground for angels. The gentle breeze that swept over hill and dale bore to me only the breath of Him who had come to live within me; so that I could say with the great apostle Paul, "For me to live is Christ; Nevertheless I live, yet not but Christ liveth in me, and the life which I now live in the flesh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, Who loved me, and gave Himself for me" . . . .Hallelujah.

F.H.A. STATE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL PLANS STATE MEETING IN FUTURE

At the second Executive Council meeting of the Alabama Association, Future Homemakers of America, held at the Molton Hotel, Birmingham, March 4 and 5 the State Officers, Chapter Advisers, State Adviser and State and District Supervisors made plans for the Annual State meeting. This meeting will be held at Alabama College, Montevallo, June 8-11.

The selection of "Miss Alabama Future Homemaker" was one of the main topics for discussion by the Council. Each chapter is to select a Miss F.H.A. of the chapter and from these a member will be selected by counties. The county contestants will come to the State meeting where "Miss Alabama Future Homemaker" will be selected by judges from this group. The member selected as "Miss Alabama Future Homemaker" will be sent to the Regional meeting in Memphis with all expenses paid. Other members selected by the group to be sent as representatives of the Alabama Association are Bobbie Rae Dunn, Vice- President of the Southeast District, Samson, and the 1949-50 State President and Secretary-Treasurer, who are to be elected at the State meeting. Alternates for these persons are Carolyn Kearley, present Secretary-Treasurer, and the 1949-50 first and second Vice-Presidents. Alabama will have two voting delegates at the Regional meeting. It was decided that Bobbie Rae Dunn and the 1949-50 State President would serve in this capacity. Emily Whatley will attend the Regional meeting as National Secretary.

The policies and standards regarding the F.H.A. Gift Scholarship were formulated by the group. Applicants for this Scholarship are to come to Alabama College, Montevallo, March 24, 25 and 26 to stand achievement tests. The Scholarship will be awarded to the recipient at the State meeting.

Tentative plans for programs, socials, workshops and other activities at the State meeting were made.

Emily Whatley, State President, Beauregard, presided. Other officers who participated in the discussions were: Marjorie Ann Niblett, Clanton; Margaret Higgins, Cullman; Wanda Mills, Winfield; Bobbie Rae Dunn, Samson; Getty Shadix, Orrville; Gloria Ann Crowe, Glencoe; Anita Ayers, Fayette; and Jimmie Johnson, Rawls.

SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

"I don't have a birth certificate."

That, according to M. C. Folmar, manager of the Social Security Administration office in Birmingham, is a confession often voiced apologetically by applicants for Old-Age and Survivors Insurance benefits. There have even been cases, he continued, of persons failing to apply for earned benefits simply because of a mistaken belief that a birth certificate is required of all applicants.

"Actually," Mr. Folmar explained, "we know that people in Alabama like many other States, has maintained a general system of birth registration only in comparatively recent years.

"No one who is eligible for benefits should delay applying for them or feel embarrassed because he has no birth certificate. We can accept many other types of records and almost everyone has or can get some satisfactory evidence of his age. A birth certificate is of course useful and valuable but it is by no means necessary to have one to qualify for Old-Age and Survivors Insurance benefits."

A representative of the Birmingham Social Security office is at the Employment office in Clanton on the first and third Thursdays each month at 1:30 p.m. Mr.Folmar stated that persons in the following classes may be eligible for benefits and should get in touch with the representative in Clanton promptly if they have not already done so.

1. Persons 65 years old or older who have worked on jobs covered by Social Security.

2. Survivors of deceased workers who have worked on jobs covered by Social Security.

Payment of old-age and survivors insurance benefits is made only upon application and eligible persons are reminded that delay in applying may cause loss of money otherwise payable.

Howard C. Abbott, a disabled veteran, enrolled in the Veterans' Institutional-On-The-Farm Training Program December 1, 1948, as a poultry farmer.

Since coming on the program, Mr. Abbott has sold 1500 broilers.

At present he has 1500 more broilers ready for market and he will receive 1500 more baby chicks around the 17th of this month.

Mr. Abbott's plans are to market 1500 broilers every 12 weeks.

Future plans call for converting the present broiler house into a laying house which will accommodate 500 laying hens and for construction of a new and larger broiler house.

Mr. Abbott also plans to buy two gilts for brood purposes and two beef type cows for breeding purposes.

He already has two dairy cows and one brood sow.

In addition to his livestock program, the trainee has 1-4 acre strawberries, 1-4 acre English Peas, 3 acres of peach trees, 2 acres of kudzu, 3 acres of winter legumes, and four acres of temporary pasture.

Mr. Abbott's farming operations are supervised by his instructor, Mr. R. F. Williamson and his supervisor, Mr. A. C. Allen.

IN MEMORY OF BIG DADDY CALLOWAY

Days and nights are lonely, it seems like years,
Though it's been only a few days.
Someone we loved was called away,
The call was short, the shock severe!
To part with one we loved so dear.
Only those who have lost can tell,
The pain of parting without farewell.
A sweet life that came to an end.
You died as you lived, everyone's friend.
We cherish the memory of a cheerful voice and happy smile,
The wave of a friendly helping hand.
With God's loving care we'll travel each mile.
And meet you again in that bright and happy land.
At home and abroad there's a vacant place which no one can fill.
God only knows how we miss you dear Daddy.

Thorsby News

(By MISS C. N. TURNQUIST — Correspondent)

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell visited in Birmingham last week.

Mrs. Frank Nelson and daughter, Anna, delightfully entertained a few guests on Friday night at their home. Delicious refreshments were served and those enjoying their hospitality were: Mesdames James Bosworth, Carl Turnquist, Anna Thorson, A. F. Reagan and Miss Naemi Turnquist.

Thorsby has again had a visitor who lived here some forty years ago. Mrs George C. Gullickson, who was Volborg Engh, the daughter of a Norwegian minister, who came to Thorsby in 1898 and lived here for six years.

Rev. Engh built the house now being occupied by Rev. and Mrs. Hart. Mrs. Gullickson and her husband who now live in Spring Valley, Minn., are touring the South and the highlight of their trip was a visit with old friends in Thorsby. They enjoyed supper with Mrs. Reagan on Thursday night and they visited around with those of the old friends that so pleasantly remembered the Engh family. They left Friday morning for a tour of Florida.

Mr. J. A. Ogburn and Mrs. E. N. Bentley made a business trip to Birmingham last Thursday.

Mrs. A. C. Gibson and little son, Mike, returned to their home in Fort Worth, Texas, last Friday after a visit with her mother, Mrs. L. M. Jackson, and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jackson, who accompanied them to Birmingham where they boarded a plane for Ft. Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Porter spent several days in Birmingham last week visiting with Dr. and Mrs. Ira Martin.

Mrs. A. E. Reagan and Miss Naemi Turnquist attended funeral services for Mr. J. V. Harris in Clanton last Friday.

The Thorsby Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Barham last Wednesday afternoon. The Club made plans to beautify the little park-way along the railroad by making several flower beds and planting flowers of a low type, which will not in any way obstruct the view for traffic. Mr. W. L. Leary was appointed to supervise this work, and as Mr. Leary is a lover of flowers and is a veteran at growing them, we know that this will be something that we will all enjoy. If anyone has any verbena plants to spare or any flowering plants of a low nature, and you wish to donate them for this work, kindly get in touch with Mr. Leary.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Turnquist and Mrs. A. E. Reagan week ended in Birmingham visiting with the Fosses and Petersons. On Sunday they all attended services at Christ Lutheran Church.

Mr. Albert Anderson of Sylvia, N. C., spent several days here last week with his mother, Mrs. Inga Anderson.

Mr. Earl Marcus made a business trip to Childersburg, Ala., last Saturday.

Little Sandra Nichols of Birmingham spent the week end here with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Patrick.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. (Billy) Childress and twin daughters, of Selma, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Childress.

Mr. and Mrs. Ardon Folk visited on last Sunday her mother, Mrs. R. H. Goodgame, who is a patient at West End Hospital. Mrs. Goodgame is reported to be doing nicely, following a minor operation.

Miss Helen Collins attended the National Beta Club Convention held in Birmingham last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. James Headley (Peggy Raybon) are the proud parents of a fine baby girl born to them on last Friday, March 11th, at the West End Baptist Hospital. The little girl's name is Glenda Joyce. Mother and daughter are reported doing fine. Congratulations to this happy young couple.

Mr. Roy Raybon and sons, Larry and Bruce, spent Sunday in Birmingham visiting with relatives and especially to see the new granddaughter.

Thorsby P.-T.A.—

The Thorsby P.-T.A. is still working toward the purchase of a moving picture machine to be used both in the classrooms for visual education and in the auditorium for entertainment. Several people have made contributions and to them the P.-T.A. is sincerely grateful.

The Budget and Finance Committee, with Mrs. Wilbert Marcus as chairman, has planned entertainment to raise funds for the machine. Be sure to keep the date of April 1st open for a big party in the school auditorium. There will be plenty of fun, plus plenty of good things to eat. So plan to bring the family and have a good time. Watch the paper for further announcements.

The P.-T.A. also wishes to remind parents of children starting to school for the first time in September, 1949, that these children MUST be vaccinated against certain diseases before they can enter school. This is a Chilton County law. Dr. Moore, the County Health Doctor, will be at the Thorsby Junior High School on April 5th, 12th, 19th and 26th. The time on all dates will be 9:45 A. M. "HE COULDN'T MARRY FIVE"

A good laugh is good for the soul. And there are at least a hundred good laughs in the three-act comedy, "He Couldn't Marry Five," which is to be given by the Senior Class of Billingsley High School in the very near future.

If you are a young man and single, what would you do if you fell in love with five girls at the same time, and knew that all five were in love with you? If you are a young lady, what would you do if you fell in love with a handsome, wealthy young man, and then suddenly discovered that your four sisters were all in love with him too???

You'll never forgive yourself if you fail to see the most refreshing and laughable play in years, "He Couldn't Marry Five."

Be sure to watch this paper for the opening date of this clever comedy.

Yes Sir, Insomnia's Contagious!

When Bud Swanson had trouble sleeping nights, and tried to get over it by turning up the radio full blast, he started an epidemic of insomnia all down the block!

Folks finally dropped a hint to Bud that he close the windows or turn the radio a little lower. Bud did—and that was the quickest cure for other folks' insomnia I've ever heard of!

Not that any of us object to the radio, or swing bands, or anything else that helps another person relax of an evening. (Myself, I like a glass of beer with a bit of cheese before I go to bed. I can't speak for you.)

From where I sit, good neighborliness means nothing more than simply respecting the other person's tastes and rights—without forcing your own tastes or opinions down his throat. And that goes for Bud's radio, my glass of beer, or whatever temperate pleasure you happen to enjoy.

Reds Accused of Using Women Slaves In Mining

FRANKFORT, GERMANY.—Of 120,000 forced workers in uranium mines operated by Russia near the Bavarian-Czech border, at least 30,000 are women according to a young German who escaped and reached Frankfort.

Emil Walter, formerly employed on the police force of his home town of Halle, said that in October one of the frequent explosions occurring in these mines asphyxiated 290 of 300 laborers underground at Johann Georgenstadt. They were promptly replaced by the same number of individuals from transports arriving constantly.

Administrative offices for the mines are in Aue, Herr Walter stated. The prisoners are distributed through pits in Annaberg, Niederschlema, Oberschlema and Johann Georgenstadt, working eight hours daily under the worst possible conditions.

Although earning 600 to 700 East marks monthly, he declared, they are not only charged for their scanty food but also must contribute to the Russian supervisors, leaving them net earnings for the year of from 120 to 700 East marks. Espionage on the part of Soviet agents scattered through the camps exaggerates difficulties for the workers, a large number of whom were arrested for refusing to join the Social Unity party as in his own case.

Several U. S. Scientists Suffer Radiation Effects

NEWTON, MASS. — Radiation from atom-smashing cyclotrons has almost blinded several American scientists, according to Dr. Shields Warren, head of the medical department of the atomic energy commission.

"About five" scientists, whom he did not name, apparently had developed cataracts of the eye as a result of the effects of radiation on the lens, he declared yesterday. However, he stressed, that "there is no evidence at the present time that they were working on the immediate problems of atomic energy."

For safety's sake, Dr. Warren said, the commission is checking to determine if any of the scientists had been engaged in work other than university or similar projects which might involve proximiity to atomic piles.

He emphasized that there was considerably more danger of radiation leakage in research involving cyclotrons than in the atomic projects of the United States government and its contractors where, he added, "the hazards, as far as we can tell from present experience, are extremely slight."

Bloodhounds Reported Facing Extinction as Breed Declines

LONDON. — Reports from Great Britain that only 30 adult bloodhounds are registered with the English Kennel club bring the shadow of extinction close to a famous tracker of criminals that traces its line from the time of the Norman invasion.

Today's bloodhound is believed to be deseended from the Talbot hound brought across the English channel by the Normans in the 11th century, the National Geographic Society explains, and adds that the reputation as a ferocious manhunter is undeserved.

The sad-eyed, long-eared and wrinkle-faced dog actually is docile and affectionate. Unless specially trained, bloodhounds seldom attack their quarry, merely baying loudly at whomever they corner.

Some breeders say the name bloodhound came from the term "blooded," or aristocratic. Others report that it grew out of the old training method of teaching the animal to follow the trail of a wounded deer; then that of a man with deer's blood smeared on his shoes, and finally the "dry foot" of man himself.

Mud From Norway Fjords Sometimes Holds Uranium

OSLO.—Uranium-containing black mud can be dredged up from the bottoms of some of the fjords that cut deeply into the coast of Norway, states Dr. Kaare M. Strom of the University of Oslo.

The atomic energy element, however, is not present in high enough concentration to justify scooping out the mud and working it as an ore. It is of interest primarily as a possible means of determining under what geological conditions the uranium-containing black shales may have been formed.

Uranium concentrations in present fjord-bottom muds range from 13 to 60 grams per metric ton, Dr. Strom's analyses show. This is equivalent to from one-half ounce to two ounces per long ton. This is far below present levels for workable ores. The U. S. atomic energy commission will purchase such ores when they contain over two pounds a ton.

Dental 'Hang-over' Brings Damage Suit in England

EPSOM, ENGLAND.—Saint Clair Salmon in asking $360 damages from a dentist told a court the last thing he remembered clearly was the doctor giving him an anesthetic after which:

He found himself outside the surgery walking to his car.

Persuading a policeman he was not drunk and was fit to drive.

Trying to enter his garage, but colliding with the right-hand wall.

Trying again, but knocking over a gasoline pump on the left.

Finally achieving entry.

Getting out and collapsing.

Waking up inside his house five hours later.

Discovering he had left his coat, collar and dentures in the surgery.

The dentist, Frank Davies, had entered a claim for $80 against Mr. in favor of the dentist and disallow-Salmon. The court gave judgement ed the counter-claim.

Vermont Town Doesn't Have Enough Pupils for Schools

CHITTENDEN, VT.—At a time when most communities are worried about overcrowded school buildings, Chittenden has an even more pressing problem for the opposite reason.

There aren't enough pupils to fill the $500,000 Frederic Duclos Barstow memorial school. Upkeep of the structure strains the town budget each year. With 379 residents, the town can fill only 89 of the school's 200 classroom seats.

Under the will of multimillionaire William S. Barstow, the school may go to Middlebury college "if it does not fulfill its purpose."

Sedan Once Used by Hitler Located in Syracuse Garage

SYRACUSE, N. Y. — A black, bullet-proof convertible sedan used by Adolf Hitler in his heyday, was located in a garage here where it was left by two American promoters of exhibitions to raise funds for French war orphans. There was a $200 storage bill.

Police tracked down the car at the request of a law firm retained by an Englishman said to have leased the car to the promoters. The car was originally seized by GI's at Berchtesgaden, Germany.

Patient Deer Winds up As Trophy of Huntsman

MONTGOMERY, MICH.—Lowell Hawkins can thank a patient deer for his success on a first hunt.

He saw a 10-point buck grazing with a herd of cattle and called conservation officials.

"No," said the conservation department. "You can't shoot it because you don't have a license, and besides, you must use buckshot for deer."

Hawkins drove into town and got the license and buckshot. The deer was waiting in the pasture when he returned and he dropped it with one shot.

New Plymouth Features Beauty, Performance, Safety and Comfort

Brilliant new styling is combined with outstanding riding comfort, increased roominess, and sweeping mechanical improvements in the new line of Plymouth automobiles.

Completely redesigned, the new Plymouth has a longer wheelbase for a better ride and more road stability, but less front and rear overhang for easier parking and garaging. While the silhouette has been lowered and the width decreased, there is more head and leg room and seats are wider. Typical of Plymouth's many refinements is the ignition-starter combination, with which a turn of the key starts the engine.

The new Plymouths are sleek in appearance. New rear-end styling provides a graceful balance with the horizontal grille lines which emphasize the broadness of the front. Fenders which blend perfectly into body lines are nevertheless separate and detachable, thus avoiding sheet metal panels so costly to repair or replace.

The new Plymouth line includes nine distinct automobiles. Special deluxe and deluxe types are on a 118-inch wheelbase, one inch longer than last year's. Special deluxe models are: four-door sedan, club coupe, convertible club coupe and station wagon. In the deluxe group are the four-door sedan and the club coupe. In addition, Plymouth will build three deluxe models on a brand new 111-inch wheelbase, a two-door sedan, a three-passenger coupe, and a new body type, the Suburban.

The 97-horsepower engine has improved performance and efficiency with a new design cylinder head which increases compression ratio to 7 to 1. A new chrome plated compression piston ring reduces cylinder wear and provides greater protection during the break-in period. There are improved oil rings for greater oil economy, while a newly-designed intake manifold induces quicker, smoother engine warm-up and produces faster throttle response.

Body styling which produces greater passenger room without excessive bulk also increases visibility. V-type windshields have 37 percent more area and provide excellent vision without distortion. Windshield wipers clear 61.5 percent greater area and the rear window is 35.4 percent larger.

YOU TOO CAN BE A MEDICAL TECHNICIAN

Montgomery- Would you like to become a registered medical technician?

If so, you should prepare to take the examinations to be given Saturday, April 2, by the Alabama Board of Medical Technician Examiners. If you pass, you will be able to add the little R.M.T. to your name.

Those wishing to take the examinations or to obtain information regarding them have been requested to write to the Alabama Board of Medical Technician Examiners, 519 Dexter Ave., Montgomery 4, Alabama.

The place where the April 2 examinations will be given has not yet been selected, Miss Whitfield said.

IMPORTANT TO PLANT SWEETPOTATOES EARLY

Auburn, Ala.- Sweetpotatoes require a growing season of at least 120 days to make satisfactory yields.

Experiments over a three-year period in South Alabama showed that potatoes dug 105 days after planting yielded 70 bushels per acre. At 123 days the yield was 147 bushels. Eighteen additional days had more than doubled the yield. And 135 days after planting, the yield was 198 bushels.

John Bagby, A.P.I. Extension Service marketing specialist, points to these results to show the importance of early planting, especially for the crop which is to be dug and sold as green potatoes on the market.

Sweetpotato plants should be set by April 20 if they are to have a 120-day growing season and be ready for market by the middle of August when prices are usually highest.

Vine cuttings for the main fall crop should be set by June 15.

MORE MILK IS NEEDED DURING WINTER MONTHS

To market more milk when it is highest in price, J. R. Parrish, A.P.I. Extension Service dairy specialist, says that Alabama dairymen should plan to meet the winter demand.

He explains that this can be done by growing more winter grazing, grain, and hay for winter feeding. Also, winter milk will increase if more cows are bred to freshen during the fall or early winter months.

MORE THAN TWO A DAY DIE OF TB

Montgomery, Ala — Tuberculosis killed Alabamians in November at an average rate of more than two a day.

The State Department of Health revealed today that 67 tuberculosis deaths were reported during that 30-day period. Thirty-five of these were of white people and 32 of Negroes.

Veterans' Benefits

Vocational rehabilitation under Public Law 16 is available for eligible, disabled World War II veterans in need of vocational training.

To be eligible, the veteran must have a service-connected disability of at least 10 per cent, due to World War II service, or must be retired from such service because of disability. In either case, a need must exist for vocational training to overcome the handicap caused by the disability.

Through this benefit, the veterans works toward a definite job objective to create employability. Advisement and guidance is mandatory to make certain that the veteran does not become a square peg in a round hole.

Necessary training expenses are paid and required special equipment is furnished.

There is a minimum monthly allowance of $65 for the veteran without dependents or $90 for a veteran with dependents. If the veteran is in full-time institutional training the monthly allowance is $75 if there are no dependents; $105 if there is one dependent; and $120 if there is more than one dependent.

The subsistence when added to compensation payments received by the veteran must equal $105 per month for a veteran who has no dependents and who is rated at less than 30 per cent disability; or $115 per month for a veteran who has dependents and who is rated at less than 30 per cent disability.

Veterans rated at 30 per cent or more disability must have their subsistence and compensation total $115 per month for veterans without dependents, or $135 for veterans with dependents. Minimum amounts are increased in each case for additional dependents.

Veterans who have a disability rating of 60 per cent or more receive a special allowance for dependents.

In the case of a veteran receiving pay for training on the job, the subsistence is reduced in accordance with the journeyman wage rate and the trainee wages received.

Full information on all veterans benefits can be obtained at your local Veterans Administration office or from any service officer of any service organization.

This is the sixth of a series of articles on benefits for veterans and their dependents appearing every Thursday in the Chilton County News.

GO TO CHURCH ON SUNDAY

Our Greatest Asset

Have you a heart? Of course you have. And yet it is not really your own. For hearts were given us, that we might give them away. If you have come to yourself, you know that your heart belongs to the child whom you love. It is only when we have lost ourselves that we forget; that we try to satisfy these loving hearts with things. Not even gold or precious stones will long satisfy the hearts of men. Not even grown women and men will permanently satisfy us; we were made to be lovers of children. Only after they come into the house do we really have a home. So our children are the spiritual assets of every life and of every home.

How true must this be in the life of the nation! Why did the Pioneers seek a home in this new land? Surely not primarily for themselves, but for their children. Why do you toil through the long, hot day? Only partly for yourself and for the things that will satisfy your appetite. Children make our lives worth living; and they remain our real reason for being, no matter how old they may become.

How foolish then to deceive ourselves into serving other earthly causes! Like the great Father in Heaven we were made for loving; love is the very essence of our nature. God is love; man at his best also is love. And only our children give us adequate room for loving.

The future of our nation is with our children; the Kingdom belongs to them. Why not set them in the very midst of our planning and of our hoping for the future? We shall build wisely if we care not only for their physical well being, but even more for the furnishing of their minds and hearts. What great thoughts are we putting into their minds? What noble souls are we teaching them to love and to cherish? They are our insurance for the days ahead; they alone will be able to bring to pass the dreams that have urged us on. Let's invest our best in our greatest asset; the child of today; the woman and the man of tomorrow.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

PLEASANT GROVE METHODIST

We had a good crowd out for Sunday School Sunday. We are very sorry that Rev. J. W. Gibson is on the sick list. We sure did miss him teaching the adult class Sunday and wish him a speedy recovery.

Rev. Rountree's little daughter had a birthday party at her home in Walnut Creek Community Saturday afternoon. Those who attended from this community were: Mrs. A. R. Scott and daughters, Shirley and Fay, Mrs. Arthur Henley and daughter, Linda; Mrs. John Earl Hosey and sons, James Lewis and John Douglas; Mrs. Wilson Atkinson and sons, Billy Charles and Franky. All who attended reported a nice time.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Thomas from Selma, Ala., were the Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Clack of Clanton spent a short while in this community Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Scott and family, Mrs. Lula Best and Mr. James Hosey attended the Youth Rally at the First Methodist Church in Clanton Saturday night.

Mrs. Mark Hosey is spending a few days in Montgomery with her sister, Mrs. J. W. Foshee, who is ill.

Sgt. Raymond Drake arrived from Germany Sunday morning. Mrs. Drake and little son who has been living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Hosey, left with him to go to Greenville, Ala. Upon their return they will be at home in Montgomery.

ATTENTION! Choir practice will be held Thursday night instead of Friday night at the home of Mrs. A. R. Scott. Everyone remember the change of time and be there promptly at 7:00 p.m. to practice.

Saturday night is our regular preaching service. This week is dedication week. Our dedication service will be held in with our regular preaching service. Everybody is cordially invited to attend these services.

NEW SALEM CHURCH

The Thursday night singing got off to a good start here last week. Everyone present seemed to enjoy it and received a blessing.

The directors were as follows: Russell Bean, Eva Jo Bean, Mr. Bill Cox from Clanton, Mr. Avery from Liberty Hill, Hoyt Martin from Union Grove, Doc Harris, Mrs. Bulia Bean, Rev. Jesse Mitchell and his trio. We were very glad to have them all.

Next Thursday night, March 17th, the singing will be at Mt. Carmel. Let us urge you everyone to go out and attend these Thursday night singings, for we believe you will truly receive a blessing.

Let's remember that Sunday is our regular preaching day. Let's everyone help our pastor's feelings by filling the house for both the morning and evening services.

THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

By "Tuck"

We were very sorry to hear about Harold Jones' accident the other day, but they say he's going to pull through okey. So I guess we don't have to worry.

By the way, Virgil Lowery was in that wreck too, but he didn't get a scratch. Funny thing, isn't it?

I thought Mrs. McRae wanted our autograph the other day, but it turned out that she just wanted to see who and how many ate in the lunchroom. How do you like that?

Hey, Keeds, I don't think that carnival this week helps you folks get your lessons every night, does it?

Oh yeah, we had a pretty good party down at the Country Club last Friday, didn't we, Joe Douglas?

That Glee Club party Wednesday night was a lotta fun, wasn't it, Keeds? Sometimes I, wonder about those guys down there, though, they'll do practically anything, won't they?

Pat Huddleston, have you noticed the way Marion Deaton is looking at you lately? Man, he's sure got it bad. (And I oughta know, too.)

I think Ann Huddleston had better look out in fifth period Civics class. Mrs. Griffin is going to get you, Ann. (Not to mention who else she's going to get.)

By the way, Joe Douglas Grooms, since when did you stop liking parties? Something musta hit you on the head, brother! (Confidentially, folks, I really don't believe he means that.) Maybe he's just saying it because he likes attending (but who doesn't?)

Lee Moore seems to have quite a few girl's eyes and some girls even say he's cute. Oh well, some have it, some don't. (Dadgummit!)

Say, those guys that cleaned the chewing gum up off the walls really did a good job at it, didn't they, kids? And I'm sure we all appreciate it very much.

Those two things the cheer leaders gave the school ought to come in handy this year at the football games, or any other game for that matter, shouldn't it, folks?

Lenore Oglesby, it doesn't look like Sonny Gaylor is paying enough attention to you, does it? Well, maybe he's just a little too busy. (But, how busy can you get??)

SPRING-BURNED PINES INVITE PINE BEETLES

Auburn, Ala.- "Farmers should take every precaution to keep fire out of their pine woodlands this spring," warns I. R. Martin,- A.P.I. Extension Service forester.

Spring fires do more damage than fall fires because spring-burned pines are more readily attacked by the southern pine beetle.

Many trees burned in the spring would ordinarily "pull through." However, fire along with the bugs usually do a complete job of killing trees when they are burned in the spring.

MAKING WISE USE OF ALL FARM LAND

Many Alabama farmers have not completed their plans for using all their farm land in 1949.

D. R. Harbor, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist, declares that time spent making complete and definite plans for use of all cleared land will be worth more than any other planning job.

He says to first consider your land divided into three parts. Devote the first part to production of crops for home use and crops to be fed to livestock for home use. Next, give consideration to the land to be planted in cash crops such as cotton and peanuts. The land devoted to these crops will be limited by labor or government controlled acreage.

Naturally, the remaining land requires the most study and planning. It should be devoted to the production of feed crops for livestock to be sold for cash to supplement the income from cotton and peanuts.

Noted Lyric Soprano Will Sing Here Friday Night, April 1

CAROLYN LONG

Carolyn Long, Lyric Soprano, who sings here Friday night, April 1st, at the First Baptist Church is our latest All-American singer—by birth, training and talent.

This beautiful and gifted young artist fulfilled a staggering first season of concerts during 1946-47, when she crossed the United States twice, covering 32,000 miles.

Born in Cambridge, Maryland, Carolyn was encouraged in her music from the start. Her parents were both amateur musicians, her mother a pianist, her father a singer; Carolyn combined both their talents. At sixteen she was awarded a two-year scholarship in piano at the Peabody Conservatory of Music, soon afterwards she received another scholorship in voice, winning over 83 contestants. From that time, she concentrated on singing.

Her professional career started in the fall of 1946 when she appeared as star vocalist of the Straus Festival. The second half of the season saw her successful introduction into the recital field, and the coming season will hear the splendid young singer in many concerts stretching all the way from New Foundland to the Pacific Coast.

Jemison Educator Honored At Banquet

For his twenty-five years of faithful and outstanding service as principal of Jemison High School, Mr. J. A. Peterson was honored with a banquet, given by the Jemison High School Faculty on March 5, 1949, in the library of the school. The momentous occassion came as a complete surprise to Mr. Peterson.

Present for the banquet were former students, townspeople, educators, from other schools, some representatives of the student body, friends, trustees of the school and their wives, some members of Chilton County Board of Education, the lunchroom workers, building custodian, and the entire faculty together with their wives or husbands.

Serving as toastmaster for this delightful affair was Mr. J. R. Ekblad, faculty member of the school for a number of years and a close friend of Mr. Peterson.

The invocation was given by Rev. Homer Carroll of the faculty. The speakers included Miss Helen Collins, representing the student body, who presented a gift to Mr. Peterson from the students. Helen lauded him for his ability and said that his daily living was a shining example for all students. "Mr. Peterson," she said, "we love and respect you. You are so considerate of us. You have driven many, many miles to the remote corners of Chilton County to take sick students home and always without pay; for this we are most grateful."

Mayor Fred Smith of Jemison, and a member of the Board of Education, praised Mr. Peterson for his willingness to serve his community and called him the "Number One Man of Jemison." Mr. J. H. Boockholdt, Chilton County Superintendent of Education also reviewed some of Mr. Peterson's achievements. He thought it wasn't unusual for a man to teach twenty-five years, but that it was unusual to remain in one school for that long.

Mr. Luther Little, a former Superintendent of Education, spoke most appropriately on "His Contributions to Society through Education". One of the contributions mentioned has benefited the entire county. It reduced the number of school districts to two for taxing purposes in Chilton County instead of forty.

Mr. Ekblad, speaking on behalf of the faculty, commended Mr. Peterson for his unfailing effort to offer valuable assistance to his entire corps of teachers, and said that his success is due to his close adherence of the Golden Rule. Mr. Ekblad presented him with a beautiful Masonic ring from the faculty.

Mr. Peterson came to Jemison from Coosa County. He received his B.S. Degree from Alabama Polytechnic Institute and his M.A. Degree from the University of Alabama. He has enjoyed additional study at Peabody College and Columbia University. In 1924 the school had an enrollment of 100 students, some of whom were transported in three "Model T" buses. Today there are thirteen modern buses in use at the school and 1,016 students. This is another tribute to his efforts.

Mr. Peterson was married in 1924 to the former Miss Etta Fulmer. They have one son living, Edgar. Mrs. Peterson was presented a lovely corsage during the evening and recognized as a valuable aid to her husband.

Music was furnished by Miss Mary Edna Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood.

Very effective decorations carrying out St. Patrick's Day idea and color scheme, were used.

WE DON'T AND WE DO—

We can sympathize little with the young men who last week lost the money at the Street Fair that visited here. We believe anyone who would go to a place like that and wager money against such odds as a gambling machine usually offers, should lose his money.

We do compliment highly our local officials on their watchfulness in protecting others from the same fate. When the Mayor and Councilmen found they had made a bad bargain in letting the carnival come here, they promptly revoked their licenses and bid them goodbye. That, we believe, was as it should be.

Too, we understand, the City Fathers learned a lesson. The next time someone applies for a license to bring entertainment here they can be assured they will be thoroughly investigated before their permits are OKed.

Clanton is fortunate in having a governing body that is "on it's toes" where the public good is concerned.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?—

What would you do if a tornado hit your home next week and demolished all your possessions? Chances are you'd be in dire need of help. Such a thing might happen.

There's nothing we can do about tornadoes, but there is a way that we can be assured of help in such cases. We can do our share for the Red Cross.

Last year a small tornado hit in Clay County. Hundreds of people were left suddenly without food and shelter, many of them needing medical attention. The Red Cross came to the rescue. The national office immediately sent $27,000 from the disaster fund to help these folks in distress. There have been similar situations in Chilton County. Your contributions are the only thing that can keep this work going.

According to Herman LeCroy, Chairman, the local committee is far behind in their collections. A solicitor will be around to see you in the next few days, if not already. Remember, you too can help through the Red Cross.

What's the PROBLEM and what's the OPPORTUNITY
ON THIS FARM?

NON-PRODUCTIVE
PRODUCING AREA

The secret of profitable farming and good rural living is making every acre contribute its full share to farm income. Many acres, themselves not income producers, can be used in such ways as to make other enterprises on the farm produce greater income—and cash income at that.

Alabama still imports large quantities of beef, veal, pork, milk and milk products, poultry and eggs. All are good cash crops which, with intelligent management, are being produced profitably in Alabama.

The Agricultural Experiment Station of Alabama Polytechnic Institute has conducted experiments on many types of farms which prove that many acres not paying their keep can be made to contribute to farm income. The Extension Service of the Institute has reports on these experiments as well as others. Many successful Alabama farmers have studied the facts in these reports and applied them to their farming practice and have found that they work.

See your county agent—ask him to go over your acres with you—he'll have some helpful suggestions to make more of them income-producing.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Last night I saw the moon come up,
'A shining o'er the sea.
I saw him light the world around,
As light as light could be.
I saw him smile and shake his head
And seems I heard him say:
Cheer up! Don't be so gloomy,
Help me laugh the night away.

That's from spending a week-end on the Gulf Coast and ought to be a lesson to you to stay away from such places. Moons, and water, and soft music always does things like that to a fellow.

It doesn't pay to sit and pine,
When you can scatter gladness.
Cheer up! Look on the brighter side,
And don't give way to sadness.
Just say tomorrow will come alright
And so to-morrow will—
For that is why I shine so bright
This world, with joy to fill.

What did I tell you. It's got us. We got to watch this thing and be more careful. It's writing stuff like that, that causes folks to get talked about.

And soon a cloud came blowing up—
And hid the moon from view.
But after awhile, passed on it's way,
Just what we said 'twould do.
And then the world was bright again,
As light, as light could be.
And the round old moon kept shining-
Just a shining o'er the sea.

Well, forgive us. We got it out of our system and we're glad. It probably won't happen for another year so you readers DO have something to be thankful for.

Chief Anderson tells us that he trys never to give an out-of-town motorist a ticket for violating traffic rules if he can help it. We think he is to be commended for this. Nothing makes a motorist passing through, who is of course ignorant of our traffic rules and regulations, knock our little City more than to get a traffic ticket while he is trying to give our merchants some business.

We sympathize deeply with Mrs. Joe Minshew and the children in the loss of their husband and father. Joe died last Friday in a hospital at New Orleans. He had been in bad health for some time. The loss to the family, we know, is beyond our comprehension, but our sympathy is no less for the family in their great loss.

"Lady, if you give us a nickel my little brother will imitate a hen." "What will he do?" asked the lady,—"Cackle like a hen?" "Naw. He wouldn't do a cheap imitation like that. He'll eat a woim!"

"What is your age?" asked the Magistrate. "Remember, you are on oath." he cautioned. "Twenty-one and some months", the woman answered. "How many months?" "One-hundred and eight."

Veterans' Benefits

Hospital care and medical treatment are available, under certain conditions, for most wartime veterans who have been discharged under conditions other than dishonorable.

Hospitalization: Emergency cases have first priority for admission to Veterans Administration Hospitals. Next to emergency cases, highest priority is given to veterans with a service connected disability and who need hospital treatment for this disability.

Next priority is given to eligible veterans who are suffering from permanent disabilities and certain diseases, such as tuberculosis and neuro-psychiatric cases.

Eligible veterans who do not have a service connected disability, but who need hospital treatment will receive this treatment if beds are available and if the veterans sign a statement to the effect that they cannot afford the expense of private hospital care.

This benefit provides complete care in VA and certain other Federal hospitals. Care elsewhere may be authorized by the VA for service-connected disabilities under certain conditions.

Outpatient Medical Treatment: The veteran must need treatment for a service connected disability and must have authorization from the VA for the treatment.

This benefit provides for medical treatment (not requiring hospitalization) at a Veterans Administration medical office, or by an approved private physician in the veteran's home community. This includes supplying necessary medicine.

Outpatient Dental Treatment: The veteran must be in need of treatment for a service-connected dental condition and must have authorization from the Veterans Administration for the specific treatment before it is begun.

This benefit provides dental treatment at a VA dental office or by an approved private dentist in the veteran's home community.

To be eligible for any of these benefits, the veteran's discharge must be under conditions other than dishonorable.

Full information on all veterans benefits can be obtained from your nearest Veterans Administration office or from the service officer of any service organization.

This is the seventh of a series of articles appearing every Thursday in the Chilton County News on benefits for veterans and their dependents.

Miscellaneous benefits will be discussed next.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

Trichonosis

Though the death rate from trichinosis is not extremely high, 6 to 16 per cent of those people infected, more persons have this disease than is realized. About 30 per cent of our population has trichinosis at one time or another. At present there is no adequate treatment; so prevention becomes doubly important.

Trichinosis is carried by trichina which is a tiny worm large enough to be seen with an ordinary magnifying glass. The embryo worm lodges in a muscle of the hog and encase itself in a lemon-shaped cyst like a cocoon. When this embryo goes into the human digestive tract, the outer covering of the cyst dissolves and the worm begins to reproduce. A female may produce as many as one thousand embryos. These embryos go through the walls of the intestines and are carried by the blood to all parts of the body where they lodge themselves in a muscle. These embryos may wait ten to twenty years to complete their life cycles. Rats and hogs are susceptible and herein lies the danger.

Danger signs that may indicate trichinosis are nausea, diarrhea and fever. If the disease is found within five days, purging the intestinal tract may free the body of embryos. After the embryos reach the blood stream and begin to burrow into muscles, the person has sore muscles, stiffness and swelling. Later he may become delirious. The way may be prepared for pneumonia, pleurisy or boils.

Prevention is easy. Cook all pork thoroughly. Cooking kills the trichina and renders it harmless. Be careful with hamburger for it may have some pork in it. Just be sure it is cooked well. Any pork product bought in a store and which is to be eaten without further cooking should always carry the federal inspection stamp. Feeding pigs only cooked garbage will lessen the liklihood of their becoming infected.

Thorough cooking of pork is the only sure way of entirely avoiding trichinosis.

RUNNING WATER FOR TURKEYS

To grow 100 turkeys to 26 weeks of age, it will take about 2,078 gallons of water. The weight of that much water is 16,624 pounds or 8 1-4 tons. For this reason, running water is highly desirable where turkeys are grown.

Cut fresh fruits or raw vegetables just before serving to avoid exposure to air which destroys the Vitamin C.

CAMELLIAS

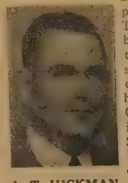
To treat camellias for scale and tea scale, apply Volck as soon as danger of freezing or frost is past. Be sure to wet both tops and bottoms of the leaves.

When washing walls don't let water trickle down your arm. Wrap a three-inch strip of absorbent cotton around your working arm and hold in place with rubber bands.

The Conversion Of Saul

Acts 9;1-22

Jesus Christ had finished his work on earth, and had taken his place with the Father, and had received the glory he had with the Father before the world was. He had left the responsibility of carrying on the work of his kingdom to his disciples. They were endued with power from on high to be his witnesses in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth. The Jewish church had been fully established, and then scattered by persecution. Samaria had received the Gospel by the ministry of Phillip. Shortly afterward Peter opened the door of the Gospel to the Gentiles. God must have a man to carry on the proclamation of the Gospel to the Gentiles in the "uttermost part of the earth." . . . . No one suspected that man to be the young Saul of Tarsus, at whose feet were laid the garments of the men who stoned Stephen to death.



A. T. HICKMAN

The Gospel of Christ is the power of God unto Salvation to every one that believeth. And God is all-Sovereign. His will, power and justice must be respected by man. Even though Saul was bent on destroying the Christians, God had His eye upon him. Even though Saul consented to the death of Stephen, and held the men's garments while they stoned him to death, yet there was something about Stephen's faith, and the noble way he died, Saul could not soon forget. The Holy Spirit had come into the world to reprove of sin(and of righteousness, and of judgement. So while Saul was on his way to Demascus to arrest and bring to Jerusalem Christians, perhaps for the purpose of putting them to death. The Holy Spirit sent conviction to his heart, and it did its painful work. Saul was knocked down to the ground, and heard Jesus calling his name, informing the young man that it was He, (Jesus) that was being persecuted. With this revelation of the Son of God, Saul came to the end of the way. For three days and nights he ate and drink nothing, but prayed unto his Lord. Confessed all his sins, and surrendered his whole life into the hands of the Christ of Calvary. He became that chosen vessel to bear the name of Christ to the Gentile nations, and to kings, and to the children of Israel . . . . No one can read and study the conversion of Saul, who later was named Paul, without acknowledging the great power of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. That Gospel is alive today. —Amen.

Letters to the Editor

The following letter was sent to us by Mr. Blalock for publication. (The Editor).

Mr. J. A. Blalock,
Route 5,
Clanton, Alabama

Dear Mr. Blalock;

A copy of your letter to the Birmingham News-Age Herald regarding the problem of stream pollution on the Coosa River due to the newsprint plant has been referred to me.

We have gone over this problem of stream pollution very carefully and I want to assure you that a modern, up-to-date mill such as we are building can be operated without killing the fish or interfering with the fish life in the Coosa River.

We intend to utilize all the modern contrivances in this plant which will eliminate this stream pollution problem. I have gone over this problem with the engineers at the State Board of Health at Montgomery and I will be very glad to go over the situation with you if you are interested in coming over here and sitting down with me.

I spent fifteen years on the Stream Pollution Committee for the State of Wisconsin and I am quite familiar with all of the problems.

Last week I was down on the river fishing above Lay Dam and I caught 7 of the finest black bass I have ever seen. I expect to be able to go fishing at any time after the mill is in operation and do equally as well as I did last week.

Sincerely,
A. G. Wakeman,
V-Pres. & Gen. Mgr.
Coosa River News

Dear Mr. Tucker;

I want to thank you again for giving us the papers. We enjoy reading them. We want you to come visit our Club each Friday from 11 to 12 o'clock. The name of our club is "The Better Citizen's Club." We decided we wanted to be better boys and girls.

Yours truly,
Eugene Martin

●

Dear Mr. Tucker;

I am one of the boys who takes the paper home and I enjoy reading them. Someday I hope to repay you for this kindness.

I appreciate your sending the nice paper to the Better Citizen's Club.

Yours truly,
Jimmie McKee

●

Dear Mr. Tucker;

We thought we would write you again and thank you for giving us the papers. If you did not give us the papers we would not learn many things. I like the part about "Ben's Column." Mrs. Warr said that if we would think of our work as much as we do about the papers we would learn a lot.

Yours truly,
Obra Wilson

●

Dear Mr. Tucker;

I want to thank you for the papers you give us. I don't get a paper but I am glad to see some of the pupils get papers that do not have any in their homes. I want to thank you again for the papers you give us every week. I am in the Better Citizen's Club and I am thirteen years old and I am in the sixth grade. I am getting along alright in school. It is because I have Mrs. Warr for my teacher.

Your friend,
James Minor

How's Your Listening Time?

Buck Howell and I were in Luverne last week. Dropped in at Bob's Cafe where some friends were sitting around talking about whether to sell hogs now or wait.

Buck plunges right into the discussion. He's lecturing away when suddenly they all stand up and start stomping their feet like it was an Indian war dance.

I'm flabbergasted. But Buck only looked sheepish and explains, "Guess I was talking again, when I should-of been listening. When a person's talking time gets out of line with his listening time around here, the gang reminds him by standing up and stomping."

From where I sit, that's a good system. Everyone has a right to his opinions—but others have a right to theirs, too—whether it's deciding between to sell or not to sell, apple pie or cherry pie, or a glass of mellow beer or cider. Life's more interesting that way, and hang it if you don't sometimes learn something!

FERTILIZER TALK

Farmers in our section always puts mixed fertiliz' under their cotton and side-dresses with natchel Chilean soda. Three years ago, they couldn't get no soda and had to leave off the side-dress. That year for the first time we had plenty of rust.

Next year, we got our soda again and done like we always done before. And we didn't get no rust at all! Somebody say the soda in natchel nitrate acts jes like potash on rust. Maybe that's how come we got rust when we didn't get to use no soda.

CLANTON FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA VISIT MAPLESVILLE

On March 15, some of the second year home economics girls, who are members of the Future Homemakers of America, from Chilton County High School, visited the Maplesville F.H.A. to initiate those desiring to join the organization. We were glad to initiate sixty-eight girls that day. 34 from Clanton and 34 from Maplesville.

Those taking active part in the initiation were the officers from Clanton and eight other girls who gave the purposes of the organization. Joan Aussant gave the introduction speech on what the organization stands for.

The officers were seated around a table covered with a white cloth. At each end of the table was a red candle representing courage; in the center were four white candles representing purity and the age of the organization. In the background was the emblem, a house supported by two hands; this represents that the future home is in the hands of the youth. The meeting was adjourned by both groups singing the F.H.A. song.

After the initiation, the Clanton girls visited the new home economics building, which is nicely and conveniently equipped.

We were honored to have Miss Leacie Newell, home economics official from Montevallo College, to sit in on the initiation.

The courtesy of Mrs. Pierson, Maplesville home economics teacher, and the girls was greatly appreciated, for we did have a wonderful trip.—Freda Mims, Secretary.

Woman Has Strange Job

TALLAHASSEE, FLA.— Slender Mrs. Celeste Roess, who likes to take alligators alive because "they look so pathetic when they're dead," has a job few men and fewer women would envy.

She is right-hand assistant to Ross Allen, Florida reptile authority. Among other things, the job requires long nights in a frail canoe hunting alligators in the north Florida swamps.

Want to know how alligator hunters go about their business? This is the way Mrs. Roess and Allen do it.

Towards sunset they climb into a jeep with a canoe strapped on top. Arriving at a likely pond about nightfall, they sweep the water with a flashlight. If they pick up the red gleam which is the unblinking eye of an alligator, they get to work.

Quietly they put their canoe in the water. The first task is to catch a small 'gator—little enough to be held in one hand and shaken.

Baby Grunts

The shaking makes the baby grunt. This attracts the bigger ones.

With the baby caught and grunting for all it is worth, the canoe moves silently towards larger game. Mrs. Roess steers by Mr. Allen's hand signals as he prepares to make the capture.

As the canoe nears an alligator Mr. Allen lunges with a rope noose attached to a long pole. The loop tightens around the alligator's neck—and there's a brief flurry.

Then comes the most dangerous part. An angry alligator diving under a canoe can turn it over easily. Swimming in the dark in the same lake with an annoyed alligator isn't one of the safer methods of earning a living.

Holding the reptile at a comfortable distance once he's on the end of the rope is a major consideration. It keeps Mrs. Roess paddling energetically until the big reptile is brought to shore.

Once pulled up the bank, the alligator is tied, and the first job is to lash its jaws together. An alligator can break the bones of a hand or foot if it gets one in its mouth.

That is the procedure if the alligator is to be taken alive. Allen captures some for shipment to his reptile institute at Silver Springs in central Florida.

She Answered Ad

Others are shot. Their skins are sold, their stomach contents analyzed for scientific purposes and their meat eaten. It tastes like a cross between fish and pork.

How did Mrs. Roess—in her 30's and the mother of four children—get started on her unusual career?

Pretty prosaically. All she did was answer a newspaper advertisement for a "laboratory assistant." That was five years ago. Her "laboratory work," which began with helping to process snake venom for medical purposes, since has broadened to include almost everything to do with reptiles.

The narrowest escape she had in her dealings with alligators came when she invaded an alligator nest and scooped up an armful of little ones.

"There I was with my arms full of the babies," she said, "when I heard the mother alligator coming. I only got out of that with the help of God."

She said she is not afraid of alligators, but that she certainly respects them.

British Health Programs Come in for Wide Kidding

LONDON.—The national health service, which now accords free medical care to every Briton who wants it, is being subject to considerable ribbing, as is Health Minister Aneurin Bevan, who presides over its benign operations. Doubtless the majority of people here approve of its provisions, but at the same time the English have a stubborn tradition of independence and a detestation of regimentation, even one so enlightened as that implicit in free medical attention.

Widely circulating in England are neatly printed "application forms" satirizing the national health service, the recipients of which are urged to fill out immediately and forward to Minister Bevan. Aneurin Bevan is not a humorless official but he is beginning to get surfieted with the mountains of these kidding applications on his desk. In part, the form reads:

"I. hereby make application for a permit to be ill.

"2. I declare that I have broken my (a) arm (b) leg (c) back (d) engagement;

"3. I declare that I fully expect to be sick again in . . . . hours;

"4. I declare that I am afraid I shall (a) die (b) not die;

"5. I declare that I am in (a) bed (b) desperation (c) my coffin;

"6. Does your wife work?

"This form when completed should be submitted to the local health officer. Should the applicant die before the Permit to be Ill is issued, a fresh application for a permit to be declared dead should be submitted by a relative or creditor."

Radio Ramblings

(By JESSE CULP)

There was a great big crowd up at the fiddlers' convention at the courthouse last Saturday night. Yours truly had a fine time. There was plenty of good talent, and the judges had a difficult time deciding the winners. Henry Cleckler took first place in the fiddlers' contest; the Lazy River Boys were adjudged the best band. Both these, and the other two winning fiddlers— Odis Connell and I. O. Blalock —have been scheduled to appear on "Jesse's Jamboree" this week. Incidentially, the Lazy River Boys consist of Roland Ellison, Walter Mims, and "Tex" Lockhart. Morris Mims won the buck dancing contest, and Joyce Easterling took the "pretty girl" cake.

Last week's lucky tag numbers on "Tag Time" — from Tuesday of last week through last Monday — were: 14C 1386; 14C 774; 14C 1786; 14C 2040; and 14C 173. The program is heard each day at 12:05. On every program a tag number is read. The person holding that number may have a free wash and grease job simply by driving into the sponsor's place of business.

A new program for the women folks is "It's a Woman's World," heard on WKLF every weekday except Thursday at 2:15. It originates at Alabama College in Montevallo.

THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

By "Tuck"

The Glee Club party last Wednesday night was a great success, wasn't it keeds? And boy, I don't believe I've ever se[illegible] so many people at one party. I'm sure everyone enjoyed it to the last minute.

Jearlyne Studdard is really getting around lately, Isn't she, folks? But, I guess that just happens to be her business.

Mrs. Griffin sure does have a lotta company every evening after school, doesn't she, Keeds? (Including myself)

It seems that some people, or one person, thinks that Annette Broadhead is playing too hard to get. How about it, Annette, are you or aren't you?

By the way, since I mentioned the MOORE'S HISTORY OF ALABAMA school books Miss Barton says no one has responded to it. How about it folks, if you have one would you mind turning it in to the Chilton County High School? We need them very badly and I'm sure the teachers would appreciate it very much.

Pat Broadhead, are you still trying to get Joe Phillip to, shall we say, look at you or have you quit trying? (Confidentially, Pat, I think I'd keep trying.)

If anyone hasn't already tried to talk Mrs. Snead out of anything, then don't Man, is she hard to deal with. (Especially in tests.)

You know what? There are some of the CUTEST little tattle tales in school that I've ever seen, especially in the Jr. III girl's class.

Lenore Oglesby sure doesn't pay enough attention to Sonny Gaylor, does she, Sonny?

Shelby Studdard, you've got Fred Thompson worrying about you now, so maybe y[illegible] better keep it up.

Marion De[illegible]ill has his sharp eye fixed on Pat Huddleston, and, if I may have the coura[illegible] that's some eye he's [illegible]ot there, too!

Fred Thompson was in English class the other day and Mrs. Mullins asked him if he had finished the book he was supposed to read. Fred said that he hadn't read it, but he knew what it was about.

Joanne Scott seems to be looking at Richard Easterling in a queer sort of way lately. How about it, Richard, do you or don't you?

Congratulations go to Jerry Studard this week for his election to the office of Vice-President of the National Beta Club of Alabama. He's really tops, and I'm sure we all wish you success, Jerry.

Billy Powell and Myron Levine and a few girls sure do have a good time in Civics eighth period. Now I wonder why?

What Flexible Parity Would Do To Farmers

That the new "Flexible" parity is a low parity is rapidly being discovered by many groups of farmers. Unless the price support law, the Agricultural Act of 1948, hastily passed by the 80th Congress is again changed, this "flexible" parity will automatically be extended to most major crops on January 1, 1950 while those already on the "flexible" basis face the prospect of being eliminated altogether.

While critics of the new support law charge that it would drop price floors from 90 percent of parity down to 60 percent of parity, its defenders like Senator Aiken and the Farm Bureau reply that the storable basic crops would not drop below 72 percent of parity if the farmers agree to cut production. Careful study of the law shows, however, that support levels for basic crops may be dropped below even the present 90 percent of parity level, and Sen. Aiken himself admitted that for many products (the non-storable Steagall crops) the new "flexible" parity may mean "no-parity" at all. Said Sen. Aiken

"For non-basic commodities, the Secretary is authorized to support prices from nothing at all up to 90 percent of parity."

Recomputes "Parity" Down

The new law will, unless changed, cause a further cut in support levels at the end of this year by figuring "parity" on the basis of a 10-year average in the place of the former 1909-14 fixed average. Not only will the 10-year moving average revise "parity" downward for most crops this year, but if farm prices are caught in a chronic squeeze such as occurred after World War I, "parity" will continue to drop each year. Thus instead of 90 percent or 100 percent of a fixed parity, the Hope-Aiken law threatens to substitute price support levels which would be 60 percent to 72 percent of a falling "parity."

In the face of mounting criticism, Rep. Cliff Hope (R. Kans.) who was a co-author of the price support law decided to throw his brainchild overboard. The law "has many faults," Hope admitted on Jan. 19 and, calling for congressional revision, he added:

"I think every important provision of the measure should be carefully reconsidered."

1950 COTTON ACREAGE MIGHT BE CONTROLLED

Auburn, Alabama- Many agricultural workers are expressing the belief that cotton acreage will be controlled next year.

This means that some farmers will plant less cotton. Of course, the next thing to think about is what to do with the land ordinarily devoted to cotton.

John Weeks, API Extension Service poultryman, says that it might be wise to consider records kept on Alabama hens for the last ten years. They show that 500 hens brought a farmer a gross income equivalent to 30 bales of cotton.

In most cases, a family can take care of 500 hens without additional help. Grain for the hens could come from one-third to one-half of 30 acres lost to cotton production.

LAND RECLAMATION SCHOOLS SCHEDULED

According to J. B. Wilson, A. P. I. Extension Service engineer, Alabama farmers have one million idle crop acres plus several million acres not in use because of improper drainage, stumps, trees, and gullies.

To help farmers put this land to work, eight land reclamation schools are being conducted in different sections of Alabama under the supervision of county agents and other A.P.I. Extension Service workers. Each school is designed to point out newest methods of reclaiming land so that farm leaders who attend school can carry information back to their respective counties.

Information given at each school is based on findings of the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station. Also, important information is being given on P.M.A. assistance,

WHAT COTTON MEANS TO ALABAMA PEOPLE

Auburn, Alabama- More than one-quarter million Alabama people, other than farmers, depend upon cotton directly or indirectly for all or a substantial part of their income. In 1948, Alabama cotton income amounted to more than $214,000,000.

"This indicates that cotton is big business," declares D. R. Harbor, API Extension Service agronomist.

He believes that cotton has a place on the Alabama farm where adapted land and labor are available and where use of good production practices will make high yields of good quality cotton. However, the acreage per farm will be limited by labor available for chopping and picking, or by controlled production.

The real challenge to Alabama farmers is to grow on their land, not in home food crops and cotton, the feed needed for livestock to be sold to supplement cotton income.

POULTRYMEN TO MEET AT SHOCCO SPRINGS

"The Alabama Poultry Association will sponsor its second annual poultry institute on May 30 through June 2," announces F. G. Bridges, President.

The meeting will be held at Shocco Springs near Talladega. Hatcherymen, growers, members of related industries, and educational groups will gather to thrash out problems faced by Alabama's poultry business.

The first meeting of this kind was held last year at Camp Mack. Those who attended the meeting described it as highly sucessful.

LIST OF "DON'TS" ON WAXING FLOORS

Auburn, Ala.- Much of the household flooring, whether hardwood or linoleum, is protected with wax.

"Naturally," says Alice Peavy, home management specialist, "there are right and wrong ways to apply wax."

She warns that wax should never be puddled on the floor unless it is picked up immediately. If the wax is left in a puddle, the spot will show on the finished floor.

Don't ever use a mop which contains traces of oil in polishing waxed floors. Even a trace of oil will soften the wax film and make dust and dirt stick to it.

Don't apply liquid wax by pouring it on the cloth you intend to use. Pour out the wax into a pan or dish first. Never pour the remainder back into the can. Contamination may cause the wax to spoil.

Don't apply liquid wax with a wadded cloth. Fold the cloth into a neat pad.

Finally, don't apply the wax with haphazard strokes or circles. Put it on with straight, even strokes.

BUTTER MAY BE STORED IN THE HOME FREEZER

Auburn, Ala.- Those who have surplus butter may store it in the home freezer for fresh keeping, according to [illegible] Curtis, API Extension Service food preservation specialist.

She says that butter can be stored in a freezer for six months or longer if it is of good quality. The butter should be wrapped in parchment paper to exclude air and then packed in a waxed carton.

HYBRID CORN VARIETIES

The following hybrid corn varieties are recommended by the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station. In North Alabama, plant Dixie 11, Dixie 17, Tennessee 10, Louisiana 468, Pfister's 630, North Carolina 1032, Pfister's 170, U.S. 13, and Funk's G-717. For Central Alabama, use Dixie 11, Dixie 17, Louisiana 468, and North Carolina 1032. In South Alabama, use the same varieties used in Central Alabama.

Canned foods should be stored in a cool, dark, and dry place where there will be as little deterioration as possible.

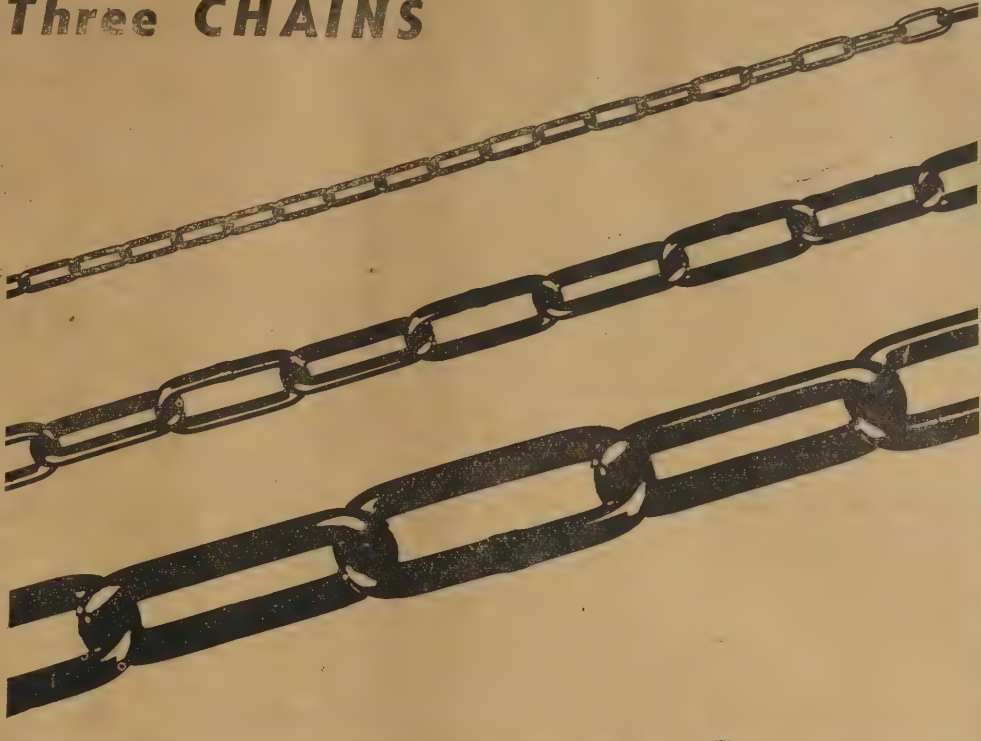
Three CHAINS



Chains! Chains! Chains! Great chains which draw the heavy loads of commerce! Middle-sized chains which we carry for pulling an automobile from the mud! Tiny chains which hold a cross, a precious gem, or a lovely cameo, suspended about my lady's neck! Of them all the old adage remains true, "No chain is stronger than its weakest link." For one weak link the great load of logs breaks adrift; for one weak link my car remains by the roadside; for one weak link something precious is lost, perhaps never to be recovered. Chains of character and of fellowship, habits meant to keep us fit for the day's tasks, influence on young life near and dear to us, religious and morals that will make us strong and dependable in difficult hours of living; these also depend on every link in the chain. Life is of a piece; every day is part of the week; every week fits into the month and the year; every year counts toward the everlastings.

Put the picture of the chains in the gallery of your daily meditation; stamp it indelibly upon the minds of children and youth. Shall habits we form from day to day hold us firmly in constructive toil, or in a community where we count so much? Can family and friends and neighbors depend on us when some difficult emergency appears? Do they know that we will be strong when the going is hard? Have we put goodness and integrity and genuineness and friendliness and goodwill and truthfulness into a chain of personal character that will not break when others are calling for our help? Am I the one person in a community chain which will stand strain and stress and trial? Or will women and men fear to trust me when they must have trustworthy persons at some great task? Will the chain of the years be strong, forged by faithful living? Good chains, strong chains, useful chains, dependable chains; how priceless they are! The Church will help you mold chains of character that will stand the test.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" —form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

BETA CLUB—

St. Patrick's Day Party

The Calera and Jemison Beta Clubs entertained the Clanton Beta Club with an Irish Party Thursday night, March 17th, in the Calera School library.

The bulletin board was cleverly decorated with a large shamrock welcoming the Betas, surrounded by Irish potatoes artistically dressed with four leaf clovers to resemble Irishmen.

The green lighting had a lovely effect on the refreshment table centered with beautiful colored folwers. Also carrying out the theme of the Irish Party were the refreshments which consisted of Irish potato chips, green and orange mints, pimento cheese and chicken salad sandwiches and cakes.

Everything was very delicious and enjoyed by all.

The games were carefully planned by the Jemison Betas.

As the group became acquianted they were divided into four Irish families, the O'Sheas, the O'Reilly's, the O'Grandys and the Flannigans.

During the evening the families competed for the winning prize. The O'Reillys won with 85 points. A green bag of candy was presented to Gene Reynolds of the Calera Chapter who was Pa O'Reilly.

THIRD ANNUAL BIG CAR AUTO RACES TO BE HELD IN BIRMINGHAM

Birmingham, Ala.-(Special) Birmingham's State Fair half-mile track will resound to roaring motors when the nation's top flight dirt track and speedway stars compete in the 3rd Annual Spring Championship big car auto races, Sunday afternoon, April 10, according to the announcement released today by R. H. McIntosh, Manager.

The fair park manager, further announced that National Speedways Inc., had been contracted to handle the promotion of the annual speed classic, which drew a record-breaking crowd last spring.

Frank Harris, secretary of the International Motor Contest Association, governing body of dirt track racing, placed his stamp of approval on the dirt track classic by issuing a sanction for a championship meet, whereby motors limited to 274 cubic inches will be allowed to compete.

Over 100 entry blanks have been mailed to leading speed stars in the United States and Canada in an effort to attract an all-star field for the inaugural outdoor sporting event of the 1949 season.

The championship meet will consist of seven events, with three heat races, time trials, an inverted match race and a 20-lap feature. Time trials will begin at 1:30 and the first competitive event at 2:30.

Roast meats at a low temperature to avoid shrinkage and loss of soluble proteins and Vitamin B in the drippings. A roast that is cooked slowly from the beginning will provide extra savings, the meat will be more juicy and tender, and the food value is higher.

Girls Forget Fears, Thanks To 2-Way Help

What to do for woman's oldest problem, functional monthly pain? Many a girl and woman has found the answer in CARDUI's 2-way help. You see, CARDUI may make things lots easier for you in either of two ways: (1) started 3 days before "your time" and taken as directed on the label, it should help relieve functional periodic pain; (2) taken throughout the month like a tonic, it should improve your appetite, aid digestion, and thus help build up resistance for the trying days to come. GUILFORD COLLEGE CHOIR OLDEST IN SOUTH

The Guilford College A Capella Choir, one of the best known collegiate musical organizations in the South, is now in its 21st season. This choir will appear Saturday night, April 2, in the First Baptist Church (auditorium) at 7:30 o'clock. Representing a college founded 111 years ago by the Society of Friends (Quakers), the A Capella Choir made its initial appearance at commencement in the Spring of 1929. Since then the choir has attempted to reflect the sincerity and friendliness of the small, student community of the college.

The members of Guilford's nationally known choir, who represent seven states, are chosen for their ability and interest in music. Specific training, including music theory, is required for permanent membership in the organization. The choir has always attempted to maintain efficiency in its musical standards for tonal fidelity, balance, and interpretation.

In more recent years the choir has made appearances at the White House and has given two programs for the "Wheel Chair" audience at Warm Springs, Ga. It has also given programs over national networks and has had Christmas selections recorded and rebroadcast during the holiday season.

This choir, which, as the name suggests, sings without accompaniment, is made up of the best voices in the college. In many appearances which the choir has made there have been enthusiastic comments on the sense of aesthetic values in the spiritual realm, which its members have been trained to experience and to communicate to others.

It offers the best sacred music of the ages and carries a real message to the people of our country.

CORN WEEVILS

Weevils will destroy many thousands of dollars worth of corn stored on Alabama farms this spring and summer unless they are killed by fumigation. See the local county agent for complete details on killing weevils.

Shaped Explosives Held Too Dangerous in Mining

WASHINGTON. — Shaped explosive charges used effectively by American armed forces in demolition and for penetrating armor during the war are too hazardous and expensive for use in blast-hole drilling in underground mines, investigations by the United States bureau of mines have revealed.

The experiments, conducted at the bureau's Mt. Weather, Va., testing tunnel, showed that the cost of blasting drill holes with shaped charges was approximately $8 per foot or "more than 20 times that of producing a better hole with a rock drill." Furthermore, the concussion produced by the shaped charges would prohibit their use in many mines, the report points out. When pentolite is the explosive used, the liberation of excess carbon monoxide creates an additional hazard.

During the experiment, two series of tests were made with 15-and 40-pound military-type charges on both hard and soft-rock formations.

A clemency hearing before Gov. Folsom failed to save the life of the 26-year-old Negro. During the hearing the wife of the dead man asked the governor not to commute Haygood to life.

Philip Cobb, another Negro, got the chair last week for the slaying of a fellow convict.

Rudy Smiles Although Case Reported Hopeless

"I'M GOING TO BE A PATROLMAN"—Rudy Goggins aims his pistol at Highway Patrolman H. E. Sims and voices a heartfelt ambition when the officer visited his bedside at Citizen's Hospital, Talladega, recently. The occasion was Rudy's 10th birthday. Despite the boy's hopes, doctors fear his ampition may never be realized. The child is desperately ill with a liver and spleen ailment. Also shown are Mrs. Annie Goggins, Rudy's mother, and Nurse Delaine Bowers. (Picture courtesy Birmingham News).

Clanton To Have New Scout Home

Citizens of Clanton will soon have an opportunity to take part in building a permanent home for training local youths through the Boy Scouts, according to an announcement made this week by Roy Roper, chairman of the committee organized for directing the project.

The new Boy Scout building will located in the city park, and will be "home base" for Clanton Scout Troop 57, composed of some 40 local boys. It will be patterned after the scout building in Guntersville, Alabama, and will contain a large meeting and recreation room as well as ample kitchen and bath facilities.

"We are going to ask the people of Clanton for $3,000 to build our scout a home with," states Mr. Roper, himself a local scout booster for many years. "This is a small price to pay for such a valuable training asset for our youth," emphasized Mr. Roper.

Watch next week's Chilton County News for a picture of the new scout home as it will appear when finished.

VISITS HOMEFOLKS

Rev. Jack B. Cooper and family of Shepherdville, Ky., are visiting releives and friends at Maplesvile this week.

● RADIO RAMBLINGS ●

Tomorrow, April first, will add another quarter hour of activity to the WKLF Broadcast schedule. The station will then sign off at 6:15 each afternoon. The last fifteen minutes will be devoted to a news summary from ABS.

Lucky tag numbers on "Tag Time," (12:05) were —Wednesday through Monday— as follows: 14C 1153; 14C 1624; 14C 1109; 14C 643. Listen for your tag number each day, Monday through Friday, at 12:05.

There's a new contest in progress on WKLF, offering fifty silver dollars in prizes. Listen to "America's Favorites" each day at 11:30 for the details.

New local talent is needed for "Vocals by Locals," heard each Saturday at 9:00. If you sing, play the piano, or have other similar talents in the popular music field, get in touch with Paul Reid at the radio station and arrange for an interview. There is also a vacancy for hillbilly talent for the "Alabama Jubilee," (Saturday at 2 p. m.) See yours truly about auditions for the Jubilee.

Spring is definitely here. One day this week, a happy little bird perched on the sill of an open control room window at WKLF and started singing at the top of his voice. Radio listeners didn't hear him because he was "shooed" away before the mike switch was opened.

Another sign of spring is that this is all of my column for this week. If you will excuse me I'll look for my fishhooks. See you next Thursday. Until then, so long and good listening.

Catholics Observe Palm Sunday

The Mass of Palm Sunday will be celebrated at Clanton, Chapel of the Resurrection; for Catholics throughout Chilton County, on Palm Sunday, April 10, at 8:30, by The Rev. J. Stanley, C. R., Montgomery, Alabama.

Palm Sunday commemorates Christ' triumphal entry into Jerusalem. While joyfully greeting Jesus with Palm during the first part of the Liturgy, a tribute of joy, it is also a symbol of our wavering fickleness, as we betray Christ to His Agony of Body and Anguish of Soul.

Every part of this awe-inspiring Mass, has a remembrance of Christ's Passion, and a pledge of His Resurrection and ours.

Odd Collection Disposal Poses Treasury Puzzle

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Among other things, the treasury department is fussing over what to do with one 10 karat collar button and three hairpins.

Items such as these are about to crowd the money out of the government's huge vault in the treasury building basement.

The stuff was turned over to the treasury as unclaimed by the state department. For safe keeping.

Most of it originally belonged to Americans who were living in foreign countries. When nobody showed up to claim it, it was given to the American diplomatic representatives. They shipped it to the state department.

The treasury would like to do something about it, but can't. There is no law which would allow it to hold a public auction on the huge stacks of German marks from before World War I or Russian rubles.

Secretary Helpless

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder is as helpless as the next one. For one thing, he doesn't even know the combination to the safes. W. R. Julian, the treasurer of the United States, knows how the locks work, but he's not talking.

Anyhow, to get back to buttons and hairpins:

In 1934 the state department sent a small boy over to the treasury under heavy guard with a large envelope, along with a little note stating that the owner could not be located.

The treasury people opened the folder and found one pair of horn rimmed spectacles with gold mountings in a black case; one cuff button; one collar button; one woman's handbag containing a pair of manicure scissors, one gold earring, a gold ring and a Cuban coin worth about a nickel; a rusty .22 caliber revolver that wouldn't shoot and a cheap watch, junior size, that wouldn't run.

The three hairpins turned up in another packet, which came from Yokohoma, Japan.

Articles Pile Up

As the years go on, such things pile up and gather dust in the dark, massive vaults.

The collection goes back a long way. One letter on file tells of a flock of bonds captured in Louisiana in 1865 and turned over to the treasury for "safe keeping." They are still there. The letter says the bonds, payable to the city of New Orleans, were worth at the time $4,476,980 and were captured at Shreveport July 12, 1865, by Gen. Philip Sherman.

There are a lot of curios in the vaults. One is a gold medal which was supposed to have gone to a man who did a lot of heroic work in fighting an epidemic of yellow fever in the tropics. The name of the man isn't on the record, but the medal inscribed to "An Unsung Hero" was turned over to the vault keepers.

The buttons and medals and bonds keep coming in. The treasury is about to throw in the sponge —or move to a larger building.

Make a date now to attend the Womanless Wedding. It's more fun than beating your wife.

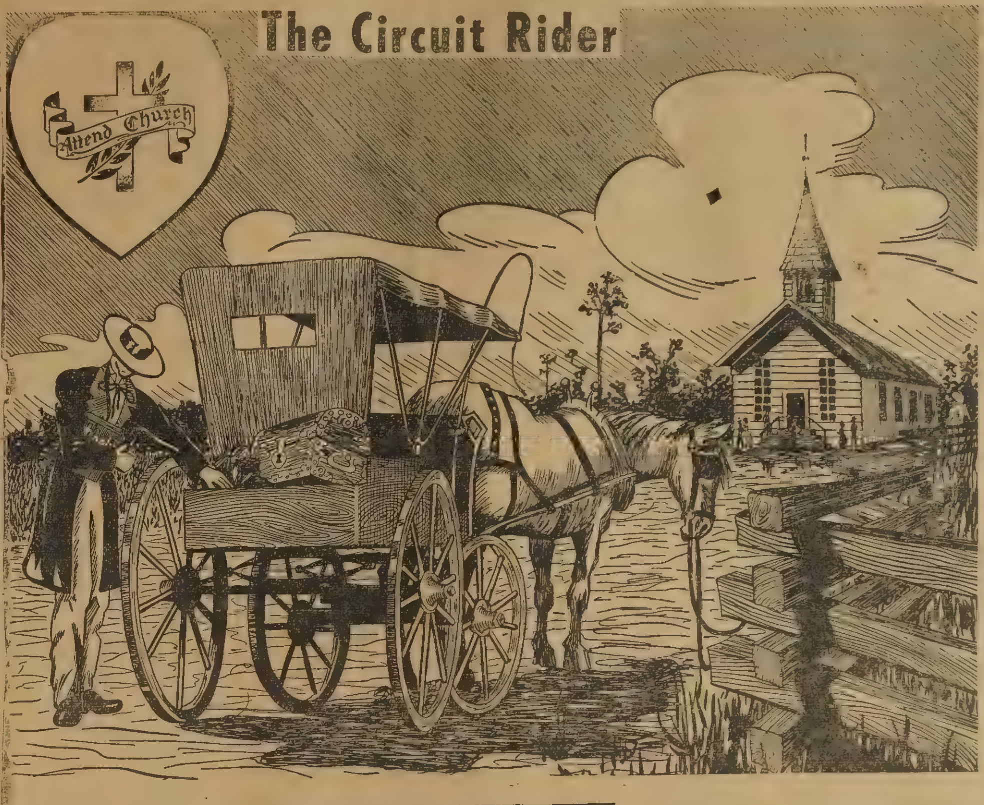
GO TO CHURCH ON SUNDAY



We who live in the comfortable days of the Twentieth Century may do well to cherish and honor the memory of the vigorous servants of another day without whom we could not enjoy the blessings of our time. Among those noblemen of another day we must count the Circuit Rider of the churches.

They were "Prophets of the Long Trail," on horseback and by boat and by buggy, making their way along the bridle paths and the fresh trails of the frontier settlements, or down the streams along whose shores men had built their homes and their hamlets. Of one of them we have read that he journeyed some 270,000 miles through a long itinerant ministry.

These men were first and last God's men, committed to the work which they believed to be the will of God for them to do. They were "very sure of God" and counted themselves His messengers to the careless and the sinful and the needy. They carried Good News of divine grace and hope for lost men and women, and they spoke it wherever they could get a hearing; in private homes, in empty buildings of every sort, in the open fields, in the busy streets of the city. They asked only for people who would listen.

They were also lovers of their fellows, concerned for the present and for the eternal welfare of men. Many of them were well-educated men who brought into the distance places the news of the world and a careful interpretation of its meaning. They were all imbued with such love for human souls that they counted no sacrifice too great, if they might kindle in a man's heart a love for the Father God. They believed that inner riches were more to be desired than much fine gold. They carried books and Bibles and tracts for the hungry minds, they brought comfort and cheer to lonely spirits, but mainly they brought the Touch of God for the healing of souls.

Thank God then for these good servants of another day; may their memory stir each of us to self-forgetful service of men and of God.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

When a young man and young woman sit close together and talk in whispers, they are not discussing the Russian crisis.

Latest figures reveal that about one hundred Americans die in traffic accidents every day; Americans sure can take it.

There is not much use to worry about the people who try to get something for nothing and wind up with nothing for something.

While there are occasions when an honest man cannot meet his obligations most of the time failure to pay is due to something else.

Most of the problems of society would be solved if the more fortunate were genuinely interested in the improvement of the less fortunate.

Correct this sentence: "The way to have peace with aggressor nations is to let them have what they want; then there will be no reason for warfare."

The beginning of wisdom, for earthly beings, is the realization that, after all, the possession of dollars is not the sign of a successful life.

The man who makes it a habit to read a book occasionally will learn something but it won't be much, unless he knows how to think for himself.

This is definitely news: A man, seeking contributions for what he considers a worthy cause, asked a friend to give $25 but the friend said, "I should pay more"—and gave $50.

The Wrangle Over The State Girls' Training School

For the past month charges and countercharges have been publicly aired over the administration of the State Girls' Training School at Chalkville, near Birmingham. The Birmingham Federation of Labor is spearheading a demand for a "housecleaning" following the filing of [illegible] charges against the school's heads by that organization.

As a former trustee of the institution, the writer has some pertinent knowledge of and views regarding the administration of the school.

In the first place, the Training School is a penal institution at which, necessarily, rules of conduct must be enforced through humane punishment of violators. Otherwise bedlam would ensue and the inmates run wild.

Two weeks quarantine of entrants who are given complete medical examinations is necessary to the health of both inmates and officials.

Mrs. Mary Fowler, superintendent, is in our judgment, following four years of observation, an efficient, trained and humane director, but who is, and must be, a disciplinarian.

The girls who behave themselves, and keep their record clean, earn privileges such as are afforded inmates of other similar institutions. During our four-year tenure on the Board, we never heard of any girl being whipped or subjected to any similar form of punishment.

Mail, as in other state penal institutions, is, and should be censored.

The food is (or was) wholesome and adequate. One form of punishment that should be stopped is that of cutting the hair short, for some offenses.

The school needs a good psychilatrist, better trained educational instructors and much modern equipment. But the state has not furnished the money to provide [illegible]. When the needed funds are forthcoming, the improvemnts will be made.

We feel that there is little merit in the charges that have been brought. Upon the whole, we believe that the Chalkville school is a model institution of it's kind—considering the limited funds available for it's upkeep. More funds could and would be used to eliminate any just grounds for complaint.—Cullman Democrat.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

We haven't seen Mayor C. Fenn Jones Proclamation yet but believe it or not folks next week is "Leave Us Alone Week." No fooling, April 1 to 8, is designated as that week and it is the week that we are looking forward to most. We know that all of you who are weary of digging down for this, that, and the other thing, will sigh a sigh of relief when you read this good news. There are a lot of "National Weeks" designated throughout the year but we are sure that "Leave Us Alone Week" will be the most popular of all the long list.

Noticed the city placing new water meters throughout the down town section last week. Hope they were built on a conservative basis and don't use too much energy. We would hate to get hold of a water meter that was any more energetic than the one we had, or for that matter, a light meter either. Honestly, we believe our light meter walks, or runs, in its sleep.

Speaking of city doings the work has got under way to set back the sidewalks. Things will be kinda' unhandy for a few weeks while we have to 'detour' from here to there doing our daily chores but like the new bridge, and other things, it will be well worth the trouble it causes us in the end. Too, it will throw a lot of traffic over on Sixth street. Some stop signs or a stop light had better be placed at the intersection where Sixth runs into the Montgomery Highway at South Clanton. That is a dangerous intersection at best and with heavy traffic using it someone could get hurt there.

You heard about the fellow who after getting married put a sign over his business, "Under New Management."

Jim Plott invited Luther Kendricks and yours truly down to Spigener Prison, as guests, the other day. Jim is in charge of the Hotel at Spigener. Now, confidentially, is there anywhere you would rather NOT be a guest than at Spigener Prison? Of course we accepted Jim's kind hospitality, and we will probably go down to see how that part lives, but we will carry a nice comfortable pardon from the Governor tucked away in our pocket before the gates clang shut behind us. With this mug we ain't taking any chances of a guard reminding us: "Say, Bud, get back to your cell before I put you in solitary for the rest of your unnatural life." Uh uh, we like it out here.

Understand our smiling butcher, Morris Moatts, who was assistant manager at the A&P Tea Company has been transferred to a store in South Alabama. We don't know the whys or wherefores, of course, of his being transferred, but we do know that Clanton has lost a very likable young man. It was a pleasure to do business with Morris. He was also a great worker with the young folks at the Methodist Church and we are sure that Rev. Carlisle Miller and Miss Ada Bennett, Young Folks Councilor, will both miss his work there. Our best wishes go with Morris to his new place and we are sure his success in his chosen work is assured. A young man of his ability, character and determination couldn't help but be rewarded with the better things in life.

A politician was being interviewed by the press. "Do you feel that you have influenced public opinion", one reporter asked. "No", he answereed. "Public opinion is something like a mule I once owned. In order to keep up the appearance of being the driver, I had to watch the way he was going and follow closely."

On my honor, I will do my best, to do my duty to God and my Country, and obey the Scout laws. To help other people at all times. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight. Oh well, if that isn't exactly correct, word for word, you must remember it has been some time since we learned those words. That, in case you didn't know, is the Scout Oath. Too, we don't have a Scout manuel handy to check with. This is all getting around to tell you that the Boy Scouts of Clanton are going to have a Scout Hut, all their own, at the City Park. Plans were made Monday afternoon at a meeting at the courthouse and work will start within the near future. Watch next week's Chilton County News for a picture of the new Scout Hut and of the gentleman chosen to spearhead the drive for the local Scout Troop.

Veterans Benefits

Loans negotiated by World War II veterans for certain purposes may be guaranteed or insured by the Veterans Administration.

To be eligible, the veteran must have had at least 90 days active service, some part of which must have taken place between Sept. 16, 1940, and July 25, 1947, with a discharge granted under other than dishonorable conditions. If he has less than 90 days active service, he must have a discharge for a service-incurred disability.

The Veterans Administration does not actually lend the money, but merely guarantees payment if the veteran borrower does not pay. The veteran seeks his own lender.

The Veterans Administration will guarantee 50 per cent of a loan, with a maximum guaranty of $4,000 for real estate or $2,000 for a non-real estate loan. Loans may be guaranteed if made for the purchase or construction of homes, farms, or business property, or farm or business equipment.

Some other benefits are as follows:

Reimbursement Of Burial Expenses—

This is payable in the case of any war-time veteran discharged under conditions other than dishonorable, and any peace-time veteran in receipt of compensation at the time of death, or who was charged for disability incurred in line of duty.

A sum not to exceed $150 is payable as reimbursement for burial expenses of the veteran and the claim should be filed by the person who defrayed the expense.

Burial Flags—

The eligibility requirements are service during a period of war, or a complete enlistment, or discharged for disability incurred in line of duty. The discharge must be under other than dishonorable conditions.

An American flag is provided to drape the casket and to be presented to the next of kin after burial. A flag may be issued for memorial purposes to the nearest relative of a person dying in service after May 27, 1941.

Full information on veterans benefits can be obtained from your nearest Veterans Administration office or from the service officer of any service organization.

Dorcas, the Benevolent Woman

We read the story of this great woman in Acts; 9;36-42. And indeed it is a story of a great Christian woman. She was a true disciple of Jesus, a member of His Church. She was full of good works and alms-deeds which she did. She lived an unselfish life. Her talents, her time, and her wealth was all consecrated to the Lord, and for the benefit of others. And after all, the unselfish person is the only happy person in the world. No life centered in self, and self alone, can be happy. No man should live unto himself, for no man dies unto himself. The teaching of Jesus was "If any man come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me."...... Yes, we should follow the example of Jesus, who did not sin, neither was guile found in his mouth. Jesus was always giving out to others. He came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for others. He was the Bread of Life, but began his ministry hungry that others might eat of Him, and live forever. He was the water of life, but ended His ministry thirsty that others might come unto Him, and drink, and never thirst. He was the Light of the world, but died in darkness, that others might have the light of life, and therein walk, and not stumble in darkness.

A. T. HICKMAN

This woman Dorcas followed in the steps of her Lord as much as it was humanly possible. But one day Dorcas became sick, and died. Here we learn again that the best of people do suffer sickness; and it is appointed unto men to die. The good as well as the bad. After this woman died, Peter was sent for; no doubt for the funeral service. When Peter arrived, they brought him into the upper chamber where the lifeless body of a sister in Christ lay. The widows, whom Dorcas had been a blessing to in life, were present, weeping, and showing the coats and garments that she had made and given to them. Others shared this sorrow with them. But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down, and prayed, and then turning to the body said, "Tabitha, arise." At this she opened her eyes, saw Peter, and sat up. Peter gave her his hand and lifted her up, and when he had called the saints and widows, presented her alive. Christ, who lives today, had done a great miracle. God had raised her to life again. Friends, as we approach Easter let us not doubt the Resurrection power of our Lord and Saviour. Christ lives today. Amen.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Rev. John R. Smith, Pastor Clanton Presbyterian Church, asked me to submit a short article to each of our local papers concerning the pending campaign against "CANCER:" These articles are supposed to be sort of a warm up or brief educational campaign preceding the drive which he anticipates will start in just a few more weeks. Will you please run the following in your paper this week.

Doctors tell us that from a third to a half of the people cancer strikes can be cured. But a much smaller number than that actually are being saved for the simple reason that most people do not know the basic facts about cancer that would enable them to protect themselves if cancer struck. Our public information program is built around four basic facts, namely:

1. Cancer constitutes a serious personal threat to every individual. At some time in our lives it will strike one out of every six of us.
2. Most cancer can be cured, if treated early.
3. Cancer, in its early stages, usually flashes one of seven danger signals or symptoms which any layman can learn to recognize.
4. At the first suspicious sign one should go to his doctor immediately. This symptom may not mean cancer but if it does then early medical attention will offer a good chance of cure.

According to Rev. Smith you will be furnished additional write-ups on this subject for the next several weeks.

Thanks,
Charles Patterson

ALABAMA AUTHOR NAMED ARMED FORCES INFORMATION HEAD

Montgomery- Following a reorganization and merger of the armed forces public relations unit into one office, William Frye, a native of Prattville and former Associated Press correspondent, has been chosen to head the joint Army, Navy, and Air Force information establishment.

Frye, a well-known news writer during the war and author of the best-seller, "Marshall: Citizen Soldier," was named to the post after congressional criticism caused the merger. Certain law-makers had previously charged that military secrets were given out under the old public relation set-up.

Before the reorganization each branch of the armed forces had its own information offices. The change had been brewing for several months before it was actually put into effect.

ALABAMA'S NEEDY GET $2,210,541 DURING FEBRUARY

Montgomery- Total welfare assistanec to Alabama's needy amounted to $2,210,541 last month, according to Welfare Commissioner Loula Dunn.

The February figure represents an increase of $21,092 over the amount spent for assistance the previous month.

While the average state-wide case payment amounted to $24.23, Miss Dunn pointed out that payments ranged from an average of $19.10 in one county to $33.03 in another. Three counties paid an average of over $30 while eight paid less than $20.

$218,862 WORTH OF ROAD CONTRACTS AWARDED

Montgomery- Five road contracts involving a total of $218,862 have been awarded by the State Highway Department. They call for roadwork in:

Walker County — 5.619 miles grading, drainage, and double surfacing on road from Sumiton to Empire, $86,164.

Fayette County — 3.745 miles grading, drainage, single surface treatment and a bridge on the road from Berry south to Tuscaloosa, Roadwork, $67,650. The bridge contract involved $23,040.

Marshall, Cullman and Blount Counties — 17.273 miles liquid seal on the Arab-Blountsville road, $26,732.

Clarke County — .025 mile bridge on a county road near Dickinson, $15,276.

APSC ORDERS REFUNDS OF $666,689 DURING 1947-48 FISCAL YEAR

Montgomery- Last year the Alabama Public Service Commission ordered rate revisions and customer refunds totaling $66,689, according to the commission's annual report to the governor.

Among the 823 cases handled by the APSC were the following rate cuts and refunds.

Mobile Gas Corporation- general refund amounting to $250,000.

Alabama Power Company- commercial rate, $360,000; wholesale rate to the REA, $18,954; wholesale rate to municipalities, $32,182; and rural commercial rate, $5,553.

Certain utilities were ordered to make refunds totaling $19,000 after the commission made tests disclosing "fast meters."

THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

By "Tuck"

By the way, as you know I told you about the contest that we are having for the best poems, essays and stories. So if you want to enter, Miss Barton has asked me to tell you that you must have them in before, or on, April 15th. If the students want to receive a prize offered by the Chit-Chatter, their entries must be turned in to Miss Barton by Friday, April 1st. Here's hoping we have a lot of smart students in the school, because we need them.

Boy, those two days out of school were so much fun it almost had me not wanting to come back Monday. Oh well, we can't have our cake and eat it, too.

Boy, Mrs. Griffin's room before school every morning is strictly the center of attraction. It's either that or the fellows from Miss Perry's room get lost. (I wonder which it could be? You know that school would be kinda hard to get lost in after going to it for more than two years.)

Say, if anyone in the county can locate a copy of "Musical Alabama", which is out of print, please send any information to the High School Librarian. It contains information about musicians in Alabama, and can be used a mighty lot by our students.

That game at school Wednesday before last was really a tough one, wasn't it?

Kenneth Hayes is really a good football player and he tries, and plays hard. Keep it up Kenneth, we should have a tough season this year and you are tops. There are a lot of good players this year and I hope we have a good team.

I wonder why Annette Broadhead can't make up her mind about who she likes and doesn't like?

James Pyron seems to have his eye on Virginia Bennett. (How about it Virginia?)

Edward Robinson, Pat Broadhead sure is looking your way in a mighty peculiar manner lately. I wonder why?

By the way, I wonder who Billie Jean Poole has around her finger lately? She sure gets around.

Charles Bates and Betty Sue Bean sure do have a good time in sixth period English, don't they, Fellas?

Betty Comer seems to be looking at all the boys lately. What's wrong, Betty, can't you find one you like?

Louise Sandlin seems to have a good time in Civics eighth period every day. Boy, she sure has fun!

I don't believe I've ever seen anyone any happier than Russel Williams and James Popwell. They go down the hall every day whistling or singing, one. Don't we wish everyone was like that?

MACEDONIA

There was a fair crowd out for church services Sunday. Bro. Atcheson brought some wonderful messages which everyone enjoyed.

There were several visitors present and we wish to give them a special invitation to come back.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Oates' weekend guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Nix of Clanton. Their Sunday afternoon guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Jones and family, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Veasey and children. Also Mr. and Mrs. Carl Williams visited them during the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Pratt Crumpton's Sunday guests were: Rev. Hymon Atchison, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Hayes, Mr and Mrs. J. N. Crumpton and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Claudie Mims and Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Mims Sunday visitors were: Mr. and Mrs: Harvey Mims and family and Misses Martha McKee and Joyce Harville.

Everyone remember prayer service Wednesday night and come to church next Sunday.

The Guilford College A Capella Choir, which will appear in the First Baptist Church auditorium, Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock, is under the direction of Mr. Charles C. Underwood.

Charles C. Underwood, baritone of New York and Paris, is a native of New Glasgqw, Nova Scotia. Mr. Underwood joined the Guilford faculty of the second semester following the untimely death of Dr. E. H. F. Weis to take over the choir and voice work.

After completing the course in the New Glasgow public schools, Mr. Underwood attended the Horton Academy of Acadia University and Dalhousie University in Halifax, Nova Scotia. Then for five years he studied voice under famous teachers in Paris, including Marquis de Trabodelle and Alberti di Gorostiaga and piano under Alfred Corot at L'Ecole Normale de Paris.

Mr. Underwood's voice teaching experience includes three years in private work in Paris, where he maintained a studio in Nouilly sur Seine. For five years he was a member of the choir of the American Cathedral in Paris, three years of that time serving as baritone soloist. He also has had extensive experience as soloist with Comedie Francaise, the French State Radio, the British Broadcasting Company, and the Paris Symphony. His experience includes that of coaching the Sorbonne Glee Club in Paris. Altogether Mr. Underwood lived for eight and a half years in Paris and for six months in Germany.

Guilford College feels itself fortunate in being able to get a person of such outstanding training and experience to take over the choral work in the emergency.

This choir is being sponsored by the Chilton County High School Girls' Glee Club.

FALSE TEETH

Many people are ashamed of false teeth and feel that they would rather die than have to wear them. This within itself is an unhealthy attitude and probably stems from a feeling within the person that the way the new teeth look is all important. This is not true. Comfort is probably the most important thing to the wearer, and the ability to eat with them is probably second. Of course you want them to look natural and not detract from your appearance, but the two considerations above are more important.

There is no shame in having to wear false teeth though many people feel that there is. Just remember that teeth like other parts of your body, can and will wear out. When this happens, you should be willing and anxious to replace the worn out part just as much as you would to replace a worn out tire on your car.

No one can deny that getting accustomed to new teeth is a trying time. Often it takes some time to get them fitted properly. When this is the case, Don't swear at your dentist. Instead remember that your case is an individual one because of the differences in people's mouths. Also remember that the bones and tissues on which your false teeth rest will and do change, and this within itself will call for adjustments and even complete changes.

One other thing. If you are the nervous type of person, admit this to yourself and expect to be bothered more than would a calmer person. Also, if you are an older person, you will likely object more to reversals than would younger peoplee. However, with all the above warnings, do not drive yourself into a nervous fit by wearing them. Use your common sense to determine when you have had enough. Give yourself a rest and then continue the wearing of them.

Consult your dentist about all these problems. Usually he can fore-warn you and prepare you for the trouble that may lie ahead.

Spring Championship Big Car Races, April 10th

Birmingham, Ala. (Special)- Big Al Fleming, from Richmond, Virginia with a powerful Offenhauser Special was the No. 1 entry to be filed with speed officials for the 3rd annual Spring Championship big car auto races, slated for the Fair Park half-mile track Sunday, April 10, according to manager, R. H. McIntosh.

Fleming, who is an expert welder, says he has put himself in excellent physical condition during the winter months and will be ready for the rigorous dirt track battles which are sure to develop when the nation's top flight throttle-jockeys meet here.

The Richmond speed ace has completely rebuilt his own Offenhauser which was driven to many important wins last season by Kelly Petillo, Indianapolis 500-mile winner. Fleming piloted the rapid Denny Dreyer to 3rd place in the feature event here last spring and is rated by racing experts as the most likely driver to upset the pre-race dope.

Other entries to be received were those of Jerry Massey, the former paratrooper from Birmingham, who will wheel a new V-8 Offenhauser Special, little Phillipe Mocca, the Italian speed ace from St. Louis, Crash Waller, the fireman-race driver from Blakely, Georgia. A field of over 18 of the nation's fastest cars and drivers are expected to qualify for the spring championship speed classic.

The seven-event program will get under way with qualifying time trials at 1:30 and the first competitive race at 2:30. Reserved seats will go on sale next week at a downtown ticket office.

NEW HARMONY

Mrs. Pearlie Smith

Attendance was small this week-end due to the bad weather. A small tornado passed through the community between 9 and 10 o'clock Sunday Morning. But, as far as we know, no damage was done.

Our pastor brought some good messages, even though the crowds were small.

Latest reports from young Billie Littleton, who is in St. Margaret's Hospital in Montgomery, is that his leg is doing fine but he is still running some fever. They are hoping that he will be brought home soon

Please don't forget that our revival will begin next Sunday night. Bro. Wiley Griffin from Georgia will be the evangelist. Bro. Griffin is a fine preacher and you will sure miss something if you miss hearing him. So be sure to attend.

STANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

Beginning on Monday night of April 11th, Bro. Luther W. Woodward, our Associationol Missionary will be there to teach a study course for the entire church. This means the members of all ages of the church and it is highly important that everyone attend that possibly can for the five nights of study together. Bro. Woodward is a great promoter of church work, a splendid teacher, and you will greatly enjoy his teaching. We are looking forward to having him with us for the Sunday morning service of April 10. He will be bringing the message for us at the 11 o'clock hour. All are urged to be present to hear him preach.

New MARVELAX 10-DAY PLAN HELPS REMEDY CONSTIPATION

UTTERLY DIFFERENT NATURAL BULK LAXATIVE WITH PRUNES HAILED BY DOCTORS, DIETICIANS!

Here's exciting health-news! Nutritional scientists have taken prunes, the best-known NATURAL laxative in the world, and put them in safe, gentle, better-tasting MARVELAX!

This new discovery is the amazingly successful "Back To Nature" way to relieve common constipation caused by lack of bulk in America's "constipation diet" of highly refined, rich foods. Far superior to ordinary laxatives, Marvelax does not "force," "purge" or gripe—as do harsh drugs, salts and oils. Marvelax works like a delicious, nourishing food!—gently—yet thoroughly freeing you of the nagging, stubborn constipation that takes the joy out of living!

The fine-textured natural prune powder contained in Marvelax improves its flavor and food value—adds a famous, proven NATURAL laxative principle to this already effective bulk-producing formula! Doctors have found that the natural ingredients in Marvelax work on stubborn intestinal wastes, to moisten, shape, slicken for easy passage. Most important, Marvelax starts the rhythmic, natural movement in your intestines —gently—gently but surely coaxing elimination—without strain or unpleasant reactions. Marvelax awakens sleepy, sluggish intestinal muscles —"trains" your digestive system to do a better, more regular job. Marvelax is ideal for children, too, because it tastes so good and is so gentle and thorough.

TRY THE MARVELAX "10-DAY PLAN"!

Take Marvelax, according to directions, for ten days. In addition, drink as much liquid as possible during this period.

GUARANTEE You Must Be Completely Satisfied or Your Money Back!

At the end of the 10th day, if you are not entirely satisfied with its marvelous natural action, return the bottle with unused contents to the Marvelax Co., and your money will be promptly refunded! The makers of Marvelax are certain that once you've tried this safer, surer method, you'll never go back to "old-fashioned" laxatives! Take Marvelax with water, juices, milk—or sprinkle it on cereal and desserts! Marvelax tastes grand by itself — actually improves the flavor of many foods!

"Seven Last Words Of Christ" At Methodist Church

A special event of Palm Sunday in Clanton will be the presentation of the Easter Cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ," at the Clanton Methodist Church. The cantata will be given by singers from the various churches in Clanton under the direction of Mrs. J. Carlisle Miller. The performance will begin promptly at 5:00 p.m. next Sunday (April 10).

This presentation is regarded as particularly appropriate for the Easter season. It is the story of the crucifixion of Jesus set to music by the famous Composer, Theodore Dubois.

Soloists that evening will be: Miss Helen Hayes, Mrs. Erle Ellis, Mr. Chas. Patterson, Jon Will Pitts, Henry Heflin and Cooper Speaks. The accompanist is Mrs. Percy Pitts.

The public is cordially invited to attend this inspiring program.

Last Community Concert Presented Friday Night

On Friday night, April 1, at the Clanton Baptist Church, The Clanton Concert Association presented Carolyn Long, lovely lyric soprano of Columbia Concerts.

Miss Long exhibited a voice of unusually warm and brilliant quality, of wide range and great expressiveness.

Her very definite flare for the stage and her exceptional personal beauty combined to round out a most artistic picture.

The artist's rendition of the arias of Verdi and various other numbers displayed a wonderful diction and outstanding breath control. She sang with ease and her soft tones showed a superb clarity and resonance. She treated the numbers on her program with an unusual artistry, displaying a feeling of gayety or sadness peculiar to the selection.

Throughout the program, the audience joined in a most enthusiastic response and appreciation and the unusually great applause brought forth many encores.

A request number, "The Lord's Prayer," was especially lovely and very beautifully rendered.

Clanton Community Concerts feels proud of having presented this lovely and gifted young artist to close its third successful season of Community Concerts for Chilton County.

Brother Goose At City Hall Tonight And Friday

Do you want to meet the lovable Adams family? Then see the Sr. II play, Brother Goose, a comedy in three acts, which will be presented tonight and Friday night, April 7 and 8, at the City Hall.

"Brother Goose" Jeff Adams, sprouts a few gray hairs as he tries to keep together the active family; girl-crazy Wes, lazy Carol, and football-mad Hy.

Your guess is as good as anybody else's when you try to imagine what might have happened to this family if Peggy Winkel had not come to the rescue. She succeeds in untangling the entangled web with big business-women Mrs. Trimmer, scheming Lenore Hudson, deep South Eve Mason, long-suffering Helen, and "Dark Town Follies" Sarah, forming the web, which surrounds the Adams family.

The cast follows:

Jeff, Robert Vines; Wes, Aubrey Neeley; Carol, Mary Bolen; Hy, Mary Ann Oglesby; Lenore, Mary Tom Merchant, Peggy, Evelyn Jones; Eve, Joan Aussant; Mrs. Trimmer, Martha Jo Jones; Helen, Betty Sue Owen; Sarah, Barbara Fain; Driver, Gerald Driver; Messenger, Hershel Smith.

Tickets may be puchased from any any member of the Sr. II Class. Admission is for children 35 cents and for adults 50 cents. Bring your family to meet the Adams family.

Please tell the ticket seller what night you intend to see the play.

Could Be A Lovers Quarrel

The Womanless Wedding that was going to be held in the near future has been called off indefinitely, according to members of the Clanton Pilot Club, sponsors of the play.

Rumor has it that possibly a lover's quarrel was the cause of the postponment and that with luck, ladies of the Pilot Club may be to patch up the difficulty and present the play later on this year. At any rate, that's the gossip so don't be surprised if you see where a later date is set for "Womanless Wedding," to be sponsored by the Clanton Pilot Club.

SCHOOL ART ON DISPLAY TUESDAY

The Chilton County Teachers Association is presenting two exhibits Tuesday, April 12th, at the Clanton Elementary School for its meeting at four o'clock.

All schools of the county are exhibiting art work done by pupils during the year. There will also be on display pictures from the state exhibit at the University of Alabama.

GRAMMAR P.-T.A. HELD MEETING

The Clanton Elementary School Parent-Teachers Association held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday afternoon at the school.

The Junior Citizens Club had charge of the program and the members of the club and their sponsor, Mrs. Ed Propst, are to be commended on the lovely way they conducted the meeting. They presented a program booklet to each P.-T.A. member, which they had made themselves.

The program was patriotic with their theme "Our America." The president of the club, Lynn Stroud, presented an honorary membership to Rev. Carlisle Miller and Mrs. Clara Mullins as their honor citizens.

The business session of the P.-T.A. was conducted by Mrs. R. M. Tucker in the absence of the president and old and new business was discussed and reports of committees made. The nominating committee presented the new officers for the coming year to be installed next meeting. They were: President, Mrs. W. H. Klinner; vice-president, Mrs. J. L. Teel; secretary; Mrs. Joe S. Campbell; treasurer, Mrs. Referee Lineberry.

A special installation service will be held at the meeting in May to install these new officers so that they wil be ready for their year's work.

The room count was won by Mrs. Propst fifth grade.

We feel we can gain much knowledge in Christain service and be of great help to our community and church. — Mrs. W. W. Culp, Sec.

PLEASANT GROVE M.P.— THE NEW CHURCH

We are glad to report that our church is still growing. Rev. C. N. Graham filled his regular appointments here last Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. We had 91 present in Sunday School last Sunday and received 2 additions to the church Sunday night.

Our W.M.S. meets each Friday at 2:00 p.m. Last Friday we met with Mrs. Leila Culp of Mt. Nebo and a very nice program was rendered. Mrs. Culp is a shut-in and is not able to be out, but her life has meant so much to most of us that we're trying to return some of what she has meant to us in the past. The W.M.S. will meet at the new church next Friday at 2:00 p.m.

Surely God leads His children. We of this church have stepped out on His promises, and as He has led us through the darkness of the past, we ask Him to lead us into the light of the future.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend our services here.

There are many in this community who do not go to any church. Won't you come and worship with us? We need you and you certainly need to attend church somewhere. You are more than welcome to come here.

May God bless you everyone.—Reporter.

THORSBY P.-T.A.

The Thorsby P.-T.A. will meet Friday night, April 8th, at 7:30 in the school auditorium. The program subject will be, "Let's Understand the Adolescent," and will be based on the series of articles found in Home Life Magazine, entitled, "Living With Our Growing-up Children." Parents of teenage children will be especially interested in this subject. Mrs. Bernard Adams will give the devotional.

We are indeed grateful to the American Legion for turning over to the P.-T.A. the net procees from the Fiddlers Convention and box supper to be used for the purpose of buying a new curtain for the auditorium. This money will be kept in the P.-T.A. treasury until sufficient funds are raised to pay for the curtain.—Mrs. Lloyd Howard, P.-T.A. President.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The public is cordially invited to attend the art exhibit at the Clanton Grammar School May 12th. Local and county school pictures will be on exhibit and pictures from the University of Alabama Art Department.

CLANTON HAS ACTIVE SCOUT TROOP

"Adventure—that's scouting." That's the theme for 1949 for Clanton boy scouts, as well as scouts all over the nation. And we might go farther and say, "Service—that's scouting."

Scouting offers the boy an opportunity and encourages him to serve in his home, church, school, community, and his nation. When our young citizens serve their community it becomes their first experience as participating citizens. This experience trains them to accept community responsibility when they become adults.

An active scouting program is now underway in Clanton. Rev. John Smith, local scoutmaster, states that not only do our local boys have a fine record thus far, but they seem eager to do more and raise their standing. At a recent camporee in Selma, attended by Troop 57 of Clanton, all three patrols from the local troop were given a class "A" rating, which means that they had a commendable activity program. One Clanton Scout was recently promoted to the grade of Eagle Scout, which is the top in scouting.

According to the 29th annual report of the Tukabatchee Area Council, which includes Clanton, one of the greatest hindrances in our scout work is still lack of interest on the part of parents. Up to now, there has been a noticeable lack of interest in scout work on the part of parents and citizens of Clanton. But the time has come to change this attitude.

A committee of local civic leaders headed by Roy Roper has been formed to spearhead a drive to raise funds to buil a scout home for our local scouts. Mr. Wilmot C. Douglas, a well-known architect of Birmingham, has designed and drawn up plans for the building without charge, and this plan has been approved as practical and entirely satisfactory for local needs. Estimate cost is $3,000.

"If our local scouts have the initiative and ambition to climb so far, surely the citizens of Clanton cannot let them down," states committee chairman Roper. Jack Hayes will supervise the solicitations drive.

WAYS TO PREPARE FISH THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY

Auburn, Ala. — Warm spring days are here and along with them comes the urge to go fishing. It's a good sport and in addition, fish offers a tasty treat for the family.

"Sometimes a streak-o-luck turns up and a big catch is brought home," reminds Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist. She says that then is a good time to know how to prepare fish a different way each time it is served.

For instance, a baked whole fish with a bread stuffing, served with a mixed green salad, beverage, and dessert, makes a meal "fit for a king."

Others may want to flake fish. The flakes can be use in salads, chowders, timbales, souffles, and omelets. To flake fish, place dressed whole fish in a wire basket or wrap in cheese cloth. Lower into boiling water to which three tablespoons lemon juice and one and one-half tablespoons of salt per quart of water has been added. Cook slowly until the fish leaves the bones. Remove from water, cool, and break in bite-size portions. Now try the flakes in a salad and see what happens.

"TUCK" TUCKER TAKES TUMBLE TURNS TURTLE

Bobby "Tuck" Tucker took a tumble Monday night on his bicycle and therefore the News had no column about the high school chillun this week. Bobby hit an automobile in front of the home of Mrs. A. L. Cox and badly injured his right arm. He was carried to Central Alabama Hospital where his bruises and lacerations were taken care of and then sent home. He was in good condition at press time but mighty sore.

Out Of State Farmers To See What We Have

Preliminary plans for one of the biggest farm tours ever held in Alabama have been announced.

At least 300 prominent Southern farmers, stockmen and agricultural leaders representing 11 states will study Alabama's methods used in crop and livestock production.

The tour being sponsored by the Farm Products Division of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company in cooperation with the A.P.I. Agricultural Extension Service is scheduled for five days beginning April 25. The group will start their tour in Montgomery, swing through the Black Belt, move upstate, and end Friday, April 29, in the heart of the Tennessee Valley.

Stops are to be made at farms in about a dozen counties. At these places the livestock producer or farmer is to discuss his individual program with the group. County agents will have charge of the program in each county and Extension specialists are preparing information for those on the tour.

IMPORTANCE OF ALABAMA COTTON

Over 900,000 Alabama farm people received more than $214,000,000 for their 1948 cotton crop. Important too, is the fact that more than one-quarter million Alabama people, other than farmers, depend upon cotton directly or indirectly for all or a substantial part of their income.

BILLINGSLEY HIGH SCHOOL TO PRESENT COMEDY PLAY

A good laugh is good for the soul. And there are at least a hundred good laughs in the three-act comedy, "He Couldn't Marry Five," which is to be given by the Senior Class in the High School Auditorium, April 8, at 7:30 p.m.

The title of this clever play alone is enough to make one chuckle because it brings to mind all sorts of complications. Well, "He Couldn't Marry Five" more than lives up to its title—it is at the same time laughable and charming, crazy and enjoyable. This is because it is so gay and well-written—its characters so true to life.

Yes, "He Couldn't Marry Five" is a very human play—one that amuses people while seeing it, and they remember for a long time afterward.
